sions on business written as well as the agent?" asked Mr. Hughes.

"No."

"Did you get any share of your son's commissions on foreign business?"

"No, sir; not a cent."

"Or of your son-in-law's commissions?"

"None whatever."

Mr. Hughes asked why applicants for loans on policies to the home office were referred to C. H. Raymond and Company. Mr. McCurdy said they were not, but were referred to the policy department. "If you wish to imply, does any one receive any commission on loans on policies? I would answer distinctly 'no,' he said.

Taking up the real estate of the company, witness was asked where he made his winter residence. He said it was the Grosvenor apartment on Fifth-avenue. This house is owned by the Mutual Life. A statement of the return on the investment in the apartment was asked for and Mr. Hughes was about to leave the subject when Mr. Beck, counsel for the Mutual Life, protested and said it was not fair to Mr. McCurdy to lead up to his occupancy of an apartment in the building, and then not give him an opportunity to testify as to whether he paid a fair rental for it.

To Save Trouble.

A letter from the Mutual Life to an applicant for insurance, referring him to Raymond and Company, because the application came from the district covered by the Metropolitan agency, was read. McCurdy said this was a matter of convenience to the applicant. Asked why he gave the agency the opportunity to make a large commission when there was machinery at the home office to care for applicants for insurance, witness said all applicants for information do not take out insurance, and they were referred to the agency for the information they desire. If the agency writes the policy, he said, it is entitled to the commission. McCurdy denied that he abolished free lance agents in the Metropolitan district, and referred such agents, with their business, to Raymond and Company, after Louis A. Thebaud became a partner of that firm. It brought out that Mr. Thebaud was in charge of the department of agents that handled the exceptionally large risks before he became a partner.

NEED PROPER INTERPRETATION.

King-Emperor Says Declarations Will Prove Full Understanding.

Budapest, Hungary, Oct. 18.—In an autograph letter to General Baron Fejervary gazetted to-day, the emperor-king says that as it has not been found possible to form a new Hungarian cabinet from the ranks of the coalition party, Baron Fejervary has been re-appointed premier so as to provide for the conduct of the affairs of state on a responsible and constitutional basis.

Referring to his declarations to the leaders of the coalition party his majesty says that if they are properly interpreted they will show a complete understanding between the crown and the nation regarding the independence guaranteed by the constitution.

A LADY LECTURER

Feeds Nerves and Brains Scientifically.

A lady lecturer writes from Philadelphia concerning the use of right food and how she is enabled to withstand the strain and wear and tear of her arduous occupation. She says:

"Through improper food, imperfectly digested, my health was completely wrecked, and I attribute my recovery entirely to the regular use of Grape-Nuts food. It has, I assure you, proved an inestimable boon to me.

"Almost immediately after beginning its use, I found a gratifying change in my condition. The terrible weakness that formerly prostrated me after a few hours of work was perceptibly lessened by a few days' use of Grape-Nuts and is now only a memory—it never returns.

"Ten days after beginning it I experienced a wonderful increase in mental vigor and physical energy, and continued use has entirely freed me from the miserable insomnia and nervousness from which I used to suffer so much.

"I find Grape-Nuts very palatable and would not be without the crisp, delicious food for even a day on any consideration. Indeed, I always carry it with me on my lecture tours."

There's a reason.

HAMILTON WOMAN'S FATE ELECTROCUTED IN CELLAR

Light Wire Extension in House is Overcharged and Communicates Shock Which is Fatal.

Hamilton, Oct. 18.—(Special.)—Mrs. William Aldridge, 397 North Wentworth-street, met death in a most peculiar way this afternoon, the particulars being exactly parallel to a case occurring in Toronto a year or so ago. She was electrocuted by a current from the wire of an ordinary extension electric house light. Just how it happened is not known. Her husband, who is a carter, left home at 1 o'clock this afternoon and returned at 4 o'clock. He went to the cellar for something, and the first thing he knew he got an electric shock that threw him off his feet. When he got up he discovered that he had stepped on the electric light wire. A short time afterwards he was horrified to find the dead body of his wife lying on the floor across the wire. She had evidently taken hold of the wire to carry the lamp, and got a shock that caused her death. The only marks on her body were slight burns on her thumb and two fingers where she had grasped the wire. There was apparently an extraordinarily high voltage on the wire. Just across the road in the cellar of the Stockyards Hotel the wires set fire to the hotel. Dr. A. E. Hilker was summoned by Mr. Aldridge as soon as he discovered his wife, but he found that the woman had been dead some time. Coroner Balfe was notified, and he will hold an inquest.

