in one or several sums to such members as may be desirous of purchasing Freehold or Leasehold Property who then mortgage the property bought, until the expiration of the Society, as security for the payment of the monthly subscriptions. By the accumulation of the monthly payments, fines, &c. each member who has not received a loan will be entitled at the termination of the Society to £120 per share, and as soon as the shares upon which no advance has been made have become of the value of £60 the Society will be dissolved. The termination of the Society is ascertained by the calculation that £60 at 6 per cent. or 12s. per month at 6 per cent. will amount to £120 in eleven years and seven months.

The advantages presented by this Society are made evident by the following statement, which explains the mode in which the Society carries its object into effect. Generally speaking, the rent of a house is twice as much as the interest of the sum which would buy it. Now, if a tenant be supplied with money to enable him to purchase the property on condition that he will, for a limited period, pay an amount equal to his rent, it is obvious that the house will by this means become entirely his own;—for instance: suppose a tenant occupies a house at an annual rent of £36, and can purchase that house (or any other) for £300; he becomes a member of this Society, and

Pleaming that he merely hold one share, on which he is entitled to receive on loan at the commencement of the Society, . . .	£60 0 0
But to obtain the requisite sum he must take altogether,	5 shares,
Upon these Shares the Society will advance him, ...	£300 0 0
—the price of the house.
The monthly payments for such an advance will be £2s. per share, which is for 5 shares,	£3 0 0
	12 months
	£36 0 0 per ann.

—So that, instead of paying £36 per annum to the Landlord for Rent, by paying this Society the same amount, at the expiration of the Society the property becomes clearly the borrower's own."

His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor arrived in this City on Wednesday last.

Yesterday the Market Square of this city, presented a scene of tumult and not truly disgraceful to a civilized community. The occasion of which was Officers Stockford attempting to take into custody a sailor who being drunk was conducting himself in a disorderly and annoying manner. The fellow was one of Herculean proportions, and offered very violent resistance to the authorities. This conduct so amused and delighted the rabble in the Square, that they expressed their joy in most inhuman yells and hisses, and instead of assisting to restore the public peace, did all in their power to increase the confusion. We observed among the foremost of those who patronize disorder, several of the Cartmen, who are of course Freemen, and bound by Oath to keep the peace of the city.—Such conduct is not only disgraceful, but criminal, and we trust will be noted by the proper authorities, and that Licences will in future be given only to such as true and loyal subjects of Her Majesty, and deserving of public support. The mass of the rioters were persons whom when Winter arrives will in all probability be found in the City Alms house, fed by the authorities they now feel so much delight in opposing. These scenes of late have become both frequent and increasing. Indeed the Market square is filled by fellows who refuse to work for a dollar a day, but are ever foremost to create disorder, and by assisting at rescues, and other criminal amusements—their idea we presume of gratitude for the benefits which they continually receive at the hands of an outraged community.

Two parties were very properly committed to gaol by Alderman Smith for their disorderly conduct on the occasion, and it is a pity that more of them could not be recognised who by their threats and yells and other tumultuous conduct are ever ready to aid the escape of delinquents.

The Woodstock Telegraph says—We have heard from different sections of the country that the "Potato Rust" or Rot has made its appearance again. It is estimated that there will not be more than half a crop. The wheat in many places has been entirely cut off by the Weevil; in others partially injured; while in various sections we are informed that it has not made its appearance.—From all we can learn the late sown wheat escapes the best.

More Incendiarism.—We regret to have to record another instance of a deliberate system of revenge. An Oat Kiln belonging to Mr. Francis Sharp, and closely adjoining to the Mill we recently noticed as having been burned, was destroyed by fire on Saturday night last. There can be no doubt but it is the work of an incendiary. The building was insured; and the principal sufferers are the Insurance Offices, and the public who will be deprived of the opportunity of getting their grain ground without travelling a greater distance.—Ib.

Mexico and the British Ministers.—The following letter from the British Minister of Foreign Affairs to the Minister of the Mexican nation resident at London attracts much attention:—

May 31, 1847.

The undersigned, her Majesty's Minister of Foreign Affairs, has the honor of acknowledging the receipt of the communication dated the 26th inst., of Sr. Mora, the Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the Mexican Republic, relative to the existing state of affairs between Mexico and the United States; and in regard to the contemplated abandonment of the Mexican capital by the Executive, to which Sr. Mora refers in his letter—the undersigned has the honor of assuring Sr. Mora that the English Minister accredited to the Mexican Government will consider it his duty to follow the Government and maintain his relations with it, in whatever part of the Mexican territory said Government may fix its residence.

Accept the assurance of my distinguished consideration. PALMERSTON.

To Sr. D. Joaquin Mora, Minister of Mexican Republic.

The New York Courier continues to maintain "that the United States are bound by every consideration of good policy and self-interest—nay even by the laws of self-preservation—to prevent Cuba from coming into the possession of any of the great powers of Europe;—even if we have to take prior possession of it ourselves. And the Courier particularly insists upon this course, inasmuch as, in its opinion, there is a probability that ere long a quarrel will break out between Great Britain and the United States, that will lead to a war, originating in mutual animosities and therefore rendering it necessary that we should not suffer our enemy in such a contest to acquire so valuable a foothold in the Gulf of Mexico as the possession of Cuba would give him."

