The G. T. R. safe at Lucknow was again cracked last week. The leather money bag containing $97 in cash was cut open and the money appropriated, and a few dollars in change was taken from the till, and the burglars coolly walked out of the front door. They left all the tools they had borrowed behind them, also a whisky flask wrapped in an American newspaper.

The South Huron Agricultural Society has decided to adopt the system of having only one expert judge at its exhibitions.

A YOUNG BURGLAR.

Only Eight Years Old, But He Had a Good Time Spending $40 He Stole.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Henry Becker, of No. 42 Throop avenue, E. D., visited the Lee avenue police court with his 8-year-old son, Henry, and 12-year-old Nathan Lipnitsky, of No. 36 Throop avenue. Mr. Becker told Justice Goetting that his son the other night slept with his grandfather, and during the night got up and stole four $10 gold pieces, which the old man kept in an iron box under his bed. The boy, it seems, did not know the value of the coins. After taking the Lipnitsky boy into his confidence, they went to a store in Broadway and bought roller skates and cologne. The change from one of the gold pieces the pair spent in going to theaters. Then the boys started out to have a good time. They went to Samuel Cohen's sodawater place, at Ewen and Sigel streets, where, it is said, the boys exchanged one of the pieces for 25 cents. A candy store owned by Mrs. Friedman, at No. 11 Siegal street, was next visited by the boys, where they bought almost all the stock of candy in her place, paying her $6 50. Mrs. Friedman induced the boys, the police say, to lend her $5 to pay her rent and buy some clothes. After leaving the woman's store the boys visited all the shops in that part of the neighborhood, and at 3 o'clock went to the school in Boerum street, where they waited until the class they were in was dismissed. Becker and his companion then invited all the boys to have some cake and sodawater, which they bought. The boys the next day were all talking about the way they had been treated by Becker, and it reached the ears of the principal, who communicated with Becker's father. That afternoon the boy was taken suddenly ill, at the result of too much candy.

When Mr. Becker had ended his story the justice asked Mr. Becker if he wanted his son sent away. After much pleading on the part of the boys, the father decided that he would give them each another chance.

DR. WILD ON LYNCHING.

To the Editor of the Globe:

In your issue of the 24th there was an account of a lecture against annexation delivered by Dr. Wild, who, according to your report, "condemned Prof. Goldwin Smith for his utterances, and said that if he were in the Southern States and took up the same stand there in regard to the country the people would lynch him."

It is to be regretted, I think, that a minister of the Gospel should dally with the idea of political murder. He might remember an occasion on which a notable attempt was made by means of political murder to destroy new-born and unwelcome truth out of the world.

What might happen in the Southern States, barbarized and brutalized by slavery, I cannot say, though the lynching of negroes, which Dr. Wild probably has in his mind, is not political or in any way connected with intolerance of opinion; it is the lawless vengeance inflicted for negro outrage on white women. But I can assure Dr. Wild from decisive experience that to the moral civilization of the Northern States political murder and political outrage of every kind is utterly alien. I was at Boston at the time of the civil war, when the nation was in the throes of the struggle, for the union and political feeling had risen almost to a frenzy of excitement. At Boston there was a large majority on the side of the union and the war. Yet at the second election of Lincoln, which I witnessed, the minority, whose sentiments were as hateful to the majority as it was possible for political sentiment to be, were allowed without molestation of any kind to proclaim and advocate their opinions, to hold their public meetings, to organise their torchlight processions, to hang out their banners on the street and when the day of election came to go to the polls and cast their votes. Nay, though social relations were exceedingly strained, social courtesy seemed still to prevail. On an evening just before the election I met a prominent copper-head in a party of ardent unionists. Nor am I aware that any political outrage of a sanguinary or even of a serious kind was committed in the free States during the war.

Dr. Wild, therefore, was perfectly right in going to the south—indeed he would be right in going far south—for examples of the particular kind of crime which his words are calculated to suggest to Canadian minds.
