—At the Toronto exhibition, 1883, Mrs. Smith of Tormore took first prize for best shirt made on a Wanzer "C" sewing machine. She took first prize for same work in 1880 and 1881 made on same machine. THE LOUNGERS OF TABLE-CLOTH TIPS

Nobleman Waiting at Table—Few Americans Handle the Napkin.

From the New York Morning Journal.

There are two Italian counts at present employed at Delmonico's, and one German who was formerly a millionaire by inheritance. All waiters in first-class places are compelled to shave moustaches and wear the regulation evening dress coat. Two of the waiters in the cafe at the St. James hotel achieved honorable war records in the field. One of the waiters at the Brunswick converses in six languages and was formerly an attache of legation. One of the waiters at the Gilsey house is the owner of a tenement house, purchased with the douceurs of ten years, part of the time there and part of the time at the Astor house.

The waiters seldom eat their own meals in the places where they are employed, but patronize some saloon on the side streets, or avenues, generally kept by one of their own number. Jacquin, whose place on West Twenty-sixth street is called "The Little Delmonico's," was formerly a cook in the employ of Delmonico, and is largely patronized by the waiters there and at the neighboring hotels

Scions of noble English houses in adversity become bartenders or clerks of billiard rooms, but seldom become waiters. One of the game-keepers in Slosson's is a nephew of an English duke, (of little importance, however). Two English gentlemen, formerly captains in the army, are employed as coachmen up town.

Americans seldom appear as waiters, except in the cheap American restaurants, and never make good waiters. As bartenders Americans are considered the best.

In Delmonico's and the other fashionable cafes the regular pay of the waiters is nominal, the customary fee or douceur being the mainstay, and often exceeding the salary four or five times. The douceurs bestowed on waiters in the fashionable resorts average from $30 to $40 per month. The Delmonico waiters will accept nothing less than 10 cents, and generally expect 25 cents. A gentleman left the five cents change on the plate for one of them the other night, but the waiter declined it by observing: "Monsieur has forgotten his car fare," and tossed it into the cuspadore when the other informed him he might keep it.

The waiters who attend the card rooms of the fashionable restaurants and hotels receive large douceurs and often pay the head waiter, who has the engaging and hiring of them, for the privilege of this position, by allowing him to keep their wages, or dividing their fees with him.

Yesterday's Police Court.

The following offenders and alleged offenders were disposed of at the police court yesterday. Pat. Gharrty and Alfred Parker, disorderly, $1 and costs. John and Frank Stibbons, Thos. Read and Henry Ridley, four boys, were charged with robbing an orchard; John Stibbons was discharged and the remainder were fined $2 and costs each or 5 hours. The case against Wm. Parkinson for assault was adjourned till to-day. James Doyle, a wife beater, remanded till October 3. The case against Henry McLaughlin for assault was dismissed with costs. Jessie Carley, charged with assault, was remanded till October 1. The case against Ellen Meany, for committing an aggravated assault on Mary Kelly, was adjourned till October 4. Matthew Levi, charged on remand with larceny, was discharged. John Jones, Robert McIntosh, Timothy Doherty and Henry Binsette, charged with larceny, were remanded till to-day. Mr. P. G. Close, for leaving his horse unfastened, was fined $2. Chas. Leonards, William Harrison and Michael Norton were charged with throwing stones; Leonards was dismissed and the remaining two fined $2 each. John Brickely threw a piece of wood, which went through an awning; his father paid the damages and he was discharged. Two charges were brought against Archibald McDonald for illegal liquor selling; they were adjourned till October 3.
