WEDNESDAY MORNING, AUGUST 29, 1888.

All For the Best.

Perhaps this retaliation move from Washington may turn out all for the best—for Canada, we mean. Anything that makes the Dominion do like the tub we have heard of, that is, stand on its own bottom, is apt to be for the country's good in the long run. The more that Canadians are taught to look to England or the United States in every little difficulty that overtakes them the longer they are likely to remain a helpless and dependent people, whereas, the more they are thrown upon their own resources and made to understand that "God helps those who help themselves"—the more capable are they likely to be of performing the great self-help act aforesaid. Of course it was not Canada's independence in any shape that was had in view at Washington, either by the Republican Senators who rejected the treaty, or by the Democratic President who called for further retaliatory powers in order to make Canada "mind." No such intention was entertained on either side; and probably it won't be long before both President and Senators will wish they had not done so. For now what will follow—what may reasonably be looked for after this?

Certain American conveniences being withdrawn, what more reasonable than that we should make the best of our own? To call this retaliation would be the merest quibbling. Suppose that we simply make the best of our own routes, both by land and water, that would not be meddling with American routes. Suppose we do what can be done with Quebec and Halifax, that is nothing that Boston and New York have any right to complain of. Some of our railway companies have short connections across American soil, and these our neighbors can cut off if they so please. But do not go on calling it "retaliation," if we simply turn our own ports and our own routes to the best account that nature permits. Perhaps you may call it a rude awakening that Canada is now getting, but don't be surprised should it prove a real, healthy shaking up for us. We may ere long see reason to think that this retaliation business came just in time to shake the stupidity out of us, and to prevent us from drifting away into an annexation movement, without enough life in us to have a will of our own, and to say "nay."

Quite recently things did not look well with us, to say the least. First, there started up among us a Wimanite faction, whose demand was for commercial union, which really means commercial annexation. That this particular crowd should take the position indicated was nothing so much to wonder at. But, as the English showman once remarked, the next thing was something else; and really something to astonish the natives of this wooden country. A peaceful political party, having a responsible position and a history to look back to, deliberately made up its mind that the commercial annexation of Canada to the United States is really something to take hold of and to tie to. Of course they don't call it by that name, "Unrestricted Reciprocity" is the word used, but the thing meant is such a commercial alliance of the two countries as is virtually commercial annexation. Last session the Reform leaders in Parliament, with the full approval of their supporters there assembled, adopted a new platform, and called it a "Unrestricted Reciprocity." Nor was this any hasty or only half considered move on their part, for they took plenty of time to think of it, and went through the motions with all due deliberation. More recently Leader Laurier has taken occasion to announce on the occasion of his present Ontario tour, that in the Reform platform there is but one plank, and that is "Unrestricted Reciprocity." If the Reform party be not now "bold and firmly bound," as the lawyers say, to this new platform of theirs, then we may despair of seeing any political party ever committed to anything.

Now, neither the outrageous annexation movement advocated by The Mail, nor the slightly disguised humbug for which the Globe makes itself responsible, has been making anything like the progress that their respective organs have been boasting of. But the still and quiet game has been in their favor, if anything was. It was always a possibility that thoughtless people might be led into following some influential names, until, we fear they were aware of it, they would have drifted away out of sight of land, and into deep annexation waters. Now, this retaliation shock comes upon them with a bang, and shakes them up awake and stirring, when it was in the interest of annexation that they should sleep and snore away, and never mind. Instead of our people being encouraged to drop off and doze away as comfortably as possible under political chloroform, peaceful and pleasant, there comes upon them the rude shaking of retaliation. And well for us that so it is, for, while by no means admitting that it was at all likely that our people would vote for commercial annexation in any shape, we may admit that the present shock comes just in time to save us from a good deal of mischievous nonsense near impending. We fancy that already the annexationists must feel that there has been an inlet of cold air upon their schemes. For whatever makes our people think more of "Canada First," and compels us more to "paddle our own canoe," does most certainly drive us far this way from all schemes of submission to the United States.

Mr. Laurier Muddled.

