THE BISHOPS IN LONDON.

CANADIAN AND U. S. PRELATES IN HISTORIC PULPITS.

The New Papal Encyclical Said to be Exceedingly Broadminded—Her Grace of Marlboro—Indications of a First-class War in Zululand.

LONDON, July 9.—Many London pulpits were yesterday Americanized. Bishop Potter preached at the Chapel Royal, Savoy, in the very private dominion of the Queen, before a fashionable congregation and in an edifice many hundreds of years old. Bishop Coxe officiated in a still older church, Westminster Abbey. St. Paul's Cathedral gave ecclesiastical hospitality to the Bishop of North Carolina. Surrounded by a grand army of clericals the Bishops of Springfield and Milwaukee, respectively in the morning and evening, pleased the West End congregation of St. Matthias in the Earls Court District. The Bishop of North Dakota grew eloquent in the Church of St. Stephen's, South Kensington, not far from the great museum, and the Bishop of South Dakota occupied the pulpit of the Church of St. Pancras, which all tourists will remember as that grand representative of church architecture flanking the attractive entrance to the Liverpool railroad station. The Bishop of Mississippi went southwesterly to the Church of St. Gabriel, situated between the former residence of Carlyle and the romantic territory of Pimlico. The Bishop of Iowa conducted two services in extreme East London, in St. Margaret's-on-Lea and St. Peter's in Brookley. The Bishop of Oregon assisted at the services in St. Paul's in Great Portland-street. His brother bishop from Washington Territory was welcomed not far away in St. Phillip's church, Regent-street, near the famous Oxford circus.

A relate from Zululand was at St. Paul's Cathedral in the evening. One from Caffraria filled the pulpit of St. Martin's Church, Trafalgar-square, another from Honolulu that of St. John's, near the great cricket ground, Kennington, and fourteen other home or colonial bishops officiated at as many other parishes; thus the sixth Sunday after Trinity may be said to have been as extensive a day for bishops as ever was known anywhere in the civilized world.

The Encyclical on Liberalism.

The new Papal encyclical is nine columns long, and while eminently dignified and elegant in language, seems so carefully designed to hurt nobody's feelings that its effect on the political situation in Italy and elsewhere will not be great. It defines at great length the proper attitude of a Roman Catholic towards modern liberalism, and so long as liberalism does not interfere with his belief he is free to act as his judgment dictates, and to support any form of government he prefers, as long as it is Christian and tends to promote Christian interests. The state, however, must not be separated from the church, because such separation tends to encourage a belief among the masses that religion may be disbelieved in according to caprice. The Pope does not think the liberty of the press should be diminished, except where it offends religion and degenerates into licentiousness. The document is worthy of careful perusal by everybody, as it is exceedingly broad-minded and contains advice to the believer concerning his attitude in the present era of theological discord that can be profitably followed by the adherents of any faith.

The American Duchess.

The Duchess of Marlboro, who arrived in London this afternoon, was compelled to remain in her stateroom nearly all the voyage. Those of the Aurania's passengers who had the opportunity of meeting Her Grace say that she is a most attractive and amiable woman, and through her gentle disposition is sure to make a host of English friends. She was cordially received by her mother-in-law, Lady Churchill, and other members of her husband's family. The Duke and Duchess will proceed at once to Blenheim Palace, their future home.

In the Dark Continent.

There is every indication of a first-class war in Zululand, but Parliament, as on a former occasion, is so busy with politics that no attention has been paid to the situation. For months past there have been whispers now and then of a conspiracy among the Boers to revive the old trouble. They have a natural conviction, born of the English policy after the battle of Majuba Hill, that only one good defeat is necessary to bring the English to terms. The breach shows no sign of healing, and boats are being turned from the Cape to the scene of action as fast as possible. The Boers are known to be arming vigorously and organizing horse and infantry. They are excellent fighters, and that they are behind the uprising nobody doubts. Altogether, between South Africa, Afghanistan and Thibet, several outlets are becoming apparent for British military activity, which for some months past has mainly confined itself to speeches.

The French branch of the Congo Society has decided to send an expedition to look for the White Pasha of Behr-el-Gazel, and African exploration is taking on the pleasing air of a geographical parlor game, in which everybody is hunting for everybody else. Emin Pasha is hunting for Stanley, Stanley is hunting for Emin Pasha; Major Barttelot is looking for Tippoo Tib, Tippoo Tib is searching for Barttelot, and now the French society propose to search for any and all of these seekers. Volunteers to look for the French expedition will be called for shortly.

