PORCUPINE CAMP IN SPLENDID SHAPE

Big Increase in Gold Production Looked for This Year.

OPTIMISTIC FEELING

Power Trouble Cuts Down Development Work at Most Mines.

Not since the early days of the Porcupine camp has optimism been more apparent than during the last few days. With the return of the public's interest in mining, as reflected on the stock exchanges, Porcupine is preparing for what is expected to be the greatest year in its history. Producing companies, always anxious to have their stocks looked upon with favor, are making strenuous efforts to increase production and earnings in the face of a shortage of electric power. It is expected that this year's gold production will far exceed last year's record.

An underlying feeling of confidence, that has been dampened on several occasions, is again appearing in the camp. While an element is trying to create a boom in mining stocks in which no discrimination would be made between the good stocks and the poor, the more conservative mining men appreciate that such an attempt would be folly. It is realized that the time has passed when almost worthless stock can be foisted on the public, and that the investor will demand stock in companies with a reasonable chance of winning gold in paying quantities.

During the last few days several men in control of non-producing properties have made their appearance in the camp, some after an absence of years. Many of these men contemplate investing more money in development work. Others who have not the necessary funds are working out plans for the reorganization of their companies. As a result it is expected that in a short time several additions will be made to the list of producing companies if public support is given.

One feature that has helped to create the optimistic feeling in the camp is the success of the Dome Mines in treating low grade ore. This has led to the belief that there will be a broadening of the camp, and that properties with large low grade ore bodies will be favorably considered by the investing public alongside others with smaller bodies of high grade ore.

Practically all mines in the camp are being affected more or less by the shortage of electric power. In some instances development work has been cut down considerably and the available power used to hoist broken ore from the mine and to run the mill. There is little likelihood of a serious curtailment of the mill production of any mine, but the cost in some cases will be materially increased where steam power has been used to a great extent. It is hoped that with the spring break-up the power companies will be again able to supply the full contracted horsepower instead of the one-half, as at present, and that development work will go on as before.

Hollinger Reducing Costs.

Several improvements that are expected to decrease the cost of mining and milling are being installed at the Hollinger. At present eighty stamps are running at the Hollinger mill. Twenty of these are on ore from the Acme Gold Mines, Limited. An additional twenty stamps are being erected to treat Acme ore, and these will be dropping within a few days. The capacity of the sixty stamps on Hollinger ore is in the neighborhood of eight hundred tons a day. Two units of the new cyanide plant have been completed and the third will handle the slime from the additional twenty Acme stamps.

Altho development work on the Hollinger is about thirty feet below the 800 foot level, the attention of the management is being paid to sinking a central shaft on Acme property to handle ore from the Hollinger, Acme and Miller Middleton properties. The central shaft is now down some four hundred feet to the first level. Two other levels will be made at 800 and 1250 feet.

An electric tramway system on the 425 foot level was inaugurated two weeks ago. Instead of taking ore by hand cars from upper levels it is proposed to collect all the ore on the 425 foot level. This will mean a great saving in labor and should materially reduce mining costs. It is understood that electric tramways will also be installed on the 800 and 1250 foot levels when actual mining operations reach those depths.

First Acme Gold Brick.

Two weeks ago the first gold brick from Acme ore was turned out by the Hollinger refinery. The Acme gold mine is like the Hollinger, managed by the Canadian Mining and Finance Company. The Acme adjoins the Hollinger and is in the same system of veins. Work is now progressing on a new shaft house.

That the Acme will be a greater mine than the Hollinger is an opinion often expressed by mining authorities in Porcupine. The fact that the central shaft for the Hollinger, Acme and Miller Middleton will be on Acme property is said to be significant.

So far little work has been attempted by the Canadian Mining and Finance Company on the Miller Middleton property, altho it is thought to have wonderful possibilities. Underground work at the Hollinger is rapidly reaching the Miller Middleton and it is expected that within a short time the latter will be added to the list of producers in the Porcupine field.

Altho over six million dollars of gold has been recovered by the Hollinger during its three years of operation, only twelve of over fifty known ore bodies have been touched. As cross cutting and diamond drilling proceeds new bodies are being found. That at least some of these bodies reach a depth of nearly fifteen hundred feet has been ascertained.

Power Trouble at Dome.

Like other mines, Big Dome has been handicapped by the lack of power. For some time the steam auxiliary power plant has been working and fears are expressed that consequently the net earnings of the mine are being reduced. On the other hand, new cost reducing machinery is being constantly installed. Two large pumps, the first of their type in Canada, will be operating shortly. These pumps will replace elevators transmitting slime to different parts of the mill and it is expected they will increase the mill capacity several hundred tons a day without adding to labor costs.

Dome Mines is now considered the marvel of the Porcupine camp. The manner in which mining and milling costs are being gradually decreased and production increased has put the company in a favorable position. The ore bodies are for the most part large and low grade, but recently some encouraging finds of high grade ore have been made.

McIntyre Values Increase.

One of the remarkable features of the McIntyre is the persistence of comparatively high grade ore bodies. The latest discovery of importance has exceeded expectations. A high grade ore body was first encountered on the 400-foot level where drilling has been carried on for some two hundred feet. The vein has since been located on the 500-foot level by diamond drilling and has also been traced to almost the surface. Stoping on this vein will be started shortly and it is expected that the ore treated by the mill will then reach ma higher average.

