French Court of Cassation Almost Ready for Decision.

Paris, Jan. 20. — Attorney-General Baudoin, before the court of cassation, yesterday, finished the examination of the Dreyfus appeal. The court is listening to his presentation of facts and will immediately appoint a recorder to prepare its decision. It is learned that the attorney-general's report is favorable to Dreyfus, following the view adopted by the court, which recommended a revision of the case. The decision of the court of cassation, which is not expected for some weeks, will undoubtedly be in favor of Dreyfus.

TORONTO PERSONATION

Deputy Returning Officer Thompson Before the Magistrate.

Toronto, Jan. 20. — Crown Attorney Curry said yesterday that no further arrests would be made in the election personation cases, but that proceedings would be initiated by summons against other parties. He said a summons would issue at once for ex-Ald. Burns, charged with voting more than once illegally.

The trial of Samuel Thompson, the deputy returning officer, charged with fraudulent voting for controllers, was opened about noon, and it is charged that 23 votes were recorded for men who did not vote, and it is now said that to balance things twenty blank ballots were cast for the board of education.

Thompson's counsel contended that this was not a case for the magistrate, and an adjournment was made till Monday. Crown Attorney Curry made a statement afterwards that an examination of the ballots in Thompson's poll showed about 25 or 28 to have been cast for Richardson as controller, by one man. About the same number of ballots for aldermen had been cast by the same man for aldermen, voting for S. W. Burns and S. Alfred Jones. And about the same number of blank ballots had been cast for the board of education. He thought these had all been turn off in bunches. The summons for ex-Ald. Burns has already been issued. The police are examining the others in subdivision 3 of ward 3, where Maguire was D. R. O., and Curry is awaiting their report. He says the ballots in this booth for Loudon look very peculiar Loudon got 108 votes, and the next man only 35.

THE BURIAL OF SCOTT

The Story of Riel's Crimes Made Public by a Witness.

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 20.—The secret of the disposal of the remains of Thos. Scott, Riel's victim, has been revealed by a rebel lieutenant after thirty-four years' silence.

This man, who is today a well-known Manitoban, met Mr. MacFarlane, who was a Hudson Bay Company factor at the time of the rebellion, at the funeral of Pierre Deschambault yesterday, and divulged to Mr. MacFarlane that after Scott's murder a grave was dug within the fort and a coffin supposed to contain the body was lowered in the grave, but Scott's remains were not in that coffin. After the mock interment the body was dragged by a few trusty men to the bank of the Red River, and at a point near where the Broadway bridge now stands, was put through a hole in the ice and sunk by means of a weight tied about the neck.

MARLBOROUGH HAS TACT

He Softens Effects of Lyttleton's Blundering Speech.

London, Jan. 20.—At the annual dinner of the Canada Club, at which Lord Strathcona presided, the guests included Sir James Thomas Ritchie, lord mayor of London; Lords DuCannon, Hillingdon and Linchfield, Sir Rivers-Wilson and others.

Colonial Secretary Lyttleton ruffled the feelings of Canadians present by upholding in a speech Lord Chief Justice Alverstone's recent ruling in the Alaska boundary case.

The Duke of Marlborough, under secretary of state for the colonies, spoke a little later, and succeeded in smoothing matters over by a tactful speech, in which he recalled his visit to Canada, paid a tribute to Canadians with their love of the late Queen Victoria. He mentioned his personal experiences in South Africa, where, he said, he witnessed the bravery and resourcefulness of the Canadian troopers. The duke concluded his remarks amid great applause, with an eulogistic toast to the maple leaf and all it implies to Canadians.

IN FREEDOM LIES LASTING BOND

Premier Says Self-Government Breeds Patriotism.

OUR EMPIRE IS FOR PEACE

The Giving of the Treaty-Making Power Will Strengthen the Tie Which Binds.

Ottawa, Jan. 20.—The Canadian Club banquet held in this city was a success. The Canadian Club movement was begun in Hamilton some years ago, and has since become well grounded in the Capital City. Present at the banquet were Lord Minto, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. Mr. Borden, leader of the Opposition, and Mr. W. R. P. Parker, president of the Canadian Club of Toronto. Sir Wilfrid was in excellent form, and received an enthusiastic greeting. In closing the Premier was eloquent, and said:

"I cannot hope that I shall see much of the development which the future has in store for my country, but whenever my eyes shall be closed to the light it is my wish, it is my only hope, that they shall close upon Canada united in all its elements, united in every particular element, cherishing the traditions of its past, and all uniting in cherishing still more hope for the future."

In opening his address Sir Wilfrid was happy in his references to his opponent, Mr. Borden, and then turning to the questions of the day, he alluded to the growth of the Dominion and to the fact that the influx of Canadians to the United States had stopped and the tide of humanity had set back again. He had no fear of the Americanization of the Canadian Northwest, and believed that under the good laws existent the American who came in would turn to be a good Canadian and his children turn out better Canadians than himself.