Died from Natural Causes.

DETROIT, July 9.—About eight years ago George Ashton, a carpenter of Bolton, Eng., emigrated to Toronto, remaining in that city for four years and then coming to Detroit. A year later he married Mrs. Sarah Fountain, formerly of Toronto. Mrs. Ashton died suddenly yesterday morning. As the couple had had frequent quarrels over a 15-year-old daughter of Ashton's by his first wife, Ashton having been heard to make threats against the woman's life, and as the sound of blows had emanated from Ashton's cottage on Saturday, it was suspected that a murder had been committed. A post mortem examination, however, revealed that the woman, although her head was badly bruised, died from natural causes.

Negotiating for a Loan.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 9.—The Sultan, fearing that Austria may be induced to make concessions to Russia in Bulgaria that may be an equivalent to a restoration of Panslavist interests, and that will threaten the interests of the Ottoman Empire, has ordered the Treasury to create an extraordinary resource of $10,000,000. The Porte has resumed negotiations for a loan with the Ottoman Bank.

The Dark Secret Again Spoken.

BOSTON, July 9.—Pilot Hooper of the Hesper, who arrived here yesterday, reports speaking the Dark Secret last Friday 130 miles from Boston light. The little cockleshell had experienced rough weather and head winds, but Capt. Andrews was in good spirits and as confident as ever of reaching Queenstown.

A Prince's Mishap.

DARMSDAT, July 9.—As Prince Alexander of Battenberg was driving from Heiligenberg into the Stettback Valley yesterday his horse shied and the carriage was hurled from the road down the side of the mountain. Prince Alexander was thrown out and fell a distance of forty feet, when he grasped some shrubs, and by their aid escaped with slight injuries. The horse was terribly mangled and killed, and the carriage was dashed to pieces.

GLAD TO LEAVE BERLIN.

Dr. Mackenzie Says Queen Victoria Didn't Carry Off Frederick's Memoirs.

PARIS, July 9.—Dr. Mackenzie, in an interview here, said he was glad to leave Berlin, where his movements were closely watched. "Empress Victoria," he said, "was surrounded by spies after the death of Emperor Frederick. I was confined to Potsdam for several hours. Emperor William's conduct was odd, although I must think his aural malady has affected his brain. I can say nothing of the late Emperor's memoirs. It is untrue that Queen Victoria carried them off. Whoever did will create a sensation when he publishes them. Besides Frederick's diary they contain a series of letters from leaders of the German Liberal party sketching the policy they hoped Emperor Frederick would have adopted had he lived. Empress Victoria has not yet come to a decision as to her future residence. She has an income of £40,000, of which £8000 is derived from England. She will be obliged to make Germany her nominal residence, and will visit Berlin every year."

Dr. Mackenzie totally denies the accuracy of the published interview in which he was represented as admitting that he had concealed the cancerous nature of Emperor Frederick's malady in order to prevent a regency. The doctor says that it is a fact that Emperor William has an aural complaint which is not unattended with danger although many persons similarly affected have lived to an old age. Emperor William, he said, suffered from paralysis of the arm which had impeded his growth and was the cause of his being such a short man, unlike his father. The paralysis had slightly shortened his arm, but he could use it well, and was otherwise strong and active.

All Conjectures Settled.

BERLIN, July 9.—All conjectures as to the object of the Emperor in going to St. Petersburg first are settled by the announcement that he left it to Emperor Francis Joseph to decide when the visit to Vienna should take place, and that if the Austrian Emperor had so desired Vienna would have been visited first. The Odessa press announced that Emperor William after his meeting with the Czar will return by way of Moscow, Odessa and Kief, whence he will probably proceed direct to Vienna.

Emperor William will banquet the ambassadors and foreign ministers at Potsdam on Thursday.

The editor of the provincial Wittenburger Kreuzblatt has been sentenced to one month's imprisonment in a fortress for reprinting an attack upon the Empress from the Dresden Nachrichten.

The editor of The Cologne Gazette has been sentenced to three months' imprisonment in a fortress for publishing an incorrect statement that a landlord had refused to sell to the Government land on which it was proposed to erect a statue of Emperor William I.

