The Mothers' Club of the Aberdeen school will hold their November meeting Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. An address on "Parliamentary Rules" will be given by Principal McRoberts, followed by a social half hour. A very large attendance is looked forward to.

Interesting Address.

At the regular meeting of the Epworth League of Dundas Centre Church, Mr. Troyer, representative of the Canadian college missions and volunteer fund, gave an interesting illustrated address on missionary work. Mr. Troyer will likely leave to work in the foreign field shortly.

Prof. Griggs Lecture.

Prof. Howard Griggs will make his first appearance this season at St. Andrew's Hall to give the opening lecture of the series to be delivered under the auspices of the Froebel Society. A great deal of interest is being taken in the lecture, and there is no doubt that a large crowd will be present.

Late Mrs. McIntyre.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary McIntyre was held yesterday afternoon, from her late residence, 173 John street, to the Grand Trunk station. The remains were taken to the Sacred Heart Church in Parkhill, where services were conducted by Father Dunn, and interment was made this morning at St. Columba Cemetery, Bornish, near Parkhill. The pallbearers were sons and sons-in-law of deceased.

Rowdies Make Trouble.

A gang of rowdies, five in number, caused quite a disturbance in London Township on Saturday. They were all somewhat the worse for liquor. One of them carried a rifle. When they were passing the house of Mrs. Floyd, of the fourth concession and Adelaide street, Mrs. Floyd was standing in the yard, when the man with the gun is said to have waved it in her direction. A pig that happened to appear on the horizon at this juncture attracted his attention, and he tried a few shots at the animal, with results that were disastrous to the porker. The matter is being investigated.

KING'S BIRTHDAY SUPPER GIVEN BY LADIES' AID

About 750 People Sat Down in Askin St. Church Last Night.

Fully 750 people sat down to the "King's Birthday" supper, which was held in the Askin Street Methodist Church last night under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the church, and proved one of the most enjoyable social gatherings ever held there. The dining hall was most tastefully decorated with flags and bunting, and the menu comprised substantial English dishes. The proceeds of the evening will exceed $500, and will be devoted by the ladies to paying their share of the organ fund. During the past three years the Ladies' Aid have raised more than $1,000 towards the building fund. As soon as the supper was concluded the audience adjourned to the auditorium of the church, where a patriotic concert was given. The pulpit was draped with a large Union Pack. Rev. A. K. Birks presided and introduced a patriotic programme, including solos by Mrs. E. Wyatt and Mr. E. N. Harding, and recitations by Miss Jean Carmichael. The programme concluded with an address by Rev. G. W. Dewey, of the Empress Avenue Methodist Church, who spoke on "Our Wants and Our Needs," pointing out that what a person would like to have was what they wanted, but what they must have is what they really need. People want entertainment and luxury, but need strength not to be selfishly prodigal. They seek easy tasks, but need the strength they would receive from doing heavier ones. Many seek the approval of men, but need the approval of God, which always brings the approval of men. Congregations, the speaker said, want entertaining preaching, but need the preparation to hear. As citizens they want a patriotism to party that blinds them to errors, but need a patriotism to their country which will uncover wrong and promote righteousness.

ANNIVERSARY SUPPER FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

Addresses by Rev. Hugh Johnson, of Baltimore, and Others.

The anniversary supper of the First Methodist Church, which was held last evening, was more than usually successful. Over 700 people sat down at the tastefully decorated tables and partook of the excellent repast provided by the members of the Ladies' Aid Society. The pastor, Rev. R. Whiting, occupied the chair, and during the evening a very delightful programme was rendered. Dr. Hugh Johnson, of Baltimore, was the first speaker. He spoke of the position the pastor of the church should hold. He should be neither over nor under estimated, his dignity at all times shall not come through the cloth he wears but through his being an out-and-out Christian. The great work that could be done by the local preacher, and the organization of the league was also outlined, and the speaker closed his remarks by stating his belief that through these agencies and others of a similar nature, that the saloon would be banished from the streets of Canadian cities in the next hundred years.

