HOUSE COAL.—Mr. W. J. B. Gillespie's advt.

CHATHAM SKATING RINK will be open to-day.

NIGHT AND DAY.—The hemlock bark extract works of J. & J. Miller & Co. at Mortimore are running constantly night and day.

ROYAL ARCANUM.—An adjourned semi-annual meeting of Miramichi Council No. 441 Royal Arcanum will be held at its rooms at 7.30 to-morrow evening.

REQUEST.—The members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Newcastle respectfully request the ladies of Miramichi not to offer intoxicating liquors to their guests and callers during the holiday season. Secretary W. C. T. U.

NEWCASTLE RINK was opened for Skating and Curling on Monday evening last, music being furnished by the Newcastle Serenade Band under Mr. Madigan's leadership. Mr. Jas. C. Fairey has leased this rink and will, no doubt, run it very successfully.

NEW MUSIC.—Mr. Max M. Sterne, of Maryaville, has sent us a bright little polka, entitled, "Moonlight on the Nashwaak." It is dedicated to his pupil, Miss M. T. Gibson. This polka is simple, but very pretty. It is neatly printed by Landry & Co., of St. John.

"WILLIE" writes that there must have been a mistake in the record published by us last week in reference to the opening of the river in 1847. He says,—"My grandpa told me that he crossed the river on the ice from Willie Currey's to Johnson's shipyard above Middle Island on the 9th of May, 1847 and the river did not open for one or two days after that, so it could not have been open on 6th May."

BLACK BROOK.—Rev. E. Wallace Waits delivered his lecture, "Clerical Humorists" at Black Brook on Monday evening. The audience was also entertained with an excellent and brief programme of music by Misses Nellie Loggie, Emma Burns, Sarah Gillies, Lizzie and Maggie Loudoun and Messrs. N. R. Mackenzie, Chas, Patterson and R. H. Anderson, Miss Johnson, organist of St. Andrews, Chatham being the accompanist. The chair was occupied by Mr. John Blake and the collection amounted to over $11.

DRAMATIC.—At the request of a number of Chatham friends who witnessed their late performance of "Our Boys," at Newcastle, the Ulysses Dramatic Company will appear in that comedy in Masonic Hall, Chatham, on Monday evening, 5th January. The organization embraces a number of excellent amateur performers and will give an entertainment well worth attending. A plan of the Hall will be at Mackenzie's Drug Store on and after New Year day, and any particular reserved seats desired may be secured in advance. Competent ushers will be in attendance on the night of the performance.

THE LECTURE COURSE.—Mr. Waits's lecture on "Clerical Humorists" in the Temperance Hall, Tuesday night, was a fine effort, and was much enjoyed by the audience. The peroration on the work of the ministry, was very eloquent and expressive. Prof. McCurdy moved a vote of thanks in a humorous five minute speech in which he spoke of the blessing a sense of humor is to a man, in or out of the pulpit, and Mr. Snowball seconded the motion It was carried by acclamation. Rev. Mr. Chapman, who was in the chair, warmly acknowledged the kindness of the lecturer in so cheerfully responding to his invitation. Rev. Mr. Dobson will be the next lecturer.—World

TEMPERANCE.—A correspondent of the Sun writes; "Rev. Messrs. Kirby and Tait, accompanied by members of Richibucto division, attended at Curran's Mills, Weldford, a few evenings ago and organized a division there. The following were elected officers for the ensuing year:—Wm. Robinson, W. P.; Terrence Curran, jr., R. S.; James Murray, F. S.; Terrence Curran, sr., treas.; Archibald Lennox, chap.; Alexander Curran, con.;——Glenn, A. C.; Thos. Gibson, I. S.;——Graham, O. S. From the character and standing of the parties connected with this laudable movement, we have no doubt that the division will be a most prosperous one. Another division will be opened shortly in Weldford.'

PERSONAL.—The Metropolitan of Canada is eighty years old to-day. He has been in the ministry since 1828, and bishop of Fredericton since 1845. The mission field of New Brunswick has offered more opportunity for hard work than for the display of the highest intellectual powers. His Lordship has given evidence, musical literary and architectural, that all his powers have not here found full employment. But, he has devoted himself with energy, with great force of character, and with hearty religious zeal to the work before him; and certainly his labors have been abundantly blessed, though doubtless the result is below his desires. Active, hale and vigorous His Lordship yet is, despite his fourscore years, and we hope that he will be long spared to the Church and the Province for which he has done so much.—Globe, Dec. 19.

Our Boys.

