LIVERPOOL, March 9.

TIMBER.—There have been no cargoes of Pine latterly pressed upon the market; and although the demand has been only moderate, prices have been fully supported. Quebec cargoes of good quality, bring 19d per foot, and St. John Pine, of fair average, would bring 20½d to 21d per foot. A cargo of Miramichi Pine, of moderate average, has been sold at 19d per foot. A parcel of Quebec Pine, of inferior quality, sold by auction at 17½ to 18d pr foot, and a cargo yarded, of fair quality, sold at 18½d per foot.—Quebec Red Pine has been sold at 22½d per foot, and a small quantity brought by auction last week 22¾d per foot. St. John Red Pine is worth 19d to 20d per foot.—A parcel of planking Oak was sold by auction last week at 2s 5½d, and some large sized logs at 2s 11d per foot. Some other parcels have been sold at 2s 8d per foot, and some choice logs have brought 3s 1½ per foot.—Elm and Ash have been sold with cargo at 21d per foot.—The best Quebec Standard Staves, all pipe lengths, are worth £65 to £70 per m; common specifications £50 to £55 per m. Puncheon Staves, of best quality, are worth £21, and common £15 per m. St. John Ash hogshead Staves bring £8, and Halifax Staves £4 per m.—Halifax Planks have been sold at 2½d to 2¾ per foot of two inches. St. John and St. Andrew's deals are held at 2¾ to 2¾ per foot of two inches. Some Quebec Deals, of best quality, were sold by Auction at £11 10s to £12 per standard hundred, and common Deals at 10 guineas per standard hundred.

Correspondence of the Journal of Commerce.

WASHINGTON, Thursday night.

War is talked of in all circles. It is agreed by every one that no war can arise from the direct action of the two governments. But the apprehension is that collision and bloodshed may take place on the border and thus involve the two countries. Gen Scott must go down there again to keep the peace. I forgot to mention that the correspondence between Mr. Fox and Mr. Forsyth on this subject has been closed by the former, and that the temper of Mr. Forsyth's letter is very good showing therein under what direction he wrote.

The Editor of the New York Star. says:—The debate on the correspondence in the Senate is grave and portentious. Mr. Webster of Massachusetts, expressed his deep regret "that the two countries were likely to come into a collision." Mr. Davis said, "it was evident we could temporise no longer—we must assert our rights or abandon them." Mr. Williams, of Maine said that Great Britain had for 25 years expressed the most pacific views on that question, yet the moment it was apparent that the question must be settled, she threatens us with the consequences. He was glad to find that the issue must now be made up. We are not, it is true, in a condition to go to war with England, and she has great advantage in the present large armies collected in the Canadas.

Our naval force is distributed all over the world, and our commerce is afloat in every sea, but whenever such difficulties arise we must be found in the same position. Beyond our fortifications being in a sound condition, our arsenals supplied, our militia organized, we never can be fully prepared for a war with a powerful nation and for some time we must labour under serious disadvantages, but finally there can be no doubt as to the result. It is incumbent, therefore on Congress to take prompt and vigilant steps in the matter, and see that the country is placed in an immediate and secure state of defence, and every preparation made for war as the only means in all probability to avert the calamity—nor must we for a moment indulge in the belief that Great Britain is decidedly averse to such an issue.

We have reason to know to the contrary. In a recent conversation between Lord Palmerston and Mr. Stevenson of the burning of the Caroline Lord Palmerston distinctly justified that act, and indicated in a manner not to be misunderstood, that no reparation would be offered for that affair: and if Canada was ever invaded from our lines hereafter by any portion of our citizens, they would forthwith cross to invade this country, and that war was preferable to this armed neutrality.

Passengers in the Barque Brothers, from Liverpool—Mr. and Mrs. Holdsworth, and child, Mrs. Pidler, and Miss Daymond, Mr. William Carvill, Messrs. Fotherby, Sheridan, Hall, Daniel, Baird, and Vassie.

MARRIED

On Wednesday evening last, by the Rev. Alexander M'Lean, of St. Andrews, Mr. JAMES ROBERTSON, Merchant, to MARGARET G., daughter of Thomas Nisbet, Esq., all of this city.