Rev. Dr. Graham, a former pastor of the church, also spoke. "The church," he said, "stands primarily for the salvation of the world. Religion is relationship with man as well as with God, and men should show their sympathy with their fellows by treating them cordially in the church." Dr. Graham closed his remarks by an appeal for the church members to look after the homeless ones who were compelled to live in the unhomelike atmosphere of the boarding-house.

Miss Estelle Carey, soprano soloist of the Centenary Church, Hamilton, was present, and sang three solos, which were greatly appreciated. Mr. Calvin Hodgins also received a very hearty reception, while the cornet solo by Mr. A. Ward, and the piano solo by Miss Dobbyn were also heartily received, while the Sunday school orchestra, under the leadership of Mr. Ed. Shuttleworth, added greatly to the enjoyment of the evening by their selections.

Hutchinson. "That was my duty, and I did it."

The Schools.

"How were the schools looked after?" asked Mr. Clarke.

"The same order was issued to all," retorted Dr. Hutchinson.

"As I take the position that no report of such a nature should have gone out without consulting us, I move that in future all such reports be submitted to us before an order is issued," said Mr. Graham.

Mr. Clarke seconded it.

"I consulted with the chairman," said Dr. Hutchinson, "Why do you blame me?"

"I don't blame you," answered Mr. Graham. "The board was not brought together to discuss the question as they should have been."

The motion was put and carried unanimously.

The East Pond.

Upon being questioned regarding the east pond at Springbank Dr. Niven stated that in practically all samples of water taken from that pond, colon bacilli had been found. He thought that it would have to be closed. It would require a wall at least 18 feet in thickness to prevent seepage from the road, and this would shut off some of the springs.

"We have plenty of water elsewhere, and I do not think we should use this pond," said Dr. Niven. "It is a small one, and not very important."

Secretary Baker reported that no reports of the water analysis were filed in his office, and he thought it necessary.

On motion of Mr. Graham all reports as to the condition of the city water supply must be filed with the secretary.

Samples of the water will be taken in a few days and sent to Toronto for further analysis.

Smallpox Hospital.

The smallpox hospital is not being constructed as rapidly as it is considered advisable, and the chairman stated that he would force the contractors to live up to their agreements.

Dr. Niven reported that he was still trying to arrange for a party line to the smallpox hospital, but so far had not been able to do so.

The contract for the drug supplies of the board were awarded to Mr. E. L. Guillemont, the lowest tenderer.

Dr. Hutchinson and City Engineer Graydon informed the board that it was not necessary to the public health to lay a sewer on Elias street, and the communication of Mr. W. H. Fitzsimmons regarding this matter was filed.

Dr. Hutchinson was instructed to report regarding the premises of Mr. Chas. Graham, 22 King street.

Those present were Dr. Niven, chairman, Harry Clarke, John Graham, Dr. Hutchinson and Secretary S. Baker.

A SHOWER OF GOLD

Millionaire's San Causes Wild Scramble on aLnding-Stage.

London, Nov. 10.—Porters on the Liverpool landing-stage had an unexpected windfall on Saturday. As the White Star liner Oceanic drew away to start on her voyage to New York a well-dressed young man, who had been leaning over the rail of the vessel gazing intently at the porters counting up their earnings, suddenly plunged his hand into his pocket and pulled out a gold coin, which came hurtling through the air on the stage. Other coins, gold and silver, followed in a bright shower, and the excited porters, now realizing that it was raining gold, made a scramble to secure the coveted coins.

The men got mixed up in the melee, falling over each other, and generally having a rare tussle, much to the delight of all who saw them.

Still the money rolled down from the liner, the porters panting in the struggle. As the ship steered away the gold shower ceased. Some of the money fell into the water and was lost. Other coins got stuck in crevices, or rebounded on to the pontoons and chains.

When the astonished porters counted their unworked-for "takings" they found that altogether some £14 to £16 in sovereigns and half-sovereigns had been thrown amongst them, not to mention a shower of silver and copper. Then some doubt arose as to the genuineness of the coins, and they were examined by police officials present, and proved to be of standard value.

The eccentric donor of the money was said to be the son of an American millionaire, but his identity could not be established.

