THE NORTH SEA INQUIRY OPENS

Evidence Taken Simultaneously at Hull and Vigo.

HOW THE COMMISSION WORKS

Evidence To Be Taken by Both Sides and Then Submitted to the International Court.

London, Oct. 30. — The Russian inquiry into the Loggerbank affair was opened at Vigo today. The British inquiry was opened at Hull. The Russian embassy has canceled its instructions for a representative to attend the inquest, as it considers the case closed. Premier Balfour returned to London rather unexpectedly by motor car last night from Canterbury. Many leading clergymen in their sermons today referred with satisfaction to the peaceful settlement of the Anglo-Russian crisis.

Gerald Balfour, president of the board of trade, has appointed Admiral Sir Cyprian Bridge and Butler Aspinall, barrister-at-law, who practices mainly in the admiralty court, to conduct the North Sea inquiry at Hull for the board of trade. This inquiry will be confined to ascertaining the circumstances from fishermen's point of view and assessing the damage. The Russian embassy has not yet decided whether to accept the Government's invitation to send a representative. The report of evidence will be forwarded to the international commission. The board of trade inquiry will express no opinion on the action of the Russian squadron.

The admiralty today rescinded its orders stopping all naval leave, and the Pall Mall Gazette says that although all danger of war has passed, a great naval demonstration in the nature of practice is being planned as a sequel to the hostile mobilization, which the Associated Press originally pointed out was quite likely to occur.

Lord Lansdowne and Ambassador Benckendorff yesterday further discussed the composition of the international commission, but no final decision was reached. It is thought possible some British naval officers may participate in the inquiry going on at Vigo, similar to the courtesy being extended by Great Britain as in its offer to the Russian embassy to send a representative to the inquiry at Hull. The foreign office thoroughly agrees with the Russian understanding as to the moral obligation to carry out the findings of the international commission.

Situation at Vigo.

Madrid, Oct. 30.—The Russian inquiry into the North Sea affair opened at Vigo today. A dispatch from Vigo says: "It is believed that the international investigation here of the North Sea incident has begun. The British cruiser Lancaster, which was here for some time yesterday and departed in the evening, after her commander had conferred with Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky, on board the Russian flagship Kniaz Zouvarroff, returned today, and there was another conference between the British and Russian naval commanders on board the flagship of the latter. Later in the day Admiral Rojestvensky went on board the Lancaster to return the visit of the British commander. Admiral Rojestvensky is quoted as having told a reporter that his visit to the commander of the Lancaster was merely one of courtesy and not connected with the North Sea incident. Subsequently the Lancaster sailed for Villagarcia, where it is supposed the British channel fleet was assembled. There are five British warships cruising off Vigo, evidently keeping an eye on the Russian vessels here. The Spanish foreign office has given out a statement to the effect that Russia has asked Spain's permission for the ships of Admiral Rojestvensky's squadron to remain in Vigo until the investigation of the North Sea affair shall have been concluded. Spain, according to the official statement, consulted with the representatives of the several powers, who gave their approval. The authorization, however, applies only to Russian vessels now at Vigo. The British yacht Ventura is in this port and appears to be watching the movements of the Russian squadron. The Russian admiral and subordinate officers of the Baltic squadron receive ovations whenever they come ashore. Admiral Rojestvensky was interviewed later in the day and said that he could say nothing at present about the North Sea inquiry here. Ten battleships and cruisers, he said, were now at Tangier and the remainder of his fleet would stay at Vigo until further orders from St. Petersburg. In conclusion the admiral asserted the absolute truth of his version of the trawler tragedy."

Rojestvensky Resigns.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 30.—The statement is positively made this afternoon, though it is impossible to confirm it, that the Emperor last night received a telegram from Admiral Rojestvensky, saying that in view of what had occurred, he asked to be relieved of his command. It is also stated that a telegram from the Emperor communicated to Rojestvensky at Copenhagen was a warning about the reported appearance of Japanese officers at Hull. As previously cabled, a row-boat, which took off the telegram to the squadron, is reported to have been fired upon.

