Gazetted.

No matter who is the gazetted member for London, all good judges of the weed will insist on having the famous Stonewall Jackson cigar, universally acknowledged to be by far the best 5-cent cigar in the Dominion and superior to many so-called 10-cent cigars, and do not allow inferior brands affording larger profits to be palmed on you. Messrs. H. Jacobs & Co., Montreal, have made a specialty of the Stonewall Jackson cigar for over a quarter of a century, employing none but skilled union hand workmen. Their motto has always been "A fair day's pay for a fair day's labor." 100-k-twvt

These Who Have Tried It Say

The best proof of the great power of Polson's NERVILINE over every kind of pain is obtained by the use of a 10 cent bottle. Nerviline requires no puffing; every bottle tells its own story. It cannot fail, for it is a combination of the most powerful pain-subduing remedies known to medical science. Neviline is equally useful in external or internal pains. Try the great remedy. Ten-cent bottles at any drug store. Large bottles only 25 cents.

THE WORLD WOULD BE BETTER FOR IT.

If men cared less for wealth and fame,
And less for battlefields and glory;
If writ in human hearts a name
Seemed better than in song or story;
If men, instead of nursing pride,
Would learn to hate it and abhor it;
If more relied
On love to guide,
The world would be the better for it.

If men were wise in little things—
Affecting less in all their dealings;
If hearts had fewer rusted strings
To isolate their kindred feelings;
If men, when wrong beats down the right,
Would strike together to restore it;
If right made might
In every fight
The world would be the better for it.

The same night two pairs of trousers, an overcoat and a rubber coat were stolen from E. Yelland's tailor shop on Dundas street. There is no clue to the way in which admittance was gained into the latter place. The only solution is that somebody has a key for the front door.

One of the delightful features of the book are the well-chosen sentences from great writers of all ages, which, with a chosen text, open every week in the year. A Pool Match.

Michael Lowe, champion pool player of Hamilton, and Ernest Wright, of this city, were matched to play a series of 21 games at Jerry McDonald's pool rooms last evening. The first eleven games were hotly contested, Lowe winning 6 and Wright 5. After an intermission of fifteen minutes, six more games were played. The Hamilton man won five of these and was declared the winner of the match by a score of 11 to 6.

"The New Temperance Apostle."

Grip of this week has a bright cartoon, illustrating a recent debate in the Ontario Legislature. There is Mr. Mowat standing smiling, with his hands behind his back. Mr. Meredith faces him, with a banner bearing the device, "Vote for XXX. Carling," with a picture of the member for Elliot centered in it. The banner recalls Mr. Meredith's pilgrimages in the city during last campaign. Below the picture is this conversation:

Meredith—I feel compelled to rebuke you, Mowat, for your neglect of the great temperance question. You have done nothing for the glorious cause of Prohibition. You are merely playing with the matter, sir, and the country will not stand it, sir."

Mowat—Indeed! And is your friend Carling angry about it, too?"

Fight Between Man and Horse.

Professor Oscar R. Gleason, the famous horse tamer and trainer, did not give an exhibition in Princess Rink last evening on account of the amount of work he has to do this evening. In addition to his fight with the pacing stallion Tommy O, a vicious biter, eleven other horses have been booked for treatment for refractory complaints. The exhibition promises to be exciting and thrilling in the extreme and a performance of such character will doubtless attract a large audience. Saturday afternoon a special performance will be given for farmers who have been unable to attend during the evenings. The rink is comfortable, and everybody can get a seat in perfect view of the proceedings in the ring.

An Oddfellow's Funeral.

The funeral of the late George Mullens took place yesterday afternoon from the family residence, Bathurst street. It was under the direction of the Independent Order of Oddfellows, of this city, who had cared for him during his long illness, the deceased being a member of Corinthian Lodge, Oshawa. The pallbearers were; Bros. H. J. Boyd, Alfred Davis, W. Fairbairn, Albert Lewis, W. J. Craig and James Fairnbairn, and a large number of city brothers walked in a body to the last resting place. The employes of Messrs. Stevens & Burns' foundry also marched in full force, as a mark of respect to their late fellow-workman. The impressive burial service of the Oddfellows at the grave was conducted by Past Grands Caleb Wall and J. M. Symonds, of Dominion Lodge, and the Episcopalian burial service was read by Rev. Mr. Rhodes, curate of St. Paul's.

