LONDON, April 20

Consols 93⅞ a 93¾; breadstuffs dull.

Dr. Kenealy appeared in Guildhall Justice Room, to day, at the instance of the editor of the Advertiser, charging him with libel. The room was filled with the friends of the Doctor, and a dense crowd was in the street; after hearing the summons, the case was dismissed. The result was greeted with tremendous cheering by the people in the room, which was caught out by those outside. Dr. Kenealy was escorted from the building by thousands of people.

[The alleged libel was an abusive article in The Englishman, and the complaint was laid at the Guildhall Police Court, the complainant being Mr. Wright, sub-editor of the Advertiser. One of Mr. Wright's associates testified to having suggested to Guilford Onslow that Kenealy apologize and pay £100 to a charity. The defence produced a copy of The Englishman with a semi-apology, and disclaimer of all intention to attack Mr. Wright personally, saying that "if Mr. Wright had no hand either in the abusive paragraphs—wholly unprovoked by us—or in the Greenwich matter, we are sorry that our observations should have given him pain." The case was then adjourned until April 20th, Dr. Kenealy promising that there would be no repetition of the offence, and expressing the opinion that every well-wisher of Mr. Wright should be satisfied with the explanation he had given.]

Arrested for Forgery.

On the 31st of August, 1868, an order, purporting to be drawn by Arthur Henry of Black River Road, on Martin Dolan, Marsh Bridge, was presented to the latter and paid. The amount was $6 and a barrel of flour, and the order was in favor of and presented by a man named William or Moses Rickard. It was subsequently found that the order was a forgery and on the 8th of September, 1868, Dolan made information at the Police office, charging Rickard with forgery. A warrant was issued and given to policeman Harvey Hamilton who was the only man on the force who knew Rickard by sight, but the accused having heard of the warrant kept out of Hamilton's way. At one time the latter pursued him as far as Salisbury but there lost all trace of him, and on several other occasions Hamilton endeavored to catch him, but until to day, without effect. Some months ago it was found that Rickard occasionally came into town, and hearing this Hamilton put the warrant in his pocket and quietly "laid" for his man. This morning he found him at the Haymarket, in charge of a span of horses and a load of hay, and at once arrested him. Rickard is now at the Station, but will probably be brought up this afternoon and remanded until Monday. The prisoner is about 30 years of age, and has been principally employed as a farm hand, and of late has been employed with Mr. Clarke, of Lancaster.