At present the mill is handling 285 tons of ore a day. During the last few months the value of ore milled has been steadily increasing and according to a company official the prospects are good of the increase continuing.

Besides operating its steam auxiliary plant of the McIntyre is also deriving power from the Pearl Lake plant. At present attention is being paid particularly to puting in a new hoist on number four shaft to increase hoisting capacity. Number five shaft will be sunk from the 400 to the 500-foot level to take out ore from the new body and then number four shaft will be sunk from 600 to 700 feet. A central shaft is now under consideration.

Schumacher Building Mill.

Clearing operations have been started for the new ball and tube mill on the Schumacher. The mill will be capable of handling 150 tons a day and will be completed by August. Only a small force has been working lately, but development work reached a start on a third level. Some three or four thousand tons of ore has been taken out.

Depending entirely on power from the adjoining North Thompson plant to run the air compressors the number of drills underground on the Porcupine Vipond have been decreased from nine to four. Little or no development work is being attempted and attention is being given to hoisting broken ore. Before the power trouble became serious stoping was completed on one vein from the 200 to the 100-foot levels and plenty of ore is available for keeping the mill running full blast.

At the Dome Lake mines nothing of great importance has occurred recently, the mill running as usual. It is said that the property is proving up well and what underground work that has been done in the last few weeks is encouraging.

High-Grade at Crown.

Altho the Porcupine Crown mill is only treating eighty tons a day instead of 125 tons it is expected that the net result of the mine's operation in dollars and cents will be about the same in April as in previous months. Quite a large quantity of high grade ore was on hand, and this is being put thru the mill. It is estimated that over 80,000 tons of broken ore is ready for hoisting, which would keep the mill running for eight or nine months.

Practically no development work is being done except a winze from the 500 to 600 foot level. When power is again available about fifteen drills will be operated.

Considerable attention has been attracted by the high grade ore body found on the 300-foot level at the Rea Mines. The find was made during diamond drill operations by the Mines and Leasing Company. The vein is said to be ten feet in width. More holes are being driven and a cross-cut will be run to the new body. The ten-stamp mill is treating from 1100 to 1300 tons a month of ore averaging $12.

Putting in Machinery.

Plans have been completed for a big summer's work on the Porcupine Imperial property. H. L. Taylor has purchased a compressor plant for the mine and work will be started at once. If development work is satisfactory during the summer months it is not unlikely a stamp mill will be installed. Mining men are of the opinion that the Imperial property will add to the Porcupine gold production before long.

New Property Looks Good.

One of the new companies in the Porcupine field to come to the front is the Pike Lake Gold Mines Limited at Pike Lake in Deloro Township. Some exceptionally high grade ore has been encountered in developing the property. The vein runs about 18 feet in width. An assay from six feet of the vein showed an average of $68 a ton, another from 12 feet of the shaft $94.15 and a third from the surface across eight feet $16 a ton. Eight feet of the vein is high grade, assaying over $88 in gold and $6 in silver. Night and day gangs are working, and ore is being hand-picked. A shipment is expected soon. Several important bodies have been discovered, and mining men are prophesying big things for the property.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, April 9.—Wheat opened ⅛c to ¼c lower, oats ⅛c higher and flax unchanged to ½c higher. Following opening there was a fair advance in prices of wheat futures and light trading. The cash demand was poor, while there was a fair amount of offerings in both wheat and oats. There was no new business in exports, and bids are said to be about 3c out of line.

Inspections 417 cars against 402 last year, and in sight today 300 cars.

Wheat futures closed 1c to 1⅛c up, cash 1⅜c to 1⅞c up, oats ½c higher and flax ⅝c to 2⅛c down.

TWIN CITY EARNINGS.

Twin City earnings for the month of March increased $37,230. For the year to date, earnings increased $96,372, or at a rate of 4.47 per cent.

CANADA RUBBER.

It was not for lack of earnings that Canadian Rubber passed its common dividend some months ago, but because it needed the money that might have gone to the shareholders. The earnings on the common stock were over 10 per cent., against less than 9 per cent. the preceding year, as shown by the report published yesterday. The company has been hampered for working capital, which the new issue of over $1,000,000 preferred will supply.

PEARL LAKE REORGANIZATION.

Assignee G. T. Clarkson, who has charge of the affairs of the Pearl Lake Mining Co., which made an assignment to him some time ago, has called a meeting of shareholders for Monday next, when a proposition will be made for a reorganization. Shareholders are requested to have their stock registered before the day of the meeting.

THAT RISE IN BETHLEHEM.

Erickson Perkins to J. G. Beaty: "A rise of nearly 30 points in Bethlehem Steel common, and of about 8 in General Motors drew attention sharply to these issues. It seemed fairly obvious that some of the buying was to cover shorts, but there was a great deal besides this. Common stocks, on which it has been asserted that 20 to 50 per cent is being earned, naturally appeal to traders, even tho there is no promise of immediate dividends."

Improved business conditions in U. S. are reported by National Bank examiners in report to comptroller of currency.