As we were unable to attend the performance given by the Ulysses Amateur Dramatic Club of Newcastle on Thursday evening last, we take an account of it from an exchange. The comedy is said to be exceedingly entertaining, and, judging from the favorable comments, heard on every hand, the members of the Club who took part therein fully sustained the excellent reputation established on their first appearance in Newcastle. The following is the cast of characters:—

Sir Geoffry Champneys (a Country magnate)	Mr. C. Butcher.
Talbot Champneys (his son)	Mr. C. E. Fish.
Perkyn Middlewick, of Devonshire House (a retired butterman)	Mr. J. C. Fairey.
Charles Middlewick, (his son)	Mr. R. A. Lawlor.
Kempster, (Sir Geoffry's manservant)	Mr. G. C. Allen.
Poodles (Middlewick's Butler)	Mr. L. M. Harley
Violet Melrose, (an heiress)	Miss Fish.
Edith Melrose, (her poor cousin)	Miss Haddow.
Clarissa Champneys, (Sir Geoffry's sister)	Miss McLean.
Belinda, (a boarding house slave)	Miss Harley.

The performance is thus described by the correspondent of the Times:—

"The Club in rendering this popular play lost none of its former prestige; in fact it rather earned fresh laurels.—Some of the performers hardly spoke loud enough, but, with this sole exception, no fault could be found with the acting of any. Miss Fish made her debut as an actress on this occasion, and she was quite a success, both as regards her appearance on the stage and the way she performed the part assigned to her. Mr. Fairey, as usual, was exceedingly funny as Middlewick; his costume was capital and he did the character full justice. Mr. Fish has established his reputation as a capital amateur actor, and his rendition of the part of Talbot Champneys has increased his popularity with the playgoers. Mr. Butcher was in better form as Sir Geoffry than we have yet seen him, and Mr. Lawlor performed his part, as usual, faultlessly. Miss Haddow and Miss Harley were very good indeed in their respective parts, and Miss McLean as Clarissa showed what good acting can do for a part not otherwise important; in her hands Clarissa was made a leading character. The other members, though in subordinate roles did well. The music provided by the two Messrs. Madigan and Mr. Ritchie Park was first-class, and was frequently applauded.—We hope the Ulysses Club will persevere in the good work they have undertaken of providing sensible and elevating amusement for the public of Newcastle and will ere long be ready to put another play on the boards. We regret that the hall is not better adapted for the purpose of a theatre. With proper accessories such as abundance and variety of scenery, proper stage accommodation, good light and suitable seating accommodation, these performances, good as they are, would be twice as attractive, and the performers themselves would find it easier to act their parts if everything were arranged as it should be." We understand that the Company intend to give a performance at Chatham early in January.—Advocate.

St. John Alms House Commission.

The Government, at its late Session with a desire to learn with whom the responsibility for the late Alms House deficits in St. John rests, has issued a Commission to Mr. Ernest Hutchison of Douglastown, to make a full enquiry. Such a course would seem to be eminently proper as it will enable the government to learn whether the fault rests upon the whole Board, or upon some members of it, or is chargeable against the system upon which the affairs of the Alms House have been managed for many years. A full knowledge of the facts is necessary before any action is taken, and it was of course desirable that a perfectly disinterested Commissioner should be chosen. Mr. Hutchison is well fitted for the duty and we have no doubts that his report will be thorough and do justice to all parties, and be such an one as the government can safely act upon.—York Gleaner.

Making Hard Times.

This is a manufacturing age.

Start more contracts than you are able to fulfil.

Open up new vistas of political power whenever you can take people in, because you are a stranger.

Pretend you will buy them out if they will only start the mill.

Tell them that if they don't close with you at once and give you a big salary you are wanted by a big railway syndicate in terra nova and will have to call all preliminaries off.

If they don't fall in with your views give them five minutes to decide between you and Newfoundland.

Let a dozen papers start where three have been killed by their own want of momentum.

Manufacture more abuse than there is a market for.

Make up more shoddy than the market requires or will put up with.

Tell the people you don't care for them but depend on the government to see you through.

When the government ignores you, fall back on the religious element.

Manufacture reflections on all kinds of christians, knowing that the heathen may rage at a very cheap rate in this country.

Then wonder why you don't prosper, why you dont receive the wages of sin.

Yes, dear brethern, there is no use in trying to stop a sluice-way with a shingle.

WORLDLY.

What They Like to See.

WHAT A WIFE LIKES TO SEE.

A husband who is not always a 'little short.' Who gets home at a reasonable time of night and in a reasonable physical condition. Who always lets her know beforehand when he brings a friend to dinner. Who doesn't want to sleep until noon every Sunday morning. Who takes pleasure in buying his wife a spring bonnet. Who compliments her occasionally and calls her pretty, whether she is or not. Who, when he comes home late at night, will come in like a man, and not like a thief. Who can lie in bed while his wife walks with the baby without swearing like a trooper. Who isn't always telling her that times are hard and business is poor. Who will give her credit for working as hard as he does and sometimes harder. Who is willing to put up with a poor dinner Mondays. Who won't keep dinner waiting, and then growl because the roast is overdone. Who doesn't labor under the impression that cigar ashes on the carpet tend to keep the moths out. Who is willing to give his wife half the bed. Who knows when it is time to get up, and does not rely on his wife to arouse him. Who is blind to the follies of women. Who takes his wife along occasionally when he 'runs down' to the city on business. Who allows his wife to get a dress or a diamond ring 'charged.' Who when he takes his wife to the theatre will not go out between the acts 'to see a man.' Who will give her a stated sum per month instead of growling about 'the bills.' Who won't sharpen his lead pencil on the carpet. Who will empty the ashes and carry the coal when the cook has been bounced for impudence.