Continuing, the Premier said in part: "There are two policies before us. There is the policy of concentration, and there is the policy of what we call decentralization, or rather local autonomy. In England there is a school which has some supporters in this country, which would draw the colonies into the orbit in which the mother country revolves as a European power, and would make us share not only the blessings of its institutions at home, but also the burdens, which naturally we would be called upon to share.

"The prototype of that school, which they often bring before us, is the prototype of the Roman Empire, but in my conception and my reading of history there is no parallel in this respect between the Roman Empire and the British Empire.

"For my part, I ventured to express a few weeks ago the opinion that the time would come when we would require our own treaty-making power. I know too well the occasion of this gathering to enter into the discussion of such a topic. This is not a political organization, and if I were to discuss such a question I am inclined to think that my friend Mr. Borden would take the counterpart. I do not know that this is his idea upon this matter, but I am sure that we can both agree that we may well reserve the discussion for the House of Commons, which shall meet in a few weeks from today. I referred to this matter, however, only to say that it has been asserted somewhere that the concession of the treaty-making power would mean the severance of the colonial tie. It is against that idea that I wish to protest. In my estimation, whenever the granting of power is necessary to such a colony as Canada, as Australia, as New Zealand, or any of the great self-governing colonies of the British Empire, to carry on their own laws for the development of their own interests, instead of lessening will simply strengthen the tie which binds us to the parent state. (Applause.) This has been the history of the past; it may be the history of the future."

BEST WAY TO REAR HEALTHY CHILDREN

DEVELOP THEIR STRENGTH WITH FERROZONE, WHICH MAKES RICH BLOOD, HARDY MUSCLES, STEADY NERVES.

Children brought up on Ferrozone are known by their strong, rugged frames, their chubby cheeks and healthful appearance. Mothers find it an indispensable tonic and body builder, and in thousands of homes no other remedy is used.

Mrs. E. Montgomery, of Pittsburg, writes: "A little niece came to visit me, and noticing her pale looks and haggard looks, I started her on a course of Ferrozone. The change that girl underwent in a few weeks was marvelous. Her appetite chirped up, she had more spirit and strength and a rosy color came into her cheeks that I never saw there before. I weighed my niece about the time she started to pick up, and in seven weeks she gained almost eight pounds, and just looked the picture of health. I think this should be an example to many mothers, and I hope that others will try Ferrozone for their little boys and girls. I am thoroughly convinced that it's the most strengthening tonic. It has my strongest indorsement."

Every Child Improves on Ferrozone.

The reason Ferrozone works so beneficially with children is that it acts directly on their blood, freeing it of all unhealthy matter, at the same time giving it an additional supply of iron. This at once results in more strength, new spirit and renewed vitality. Just one tablet at meal time works wonders.

You must be sure to get Ferrozone. Refuse to accept any article the druggist may say is just as good. Get what you ask for, Ferrozone, and the result we guarantee will be satisfactory. Price 50c, per box or six boxes for $2 50. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U. S. A.

BARNACLES AND THE BUCCANEERS

Premier Ross' Reply to Leader Whitney.

THOSE WAVES OF INDIGNATION

How the Conservatives Were Submerged—The "Vituperative Petrel" and Others.

Toronto, Jan. 20. — Premier Ross' reply to Opposition Leader Whitney's criticism on Monday will long be recalled as a powerful and brilliant effort.

Coming to discuss the matters before him, Mr. Ross observed that, though his honorable friend (Mr. Whitney), had come fresh from his home after a long period of well-earned repose, he yet was unable to bring to the House much new matter. (Laughter and applause). He had not cultivated originality of speech to any great extent. What was told was as untrue in many respects as what was new, it reminded him of an observation by Sir John Macdonald of the Government's address during Mackenzie's first Parliament: "It is all the same old Brown stuff." (Laughter).

WAVES OF INDIGNATION.