The admiralty declares that it has no knowledge regarding the statement that Vice - Admiral Rojestvensky's ships were injured by fire from other vessels of the squadron, and it also declines to entertain the idea that the Russian admiral might have sunk one of his own torpedo boats, mistaking it for a hostile craft. The version of the affair to this effect, which is circulating in St. Petersburg, is based on the fact that only seven Russian torpedo boats have arrived at Algiers, whereas Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky left Libau with eight such craft.

The Commission's Work.

The details of the convention for the constitution of an international commission to establish the facts in the North Sea incident are being worked out in London. The agreement between the two Governments, it is authoritatively stated here, goes no further than to have recourse to a commission under The Hague convention, to determine the facts, which, in the language of article 14, "leaves the conflicting powers entire freedom as to the effect to be given to the statement." The findings of the court, however, will constitute a binding, moral obligation upon each power, which is expected to take the action called for without further representations from the other, but leaving the aggrieved government free, in case the action taken is not considered adequate to make such demands as it deems the occasion warrants. The commission is expected to be constituted promptly. According to a high authority the two governments will draw up a series of questions which will serve as bases for the investigation of the facts in the case by the mixed commissions at Vigo and Hull. The reports of the commissions will be handed to Russia and Britain. For the award, an international court will be created by special treaty, in conformity with the provisions of The Hague convention. It is believed that this court will be composed of a foreign naval official and a jurist-consul appointed by each of the powers. These four members will select a fifth, who will have the casting vote. The treaty to be signed will specify the powers and composition of the court, the main purpose of which will be to give a verdict on the basis of the testimony supplied by the mixed commissions. It will possibly also be given the right of passing sentence in the case.

Shadowed by Britisher.

Gibraltar, Oct. 30.—Four Russian torpedo boat destroyers passed through the straits, eastward-bound, today, shadowed by a British torpedo boat. The British Mediterranean squadron has been signaled 20 miles distant. The British mobilization maneuvers at Gibraltar were brought to a close today. This is regarded as indicating that no apprehension is entertained of further complications with Russia.

Warships on Watch.

London, Oct. 21.—The feverish activity in naval preparations which was noticed last week has abated, but naval reports show that British war vessels are so disposed as to keep a sharp watch on the movements of the Russian Baltic squadron, including the Canary Islands, where the Russians have completed arrangements on a large scale to coal from German colliers.

According to some reports, the firing in the North Sea was done by Volkersam's squadron, which is now at Tangier.

A Paris dispatch says: The Petit Journal's Lorient, France, correspondent says: "The captain of a Danish schooner, which has arrived here from the North Sea, declares that when he was forced to put in at an English port, owing to stress of weather, he saw steam trawlers taking Japanese and explosives aboard openly.

SIR WM. MULOCK TO RAILWAY MEN

Large Audience From Stratford Shops Applaud.

RAILWAY POLICY EXPLAINED

How the Liberal Government Has Bettered the Conditions of Canadian Labor.

Stratford, Oct. 30.—A large and enthusiastic meeting of the electors of North and South Perth was addressed here last night by the respective Liberal candidates, Messrs. J. P. Mabee, K.C., and G. H. McIntyre, and Sir Wm. Mulock Minister of Labor. The chair was occupied by Hon. Thomas Ballantyne, who introduced the local candidates as the prospective M. P.'s for their districts.

Mr. McIntyre created a most favorable impression, this being his first appearance during the campaign on the platform in Stratford. He reported that in South Perth the prospects were of the best, and expressed the conviction that South Easthope, after an exile of over 20 years in North Oxford, as a result of the gerrymander, would take advantage of the opportunity by giving a larger Liberal majority than ever.

Mr. Mabee confined himself altogether to local issues. The Opposition candidate had berated him because he was a lawyer, and at the same time accused him of being a member of the Manufacturers' Association. Mr. Mabee produced a record showing Mr. MacLaren to be a member of the latter association, not in Stratford, the city he was striving to represent, but in Toronto. Mr. Mabee reviewed Mr. MacLaren's record in Parliament, and stated that a rumor that the high Grand Trunk Railway officials would coerce their employes to vote for the Government candidate was entirely without foundation. Mr. Mabee did not want the votes of coerced men. He wanted the spontaneous votes of free men. He felt, however, it to be the interest of all Grand Trunk Railway men to vote for the Laurier Administration, because they improved their prospects.