Death of the Hon. Silas Wright.—The Telegraph reports the sudden death of Ex Governor Wright, who expired in a fit, at his home, in Saint Lawrence County, as we understand. He has, for some years past, filled a large space in the public consideration, in the United States Senate, and in the great State, and the eyes of many in the country were fixed upon him for the most eminent office in the Union. Death, however, has suddenly removed him from the stage of action, and thus added another proof to show the vanity of life, and of life's ambitious pursuits.—New York Express.

Ten Thousand Volunteers Ordered Out.—We learn that the Government has finally determined upon making a requisition for ten thousand more volunteers, under the original law authorizing the raising of fifty thousand men. We are led to believe that the requisition is made principally upon the Western States. We may expect that the call for the additional volunteers will reach us through the papers in a day or two. The design of the Government is to have thirty thousand men under Gen. Scott's orders by the end of September. The sooner the better.—[N. O Pic. of 20th.

Vera Cruz, Mexico, Aug. 12, 1847.

News has been received here from Puebla to the 7th inst., by a large mercantile house, and it brings the much desired intelligence that Gen. Scott moved forward from that city on that day. This is no idle rumor either, the parties who received the intelligence are above all doubt. So far—so good, but what force he brought with him in the advance I am unable to say; it, however, fully bears out my former advice to you, that he would leave for the capital as soon as ever General Pierce arrived at Puebla.

The following trite observations on the "Cheap and Nasty" system, (now so much in vogue,) as applied to the efforts of the public press, are well worthy of reflection. Their truth is evident enough; and we may well exclaim, in the sphere of our own observation, "Probatum est."

Cheapness—Cheapness seems to be the order of the day. Get a thing at a low price, no matter what its quality, and you have a bargain. Such is the philosophy of the time. But the principle has not proved a very correct one. We have a Government that was procured at a low price, almost at no price at all; but what is it worth? They produce cheap measures, measures that no one asked for; but the same measures do not grow into laws.—And we have for some time had cheap morning papers, that is to say, one of half the customary price, and containing a third of the customary talent. And we are now to have another experiment in the same line. The Morning Chronicle is about to descend into the cheap print list. His price is to be reduced to fourpence. Of course, the Times, and all other respectable journals, deprecate this attempt to degrade the press. Authors, printers, and publishers must be remunerated, machinery and type must be paid for; but from a mere fourpence, as the Times has proved, this cannot be done. To our own knowledge, both the Morning Chronicle and the Daily News are now in the market. Upwards of £50,000 have been spent on the latter, and it is now offered for a quarter of that sum. Are these signs of that soundness of the cheap principle? We will our readers, in the face of such facts, believe that unrewarded contributors and unprofitable broad sheets are by any means to be compared with those who honestly avow that something more than philanthropy and more solid than thanks are necessary to induce proper efforts, and an appropriate amount of skill and genius to spend their labours in the work of enlightenment and diffusion? The public are deeply interested in this matter. The press is the Palladium of their liberties, as James said, and what fitting homage to a guardian genius is it to say that he shall toil and work, unrewarded, unrecognised? Even we his disciples, cannot brook this; and therefore we condemn the modern movement. At Liverpool it has failed. What we have stated above its sufficient to show that it does not prosper in London.—Berwick Warder.

Passengers in the ship Sea, from Liverpool, on Tuesday last—Mr. & Mrs. Sheridan, and Mr. John Morrow.

There is, perhaps, no disease with which our country is affected, which sweeps off annually so many victims, as that fell destroyer of the human race—Consumption. Day after day, year after year, the insatiate monster hurries to the portals of the cold and silent tomb, fresh added victims to its conquest. No walk of life is sacred from its blighting influence.—No age is exempt from its death-dealing shafts. The old, the middle-aged and the young, all alike, are food for this common enemy of mankind. The white haired patriarch, whose life of temperance has rendered his system impervious to the attacks of other ills, and whose good deeds prepared him for the enjoyment of life's calm evening, finds consumption fastening its fangs upon his vitals, and tearing him from a world, ever bright to minds which look complacently on days well spent.

Is there no help for the afflicted? No preventive of the dangers which beset us in our changeable and fickle clime? We think there may be. And if the allegations of those who are at least entitled to veracity, may be believed, there is a preventive and a remedy.

Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry is offered to a suffering world as such. It needs not the "adventitious aid" of a long string of fictitious certificates to give it notoriety. Its true value and intrinsic excellence are sufficient to entitle it to the confidence of the public, and the name of its inventer, as a benefactor of his species

"Waft on to fame"

He was also present at the battle of New Orleans, and was honorably discharged from the 43d Light Infantry, at Fredericton, after a service of twenty-seven years.—Mr. Bennett volunteered his services as a nurse for the sick emigrants in the Hospital at Fredericton, and died of fever contracted in that establishment.
