Academy of Music.

"Henry IV" was produced last night to a fair house, with Mr. Couldock as the swaggaring, boastful "Falstaff," which he assumed fairly. Mr. Alrich played in his usual careful, natural and effective style. To-night Mr. Couldock will appear in two splendid characters for his benefit, "Peter Probity" in the "Chimney Corner," and "Daniel White" in "Milky White." In both of the parts he is so true to nature, so wrapped up in the individuality of the impersonation, that they cannot fail to impress the most indifferent with admiration for the fine conception of his plays almost invariably displayed by Mr. Couldock. On Monday evening, a world famed actress, Carlotta Leclercq, will make her first appearance at the Academy, as Mr. Lanergan, who has brought down the best company ever seen in St. John, is determined that no efforts on his part will be left untried to make the inaugural season of the Academy a success.

The Opera House.

The programme at the Opera House last evening was a good one. Pete Lee, Hogan and Mudge still remain, while Jerry Cohan is a popular addition. Some new scenery just finished was put on the stage last evening, improving its appearance greatly. Miss Blanche Selwyn has recovered from her cold of last week, and makes a good appearance in her character songs. Little Bennie is also becoming a favorite. Miss Alice Staples, very favorably spoken of as a Soprano by the Bangor papers, will probably appear on Monday next.

The Marriage Epidemic.

Not satisfied with the old established method of getting married in the sanctuary, the female race are going for the stronger sex vi et armis. This morning John Tutts sallied out of the gloomy passage way that leads from the Police Office to Prince Wm. Street, and entered a coach with Policeman Owens, and a young lady. John wanted to sail the seas over without keeping faith with the modern Delilah, but, she couldn't see it, and in consequence of some indecisive results as to the termination of something some time or other, John had to tie the knot.

The Amateur Crew

to represent St. John at the Digby races, will leave with their boat, the "C. Coyle," on Monday, per "Empress," for the scene of the coming glory. The four gentlemen, viz:—W. K. Mollison, stroke; —— Kaye, after-midship; A. H. Ellis, fore-midship; T. Clifford, bow; have been in practice for some time, in fact, have worked hard, as may be inferred from the fact that some of them have had to get a tuck taken in their pants' waist-band and borrow their younger brothers vests. They will cross the Bay with the best wishes of our citizens.