PARNELL'S PROPOSAL.

The Irish Leader Asks for an Investigating Committee.

LONDON, July 9.—In the House of Commons to-day Sir Wilfred Lawson (Home Ruler) asked whether the Government would grant the appointment of a committee of the House to inquire into the charges against the leaders of the National party in the House of Commons.

Mr. W. H. Smith, the Government leader, said the House was incompetent to inquire into the charges. A proper inquiry could be obtained through the ordinary tribunal.

Mr. Parnell later gave notice to the House that on Thursday he would submit a motion for the appointment of a committee to inquire into the authenticity of the letters published by The Times in its articles on "Parnellism and Crime," and those read at the recent trial of the suit of O'Donnell v. The Times, in which he and other Nationalist members were charged with serious crimes. He would also ask the Government to appoint a day to discuss the subject and give him an opportunity to repel the foul and unfounded charges made against him by Attorney-General Webster in the trial of the suit of O'Donnell v. The Times.

Mr. Parnell's remarks were greeted with loud cheers from the Irish benches.

Mr. W. H. Smith subsequently stated in the House of Commons that the Government will decline to give a day for the discussion of Mr. Parnell's motion.

QUEEN NATALIE TO THE SYNOD.

An Innocent Woman's Protest Against a Cruel Injustice.

LONDON, July 9.—The Pall Mall Gazette publishes a number of telegrams which have passed between Queen Natalie of Servia and the lay and ecclesiastical authorities of the Holy Synod in relation to the troubles between herself and King Milan. In her despatches Queen Natalie charges that the Synod is conspiring with King Milan to perpetrate a cruel injustice against an innocent woman. Queen Natalie's last despatch was addressed to the Metropolitan of the Holy Synod. In it she declares that the Synod is not qualified to concern itself in the question of a divorce between her and her husband. A divorce granted by the Synod would, under the circumstances of the case, be contrary to the laws of Servia, and the Queen declares that she will energetically protest against the iniquity and illegality of such a divorce if granted by the Synod.

King Milan Invokes Aid.

BELGRADE, July 9.—King Milan has formally invoked the aid of the authorities of the Prussian Province of Hesse-Nassau to force his wife, who is now stopping at Wiesbaden, to surrender the Crown Prince.

A MORMON BISHOP.

How a Salt Lake Refugee Surprised the Citizens of Lunenburg, N. S.

LUNENBURG, N. S., July 9.—Chester has had during the past week a genuine sensation. About six weeks ago there arrived from parts unknown a white-haired old patriarch and three very vivacious young ladies. One was introduced as his better half, the others as his wife's sisters. The ladies were invited everywhere and when not accompanied by the old man had a good time. About a week ago the youngest became infatuated with one of our young men, and, in a moment of confidence, disclosed the fact that the old patriarch was a Mormon bishop, a refugee from Salt Lake, Utah, and that all the women were, according to the rites of the Mormon church, his wives. The next thing to an impossibility is to keep a secret in Chester, so the whole matter leaked out. The "bishop" got wind of the affair, and with his three wives skipped out Saturday night at 10 o'clock for Windsor.

Smothered in a Sand Heap.

MONTREAL, July 9.—A young boy named D. Burns, 6 years of age, disappeared from his home Saturday on Elemen-street. Search was made all day yesterday, but without success till this morning, when his dead body was found in a big heap of sand at the end of Ontario-street. He had been smothered to death.

No Flag but the American.

CHICAGO, July 9.—At the last meeting of the General Council of the British American Association it was resolved that at the forthcoming union picnic of the various British American branches no flag but the American should be displayed.

The Tables Turned.

NEW HAMBURG, July 9.—Mr. Edward Kearney, the New Hamburg volunteer arrested for assaulting the village constable, was tried this afternoon and acquitted, the evidence showing that the constable did the assaulting.

The Drum Will Sound.

LONDON, July 9.—The Reeve of Brantford Township has issued his decree that the Salvation Army must not sound its drum on Norwich-street. The members will continue to beat, and legal proceedings are likely to result.

BETRAYED TO HER DEATH.

A DOMESTIC TRAGEDY IN WHICH ONE OF THE SINNERS SUICIDES.

Jennie Irving of Walkerton and Her Sad Story—Chapter in the History of the Glassey Family—Some Spicy Letters Written—Allen Glassey and His Wife.

