BASE BALL

ST. PETERS WON AGAIN.

The St. Peter's team, in an errorless game, last evening won from the St. Roses by a score of 3—0. The north end boys put up a great game, and a number of clever, snappy plays marked their work. The St. Roses had four errors, two of them by O'Keefe, which were costly.

Hodd pitched for St. Peters and Downing for St. Roses.

ST. JOHNS TO PRESQUE ISLE.

The St. Johns went to Presque Isle last evening and will play the Maine team this afternoon.

Martellos Defeat Jubilees.

The Martellos increased their lead by beating the Jubilees last evening 12 to 3 in the West End league. Murphy was in the box for the Jubilees but failed to hold the heavy hitting Martellos down. Connors, the Martellos' speedy shortstop, pitched a great game, holding the Jubilees to four hits. It was one of the fastest games of the season, the score standing 1 to 0 for four innings in favor of the Martellos.

BASEBALL NOTES

Giant Conroy has been sold by the Hartford Club of the Connecticut League to the Jacksonville team of the South Atlantic League.

Pitcher Combs, who helped Colby College win the Maine State College championship, is a typical minor college star. Coombs has played summer ball for a salary long enough not to be homesick when he begins work with the Athletics. —Portland Advertiser.

James J. Collins may never play baseball again. This is the discouraging information which comes from Philadelphia. James J. has been out of the game for several weeks with a bad knee.

The match race between Simassie and Terrace Queen has been substituted for the free-for-all event tomorrow.

A BATTLE OF GIANTS.

Indications all point to the greatest and closest trotting contest at Readville, July 4, ever witnessed on any track. It will be the first time that three trotters so evenly matched and with so fast records ever met in a race. That the owner of each horse has deposited $2,500 and that the whole $7,500 goes to the winner insures a contest for blood, and yet the honor of winning such a contest will give the owner of the victor far more satisfaction than will the $7,500.

Report says that all three of these fast, game trotters are in the best of condition. If they continue so until the day of the race and the weather is favorable the contest will be one that will remain fresh in the memory of every one who is so fortunate as to witness it so long as life lasts.

HORSE NEWS.

Sweet Marie, Tiverton and Wentworth are all reported in fine fettle and ready for a race for life.

W. J. Furbush has bought that good trotter Country Maid (2.22 3-4), by Country Cousin. She made her initial start last year and looks like a 2.12 mare.

The old-time trotter Arab (2.15) died several weeks ago at Harwich, Mass. Arab was one of the greatest trotters of the late 80s, and won 94 heats in his entire career. He was driven on the road by John Shepard up to a few years ago, when he was pensioned off. He was 28 years old.

Audubon Boy, 1.59 1-4, is in training at Readville Park, near Boston, where he gained his record last year. James Y. Gatcomb, owner of the stallion, is still trying to bring about a match race between Audubon Boy and Dan Patch, but the Westerner who owns the wind shield champion cannot be induced to put him against the New Hampshire race horse. Failing to arrange a race Gatcomb will start his horse against time in an attempt to lower his record.

Strange stories are sometimes told of the remarkable intelligence of horses, which in some cases seem incredible. The truth of the following, however, is vouched for by eye witnesses: "Dick Chalmers, the mail carrier between Warm Spring Creek and Ramsay, Mont., has usually had great difficulties to overcome on his route in the winter time on account of the heavy snow obstructing the roads. Now his work is comparatively easy, as he had snowshoes fitted to his horse, and not only trained him to walk upon them so lightly as not to break through the crust, but also to make the round trip daily unattended by a driver.

The owner of Snyder McGregor 2.05¼ wants to get into the 3 cornered race at Readville on July 4th, with Sweet Marie Tiverton and Wentworth, and it is said that as the other three are agreeable that the Snyder people will be accommodated.

The American mare Contralto, the Conqueror, won the Milan prize of 5000 francs at Milan, Italy, June 3rd, in the fast time of 2.09 1-5, 2.12. Wainscot second, Dulce Cor. 3rd, and Miss Sydney fourth.

At the Cleveland, O., track, the work outs the last week have been numerous but not fast, and the different candidates for the early stakes are being carefully and slowly prepared. The 2.12 1-4, 2.10 and 2.10 1-2 of Maud Keswick being the fastest. Alike Jay has trotted a mile in 2.11 1-4, Morning Star in 2.12, last quarter in 30 seconds. Major Delmar in 2.16 finished in 31. Harry Stinson gave the $6,000 colt Kentucky Todd (2 years) a quarter in 35 seconds. The grand circuit meeting at this track will pull off the Merchant's and Mechanic's $10,000 trot and the Chamber of Commerce $5,000, pace the Detroit star events as the Detroit meeting has been declared off.

Tiverton, 2.04 1-2 has been a mile over the Poughkeepsie track for John Howell in 2.13 1-2 the final quarter of which was trotted in 30 1-4 seconds.

A brother to Hazel Patch, 2.02 3-4, was foaled recently at Plymouth, Ill., where he is owned by Joseph Thomas, breeder of Hazel Patch.