More Mistaken Identity.

The police say to-night that they have located Mrs. O'Connor or Blake, who was thought to be the victim of the Barton murder at Guelph.

Mrs. White, 22 Gore-street, still sticks to her belief that the murdered woman was Mrs. O'Connor. Several of her neighbors have come forward to support her story. U. Lane and Jack Almas, who knew Mrs. O'Connor well, are both satisfied that she was the victim. So is the family of Mrs. Dingwall, 100 Merrick-street, with whom the woman roomed for a week. She was supposed to have worked at the Holmsted, but none of the servants there recognized the body as anyone they knew. This, however, has not prevented Detective Greer from investigating the story. He has discovered that more than one woman went under the name of Mrs. O'Connor. Detective Greer has found that Gimble Bros., whose name was stamped on the corsets worn by the victim, have departmental stores in Philadelphia, New York and Milwaukee.

Policeman Fined.

The police commissioners to-day fined P. C. Barrett $20 for a little skip he made. P. C. Hansen was acquitted on the charge of insubordination. The commissioners said they would see that a new stable was erected near No. 3 police station early next spring. The chief submitted amendments to the bylaw regulating pawn shops. He says that the officers have to spend too much time in them now searching for missing goods.

LONDON MAN'S SUICIDE.

London, Oct. 18.—(Special.)—Fergus McDonald committed suicide at Port Stanley to-day.

He was an expert accountant, living here for many years. His failing was strong drink, and he had upon one occasion been a patient at the insane asylum.

This afternoon he jumped from the pier at Port Stanley. He had been acting strangely. The body did not sink, and was recovered in a few minutes, but life was extinct when taken from the water by the crew of the tug Maxie.

REVENUE WILL DEMAND PROTECTION

Richard Jebbs of London, Friend of Chamberlain, on Canadian Tour.

Ottawa, Oct. 18.—Richard Jebbs of London, Eng., the well-known writer on colonial and imperial topics, is in the city.

He is on a tour of Canada, and was here six years ago. He is a supporter of Joseph Chamberlain, but while a Conservative in politics he thinks the Balfour government doomed. The Liberals will have a big majority, but without a constructive platform it will go to pieces in a few years, when fiscal reform will triumph.

The urgent necessity for revenue will do much to bring about a measure of protection.

BURGLAR SCARE IN BANK TRAVELERS TO THE RESCUE

Exciting Midnight Incident at Wingham, Wherein Certain Drummers Join in a Man Hunt.

Wingham, Oct. 18.—(Special.)—Shortly after midnight the safety alarm bell in the local bank, which sounds only when the vault is opened, started to ring. Three ladies occupy apartments above the bank, and in less than a minute they had their heads out of the windows, and were screaming for help. All the town lights were out.

The night clerk of the Queen's Hotel heard the noise and awoke a number of travelers, who quickly surrounded the bank. The manager was sent for, and a thoro search was made of the premises from cellar to garret, but no trace of a "Raffles" could be found.

Finally it was found that the alarm was caused by a short circuit of the wires.

But the fact remains that Herb Kerr, Jack Crofton, Louis Hannah, Percy Williams and Copland Evans were welcome reinforcements to the town police force.

Crofton led the way with a dumbbell, and the police magistrate carried a lantern.

SON OF LORD ROSEBERY HERE.

Hon. Neil Primrose Visits Toronto on a Tour of Education.

Hon. Neil Primrose, younger son of Lord Rosebery, arrived in the city yesterday, and is stopping at the King Edward. He is a young man, in his 23d year, and is traveling alone on a tour thru Canada, with the general object of broadening his ideas, and with the view of preparing himself for the parliamentary career upon which he is designed to enter. Quiet, unassuming, and with an attractive personality, the son of Great Britain's former prime minister has created most favorable impressions thruout his tour thus far. At Montreal he addressed the students of Laval University, not as one who had advice to give, as he frankly said, but merely in the manner of a young man among others of his age, who were just beginning life.

His entry yesterday was of the quietest, and few were aware that the descendant of so distinguished a sire had arrived. He was dined informally by T. G. Blackstock and George W. Beardmore in the evening, and carefully avoided publicity. It is probable that he will remain in Toronto for a day or two, at least, and he may be called upon by one of the university faculties to speak a few words to students here.

SMALL BOY HAS "COFFEE HEART"

Child of Eight Is in City Hospital Slowly Regaining Health.