Mr. Laurier in his speech at St. Thomas spoke of Canada being deprived of her carrying trade [of American goods]. President Cleveland does not propose to interfere with the Grand Trunk or the C. P. R. carrying American freights; all he asks for is power to refuse to allow Canadian exports or imports to pass through American territory in bond, in retaliation of Canada's refusal to allow American fishing vessels to call at Canadian ports and bond their catch to the United States.

Mr. Laurier is also astray when he says the attitude of Canada towards the United States has been "if not hostile not altogether friendly." We beg to differ with him; it has been friendly in the extreme while their conduct toward us has been in many ways contemptible. Has he forgotten the Fenian raids?

We are so-day standing strictly within our treaty rights. The United States are trying to enforce non-treaty claims by disreputable methods.

We are glad to see that The Globe took occasion yesterday to haul William Macdougall and The Hamilton Times over the coals for "their excessive altruism," in other words being a little too anxious for the benefit of others at the expense of ourselves. The Kanakees never exhibit any missionary spirit of this kind. The Globe goes on to show that Canada is only sticking up for her just rights. It says:

Our contention, however, is that the Canadian position is right and just, and, taking the whole Canadian interest into consideration, profitable to this country.

The Globe ought this morning to talk in the same strain to Mr. Laurier, whose zeal for "Unrestricted Reciprocity" has run away with his duty as a Canadian, first, last and always. He can very well afford to leave the argument of the American side to The Toronto Mail, a journal lost to all sense of decency, that on every point goes against the Canadian view of things, that is bent day in and day out to encourage everything that tends to the disruption of Canada, and the acquisition of its parts by the United States.

The Canada Life.

The annual meeting of the Canada Life Assurance Company was held at Hamilton yesterday, President Ramsay in the chair. The report of the directorate was both gratifying and satisfactory. Applications for assurance had been received during the year for $5,351,456 upon 2555 lives. The income receipts of the year were $1,695,070.70, the total expenditure $964,050.07, the difference increasing the assets of the company to $8,954,063.84. The board during the past year adopted a system of Tontine profit policies, a step that will meet the approval of many assurers. In the course of the president's remarks he alluded to the fact that in the past year great difficulty had been experienced in obtaining profitable investments. That, however had been overcome. The Canada Life continues to prosper, the result of good and careful management.

The Agricultural Professorship.

From The Woodstock Sentinel-Review

Now that Mr. Mowat is home, one of the duties that his Cabinet will soon be called upon to perform is the appointment of a professor for the Ontario Agricultural College in place of Mr. Brown, resigned. The appointment is one of so great importance to the farming community that it is not surprising that the press should have been giving the Government some advice upon the subject. So far as we have seen, there is among our exchanges of all parties a remarkable unanimity of opinion as to whom the choice should fall upon. If the votes of Ontario journalists and Ontario farmers could decide the selection, it would clearly be upon Mr. Shaw, editor of the Hamilton Live Stock Journal, and Secretary of the Central Farmers' Institute of Ontario.

Professor of Agriculture.

It is understood that Hon. Mr. Drury has given the chair of agriculture in the Guelph Agricultural College to Thomas Shaw of Hamilton.

THE RED MAN'S CORN PITS.

Remarkable Food Storehouses of Canadian Aborigines.

Mr. J. B. Freeman, M. P. P., contributes to the Canadian Advance the following particulars of some ancient corn pits or caches found in the Township of Townsend, as given to him by Mr. Richard McMichael, one of the early pioneers:

About sixty-two years ago Mr. McMichael was engaged with others in clearing the timber from some land in Townsend, Norfolk county, when their attention was called to some particular depressions, and, after the timber was removed, investigation revealed the fact that these pits or holes all contained charred or parched corn. The corn was in a good state of preservation, except for a few inches near the surface where it came in contact with the earth; it was bright and glistening, showing little signs of decay. There were eighteen of these "caches," they were uniform in size and round in shape and measured five feet across. The corn was found from three to four feet below the surface, and, although the corn was thrown out to a depth of four or five feet, the earth was not reached below. We are not left to conjecture as to how this corn came to be deposited here, for we know that this was the Indian method of preserving their surplus corn supply. Early writers tell us that the country between Lake Huron and Lakes Erie and Ontario was at one time thickly populated by the Indians, and that the game was scarce and that there was more corn grown each year as the population increased and the game disappeared, but in no instance have I met with any record when such large quantities of parched corn have been found in any place inhabited by Indians. Then there was no indication that this had been stored up preparatorily as a food supply in case of war, as there was nothing in the surroundings that would suggest this, nor was there anything like a stockade, or a village, or general camping ground, for in almost every instance, where their villages or camps once stood, the first settler could find traces of them, but in this instance there were only some ashes, and on an adjoining farm can still be seen a large stone that was used, no doubt, for grinding corn. I have said that these pits were found in the forest; there was no difference in the size of the timber in or about them, in fact, one of the largest pine trees growing near was partly over one of these depressions, and the usual way of computing the age of a tree by its rings or circles, that some contend mark each year's growth, would indicate that this tree was near a thousand years old, but, as I do not think that this method is trustworthy, say that the pine tree was four or five hundred years old, and then we can scarcely realize the fact that the corn in these pits should have shown so little signs of decay, but there can be no doubt about it being just as Mr. McMichael stated, as no one who knows him would question his veracity.

Watermelon Juice for the Complexion.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat is responsible for the following: Miss Carrie Townsend, South St. Louis, tells the following: "I always have a feeling of pity for girls who have florid or sallow complexions, or whose faces are bespattered with freckles, looking as if they had been about when a bran bin had exploded. I feel sorry for them, not because of any harm that the freckles do for really I think them nice, as they are evidence of a pure, light, and healthy complexion, but because the removal of them or the sallowness is so easy if they only knew how. I accidentally discovered a sovereign remedy a couple of years ago, which costs next to nothing.

"One day the plumber shut our water off and I could get none in which to wash my face. I was fearfully soiled, and looking out of the window just then, I saw a friend approaching to call on me. Glancing about me I noticed half of a watermelon from which the meat had been removed some time before. It was partly filled with juice and I hastily washed my face in it. The result was so soothing that I repeatedly washed my face in that manner. Judge of my astonishment, a few days later, on seeing that there was not a freckle left on my face. A number of my girl friends then tried it, and the result was a great beautifying of the countenance. No matter what is wrong with the face, the juice of the watermelon will rectify it and produce clear skin."

Killed in a Railway Collision.

BURLINGTON, Ia., Aug. 28.—A collision occurred yesterday afternoon on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railway, 60 miles west of here. A westbound extra dashed into the caboose of the construction train. The engine of the extra and ten cars were totally wrecked, and the track was torn up. Roadmaster G. A. Rose, Dennis Griffin and Patrick Ready were killed and a number of others, including the engineer of the wrecked engine, were injured, but none seriously.

The Bulgarian Throne.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 28.—It is believed in some political circles that the Czarina, when she goes to Gmunden, will bear to Prince Waldemar a suggestion from the Czar regarding his candidacy for the throne of Bulgaria, and a hint that the Czar will support him in this direction. The Czarina will meet at Gmunden her father, the King of Denmark, and her brother, Prince Waldemar.

CANAJOHARIE, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Dr. Bing Fradenburg, the oldest and wealthiest physician in the State, died this morning at Palatine Bridge, aged 91. He was in active practice at Cooyomans over 60 years, and was known all along the Hudson River.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Robinson Davis, aged 13, was killed by lightning on Staten Island last evening.

Dust From the Diamond.

The "Champs" are hitting the ball.

The Torontos face the Senators to-day for the last time this season.

Toronto and Hamilton will do battle here to-morrow.

The baseball enthusiasts of the Ambitious City think that the Hams have an excellent chance to beat Toronto for the pennant—next season.

Serad gets $500 for the remainder of the season by Syracuse and $100 advance besides.

Manager Mutrie is writing a song, so it is said, to be called "The Tumble That Never Came." Advance sheets are to be sent to Capt. Anson.