The mystery surrounding the death of the young girl whose body was picked up in the bay near Conger's Wharf on Saturday last has been practically dissipated.

The story of the sad affair involves a tale of domestic infelicity, youthful foolishness, and finally despair and suicide. The case is a peculiar one, involving as it does a wife and mother's unhappiness, a husband's perfidy, and a young girl's dishonor and death.

Two weeks ago last Saturday a young girl, apparently about 19, called at No. 10 Mission-avenue, occupied by Mrs. E. Glassey, dressmaker, and applied for sewing work. Mrs. Glassey wanted help at the time, and took her in. She had no written references, but mentioned the fact that Rev. Elmore Harris could testify to her good character, etc. She mentioned the names of several other well-known citizens, and for the first week behaved herself well. At the end of that time, however, she proved to be useless in the matter of work, and Mrs. Glassey told her she could go. Miss Hamilton, Mrs. Glassey's sister, who was residing with her at the time, persuaded her sister to allow her to remain until she could get work.

There are two Mrs. Glasseys. Mrs. E. Glassey is a widow lady, and Mrs. Alden Glassey is her sister, both having married brothers. Alden Glassey and wife were at Norval, where he worked in a mill until the Saturday before Dominion Day, when, accompanied by their two children, they arrived in Toronto to pay Mrs. E. Glassey a visit. The girl Jennie was still in the house, and all day Sunday Mrs. Glassey noticed that her husband was "fooling around" with her, but did not take particular heed to it, as they were not going to be very long in town.

On the Tuesday following the holiday Mrs. A. Glassey, who had been out all day, retired with her husband and children to bed about 11 o'clock. At 1 on the following morning Mrs. E. Glassey, who was up attending to her sick baby, happened to step noiselessly into the parlor when she found her sister's husband and Jennie Brown together. She ran upstairs and at once informed the wife, who, naturally incensed, came down, and would not rest until her husband and the girl had left the house. Before going she told The World last night that he attempted to strike her, but her sister, Mrs. Hamilton, prevented him. He then left the house and Jennie and he went down Mission-avenue with her arms round his neck.

Mrs. A. Glassey heard nothing further of her husband or Jennie until July 5, when an expressman came around for Miss Jennie Irving's trunks, which he had been engaged to take to No. 28 Park-road. Mrs. Glassey soon found out that the Miss Irving, who had employed the expressman, was Miss Jennie Brown. She was determined to find out the extent of her husband's guilt, and visited No. 28 Park-road and secured an interview with the girl. Jennie, as soon as she saw Mrs. Glassey, burst into hysterics, and at her request gave her the following confession, written in her own hand. The original is in the possession of The World:

TORONTO, July 5th, 188

This is to certify that the Allen Glassey has not been true to his wife he came to me on Sunday night the first of July and forced me to go away with him. He also on Tuesday night when we were caught by Mrs. Glassey sister he also did as he did on the first night and made me promise to go away with him he also gave me diamond ring that I had which belonged to another young man, my proper name is

JENNY IRVING.

When I went to Mrs. Glassey's I called myself Miss Brown.

Returning home Mrs. Glassey found a letter from her husband who had gone on to Norval and wanted her to come along with the children. This she refused to do, and now is anxious for a separation.

Neither of the Glassey ladies had any idea that the body in the bay was that of Jennie Irving or Brown until yesterday morning, when reading Saturday's World they recognized the description given. What made Mrs. A. Glassey suspect more particularly that it might be her was that Jennie, after writing the confession, told her that she would never live a married man again as she intended to throw herself into the bay. Mrs. Glassey tried to reason with her but she shook her head obstinately and said nothing more.

This was on Thursday last. Mrs. Glassey knew before the girl left the house, No. 10 Mission-avenue, that she had an appointment for Friday night with a commercial traveler named Harry Hartley.

All this time Mrs. A. Glassey and her sisters were acting on supposition and were by no means certain that the dead girl was Jennie Irving. They called at Agnes-street station last night, and told the sergeant in charge about their suspicions, and were told to call again this morning.

Later in the evening The World drove Mrs. A. Glassey and Miss Hamilton down to the Morgue to view the body, and the moment they saw the corpse they exclaimed "Yes!" "Yes!" "That is poor Jennie!" "That is Jennie Brown!" Right there it featured that in death the two ladies recognized the body of the unfortunate girl who had caused such unhappiness to one of them.