HEART BEATS TOO FAST

Muscle Was Wearing Itself Out —Drank a Dozen Cups a Day.

Excessive coffee drinking, City Hospital physicians say, is the cause of little Johnnie Murphy's heart disease. Altho only 8 years old, he has one of the worst cases of heart lesion that have ever come to the institution.

When he entered the hospital the child's heart was beating 150 to the minute, just twice the normal rate for a child of his age. For one month he has had no coffee and his heart action has been reduced to 100 beats a minute.

For two years the child has been drinking from nine to twelve cups of strong coffee every day. He began to complain of pains as if needles were sticking in his heart, and for a year has slept scarcely three hours a night, and then only when sitting propped up in a chair beside an open window.

Johnnie did not care for things to eat; coffee was all the food he craved, and except when cake or candy was given him, he took no other nourishment. As he was sick and not expected to recover, he was given all the coffee he desired until a physician saw him and advised that he be sent to the city hospital.

HEART WAS OVERWORKED.

Every beat of the child's heart could be plainly seen. To one inexperienced in medicine, it would seem that the heart extended over two-thirds of the chest region, and the pulsation is of a heavy prolonged character, quite different from the sharp, quick beat of the normal heart.

The boy is small for his age, and efforts of physicians have been to build up his strength. His treatment has been largely tonics and heart regulating medicines, such as strophantus or digitalis.

As the heart, like other muscles, can stand only a given amount of work, hospital interines estimate that the 60 beats a minute he is now being saved by his abstinence from coffee will prolong his life 10 or 12 years.

The heart of a man who dies at 70 years has beaten 260 million times, and if the normal beat is 72, little Johnny Murphy was living twice as fast as any normal person. When he first entered the hospital physicians freely prophesied that he could only live a few weeks. Under the treatment and total abstinence from coffee he has so improved that his chances for a long life are considered good if the heart lesion and degeneration already set up can be healed.

He is the son of John Murphy of 116 South Fourteen-street. Mrs. Murphy told the physicians that none of her other children had showed signs of heart disease nor had they a marked fondness for coffee.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

Literally thousands of people suffer more or less from heart weakness caused by coffee, and with some even one cup a day will bring on heart trouble.

The heart that has been only slightly attacked by coffee will protest and make its weak condition known under slight exertion, and it is plainly a dangerous condition to get into. It is a curious fact that coffee does not always attack the heart, but goes after the stomach, liver and bowels of some and leaves the heart alone.

It is plainly classed as an active toxic and its work shows somewhere on most users. It is easy to rid one's self of the habit by using well-brewed Postum Coffee. The change in symptoms is shown in a day or two as a rule, and that change shows the user to a certainty that coffee was the destroyer.

It is useless to warn some people, even when it is easy to quit and be well again. So they peg along, sick and miserable, charging their ails to "food" "east wind," "heredity," and what not, until some day the stroke comes when abused nature reaches the limit. It's easy to be well if one cares for the joy of health. One of the plain, sure, well-built and well-kept highways with signboards on each side, is the Postum route.

There's a reason.

R. J. FLEMING A WITNESS TELLS OF WEARING RAILS

Rockwood Inquest is Again Adjourned—Evidence as to Cars and Tracks.

The adjourned inquest concerning the death of Cyrus Rockwood, who, when riding his wheel, was killed by a car which jumped the track at the corner of Queen and McCaul-streets on the morning of the 10th inst., did not conclude last night. Proceedings were adjourned for the presence of other witnesses who were out of town—notably Rail Inspector Parke.

Motorman Dean was again present, T. C. Robinette, K.C., was advocate, informed the coroner that Dean was quite willing to come forward again if the jury wished to ask him any questions. The offer was not embraced.

Two more passengers were called, Samuel Hall said that the car went fairly slow on College-street, but it went quicker down McCaul; near Queen, he thought the car was going fast. He did not hear the gong sounded.

John P. Anderson first saw the cyclist after a schoolgirl alighted from the car. Witness saw the motorman with his hands on the brakes. He also saw him stoop down on one occasion. He did not notice anything particular until just before they got to Queen-street.

"Then," he said, "I saw we were going to have an accident. I did not attempt to move, for I was fascinated with the idea. I expected the car would go thru the building. The motorman was sounding his gong all the time."

Robert McCallum, city architect, gave evidence concerning an inspection of the place. The car left the rails on the north side of the crossing, and apparently jumped five inches. He also inspected the car, and it appeared to be all right. Some plaster impressions of the rails were produced.