Atkisson, a former pitcher of the Athletic team, and now splitting the plate for the Toronto, has been doing good work all this season.—Philadelphia Record.

The New York players say that with Kelly and Clarkson the Chicago club would have won the championship with but little trouble.

It is said that baseball by electric light will be one of the attractions at London during the fair week.

With a view to strengthening the batting department of the Bisons Manager Chapman has signed Polhemus, just released from Lowell.

Lehane and Hamburg are the only Bisons who have crossed the century line in hits. The former has 125 and the latter 111. Grant has 96.

Dasher Troy played with the Wilkesbarre club on Saturday, taking Chadwick's place as second. It is the intention of the Wilkesbarre club to sign him, but it has not as yet been done.

An Albany paper says the Albanys are $800 behind on their salaries. Manager York denies it. Syracuse has offered to give the Albanys a benefit game in Albany.

"My sermon to-day," said a Nebraska clergyman, looking placidly over the congregation, "will treat of Sabbath desecration, and I trust that I may be able to point out its wickedness to good effect. Before opening my discourse, however, I will announce that a baseball game is in progress south of the church, and for the convenience of the worshippers, the score by innings will be recorded on the blackboard by Brother Johnson. My text is: 'Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy.'"

Next season an attempt should be made to form a league of colored players. Such a league, with clubs from this city, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Washington and Baltimore, should prove successful. It costs less to run a colored club than a club of white players. They have not arrived at that point where they are paid $3,000 or $4,000 a season, notwithstanding the fact that there are players among these colored men that are equal to any white players on the ball field. If you don't think so go and see the Cuban Giants play. This club, with its strongest players in the field, would play a favorable game against such clubs as the New Yorks or Chicagos.—New York Sun.

Gossip of the Turf.

The Brooklyn Jockey Club will give an extra three-day meeting at Gravesend, L. I., commencing to-day.

The Coney Island Jockey Club will open its regular autumn meeting at Sheepshead Bay on Saturday. This will be a fitting climax to one of the most brilliant weeks' racing in the history of the turf.

A new iron stand for the judges and timers is in the course of erection at Sheepshead Bay. It will have a decided novelty in the shape of an electric dial, which shows the time made during a race as each quarter is run.

An American Jockey Club, in sending out its prospectus for stakes to be run next year, makes the provision that the races may be run over any track the club may see fit. This looks like the death warrant of Jerome Park, and the fall meeting of the club, which opens on Tuesday, Oct. 2, will probably be the last one held on the historic old course.

THE IRISH MEN VICTORIOUS.

They Defeat the Northern Cricketers by 28 Runs in the First Innings.

ORILLIA, Aug. 28.—The cricket match between the Irish Gentlemen and Orillia and District was resumed this morning at 11 o'clock. When stumps were drawn last night it looked as though the home team stood a pretty fair chance of knocking the Irishmen's 144 runs in the first innings out, as only three wickets had fallen for 62 runs. But this morning the visitors did great work, and when the last wicket fell the Northern Counties had only made 121 runs. The Irish Gentlemen made 283 for nine wickets in their second innings when time was called and the match was therefore decided in favor of the Irishmen by 23 runs in the first innings.

The batting of Maxwell for the Irishmen in both innings was exceptionally fine, but it might be said there is not a weak bat on the whole team. They are a strong team in every respect. Following is the score:

The American Eleven Win

DETROIT, Aug. 28.—The cricket match between the Ontario Association and the Western Association was continued at Peninsular Park this morning. Contrary to expectation the American eleven won handily with four wickets to spare. This result was due chiefly to the admirable batting of D. and E. R. Ogden, the captain and Mr. A. McPherson. The fielding of the Ontario representatives was weak with the exception of Collins and Horstead at the wickets. The victory of the American eleven will undoubtedly give cricket a great impetus in the western states. The attendance was large and fashionable. The score:

It was moved by Lieut.-Col. McPherson, seconded by Private Sutherland, "that the council be requested to adopt short time system in all matches in future." The motion was carried.