Sir William Mulock was given a most enthusiastic welcome. He noted the progress in the city in the past ten years. On the occasion of his first visit, during the Conservative regime, empty stores and tenantless houses were the rule. Now, however, houses were scarce and stores held at a high rental. This he attributed in a large extent to the good influence of the Liberal Government. Sir William on a map of Canada showed the route of the proposed transcontinental railway, pointing out the extent of country through which it would pass. The fallacy of this road paralleling any other in such an immense stretch of territory was plainly demonstrated. The need of a road to develop this country was also plainly to be seen. A Conservative campaign sheet, which had been circulated through the city last evening, misrepresenting the terms and conditions of the Grand Trunk Pacific contract, was taken up by Sir William, and the true version of the contract given. Amongst other things, the speaker replied to Mr. Borden's latest railway scheme, in which the latter advocated the purchase of the C. P. R. line north of Lake Superior. This, Sir William pointed out, was one of the stretches of the C. P. R. which did not pay, and the company would like the Government to relieve them of it, in which case they would send the traffic which now goes through Canada around the south shore of Lake Superior and via United States ports, building up American cities at the expense of Canada. In conclusion the speaker dwelt upon his work as Minister of Labor, showing how the late Conservative Government had hoodwinked the labor men year after year, in order only to get their votes, while the Laurier Government had done things. They had bettered the conditions of labor, increased the pay of the laborer and abolished the sweating system and farming-out system in Government contracts.

Sir William's remarks were listened to with interest by a large audience of Grand Trunk Railway shopmen, who repeatedly applauded him.

JAPS SUCCEED IN A NIGHT ATTACK

Carry the Enemy's Outpost at Wumingtsun.

SITUATION AT PORT ARTHUR

Japanese Shells Set Town Afire and the Conflagration Rages for Many Hours.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 0. — Gen. Kuropatkin has telegraphed as follows, under date of Oct. 29: "I have received today no dispatches reporting encountering with the enemy. During a cavalry reconnoissance yesterday, after an infantry fight, supported by artillery, we occupied the village of Chiantsanhenan. The enemy has retired from Sindia. On Oct. 28 our Hussars, with insignificant losses, retained a village a kilometer west of Chentian against a violent Japanese bombardment." Gen. Kuropatkin also records other outpost affairs, including the Russian reoccupation of the village of Tynsin a short distance south of Luidzatung, whence they had been previously expelled by the Japanese, who burned the village.

Progress of Siege.

Che Foo, Oct. 30, 9 a.m.—The third general attack on Port Arthur began Oct. 24, according to unimpeachable authority. On Oct. 26 Japanese shells set fire to the only smokeless powder magazine in Port Arthur. Portions of the town caught fire, the conflagration continuing the whole day. On the same day the Japanese captured the Russian trenches on the slope of Rihlung Mountain, also a fortified position protecting the fortress. The Japanese consider the progress of the siege to be highly satisfactory.

Russian Repulses.

Tokio, Oct. 30, 6 p.m.—A report from the Manchurian army headquarters received today records a successful night attack against the Russian outpost at Wunmingtsun and two unsuccessful counter attacks made by the Russians. The report is as follows: "On the night of Oct. 28 a small force of the enemy attacked Waito Mountain, but were immediately repulsed. Oct. 29, at 3 o'clock in the morning, a detachment of infantry was dispatched from the center army against Wunmingtsun, located midway between the outposts of both armies. The enemy was surprised and the houses occupied by the enemy were set on fire. Using the place as a base the enemy made several night attacks on our positions, but were repulsed. On the night of Oct. 28 a force of the enemy of unknown strength attacked an eminence near Santaokang Tzu, but was immediately repulsed.

POET LAUREATE GIVES A LECTURE

Higher Literature Neglected for Inferior Work—Theaters Too Light.