On the drive back Mrs. Glassey told The World that she knew little or nothing about Jennie's antecedents. She told them only that she had an uncle a Presbyterian minister in Walkerton and had left home because she was unhappy four years ago. She had been in the city all that time and had worked in various families, among them that of Rev. Dr. Rose.

The girl's two trunks are at No. 10 McCaul-street. One of them contains a Postoffice Savings Bank book, showing a deposit of $5 and a number of letters, of which the two following are fair samples:

ROSSIN HOUSE, Sunday, June 5, 1887.

My Dear Jennie: Can you meet me next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the corner of College-avenue and Howland-place? If you can't come you can drop me a line saying when you can meet me. Am very sorry I did not see you the last time we had an engagement. Don't fail this time, and if you can't come drop me a line saying when you can meet me. You had better address my letters to the Rossin House. Ever yours, MICHAEL J. CUMMINGS.

P. S.—Burn this when you read it.—M. J. C.

JUNE 12th, '87.

My dear Jenny—I suppose you were disappointed last night at not finding me at the place of our appointment but I assure you it was not my fault. I was there about 20 minutes past eight and not finding you there I went down to Will Cunningding thinking you might have gone there to wait for me but finding you there I went back again to see could I see any sign of you and I need not tell you I could not. Make some appointment yourself and I will keep it without fail. You can send a letter to the store to me. I cannot tell you how fascinated Will was with you Sunday night, in fact he told me he never meant any one he liked so well. I was glad to hear this Jenny because he is a real nice fellow and it would be a good thing for you if it came to any thing. I will be able to speak to you better on this subject than write, hoping you are well and will forgive me breaking my appointment after all it may be for the best.

I remain
yours very truly
TOM C. CARY.

Jennie according to the Glasseys was a little flighty in her conduct, and at times appeared far from evenly balanced. She once said that both her mother and father were dead, but generally was very silent regarding her family affairs. Coroner Duncan opened an inquest on the body at noon yesterday, and adjourned it until Thursday evening. Drs. A. R. and R. N. Pyne made a post mortem later in the day, and it is understood that the result showed no signs of violence. At the same time it might be as well for the authorities to find out the man Harry Hartly, who was to have met her at the foot of York-street on the night previous to her death. It will be recollected that on that night several persons saw a young man walking with a girl answering Jennie's description on the Esplanade in the neighborhood of where the body was found.

J. P. Convictions in Lambton.

FOREST, July 9.—During the quarter ending June 12th there were 85 convictions made by Justices of the Peace in Lambton county. Of these eight were for violation of the Scott Act, each of the defendants being fined $50 and costs. Of the 85 convictions 9 were made by Forest justices.

THE "MACK" INVESTIGATION.

The Police Commissioners Inquire into His Treatment and Death.

Yesterday afternoon the Board of Police Commissioners commenced an investigation into the circumstances connected with the arrest of George Mack, and the subsequent death of that unfortunate man while an inmate of the Lunatic Asylum. The public was admitted to the Police Court room where the investigation was held. Police Constable Childs, the officer who took Mack into custody, was charged with having brutally treated his prisoner, and it was at the instance of the latter's widow that the inquiry was held. It was 2.30 when the Commissioners, Judge McDougall, Mayor Clarke and Police Magistrate Denison, took their respective seats and proceedings were commenced.

Judge McDougall read over the requisition in which Mrs. Mack demanded the investigation, and then called that lady to the witness box.

Mrs. Mack, being sworn, stated that while she was absent from home on the evening of Thursday, May 3, her husband also went out. He did not return, and next she heard of his arrest. From the Police Magistrate she obtained an order for his release on bail. He did not recognize her when she met him, and complained that he had been "cruelly ill-treated" by a policeman. Subsequently he said that the officer had struck him without provocation, that he had been shoved into a cell where cold water had been thrown over him and pieces of coal flung through the bars upon him. On one occasion Inspector Breckenreid had entered the cell, threatening to punish him if he did not keep quiet. As he spoke he dropped from the bench in an exhausted condition. Witness took him home. He was then quite sane. On Sunday he was wandering in his mind, and commenced throwing things around the house. Bruises were discovered on his shoulders, and there was a large lump on his head. He continued to act strangely until, on May 26, she had him taken into custody on a charge of insanity. For 13 or 14 years she had never seen the sign of liquor on him, and he was always in full possession of his senses.

