and Building Association. He explained it as a measure to enable certain gentlemen in St. John to erect and improve tenement houses. Agreed to.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

FREDERICTON, April 6.

A bill to close up the estate of Rev. James Dunphy; a bill to confirm sale of certain church lands passed. A bill to encourage the establishment of manufactures was committed.

Hon. Mr. Jones moved the three months' hoist.

Hon. Mr. Seely said manufactures were started with a view to make money, and he saw no reason why they should be exempted at the expense of other industries.

The three months' hoist was carried.

Fire.

About 9.30 this forenoon a fire broke out in the roof of a house in Germain street occupied by Dr. Job, and extended to the adjoining one occupied by Mr McFarlane. The cause was a defective chimney in the party wall. The firemen in a short time, had the flames extinguished. The damage by fire is slight, but the water considerably injured the upper part of the houses.

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY. — Continued from First Edition.

FREDERICTON, April 6.

Hon. Mr. Crawford committed a bill to disqualify Dominion Government officials from becoming candidates for the Assembly. He urged the bill on the favorable consideration of the House, on the ground that this Legislature should be kept as free as possible from Dominion influence.

Mr. Hanington said the present time, after many members had gone home, was a very inappropriate one to introduce such a measure.

Mr. Wedderburn said that one of the greatest arguments in favor of the measure was that, should a conflict arise on a question; the Dominion Government, in so small a House as this, could, with all the patronage it has at its command, throw a great influence in its favor in the Assembly.

Hon. Mr. Kelly referred to telegrams that had come from Ottawa to members of the House who were Dominion officials suggesting their course, and the system was dangerous and pernicious as the House's term is about ended.

Mr. Adams favored the principle of the bill, but wanted to go further and apply to employes of both Governments in every way. The hon. member who had just sat down is a contractor under the Dominion Government for carrying mails.

Hon. Mr. Kelly said he held his contract for four years, and did not care a snap for the Dominion Government. They could not take the contract from him.

Hon. Mr. Crawford said the office-holder is in the power of the Dominion Government, while a contract is gained by competition and is entirely a different matter.

Hon. Mr. Tibbets said the present is the proper time to bring in such a bill, when the term of the House is expired. A lot of clap trap debates had lengthened the session, or important business like this would have been put through weeks ago.

Mr. Ryan said he was a Dominion official, but he believed in the principle of the bill.

Mr. Landry argued that contractors seemed to be as much under the influence of Dominion Government as are its employes. He favored the principle of the bill, and moved to add a provision including contractors.

Mr. Wedderburn said the bill he had brought before the House went quite as far as this, but when it was up for discussion it was shown that contractors were in a position entirely different from employes, and as the amendment would probably kill the bill he would oppose it. Better to get a part of what is desirable than none at all. He thought the discussions that had taken place would have a good effect.

Mr. Irvine thought it would be well to extend the bill a little, as he did not think there was any more danger in having a man in the House with a fifty dollar salary than with a three hundred dollar commission for building a bridge. The bill seemed aimed at a class.

The question being taken on inserting the word "contractor" the vote was:

YEAS—Messrs. Blanchard, Landry, Adams, Gillespie, O'Leary, Hanington, Irvine.

NAYS—Messrs. Fraser, King, Kelly, Stevenson, Crawford, McQueen, Willis, Tibbets, Wedderburn, Theriault, Beckwith, Phillips, Donald, Napier, Robinson, Nowlan, Palmer, Ryan, Humphreys, Williams, Girouard, Covert, Harrison, Lindsay, Brown.

Mr. Hanington argued that the principle of the bill being now affirmed it should apply in the same manner to all officers and employes of the Local Government as it does to those of the Dominion Government.

[The last of the above arrived at 2.45, the telegraph having been five hours and three quarters transmitting it.]

Circuit Court.

The case for the plaintiff in McDade vs. Peters, was finished yesterday afternoon. Mr. Weldon then opened for the defence. The first witness called was Thomas A. Barker of Fredericton, and his evidence occupied the time until adjournment last evening. The defendant, T. W. Peters, was the only witness this morning.

Portland Police Court.

The election excitement in the Town yesterday did not seem to affect its morality, as is sometimes the case. The police only made one arrest.

Geo. Carvell has the bump of combativeness largely developed, and, finding another person equally gifted, indulged in a free fight at Indiantown. The police arrested Carvell who was fined $4. His opponent is summoned to appear.

City Police Court.

Five prisoners stood in the corner of Chief's office this morning. The court room was being used as a polling place.

Margaret McVey has been trying to get cheap lodgings between the Portland and City Courts. She last night sought protection, and as she has no visible means of support, was sent to gaol for two months.

Ellen Hamilton confessed to drunkenness in Carmarthen street, and was fined $6, or two months in the same institution.

Hattie Houston, a saucy looking young woman, was charged with using abusive language and otherwise annoying the inhabitants of Sheffield street. The ears of the people that live there are not used to such language, and the law must protect them, so a fine of $6 or two months gaol with hard labor was imposed. "Guess they'll not get much work out of me," was the pert reply. "I think they will find something for you to do," the Magistrate said. "No they won't, for I've got no use of my right hand at all." "O! they have work that just suits left handed persons."

Gaskin Wughound was charged with drunkenness in Sheffield street. "Yes, yer Honor." "Fine you $6; it's a bad street to be in.

Ludwick Lawson was yesterday given in charge by the Captain of the ship Themis charged with desertion. He was sent on board again to work.

John Green was loafing with a lot of persons on the sidewalk at Tisdale's Corner, and was told to move off by policeman Richard Evans. He refused, saying he was a free and independent tax-payer and would stand where he pleased, and also used insulting language. He was fined $6, or twenty days gaol.

THE CIVIC ELECTIONS.

The polls in the Wards where there were contests opened at 8 o'clock this morning.

In Sydney Ward everything was quiet. They had a good many hours to poll a few votes, and consequently had a good deal of spare time on their hands.

Duke's was exciting, and the friends of the different candidates worked hard.

There was in King's an unusual interest, as so many candidates were in the field—four for the Aldermanic chair and two for the Councillorship. All the candidates watched the polling place to prevent the spirits of many dead men, by representations, voting. It is a habit the departed voters of King's have of voting by mediums, and each candidate had to watch to prevent the spirits voting wrong.

Wellington, having only a contest for the Councillorship, was quiet. Mr. Hamm laughed and chatted with all who came to the polling place, and Mr. Miller watched the voting with interest. He "was in the hands of his friends," and let them do the canvassing. Mr. Blatch was polling clerk, and, when voting was not going on, amused the select collected within with witty anecdotes and good stories.

Queens was quiet until about noon, when refreshments were called on, and at the same time voters commenced to come in. The two aspirants for the Councillorship seemed to thoroughly enjoy themselves, and talked and chaffed each other. The would-be Aldermen were more dignified and quiet.

Prince had no contest, which was a matter of regret to many who work in the Ward, while others were thankful that they could reserve their time for the Mayor's election.
