Edith's Logical Deduction.

A caller had mentioned that a neighbor had been obliged to shoot his dog because it had grown old and cross. After he had gone little Edith, who had been very quiet since the dog had been spoken of, surprised her mother by asking: "Mamma, when do you think papa will shoot Aunt Sarah?"

And She Paddled.

Mrs. Figg—Tommy, have you been swimming without my permission?

Tommy—Nome. I just went into the water and did a little paddling, that's all.

"I'm glad you suggested it. I'll just do a little paddling myself."

LONDON AND ENVIRONS

—The late J. S. Deacon was a member of Ontario Council, 209, National Union.

—F. W. White, boots and shoes, Harrow, has assigned to C. B. Armstrong, London.

—The builders are building on having a good time at Port Stanley Saturday. Their annual picnic has always been an excellent one.

—The soldiers at the barracks leave for Quebec on Aug. 13 for a special course of instruction. They go with the Toronto corps.

—Mrs. Mountford, the celebrated lecturer on Jewish customs, will make another Canadian tour next year and revisit London.

—Nine carloads of excursionists visited Port Stanley yesterday. Three hundred were from points on the London, Huron and Bruce Railway, from Wingham to Hyde Park.

—The stomach of the late Charles Scealey, of Vienna, has been sent to a doctor in this city for analysis. The remains were exhumed on account of suspicions of foul play.

—The York Street Methodist Mission picnicked at Wonderland on Tuesday, a large crowd attending. Mr. W. T. Hamilton, the superintendent, conducted the games and Rev J. W. Annis was present.

—Rev. W. D. Cunningham was on Tuesday evening welcomed to his new pastorate over the Church of Christ at St. Thomas. Among those who made addresses was Rev. T. L. Fowler, of London, a former pastor.

—Water Commissioners Wm. Jones and R. K. Cowan met last night, and with Mayor Essery passed a bylaw changing the limit of time in which lawns may be watered from standard to solar time. Lawns may now be watered until 8:27 p.m.

—Miss Edna, daughter of A. Wildern, East London, obtained a first-class certificate for knowledge of catechism and Scriptural history at the recent quarterly examinations, also the first prize at the King Street Presbyterian Sunday school.

—A Dundas street boot and shoe dealer has the following sign bulletined: "Tan goods half price." And yet he wondered the other day why a bad smallboy tugged at his mother's skirts as she stopped to gaze in the window and utterly refused to let her go in to buy. He had been tanned before.

—The Might Directory Company now have a large staff of trained men working under the supervision of Mr. Might, jun., on the London and Middlesex Directory for 1894-5. The citizens should subscribe and advertise liberally with this company, as there is no doubt their publications are of the very best issued. Mr. J. M. Might, the president of the company, has been in the city for a few days, and says he spent a very pleasant afternoon watching the amusement at the St. Andrew's picnic at Port Stanley Tuesday.

The I. B. S. Picnic.

The Irish Benevolent Society met last evening. There was a very large meeting, and the committee appointed to take charge of the picnic presented their report. Every arrangement has been made to make the great Irish picnic greater than ever. The programme of games and sports, including baseball matches and a tug-of-war between Elgin and Middlesex, will be distributed not later than Saturday morning.

Water Consumers, Beware.

The water commissioners held a special meeting last night to grapple with the question of lawn services. All summer, and especially since the drought, the board has tried to prevent any waste. The hours for lawn watering have heretofore been 5 to 8, morning and evening. Now the commissioners have tacked onto the bylaw the words "standard time." Sun time will not be considered, and the inspectors have been authorized to summon violaters of the new rule. Commissioners Jones (chairman) and Cowan, Mayor Essery, Engineer Moore, and Inspectors Platt and Plastow, were present.

Resolution of Condolence

At the last regular meeting of St. Peter's Branch, E. B. A., city, held recently, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted: Whereas we, the members of this branch, having learned with profound regret of the death of Mrs. Martin Gould, mother of our esteemed president, Mr. Thos. F. Gould, which occurred on the 14th inst. Resolved, that we tender to Bro. Gould and the other members of the family of the deceased our heartfelt sympathy and condolence, and pray that Almighty God may strengthen them to bear their sad bereavement. Resolved, that these resolutions be entered in the minute book of the branch, a copy sent to Bro. Gould and family, and published in the official organs. T. M. O'HAGAN and M. J. QUIRK, Com.