James Hannan informed the court that the rail on the curve was slightly worn. He inspected the car and found the electrical equipment was in good order. The brake was in good condition. The automatic sander was working satisfactorily when he was there.

Evidence given by Engineer McPhail described the surface of the tracks at the corner of Queen and McCaul. Mechanical Superintendent Donnelley, employed by the company, declared that sand was in the automatic sander of the car when first he saw it, between 9 and 9.30 on the morning of the accident. It was the motorman's duty to see that the sander was well filled before the car left the barn.

"Is the automatic sander better than the other one?" he was asked.

"I do not like to give an opinion," said the witness, cautiously.

"Why not?" asked the crown attorney.

"You are an expert."

The witness' rejoinder was to the effect that he was not an authority on sanders. He then handed in typewritten reports, the purport of which was that the car was in good condition. It appeared that the weight of this car was 16 tons 745 lbs. He saw nothing in the condition of the car to explain the accident.

General Manager R. J. Fleming was called and asked by the crown attorney if he were interpreted rightly when he was declared to have stated that the company's tracks were in a bad condition.

"That must be qualified," replied the manager. "Part of the tracks are not in good condition, but the rails along McCaul-street are good. He favored a heavier rail, both for the sake of the rolling stock and safety of the public.

"What extent of wear do you look for before you condemn a rail?" was the crown attorney's question.

"I would not speak as to that," replied the manager. "The rail would be more worn on the curve than upon the straight road where the car is going at a higher rate.

"Do you not think," pursued Mr. Drayton, "that the wearing of the rail would be more dangerous at a curve?"

"No, because the car goes slower at a curve.

"What is the speed," asked William Laidlaw, K.C., "allowed by the management in taking such a curve as at McCaul?"

"I do not know that there is any rule. I would not say. A car may go round at three miles an hour. But it would always stop before taking the curve."

The inquiry was adjourned until Monday night next.

When Dean appeared before Magistrate Denison yesterday morning Mr. Robinette made a strong plea for bail for his client. His worship decided the case was too serious to grant bail.

A WREATH FROM ST. CATHARINES

Sent to London for the Nelson Centenary Celebration.

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.)

London, Oct. 18.—In connection with the Nelson centennial a wreath has just arrived from St. Catharines, from the Victory and Britannia Lodges of the Sons and Daughters of England. It is to be given to Lord Strathcona at the Nelson centennial dinner to be given by the Fishmongers' Company, on the eve of Trafalgar Day, and will be handed over to the prime warden. It will then be taken on Saturday to the Royal Albert Hall demonstration. It is especially requested that it be sent to Prince Edward of Wales in the name of the boys and girls of Canada.

SIR HENRY IRVING.

London, Oct. 18.—The casket containing the ashes of Sir Henry Irving is now at the residence of Baroness Burdette-Coutts in Piccadilly, where the public to-morrow will pay its respects. Later the casket will be conveyed to Westminster Abbey, where it will be placed in the chapel of St. Faith.

Much was it once, to move o'erwearied life
To wholesome laughter; much it was to lure
From withered hearts the enriching tears of grief!
Much was it once, in motley and in mask,
To lead this cynic and too sadden'd age
Far out of life's lost islands of Romance!
Much was it, in the midst of optic fires,
Of transient moods and momentary ways,
To guard with jealous hands the Calmer Light!
Much was it, when the years all arid seemed,
To freshen, as at cooling founts, our souls
Whereon obliterating dust and hate
Too heavy lay!
Oh, much indeed it was
To charm Earth's fretting children to forget!
But more than all Art's dream and anodyne
For languid sorrow were the clash and war
Of Wrong with timeless Right, the wider view,
The tangled years made lucid to the eye,
The mimic hopes and loves that chasten men,
The broken threads of life caught up and held
One whole again, the Good made Beautiful!
All this was much, and with it brought its bay;
All this is old, and earned long since its crown;
Its thundered thanks, impassioned quick applause!
But, oh, how loftier than fame is love,
In this great heart that warmed to little things!
The hand not once withheld, the valiant will
Made quick with stooping kindliness of soul,
The mind austere and calm that mourned amid
Illusions lost, yet laughed, and lived, and loved!
This, this it is that still makes silence best!
This weaves its aureole of softer lights
About the honored brow, and stands enough!
Yet we, one hour inadequate, must turn
With fond and broken words for memory,
And now the final curtain drops about
That thrice crowned head, in pride and silence lay
Love's unreluctant tribute at the feet
Of him who under cloak and domino
And flash of nimble wits forever held
That Love was best, and for the elusive Dream
Gave youth and age, and left more rich the world!