London, Oct. 31.—Asking the question, "What is true progress?" and attempting to answer it in a lecture which he delivered at Leeds this week, Mr. Alfred Austin said that if it were his business to report to the education department the result of his own observations, he should say that he noted a marked deterioration in good manners, a striking diminution of the sense of reverence, and the unfitting of many scholars for their career in life.

He was free to avow that the gospel of "Get on in this world," so universally and sedulously preached, was a somewhat dangerous doctrine.

"I note with shame," went on the laureate, "that my countrymen seem to be universally opposed to any form of compulsory military service even for home defense. I wish to see the tone of the country even more than its discipline raised, if not by compulsory at least by what I may call voluntary conscription."

Books widely read by boys and girls were of a demoralizing character. It was not the higher poetry alone, but the higher prose literature as well, that was being neglected for works of a glaringly inferior kind.

As to the stage, there was, he suggested, a jingling and indelicate pirouetting. If plays more serious in substance and character—those of Shakespeare among the number—were occasionally placed on the boards, they were overweighted with scenery, dresses and irrelevant spectacular accompaniments and accessories.

Some Seasonable Advice.

It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over, and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by all druggists.

A GENERAL FAVORITE.—In every place where introduced Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has not failed to establish a reputation, showing that the sterling qualities which it possesses are valued everywhere when they become known. It is in general use in Canada and other countries as a household medicine, and the demand for it each year shows that it is a favorite wherever used.

THE SERVANT PROBLEM

Influential League Formed in England to Tackle It.

London, Oct. 31. — Interesting further details are given of a scheme, to which reference was made in these dispatches, recently, looking to the solution of the domestic servant problem. It is calculated that, exclusive of the ordinary free and charging registry offices, there are more than a thousand societies, clubs and agencies of more or less philanthropic character, dealing in one phase or other with the servant question. Outside of these agencies, there are some eight thousand registry offices who receive in fees paid by mistresses and servants a sum estimated at close upon £1,300,000 each year.

There has been founded a co-operative society, which is grouping together a large number of these semi-philanthropic organizations, and it proposes to make of them a sort of co-operative society. Mistresses will be able to buy any number of £1 shares up to 200. Servants can purchase a £1 share on the installment system. Profits over 5 per cent will go in sick pay pensions to deserving servants and dowers to servants who leave to get married.

The American method of giving diplomas and money prizes for long service is part of the scheme, and a national domestic service bureau, with district bureaus throughout the country, is an essential part of the proposition. For this purpose the country has been mapped out into 400 centers, in each of which registers will be carried on by ladies who have received instruction at the central bureau. Wherever 250 shareholders congregate they will form the nucleus of a co-operative registry.

The projectors are going to wield the broom of reform vigorously. Domestic settlements will be established in the east end and other great centers of life. Into these centers unemployed women and girls will be drafted in order to be trained for housewifery. The benevolent London county council trains city typists, but stony is the path of the would-be domestic servant at present. The living in system is irksome to a large class of girls. It is often a barrier to service, but now housework is to be made to compete with factory work.

The reformers propose to mark their recognition of the day girl by the establishment in large manufacturing districts of registries which will deal exclusively with day servants. In this way it is believed a number of factory hands will be attracted to day service and so set free a correspondingly large number of domestic servants proper, thus relieving to that extent the tension of the domestic labor market.

Dan Quinlan's Minstrels were not favored with large audiences at the Grand Saturday afternoon and evening, though the evening attendance was vastly better than that at the matinee. All present were, however, greatly pleased with the minstrels, the performance being a very creditable one. Mr. Quinlan acted as interlocutor, and the breezy bits of wit elicited by his questioning kept the house in continued laughter. As usual Keller Mark scored a big hit, and made himself solid with everybody. In fact, all the comedians and vocalists were of a high class, and their monologues, dialogues and songs, were new, clean and entertaining.

Saturday night's performance concluded the first week of legitimate vaudeville at the London, and it was a successful conclusion to a successful week. The performance, as usual, proved a pleasure to all, and the many ladies present went away convinced that Manager Fleming's promise to put on a clean show had been fully carried out. This week there will be a complete change of bill, and each and every turn is said to be high class.

"THE BILLIONAIRE" TONIGHT.