Mr. Warren Pardee, editor of The Globe, was examined relative to comments and communications on the Mack case which had appeared in the paper referred to.

Dr. James F. Rose testified that Mack came to his office on May 2. He appeared to be out of his mind. On May 5 he saw him again, and was under the impression that he was suffering from delirium tremens. He then noticed swellings and bruises on his scalp. On the following day Mack complained of ill-treatment by the police. He was quite satisfied that deceased was out of his mind prior to May 3, although blows on the head would aggravate the symptoms. The sudden subsiding of inflammation in his broken leg was the immediate cause of death.

Police Constable Geo. Childs stated that he met Mack wandering around the Don bridge at 3 a.m. on May 4. Deceased asked what that "fire was down there," pointing to a row of lights. Witness asked him what lights he meant, when Mack told him he was not fit to be an officer. He refused to give his name and address, and displaying a long knife, threatened to "rip" witness up if he didn't step away. He struck at him twice with the knife when witness shoved him down. He (Childs) never drew his baton. He arrested Mack and brought him to the Wilton-avenue Station, where, in the hearing of Sergeant Williamson, he again threatened to use his knife.

Sergeant Williamson corroborated Childs' statement about the knife. Mack kept shouting throughout the night. There was no cold or water thrown on him.

Police Constable Moutrop testified that while Mack was in the cell he took a bandage from his leg and picked as a wound until it bled freely.

Inspector Breckenreid deposed that he saw Mack in the cell at 9 o'clock on the morning of his arrest. Prisoner ran to strike him. Witness threw him down, but did not bump his head or otherwise illtreat him.

Several other police officers gave evidence corroborative of the statement that Mack was not ill-used while in the cell.

The investigation was then adjourned until Wednesday.

IN WICKED HAMILTON.

A Young Lady Charged with Assault—Precocious Burglars—The City's Milk.

HAMILTON, July 9.—Minnie Cleaves, a most respectable looking young lady, was charged in the Police Court this morning with assaulting Nettie Street. The latter went to collect some money for a Mrs. Dallas from Miss Cleaves' brother. She did not receive the complainant very courteously, but pushed her out of the door, when she wanted the young man to settle up. The case was dismissed without costs, the Magistrate telling Miss Street that she had no right to be so persistent in asking Miss Cleaves for the money.

Three boys named Frank Grice, George Owens and John Hoar pleaded guilty at the Police Court this morning to the charge of breaking into the stand at Dundurn Park and stealing four boxes of cigars. They were each fined $5 or 40 days. James Walton, the lad who pleaded guilty on Saturday to having stolen a silver watch, a chain and $30 belonging to his employer, was sent to the Reformatory at Penetanguishene for three years.

The horse and buggy which Thomas Vanderlip got stuck in Saturday night have been recovered. They were found at Oakville on Saturday. Vanderlip has not yet been found nor has one of the suits of clothes that were supposed to have been stolen by him.

James Begley was arrested this morning because it is thought that he was one of a gang who assaulted several laborers while they were working at a house at the corner of Burlington and Hughson streets on Saturday afternoon. A couple of the laborers were treated very roughly.

Some time last week the boathouse of the late Mat Thompson was broken into and about $50 worth of tools were stolen.

Dr. Ryan says that the quality of the city milk is gradually improving.

John O'Grady was arrested this morning by Constable Cruickshank on a charge of insanity.

Miss Mary Pinch of this city was married to Mr. Henry Wood of Chicago on Saturday evening. Rev. John Pickering officiating.

The Pitcher Investigation.

MONTREAL, July 9.—The preliminary investigation into the charge against Charles Pitcher, late teller of the Union Bank of Providence, was continued to-day, and Mr. Johnson, cashier, continued his evidence, giving the details as to how he could identify the stolen bills. Mr. Halton, Q. C., counsel for the bank, states that the bank is now in possession of all the stolen bonds and securities which were seized in London on Saturday. The details have not yet come to hand. "There will be no compromise," says Mr. Halton, "we will give Pitcher fourteen years."

There is so much money in this case that Mr. Greenshields, crown prosecutor, who is a partner of Mr. Guerin, counsel for the defence, will resign his office and lend Pitcher the use of his legal abilities in the court of Queen's bench in the event of his being committed.