ANOTHER MASTER GETS OUT MORE LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

What Yesterday Brought Forth in Plumbers' Tangle—Injunction is Secured.

The three dissenting master plumbers reported no desertions from the ranks of their employes yesterday, while the master plumbers are missing one of their number. At least Robert W. Harrison of the firm of Harrison & Robertson would not deny that his firm has sent in its resignation to the membership of the Master Plumbers' Association.

These two facts, with an injunction restraining the master plumbers from interfering with the men of the dissenting shops and a statement from Crown Attorney Curry, that he intended to see the matter to a finish, are the developments of yesterday in the plumbers' case. The evidence already in possession of Crown Attorney Curry is not sufficient to permit the laying of a criminal charge, and J. B. Reeves, one of the complaining master plumbers, is securing evidence.

J. Reeves, John E. Gray and Joseph Harrison, all state that all their men returned to work yesterday, in spite of being ordered out by the union, altho no general strike order has been issued.

Robert W. Harrison, until recently a member of the board of directors of the Master Plumbers and Steamfitters' Co-operative Association, and a brother of Joseph Harrison, one of the dissenting plumbers, would not state that his resignation had not been sent in, but stated that he still regarded himself as a member of the association because his resignation had not been acted upon. "I have not been attending the meetings very regularly recently," he concluded.

"The union will very likely take up the case of the plumbers who refuse to come out of the seceding shops at the regular meeting a week from Friday night," said W. J. Storey, business agent of the Journeymen Plumbers' Association. "It will probably be regarded by the union as a whole and I cannot say whether the men will be expelled or not. The terms of the agreement must be carried out."

Thru Miller, Ferguson and Hunter, barristers, Reeves succeeded yesterday in obtaining an injunction from Judge MacMahon, restraining the Master Plumbers and Steamfitters' Co-operative Association, W. H. Meredith, R. G. Leaman, George Cooper, Local Union No. 46 of Journeymen Plumbers, and William Bush and W. Storey from interfering with union men in his employ, and preventing the employes from going out at the beck and call of the local union, which seeks to penalize all members who do not leave employers who do not belong to the association. Under Reeves' instructions a writ has been issued, claiming damages against the union and against Storey and Bush participating. The amount of damages asked for is not stated.

SUMMONSES FOR FIFTY.

Mayor, Alderman and Others Will Be Asked to Explain.

The civic investigation will commence to-morrow morning. Judge Winchester and Crown Attorney Drayton will be ready.

Detective Mackie has been detailed to look after the outside work. Over 50 summonses will be issued for those who are supposed to know. All the aldermen, councillors, and even his worship the mayor will be asked to give all the information they can about the question, which is being investigated, and also others which are supposed to have been buried in oblivion. This inquiry, if the authorities do their duty, and no doubt they will, promises to be more far reaching, than was first supposed.

DEPUTATION FROM B. C. PROTEST ON MIXED RATES

The transportation committee of the C. M. A. had the pleasure yesterday of receiving a deputation from the wholesale jobbers of British Columbia, in reference to mixed carload rates.

Disapproval of the application of the association asking for the restoration of the old terms under which the rate on mixed cars was determined by the highest priced article on the car was expressed.

It was held by the deputation that if this rate was restored their interests would be injured and the association was urged to reconsider the matter.

THE WAR OF 1812.

Goldwin Smith in Weekly Sun: Are we never to have done with the memories of the war of 1812? England and France, immemorial foes, have been embracing each other. England has been falling upon the neck of the American Republic. Still Canadians are raking in the smoldering ashes of 1812. How often will it be necessary to repeat that everything which was most respectable and truly patriotic in the United States was against that war; that it was made by Henry Clay, a man whose reputation is rather above his deserts, and a reckless crew of political rowdies called the War Hawks playing upon the selfish fears of a president who was a candidate for re-election? That the Canadians, between whom and their partners in this continent kindly relations had been growing, took up arms with the greatest reluctance the objurgations of Brock and Prevost clearly prove. Reopening sores that have been healed to revive international antipathies would seem not to be the most rational or the most beneficent work. As to Christianity, it has taken refuge with the infidel. There would be some excuse for these appeals if there were the slightest sign of aggressiveness on the part of our neighbors. But there is absolutely none.