A Boston critic has this to say of Mr. Seabrooke in his production of "The Billionaire:" "Thomas Q. Seabrooke is a veritable host in himself. He is a comedian of distinctive talent and with his general atmosphere of largeness can afford to give lots of room to the other fellows and to the most elaborate and massive sort of scenery, without running into any danger of being overlooked in the crush. It is seemingly a matter of perfect indifference to Mr. Seabrooke whether the calcium follows him or not. His merry smile is an automatically working lime light that is always on his face, where a limelight properly ought to be, of course. He has an infectious chuckle of a laugh, a pair of extraordinary nimble legs at the other end of his torso, and the center of the stage is always where he happens to be standing. He doesn't need to look for it with a theodolite in order to get himself in evidence."

Theatergoers of this city will have a chance to see just how funny Mr. Seabroke is in "The Billionaire" at the Grand tonight.

JAS. J. CORBETT IN "PALS."

The comedy-drama success "Pals," with its carload of beautiful fireproof scenery, electrical and mechanical effects, a strong company of 20 people, headed by those clever stars, James J. Corbett, Hal Davis and Inez Macauley, will no doubt draw large crowds during the engagement at the Grand on Tuesday and Wednesday nights of this week. In these days, when the country is flooded with plotless farce-comedies and trashy, sensational plays of all descriptions, it is a relief to witness a play of this character. With its pure, homely humor, dramatic situations and natural acting, it gives the theatergoer a rest from that fast and furious kind of show and for those who like sensation, "Palls" has realistic scenes and startling climaxes that will surely give the necessary shivers.

MARIE WAINWRIGHT IN "TWELFTH NIGHT."

A gorgeous panorama of ever changing pictures passing in review—such is the revival of "Twelfth Night" which Manager Jules Murry will present here on Thursday night at the Grand, with Miss Marie Wainwright as Viola, and an all star cast in her support. This famous Shakespearean comedy has rarely, if ever, been seen in so complete and perfect a manner as it will be given here by Miss Wainwright. The best cast obtainable is engaged in the interpretation of all the characters. The best scenic artists and the finest designers painted the scenery and designed the costumes. The lighting and electric effects as well as the properties are by the best mechanics in the profession. And in Miss Wainwright, Mr. Murry certainly has not only the foremost Shakespearean actress, but the admittedly foremost exponent of the part of Viola. A special wire in charge of an expert operator has been placed in the Grand, over which the election returns will be received and announced before, during and after the performance on Nov. 3.

"COUSIN KATE" A LOVE STORY.

"Cousin Kate," the production at the Grand on Monday next, is described as a delightful love story, which in simplicity and charm fulfills the best traditions of English comedy. It took immediate hold on New York playgoers when produced at the Hudson Theater last season, and its great success there has been duplicated in every other engagement. A young woman who is called in to arrange the love affairs of a cousin and captures her cousin's fiance by means entirely honorable, furnished the main interest of the piece. It will be played here on Monday, Nov. 7, by Miss Rosalie Knott and Frank L. Perley's Company, including William Corbett, Joanne Madeira, Mrs. Charles W. Howard Smith, Augustin Daly Wilks and Lillian Hayne.

INKSTANDS HURLED

Tumultuous Times in the Spanish Chamber of Depaties.

Madrid, Oct. 31.—Prolonged tumultuous scenes have occurred in the Chamber of Deputies during the course of the debate on proposals for the prosecution of certain deputies. When the discussion was resumed Saturday, the disorders consequent on the opposition's obstructive tactics compelled a suspension of the sitting and the appointment of a secret committee to give judgment concerning insults exchanged during the debate. The sitting was subsequently resumed. The opposition repeatedly demanded roll calls on votes and the proceedings were heated and disorderly. The president, being threatened with personal violence, had to be protected by the clerks and attendants. The crucifix behind the president's chair was overturned by blows of sticks; all the writing material on adjacent desks was swept to the floor and inkstands were flung at the vice-president. Premier Maura was present on the ministerial bench from 7 o'clock in the evening, declaring he would not leave till the sitting adjourned, which did not occur till late last evening.

It is reported that Premier Maura will suspend the sittings and ask the chamber for a vote of confidence.