Mr. Whitney had said a wave of indignation had passed over the country. "Well, who had seen that wave? Where had it passed? Just let us look over the field," Mr. Ross said, in a bantering tone. "We have had eight bye-elections since the general election of May, 1902. Of these the Liberals have carried five and the Conservative party has carried three. (Applause). Five waves landed our men, our candidates in this House, as against three of these little inconsequential and unimportant waves which my honorable friend calls the great wave of indignation. (Laughter and cheers). What a wave of indignation passed over N. Perth! Barely carried by the Conservatives—practically by one vote, and that a personator's vote, in the general election—and in the bye-election carried by the Liberals by 206. That was a wave of Liberal indignation. My honorable friend forgot about that wave. (Applause). North Grey was carried by four in the general election and by 272 in the bye-election. He forgets about that other wave. North York, carried by a trifle over 200 in the general elections, and by between 400 and 500 in the bye-election. He forgets about that wave. (Applause). North Norfolk was carried by the Conservatives in the general election, and by the Liberals by about 100 in the bye-election. Then the Sault, carried by the Conservatives by 196 at the general elections, and reversed with a majority of over 150 in the bye-election. (Applause). These waves of indignation submerged my honorable friend, submerged him and an immense number of his supporters. He had in North Perth 4 persons who went to assist in preventing that wave, and yet the wave rolled proudly on. (Loud laughter). Take North Norfolk, where did my honorable friend from North Toronto (Dr. Nesbitt), find himself when the billows rolled over his head? (Laughter). In Center Bruce my honorable friends held their own. I don't object to that. We cannot have all the good things on this side of the House. Enough is as good as a feast. We have enough. (Cheers).

MUSKOKA AND NORTH RENFREW

Mr. Ross went on to say that the Liberals had been beaten in Muskoka, but under peculiar circumstances. He then read from a circular which Mr. Mahaffy used in the riding, in which he promised to advocate larger grants to roads. That was a powerful weapon in that riding. He had also promised cheaper school books, and the retention of the timber for the settlers. The Government lost the riding, perhaps from those things; perhaps there were some subsidiary influences. North Renfrew was a capricious riding, and had gone to each party about alternately. But we were told it was the man from Manitoulin who carried it; he said so himself. (Hear, hear). His honorable friend had said Mr. Gamey was more popular than the Government. Then he must be more popular than his honorable friend, for he accomplished what the Opposition leader could not accomplish. Still, they did not think Mr. Gamey worthy enough to be used to introduce a member into this House.

At this point Mr. Whitney laughed loudly.

"I have said enough to show that the wave of indignation is not a wave at all," Mr. Ross added. "All parties have reverses occasionally. We take our defeat as we take our victory.

PUNISHING CORRUPTION.

In regard to West Elgin a thorough investigation had been held and one hundred and seventeen witnesses examined. The law had been amended to cover the case of crimes which were not then embraced in the statutes. More than twenty persons had been fined or imprisoned for corrupt practices.

I venture to say that no Government in the history of Canada ever suffered so much as this Government has done from want of fair play and generous appreciation on the part of its opponents.

THE BARNACLE ARTICLE.

"As to the quotations which my honorable friend gave us from the party press," Mr. Ross continued, "there are some newspapers that do not see things as we do. There are some things that we do not see as the public newspapers do. That is all. The Globe published an article commonly called the 'barnacle article,' which hits honorable gentlemen opposite pretty hard. My honorable friend did not read all that.

Mr. Whitney—Read it now.

Mr. Ross—I have got the floor. My honorable friend can read it the next time he makes a political speech. The World has hit my honorable friend hard, and I think the Toronto Telegram has hit him hard, and I think some other Tory papers have hit him hard. What matters it? One swallow doesn't make a summer. The Globe wrote an article as they had a perfect right to express their opinion as freely as any person. I would as soon disagree with the Globe as with any other paper if I thought the Globe was wrong. I do not look upon the Globe as infallible, any more than I look upon my honorable friend or my nearest friend as infallible. The Globe wrote an article I would not have written if I were writing an article about the Ontario Government. (Laughter). I would sooner have a few barnacles on the vessel than a pirate on board the ship. (Loud laughter and cheers.) Many a good ship of the line sails the untrodden seas with a few barnacles, and lands safe in port with a precious and noble cargo, but very few ships with pirates on board and unskillful captains land at the desired haven.

A VITUPERATIVE PETREL.

"My honorable friend has been long at sea and has failed to come to that haven of refuge which he has so long sought. He has a crew that are, I suppose, as anxious to reach the desired haven as he is himself. Notwithstanding the captain's efforts, she is still in the trough of the sea. She is waterlogged. (Cheers.) The cargo she carries has brought her below the waterline by two or three feet more or less. (Renewed cheers.) The crew are always mutinous against the captain. Some day the ship will be scuttled; the ship will go down; the wave of indignation which the angry storms roll up will overwhelm them. (Applause.) Then there will be peace in the Province of Ontario. Then this stormy petrel that goes out to constituencies with his stock of vituperation and brings to them some lieutenants that are not too much appreciated by some of his followers, this stormy petrel will have a rest, and the country will have a rest, and the House will meet in its usual way, will vote supplies, will pass legislation, will be prorogued by the Lieutenant-Governor, as ordinary houses are properly prorogued, and the honorable gentleman will not find that wave of indignation which he claims has rolled over our vessel."

The conclusion of the Premier's address was the signal for a remarkable outburst of enthusiasm among his supporters, and on the adjournment of the House they swarmed about him to extend congratulations.
