HAIR VIGOR,

FOR RESTORING GREY HAIR

To its Natural Vitality & Color.

Advancing years, sickness, care, disappointment, and hereditary predisposition, all turn the hair gray, and either of them incline it to shed prematurely.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, by long and extensive use, has proven that it stops the falling of the hair immediately; that it restores the growth, and always strengthens, restores, and invigorates the hair, when faded or gray. It stimulates the nutritive organs to healthy activity, and preserves both the color and its beauty. Thus brisky, weak or sickly hair becomes glossy, pliable and strengthened; lost hair regrows with lively expression; falling hair is checked and stabilized; thin hair thickened; and faded or gray hair resumes their original color. Its operation is sure and harmless. It cures dandruff, heals all humors, and keeps the scalp cool, clean and soft—under which conditions diseases of the scalp are impossible.

As a dressing for ladies' hair, the Vigor is prized for its grateful and agreeable perfume, and valued for the soft texture and richness of tone it imparts.

Love me Belovd.

Love me beloved; the thick clouds lower,
A sleepiness filleth the earth and air,
The rain has been falling for many an hour,
A weary look the summer doth wear;
Beautiful things that cannot be so—
Loveliness clad in the garments of woe!

Love me beloved; I hear the birds,
The clouds are lighted, I see the blue,
The wind in the leaves is like gentle words
quietly passing twixt me and you;
The evening air will bathe the buds
With the soothing coolness of summer floods.

Love me beloved; for many a day
Will the mist of the morning pass away;
Many a day will the brightness of noon
Lead to a night that hath lost her moon,
And in joy or in sadness, in autumn or spring
My love to my soul is a restful thing.

Love me beloved; for thou mayst lie
Dead in my sight, neath the same blue sky;
Love me, O love me, and let me know
The love that within the graves to and fro,
That many a form by thy love may be
Gathered around thy memory.

Love me beloved; for I may lie
Dead in thy sight neath the same blue sky.—
The more than ever loved me the less thy pain,
The stronger thy hope till we meet again;
And forth on the path way we do not know
With a load of love, my soul would go.

Love me beloved; for one must lie
Motionless, lifeless beneath the sky;
The pale, stiff lips return no kiss
To the lips that never brought love amiss
And the dark brown earth be heaped above
The head that lay on the bosom of love.

Love me beloved; for both must lie
Under the earth and beneath the sky,
The world lie the same when we are gone,
The leaves and the waters still sound on,
The spring come forth and the wild flowers live,
Gifts for the poor man's love to give;
To see—the lovely, the gentle see—
Tell the same tale to others than thee
And joys that flush with an inward morn
Irradiate hearts that are yet unborn?"
A youthful race call our earth their own
And gaze on its wonders from thought's high throne;
Embraced by fair nature, the youth will embrace
The maiden beside him, his queen of the race—
When thou and I shall have passed away
Like the foam flake thou looked'st on yesterday.

Love me beloved; for both must tread
On the threshold of Hades, the home of the dead,
Where now but in thinkings strange we roam,
We shall live and think and shall be at home;
The sights and sounds of the spirit-land
No stranger to us than the white sea sand,
Than the voice of the waves and the eye of the moon,
Than the crowded streets in the sun-lit noon.
I pray thee to love me, beloved of my heart,
If we love not truly, at death we part;
And love would it be with our souls to find
That love like a body was left behind.

Love me beloved; Hades and Death
Shall vanish away like a frosty breath;
These hands that now are at home in thine,
Shall clasp thee again, if thou art mine,
And thou shalt be mine, my spirits' bride,
In the ceaseless flow of eternity's tide,
If the truest love that thy heart can know
Meet the truest love that from mine can flow.
Pray God, beloved, for thee and me
That our souls may be wedded eternally.

George MacDonald.

Telegraphic and Other News.

MILTON, PA., MAY 14.—A fire broke out to-day in the car works, and a heavy north-west wind prevailing, it was impossible to check the flames until the entire business portion of the town was destroyed. It is estimated that 400 buildings were burned, including all the churches. The fire burned over an area of seven squares in length and two in width.

Several bodies have been recovered, burned beyond recognition. Two hundred and fifty families are rendered homeless, and are camping out in the fields.

Terrible forest fires continue at Milford, Pa. Over three million feet of lumber, besides a vast amount of valuable timber, were destroyed. Several houses and barns were burned, and 6,000 acres are on fire. The damage is incalculable.

WOODSTOCK, N. B., May 14.—The bridge across the river here is in a very critical condition and momentarily expected to give way. An enormous jam of logs has collected on one of the draw abutments, causing a change in the current, and which is gradually undermining it. The Railway Company are transferring all their rolling stock to the opposite side of the river, and the roadway will be closed at sundown, if the structure remains that long. The Government are to be severely censured for not taking precautions to prevent the destruction of this valuable property, which, if carried away, will be a serious loss to the County and Province.

TORONTO, May 14.—The Globe this morning contains the following special cablegram from London, May 13th: "Prince Leopold sailed for Canada to-day. He arrived at Liverpool with his suite at five o'clock. Sir