The Bogus Appeal Out of Court.

How completely the learned county judge of Middlesex usurped the functions of the Supreme Court of Canada was demonstrated yesterday at Osgoode Hall in the London voters' list case. It was the intention of the London Conservatives to appeal against the ruling of the Court of Appeal to the Supreme Court, the former having decided that the bogus votes, which now constitute Hon. John Carling's majority, were wrongly struck from the list. The reason for the appeal to the Supreme Court was obvious as, if the bogus votes were not counted in accord with the Court of Appeal's judgment, Mr. Carling's majority would be changed to a minority of sixteen. The appeal to the Supreme Court was entered in order to keep the matter sub judice during the election. After the election Judge Elliot elected Mr. Carling by that peculiar procedure which has brought about so much comment. Mr. Carling having taken his seat yesterday, the notice of appeal to the Supreme Court was this morning withdrawn; the court accountant paid out the $400 security, which but the other day was security, in the Court of Appeal, and so the matter now is out of the Superior Court.—[Toronto Telegram.

"Life in Constantinople."

Mr. Meshrob Baghdasarian, dressed in the oriental garb of the Turk, addressed a fair audience in Victoria Hall last night. He prefaced his lecture on "Life in Constantinople," by singing one of the national songs of Turkey, and began by taking the audience on a trip to Constantinople, noting particularly the beauties of Malta, and the magnificence of the Sultan's palaces, which overlook the Golden Horn. After describing several prominent mosques in the city, including the grand St. Sophia, which will hold 60,000 people, the lecturer presented in vivid language the ceremonies attending the occasion of the Sultan's worship at the Imperial Mosque. "Constantinople has fallen and been inhabited afresh six times," said the speaker. "but her dogs remain the same. Constantinople's plague is dogs. Armenia would be the finest place under the sun to live in if it were not for the innumerable dogs that infest every street and road." Continuing, Mr. Baghdasarian dwelt at length on the customs of the Turks, embracing the seclusion of women, hired mourners, dinner (at which one of the favorite viands is rice fried in oil), love-making, betrothal souvenirs (which are carried so that everyone may know their meaning), and begging. Each boy in Armenia was required to memorize a part of the Koran every day on penalty of a thrashing, and in some places the whole school was caned on Monday to do for the week. The lecturer showed many interesting Eastern articles, and closed by singing the Turkish national anthem.

St. Patrick at the Grand.

As usual the recurrence of the evening of the 17th of March saw the pit, parquette, balcony, "gods" and boxes at the Grand Opera House packed with people. The programme was, of course, appropriate to St. Patrick's day and the flavor was relished by the big audience. The Seventh Band was present and led off with "Silver Trumpets." Dr. Sippi sang two solos, "Jack Will Not Forget You" and "The Minstrel Boy," in magnificent voice. Sim Fax, the Woodstock specialist, made a hit in his character songs and was encored. Bert. Leys' solo, "The Wild Creeping Flower," was particularly well-rendered and he received a double recall. The Falcon Guitar Club appeared twice to the advantage of the programme. The miscellaneous nature of the performance gave it plenty of variety and afforded lots of enjoyment. Among other numbers were: Recitation, Mr. W. Crawford; songs, Miss Tillie Barnard, alto, Queen's Avenue Methodist Church; songs, Miss Letitia Gleason, of Detroit; recitation, Miss Gertie Le Bell; song, "McCarthy's Widow," by John Daly; song and dance, "The Steamboat Whistle," by Messrs. M. Morkin, A. Johnson, W. Brophy, W. Morkin, Frank Johnson, Lou Paladino, C. Tatham and E. Morkin; dancing, Miss Alice Galbraith; "Irish Airs," Seventh Band. The drill of the Irish Grenadiers, in green coats and red pants, with vocal accompaniment, was the concluding number. J. Daly was the captain, W. Miller the sergeant, J. Ranahan the corporal, and W. Mullins, A. Wyatt, J. Tynan, P. Cruickshank, J. Leech, F. Forristal, D. Walsh, F. Coles, T. Ranahan, P. Mohan, J. O Neill and J. O'Meara the privates. Mrs. Cruickshanks and Mr. Fred Evans were the accompanists.