Winnipeg Wire Whispers.

WINNIPEG, July 9.—A young son of John Glenn of Rezina was thrown off his pony today, and his feet becoming entangled in a rope he was dragged a mile and killed.

Ex-Health Inspector Bell has been elected alderman in ward 6.

Lieut.-Governor Schultz has appointed Dr. Brown his private secretary.

The Winnipeg Field Battery went into camp to-day.

Senator Hardisty received a grand welcome home at Edmonton to-day from all classes of citizens.

Earthquake Shocks in Eastern Ontario.

BELLEVILLE, July 9.—A slight shock of earthquake was felt here, accompanied by a dull rumbling noise, about 11.15 last night. It was also felt at Madoc, Tweed and Warkworth. It lasted about one minute.

KINGSTON, July 9.—A slight shock of earthquake was felt here at about 11 o'clock last night.

AMONG THE TOILERS.

Female Workers—Plumbers' Bylaw—Results so Far in Favor of the Men.

The plasterers' laborers met in Dufferin Hall last night and unanimously resolved to render financial and moral support to the plumbers on strike.

The Harness-makers' Union met in Richmond Hall last night and elected Alex. Parven, President; G. W. Campbell, Vice-President; Ben. Blain, Secretary; Jas. Wood, Treasurer; Messrs. Blain, Barton and Wood, delegates to the Trade and Labor Council.

A successful meeting was held in Temperance Hall last night, when practical steps were taken to thoroughly organize female labor of every description in the city. Female toilers are taking the lead in the matter. No information was given to the press beyond stating the object of the meeting and that it was successful.

Up to a late hour last night no change had taken place in the strike of the cigarmakers. Private meetings of the workmen's and the employers' committees were held at their respective meeting places, but no information as to the dispute was given.

The World gave a few days ago the substance of a circular letter sent to the members of the boss plumbers' association, encouraging them in the fight. The letter insinuated that there were many botch hands amongst the journeymen, and the workmen now point to the results of the examinations under the new plumbing bylaw as proof that they have fewer botches in proportion than the bosses. Forty-five boss plumbers have applied for licenses under the bylaw, but only 27 passed the examination, so 18 have to continue their schooling; 118 journeymen applied and only 36 failed. The men state that they have always been and are now ready to meet the employers and discuss matters, but that so far the employers have declined. They do not object to the Mayor's intervention, but are in no hurry as their members are gradually getting employment.

Madre' Ellio cigars exceptionally fine. Superior to imported.

THE REMOVAL OF THE TOLL-GATES.

Agreement Between the Commissioners and the City Council.

The York County Commissioners met in the offices of County Clerk Eakins yesterday forenoon, passed a number of small accounts, transacted some routine business, and received Ald. Shaw and Assistant City Solicitor Caswell, who came as a deputation from the City Council to arrange for the removal of the toll-gates on Dundas and Yonge streets to points outside the city limits. The County Commissioners will give up to the city for $2500 about 1400 feet on Yonge-street and about 2600 feet on Dundas-street, thus enabling the city to secure the removal of these two toll-gates. The toll-gate on Davenport is in the hands of a private company, but Ald. Shaw hopes to secure its removal also.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario.

Thousands of eyes have been attracted by the prominent and important location of Sault Ste. Marie, the hub of the Central North, the city with a great future, surrounded as it is by many of the greatest natural advantages ever bestowed upon an earthly region. The completion of the great International bridge over the St. Mary's Falls at the Sault, by the Canada Pacific Railway, which connects that line with the two trunk lines on the American side of the river, and which continues on to the Pacific coast, the preparations of the Canadian Government to build the ship canal at this point, and the movement of the Ontario Government to develop the great water power there, have kept the name of the "Soo" before the people for some months. Its prosperity is yet in its infancy. The International Hotel, just erected at a cost of $50,000, will be ready to receive guests August 1st, and the many other local improvements give the "Soo" a beehive appearance.

The Estate of D. M. McDonald.

