Legislative Council.

(From the Toronto Globe.)

WEDNESDAY, July 30.

[illegible]

Hon. J. Morris moved the second reading of the Bill for the relief of the Estate of the late Thomas Clark. This bill, said the hon. gentleman, was introduced by large and influential petition. It was a matter of no great importance to the country, but it was a matter of great importance to the parties concerned. The property adjudicated upon was the property of a lunatic, who had been confined in the Lunatic Asylum for many years. The property was not large, but it was sufficient to support the family of the lunatic, and prevent their becoming a charge upon the country. The property was left by will to his children, but the will was defective, and it was necessary that the property should be sold, and the money invested for the benefit of the children