The Liverpool badge porters are going to keep a sharp look-out for the return of this American visitor.

Telegraph Companies Report Signs of Destructive Hurricane.

New York, Nov. 10.—A heavy windstorm is reported in the West Indies by the cable and telegraph companies today and communication with that territory is generally interrupted. The extent of the storm has not been learned. Land lines in Jamaica are interrupted between Holland Bay and Kingston, because of a windstorm, and communication with Kingston is badly delayed. The Commercial Company's cable between Santiago, Cuba, and Jamaica is broken. Communication generally with points in the West Indies, between Santiago, Cuba, is interrupted.

Whether or not there has been a loss of life and heavy property damage has not been learned.

NO NAVY NEEDED SAID MR. MONK

Details of Speech in Which He Opposed Policy of Mr. Borden.

IMPOSSIBLE FINANCIALLY

He Fears That It Would Involve Dominion in Quarrels of the Empire.

Below will be found extracts from the speech made at Lachine, Que., by Mr. F. D. Monk, leader of the Conservatives of Quebec, in which he discussed the naval defence question, and on which he came out flatly against the policy of Mr. Borden.

Mr. Monk declared at the outset that the Government's policy for the construction of a navy and participation in defence of the empire was an entirely new departure in Canadian policy, and to decide such a question, without first submitting it to the electors, would be a flagrant violation of our free institutions.

Mr. Monk referred to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's attitude on the question at the colonial conferences, and the sudden change that had taken place in his views, and also scored the Government for not submitting to the Canadian public the report of the delegates to the recent conference in London.

As to the actual merits of the question, Mr. Monk maintained that, from a financial point of view alone, Canada cannot, at the present moment, undertake to build a navy, that the expense of such an undertaking is quite beyond our resources and our means.

Too Costly.

Mr. Monk estimated that the maintenance of a navy would cost $20,000,000 a year. He also maintained that Canada herself needed no navy at the present time, that the programme, as far as being of any use to the mother country, in order to maintain her naval supremacy, would be useless, and that such an obligation did not exist for Canada, its national obligation as an autonomous and self-guarding country being a duty of defence for our own commonwealth.

In conclusion, Mr. Monk said: "The new duty of defending all parts of the empire, without any right whatever to participate in their actions, deeds, negotiations, treaties, is new. On what is this duty founded? Some say that it should be upon the fact that the imperial navy is the safeguard of our trade. The claim is unfounded. The commerce of Canada is of such a nature, its products are of such a nature, that markets for them can be had anywhere, and that all nations must equally seek them. Such is the case today. Canadians as such have very little, if any, ocean tonnage that is represented by Canadian capital. The shipping output of the United Kingdom in 1906, amounted to 1,936,793 tons, or 616,893 more than all the nations of the world together, but in the same year the output of all the colonies together was 20,000 tons. As to ourselves, our situation is that we will soon have a large overproduction, and all nations will desire to come and purchase from us. We should seek to have good relations with all, and there is no reason why we should not.

Our Debt to Britain.

"Again we are told that we owe our freedom to Great Britain. The policy of the mother country in the 19th century and since has been broad, magnanimous, wise and liberal. England alone of all nations has founded great dependencies and endowed them with free institutions. But it would be a strange perversion of history, an unwarrantable neglect of our own people, to forget what the men of Canada have done for self-government. Has the English nation at large no merit in having set up, in its midst, democratic institutions, and led the way? We claim to have done the same in our own country.

"Some go as far as to assert that without the British navy, Canada would be swept off the earth and the Canadian people would be heard of no more. All these Canadians should feel insulted at so humiliating an assertion. Where is the man prepared to admit that the very life of this young and vigorous nation depends upon the charity or goodwill of anyone? The races which constitute Canada's people, on this continent, and in this country, cannot be snuffed out.

"The fact is the idea of this new duty owes its birth to the new movement towards a centralizing federation of all British territory wherever situated. This is, no doubt, a lofty conception, but can it be realized? I do not believe it. With the United Kingdom it might possibly be carried out, but with such distant lands as Australia and India, nature herself seems to set up an insuperable obstacle.