Mr. E. J. Clark writes: "Re the Mitchell-McDonald case and the Central Bank, I take very strong objection to the comments of your reporter, which are entirely misleading and unfounded, and calculated to do a great injustice to the trustee, who, far from neglecting the estate and letting it decrease in value—as stated—has bestowed a very great deal of care and time in attempting to secure out of a very complicated estate the surplus in the property for the benefit of the creditors over the claims of mortgagees. The property and, the one which should be stated, for the steps taken by the liquidators is, that the creditors object to the claim of the Central Bank under their mortgages as being preferential securities, and the liquidators, to prevent a great amount of litigation and the loss of the whole or the greater part of the surplus in the estate through pressure from prior mortgages, whose interest is largely overdue, and for the purpose of securing to themselves the rights—without question—of dealing with these assets, propose to purchase the estate, and these proceedings are being taken with that view and for no other purpose whatever. I may state that the creditors and liquidators and the Central Bank are pleased with the conduct of the trustee in his management of the estate, and the liquidators have approved of the contradiction of the article, and for the reasons above stated."

SAYS HE HASN'T SEEN IT.

HON. MR. THOMPSON KNOWS NOTHING OF HANRAHAN & CO.'S PLAN.

It Rests with the Provincial Authorities to See that the Bucket Shop Law is Enforced—Sir John Has His Wisdom Tooth Out.

OTTAWA, July 9.—Hon. Mr. Thompson, Minister of Justice, was seen this morning and asked if his attention had been drawn to the plan by which Messrs. Hanrahan & Co. of Toronto intended to evade the Bucket Shops Act. "No," said Mr. Thompson, "I have not seen it and it has not been brought under my notice."

"Do you intend to take any action to prevent this procedure?"

"That does not rest with us. The provincial authorities have to see that the law is carried out. As I have not seen the plan that Messrs. Hanrahan intend to pursue I cannot express any opinion."

About four years ago Sir John A. Macdonald cut a wisdom tooth which has hurt him nearly all the time since. Yesterday he decided to have it out and out it came. The gums bled so profusely that he was quite exhausted and finally the hole had to be plugged. Then his face began to swell, and this morning he was unable to attend Council, which met at 11 o'clock. By 4, however, he felt sufficiently well to carry out his intention of leaving for Dalhousie, which he did, accompanied by Lady Macdonald, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh J. Macdonald and Sir John's young grandson. Sir John will be absent about a month.

The meeting of Council to-day finished up routine business. No more meetings are expected for some time. It is understood that no Cabinet appointments will be made until after the summer holidays.

CALM SUCCEEDETH STORM.

Quiet Meeting of the Parkdale Council—Bylaws Should be Revised.

The regular fortnightly meeting of the Parkdale Town Council was held last evening, at which there were present: Reeve Terry, Deputy Reeves Gowanlock and Goodman, Councillors Babe, Edwards, Gander, Hewish, Miles, Sinclair, Tait and Willoughby. In the absence of Mayor Lynd, the chair was occupied by Reeve Terry. Inspector Kmzinger acted as secretary in the absence of Clerk Alex. McMillan.

After communications and the reports of the several committees had been read, the Council resolved itself into committee of the whole to consider the same, Councillor Edwards being called to the chair.

The Committee on Works recommended that the claim of Mr. Lightfoot, who asked compensation for injuries he received from a fall on Brock-avenue in January last, be not entertained. As a result of an investigation the committee believed that the town was not liable. The recommendation was adopted.

The committee rose and reported, and Reeve Terry resumed the chair.

A letter was read from Mr. J. H. Macdonald, town solicitor. He stated that in view of the fact that three of the old by-laws of Parkdale were quashed recently it had occurred to him that it might be desirable to revise and consolidate all the bylaws relating to the government of the municipality. The matter might be referred to a committee consisting, among others, of the legal member of the Council.

The communication was referred to the Committee on Finance.

A communication from Inspector Patrick was read. The Inspector desired to know what action he should take with reference to carrying out the bylaw respecting plumbing and drainage. The latter was referred to the Waterworks Committee.

It was moved by Councillor Edwards, seconded by Councillor Miles, "That this Council hear of the death of Mr. B. Woods, by accident, on the 20th ult., and tender to his father, Mr. W. Woods, a vote of condolence expressing the regret they feel at the serious loss he has sustained." Mr. Woods was a reporter of the proceedings of the Council. The motion was carried unanimously.

Moved by Councillor Miles, seconded by Deputy Reeve Goodman, "That the several corporation employes be granted the usual summer holidays as soon as possible, and that Alex. McMillan, clerk, be granted three weeks' vacation." Carried. The meeting then adjourned.