Who, when he builds an addition to the house, will allow his wife to arrange for 'closet room.' Who admires his wife, and has the common sense to tell her of it. Who will not insist on having the pillow with the most feathers. Who does not need coaxing to get his wife a new dress or a piece of jewelry. Who will be as polite to his wife as he is to other women, and will lift his hat to her when he meets her on the street. Who can be generous to himself if he is only just to her.

WHAT A HUSBAND LIKES TO SEE.

A wife who will smile when he brings a friend home unexpectedly to dinner. Who will not go through his pockets for loose change. Who won't talk about money matters at the dinner table. Who will have the meals promptly. Who will keep the match safes constantly supplied. Who will provide a fine dinner every day—with a poor cook in the kitchen. Who never tells him his breath smells as though he had been drinking. Who refers to her mother in a disparaging sort of way. Who will wear her watch instead of turning her husband into a sun dial. Who can run the house, clothe herself and family and never ask for any money. Who won't lumber up the mantle piece with 5 cent fans. Who won't hang his overcoat inside out. Who will consign her arm chair tidies to the spare room. Who will always have his slippers within easy reach. Who won't poke him in the ribs when he snores and who is too much of a lady to snore herself. Who won't look scornful when he tells her he has been to the 'lodge.' Who doesn't awaken him in the middle of the night with the startling information that there are burglars in the house. Who is as neat and tidy after marriage as before. Who, when she borrows his pocket-knife, will return it promptly. Who will fix his cuff buttons in his cuffs and his shirt studs in his shirt. Who will keep his tooth brush where the children cannot get hold of it to scrub the floor with. Who doesn't insist upon his going to church with her every Sunday morning. Who will believe the biggest kind of a lie. Who will listen with deferential attention when he tells her how his mother does this thing and how she does that thing. Who likes to go off with the children for a visit occasionally, and permits him to board at a hotel. Who can spank the children without his assistance. Who is not only careful about darning his stockings but her own also. Who doesn't get excited in a dry goods store and overdo the matter. Who, when he comes home with a head ache, doesn't ask him if he isn't smoking too many expensive cigars. Who doesn't tell him that the money he spends for tobacco every week would keep the children in shoes. Who is willing that he should go on a trip for a week without expecting a letter from him every day. Who, when he takes her to ride and the horse shies, doesn't scream and grab the lines. Who isn't always complaining that the kitchen stove won't draw.

GENERAL NOTES AND NEWS.

A deer has been killed within ten miles of Michigan's capital.

WHAT are the barriers to a natural and healthful exchange of the world's commodities? Protective duties, and restrictive navigation laws! Abolish these, and the much desired improvement in the distribution and exchange of the world's manufactured products will follow. It requires little power of discernment to recognize the meaning of this change.—Ottawa Free Press.

A GOOD RECIPE.—A young woman who thought she was losing her husband's affection went to a seventh daughter of a seventh daughter for a love-powder. The mystery woman told her—'Get a raw piece of beef, cut flat about an inch thick. Slice an onion in two, and rub the meat on both sides with it. Put on pepper and salt and toast it on each side over a red coal fire. Drop on three lumps of butter and two sprigs of parsley, and get him to eat it,' The young wife did so and her husband loved her ever after,

CANADA is to day the only point from which Great Britain can draw any large quantity of choice well-bred cattle entirely free from disease. We firmly believe that the Canadian cattle trade has a great future before it, and the only thing that requires to be placed on a different basis is the accommodation on board ship and the doing away with fluctuating freights.—Canadian Breeder.

The girl who married Oscar Rickards, in Wisconsin, three years ago, wrote on her wedding day to a friend: "My husband loves me devotedly, and yet he has such a wicked temper that I don't doubt he will end by murdering me." Her estimate of his character was correct; he has killed her.

Men and women are made to swear that they will never touch wine, beer, or spirituous liquors of any kind! What folly! But at the same time what an avowal of weakness! And you, John, are you simple enough to think that you can legislate a people into being virtuous? It is not total abstinence, my dear friend, that it is necessary to preach, it's moderation—a word that seems disappearing every day from your vocabulary. "It is not wine that makes the drunkard," says a Chinese proverb, "it is vice." It is not, therefore, wine or beer that needs suppressing, it is vice.—Max O'Rell, in "John Bull and his Daughters."

Judge (to Witness)—"Repeat the prisoner's statement to you, exactly in his own words. Now what did he say?"

Witness—"My Lord, he said he stole the pig——"

Judge—"Impossible! He couldn't have used the third person."

Witness—"My Lord, there was no third person!"

Judge—"Nonsense! I suppose you mean that he said "I stole the pig!"

Witness (shocked)—"Oh, My Lord! he never mentioned Your Lordship's name!"—Punch.