A. H. Merrill, Danvers, Mass., has sold to R. Flowerday, Winnipeg, Man., the green pacing mare Miss Posey, by Baron Posey, out of a mare by Raven Wilkes. She is four year old and last season went a trial in 2.18 1-4 over a half-mile track.

The participants in the three-cornered match will soon be at Readville. Wentworth was shipped last week and the other two will probably arrive there this week.

FOWLER STILL AT IT

Among the list of stake entries for the Maine Central Fair to be raced the second week in September at Waterville, Me., S. A. Fowler, formerly of this city has an entry in the 2.20 trot, 2.28 pace, the three minute trot and three minute pace. The purse in each race is $300. The names of the horses are not given.

At Pittsfield on Saturday, Fowler's Will Patch was second in the 2.19 class, winning the first heat, taking second place in the next two and third place in the last heat. The purse was $150.

THE RING

TONIGHT'S BOUTS.

Abe Attell vs. Frankie Neil at Los Angeles, "Honey" Mellody vs. Willie Lewis at Lincoln Club, Chelsea; Jack Twin Sullivan vs. Jim Flynn at Pueblo, Calif.; Matty Baldwin vs. Charley Neary at Dayton, O.; Eddie Hanlon vs. "Kid" Sullivan at Baltimore; Dave Barry vs Jimmy Barry at La Salle, Ill.; Joe Bernstein vs. Benny Yanger at Davenport, Ia.; Billy Rhodes vs. Dick Fitzpatrick at Spokane, Wash.

TO MEET IN SEATTLE.

The ten-round bout between Mike Schreck and Tommy Burns, the heavyweight pugilists, will not be fought at Terre Haute, Ind., July 13, but instead will come off at Seattle, Wash., where they have been offered a guaranteed purse of $3,500 to fight on July 10. The matchmaker of the club at Terre Haute refused to post a forfeit that he would bring off the contest, but as the manager of the club at Seattle agreed to do so, the fighters decided to box in that city.

FIGHTER HAD JAW BROKEN.

GRAND RAPIDS Mich, June 29—Tommy Prendergast, of Saginaw had his jaw broken last night by Harry Lewis of Philadelphia in the fourth round of a scheduled ten round bout. Up to the moment Prendergast was knocked out he seemed to have the advantage. In the third round the bell saved Lewis from being counted out.

FOOTBALL

British Team Coming to Canada.

Montreal, July 3—The Star's London correspondent cables: One of the strongest football teams ever got together leaves by the S. S. Victorian on August 2. The first match will be played in Montreal on August 11. The team will also play in Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton, Galt and London. It will be captained by Wreford Brown and there will be five other internationals on it, namely: Vassall, Day, Corbett, Harris and Morgan Owen. Also Rowlandson, the famous Sunderland goal keeper; Timmins, one of the best backs in England; Page Craig, the Cambridge halfback; May, of Cambridge; Foster, of Oxford, and Willett, of Charterhouse, will be with the team. A newspaper guarantees the team against loss.

EVERYONE GETS A SEAT

Opera Chairs are also Furnished Patrons of the Barnum & Bailey Circus.

One of the announcements of the Barnum & Bailey circus that attracts particular attention is the statement that a seat and a foot-rest are furnished every purchaser of a ticket for the big show. What this means need not be explained to anyone who recalls the discomfort and crowding attendant upon a visit to the ordinary circus.

"One important feature of the Barnum & Bailey seating plan," said an agent of the big show, "is the fact that every ticket issued, whether reserved or not, has a coupon. Where a seat is not reserved in advance, the admission coupon does not call for a specific seat, but entitles the holder to a certain section. Each of these sections has accommodations for a certain number of visitors, and as only sufficient tickets to fill them are sold, there is never any possibility of overcrowding. In the seats ordinarily furnished by circuses to those purchasing admission tickets only, visitors are compelled to dangle their legs uncomfortably in the air, or to excite the resentment of others by resting their feet on the seats in front. At the same time the man who is thus taking advantage of his neighbor to rest his feet, has the annoyance of suffering the same infliction from those behind. By the new foot-rest scheme inaugurated by Barnum & Bailey all this discomfort and cause of ill-feeling is obviated. Every seat has an extra board on which to rest the feet. This means the carrying of just double the old number of planks, but the show has had its reward in the increased comfort and consequent satisfaction of the public."

"This reform in the seating arrangements of the show also extends to the higher-priced seats, formerly, the reserved seats were nothing more than the ordinary blue boards covered with a piece of carpet. Then came the crude slap-down seat, which is still retained by other shows. The Barnum & Bailey show has some of the slap-down seats, but they are of an improved pattern and are sold at an intermediate price. The best reserved numbered seats are modern, up-to-date, comfortable opera chairs, placed upon a platform so solidly and substantially constructed that a child could play hide and seek on it without danger of injury. The Barnum & Bailey circus is the only traveling show in the world that furnishes seats of this character, and while it means the employment of many more men to handle them and the utilization of several extra railway cars to carry the paraphernalia the cost has been more than justified."