Fraught With Danger.

"Many indeed look upon this new movement as fraught with danger. The imperial federation league met with disaster because it showed our ideas of self-government. The British Empire League, which succeeded, determined to proceed more cautiously and announce that it was resolved not to propose at present any scheme for federation of the parts of the empire. It was thought that a zollverein or sort of commercial union might be attempted, but I question if our people have in any way benefitted by the tentative efforts made in this direction. Our manufacturing interests might inform us on this point.

"We are now face to face with the project of a military or naval consolidation or both and for the first time in one hundred years we are asked to consider this a duty. Such a consolidation, as I understand it, would necessarily involve us in the responsibility of what would be done by all other nations within the empire, including the Government of Great Britain herself, their acts, their negotiations, treaties, without any right or control of our own, since the scheme does not in any way provide for our representation.

Must Prepare For Wars.

"War, after all, is but the result, it is the outcome or consequence of treaties, alliances, grievances, obligations and violations of supposed rights. A plan of this kind is destructive of the principle of self-government, of responsible government which has been established after years of patient endeavor. If we adopt the project of imperial defence for imperial purposes, we must, as a consequence, enter into the concert, or whatever it is called, of European nations, who are groaning under the burden of military and naval expenditures. We must retrace our steps over the road upon which we have been advancing since nearly one hundred years.

"We cannot do it without feeling that we will regret it, and before long we will be groping our way bagk again. We must suspend our work of expansion and development, without which Canada cannot advance, and upon which her very existence depends. A young country and a young people, we must expect to see the immigration of desirables greatly diminished.

"Dr. Goldwin Smith very properly asks why Canada wants a navy and of what conceivable use it can be to us at the present time? What we require is a suitable militia. We certainly have the men and certainly spend the money, but ask our militia officers what they think of our system and methods. Switzerland, with half of our appropriation, can place in the field 250,000 men in ten days. How much could we do in ten days?

First Duty to Canada.

"As a citizen, I feel an aversion to mixing up the destinies of this young country, on this young continent, with all the mysteries and quarrels, and foolish contentions, as well as grave problems which Europe presents. Surely the first duty of Canadians is to Canada. We have an immense work to perform here, and to assume such immense responsibilities unless there is a clear duty to do so, would be to handicap in a great degree the efforts we have to put forth if we wish Canada to become what she is destined to be.

"This is a very vital question, no race or religion or language in it, no minority rights. It is a vital Canadian question which touches every one, whether he lives in Quebec, in Ontario, on the plains or in the mountains. I believe every man in this country should form an opinion upon such a matter, and state it openly. For my own part, I would be ashamed to be found lacking in sincerity, just at a moment when all who love Canada are expected to do their duty."

COULDN'T MOVE BARN THROUGH THE GATE

Case of Unusual Interest Before the Ninth Division Court.

There was a session of the ninth division court this morning with Judge Elliott presiding. There were fifty cases entered for hearing; a number, however, were adjourned or settled out of court. The only cases of interest were those of "The Metal Shingle and Siding Company" against Mr. J. Steinhoff. The plaintiffs had built a small model barn on the Western Fair grounds for the last exhibition. After the exhibition was over this was sold to the defendant for $55. When the defendant came to remove the barn, however, he found that it would not go through the gate, and he claimed that he had bought the barn on the understanding that it would go through. The judge reserved his decision on the matter.

J. C. Judd for the plaintiff, and P. H. Bartlett for the defendant.

Another case which caused a good deal of interest was that of J. McPherson against J. J. Collins. The plaintiff claimed that he had bought a cow from the defendant on the understanding that it was in calf. This not being found to be the case, Mr. McPherson asked for damages for the breach of agreement, but as the plaintiff was unable to prove that the cow was bought under such agreement, the case was non-suited.

J. C. Judd for the plaintiff, and J. B. McKillop for the defendant.

The Cousins homestead, on Wellington road, is to be offered for sale on Nov. 17. Particulars can be obtained from poster and newspaper advertisement. 11g tzx