There is little doubt that those who witness the performance of the Barnum & Bailey circus when the big show exhibits in St. John, July 20, will have their enjoyment enhanced by the management's careful preparation for their comfort and safety. The show, it is announced, will present all the new features here, just as seen in New York during the opening engagement of the season. These include the "Dip to Death," the aerial automobile sensation; the "Two Twirls of Terror," in which mid-air somersaults are turned by daring wheelmen; the new "Peace" spectacle, and a long list of riding, acrobatic, aerial and trained animal novelties.

MR. TWEEDIE DENIES RUMORS

Hon. L. J. Tweedie was at the Royal yesterday on his way to Fredericton to attend a meeting of the government. Mr. Tweedie emphatically denies the report that he will retire in the near future. He also declared that there would be no general election before the local house meets next year. As to the rumors that important cabinet changes were imminent Mr. Tweedie said they were unfounded and reconstruction had not been thought of. In reply to a further question as to when the Restigouche election would be held, the premier said no date had been fixed.

He added also that in view of the conference with the provincial premiers, which it was expected Sir Wilfrid Laurier would call soon after the session closed, he had considered it better not to fix any date until he was certain he could be present.

Rev. Charles McLaughlin left yesterday for his home in Mill Cove, Queens county, to spend a vacation.

Mrs. Thomas Coggar and Mrs. John Coggar, of this city, accompanied by Mrs. Patrick Coggar, of Norton, left yesterday morning on the pilgrimage to St. Anne de Beaupre.

THE INGLE NOOK PHILOSOPHER OF KENNEBECCASIS BAY

When Pollard and I go a trout fishing we go unarmed except with our pipes, tobacco and walking sticks, for the trout is an inoffensive brother. Even under provocation he never becomes belligerent; he never was accused of murder, arson, burglary, graft or any petty crimes; when charges of this nature are brought against him and his guilt is established we will be justified in jerking him out of his element and broiling him on a griddle. Self preservation demands the total extinction of all public enemies, such as potato bugs, mosquitoes, dishonest public officials, grafters of every stripe, food adulterators, big and little, swindlers of every sort (they differ only in their opportunities) and all such minor criminals as murderers, incendiaries, burglars and train wreckers.

When Pollard and I go a trout fishing we seat ourselves on a rustic bridge that spans the stream that winds through the meadows a hundred rods or so west of the house, and load our pipes. We smoke awhile in silence, and then Pollard draws from his pocket a sardine box filled with potato bugs and empties its contents into the pool under the bridge. The trout rise slowly, glance at the bugs disgustedly and then turn a reproachful look toward Pollard and I.

"Our spotted brother isn't to be fooled," says Pollard, "with beef trust sausages, veal loaf, corned beef or any similar abomination. A good many of us are more deficient in common sense and many of the qualities that make a man a man than this legless and armless brother."

Then Pollard draws a biscuit from his pocket and tosses it into the pool. A whole family of trout at once gathers about it and cast gratified glances at Pollard and I as they dine. "That biscuit is a superfluity," says Pollard. "The trout being a native, like the squirrel, the rabbit, the porcupine, the deer, the moose and the bear, nature provides him with all of his necessities. We are exotics; so are all our domestic animals; they are there through compulsion just as are the Africans in the southern United States; therefore the horse, the ox, the sheep and their domestic kindred are our slaves. Selfishly we provide them with provender and shelter, just as the master provides his human slave with provender and shelter, but if our provision is insufficient, or if our treatment of these servants is tyrannical, if there is justice in this world or the next we will have our reward."

We refill our pipes and stroll down the stream, while Pollard resumes his discourse. "It is strange," says he, "how with our ages of experience we know so little more than our finny, furry and feathery brethren. They can provide for and protect themselves in their native habitat against every enemy except the universal enemy, man, while we of the so-called higher order, are often unable to do as much. That they think, reason and perhaps are immortal, is now almost universally acknowledged. Ex. U. S. minister to Spain and president of the World's Columbian Exposition, T. W. Palmer, of Cleveland, Ohio, recently wrote in Our Dumb Animals, of the educated horse, Jim Key, which is owned in his city:

"I went out to the stable one morning and asked his attendants to step back out of his sight. I then asked Jim Key to do a sum in arithmetic. He said he would do it. I then asked him how much five times six less four was, and quicker than an ordinary child of twelve or fourteen years could do it he hunted out the figures twenty-six. No one knew what I was going to ask, nor I, myself, thirty seconds before I propounded the sum. If this was not done by logical process, how was it done? I am thoroughly convinced that the horse reasons. I then asked him to spell the name of a friend whom he had never heard of. He did that."

We had reached the border of the meadows where the stream turns abruptly to the east, and rushing over boulders and ledges through a narrow gorge, precipitates itself into the bay. "This is not the brook where we fished the other day," said Pollard. "The wheels of the mill are never turned by the water that has passed. It will not be you and I who come there a-fishing by and bye."