At the Watering Trough.

Some humane Londoners who read the papers have adopted the plan of placing a straw hat, through which the ears project, on the heads of their horses. It protects the horse from the sun all right, but at first sight gives the average man a fit of uncontrollable laughter. The horse editor of this paper was standing near a corner watering trough the other day, when a skittish-looking mare was allowed to drink by her driver. Another horse was also drinking, and between gulps the horse editor overheard the following conversation, which was commenced by the horse without the hat:

"Are you not afraid to drink so often this hot weather? I see you at nearly every trough in the city."

"Well," replied the little mare, as she looked at the reflection of her headgear in the water, "I don't drink every time you see me at the water. When every other mare turns around and stares at me on the road, I cannot resist the temptation to stop at the first trough I come across and see if my hat is on straight."

The poor mare!

The residents of this fair city are to be treated to a show which promises to surpass everything in the outdoor amusement line this season. On Aug. 15 the Young Liberals of London will rendezvous in Queen's Park and give an entertainment which it is guaranteed will make the most chronic of dyspeptics draw a broad smile. Numerous new and laughable features will be introduced, and the magnitude of "The Day at the Circus" will surpass the expectations of the most sanguine. The Young Liberal Fleet, comprising 250 well drilled men in natty uniforms, will execute some entirely new movements. The drum corps, under Harry McKenna, will have an extra attack of the rattles, and the Marine Band, with Mr. Fred L. Evans as leader, will supply music which would do credit to an organization many years its senior, while Mexican Joe's band of cowboys will perform some of their hair-raising feats of horsemanship. Every member of the band will be accompanied by a war-whoop. A squad from the Royal Irish Lancers promise to do some tent-pegging rivaling the performance of the famous English military tournament, while horizontal bar performers, tightrope artists and acrobats will contribute their share of amusement. One of the most novel features will be the cooking of an entire ox for the barbecue. The carcass will be prepared by Mons. Ernest Rau, of Paris, the most expert "chef" in this section of the Dominion.

Chief Attraction.

Among the chief attractions in the procession of the Cook & Whitby circus last Saturday was the yellow wagon, which conveys through all of Canada that most desirable of cures "Williams' Royal Crown Remedy". This is what Mr. Weir says, whose life it saved: "This is a most marvelous cure. I became pale as a corpse; my blood seemed to be turned to water. I had dizziness and a ringing noise in my head: my hands and feet were cold all the time, and my limbs were completely swoolen up to the body. Some doctors called it consumption of the blood. I got so weak that I could not walk, and finally took to my bed." Mrs. Weir says: "All Mr. Weir has told you is true. At times he lay for days unconscious and unable to take nourishment of any kind, and was reduced to a mere skeleton of 84 pounds; and I fully believe if we had been one day later in getting Williams' Royal Crown Remedy he would be in his grave to-day. So it may well be said 'Williams' Royal Crown Remedy saved John Weir's life.'" The best druggists keep Royal Crown Remedy; but if your druggist does not, remit direct to Isaac Williams Company, London, and they will send it to you by first express. The price at which Royal Crown Remedy is sold makes a course of treatment comparatively inexpensive as compared with any other medical treatment. Six bottles for $5, from Isaac Williams Co., London, Ont. Clip this out and send to sick friend. ywt

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

City Insurance.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER.

Why should not London insure itself? The farmer does so and saves money. If outside companies can make a large profit by insuring in the city, why not keep it in the city? Surely it is needed bad enough. We would suggest that the assessors act as agents at the same time. If inconvenient to use the tax roll, provide another for the insurance. Try for the first year or two the real estate and house goods. If successful, then the merchandise. Have all premiums paid at the same time and place as the taxes. The assessors would have to be paid for extra work, but that would be trifling in comparison to the expense of the county. There would probably be some legislation needed, but no doubt that could be obtained. We have an abundance of water and men who have proved themselves able and willing to do their duty. Let us embrace the opportunity of easing off the burden of debt. Suppose the Council, Board of Trade, Property-owners' Association, and all others who it may concern talk the matter over as soon as opportunity permits. WM. ORME.

[NOTE.—The subject is worthy of discussion. But it may be suggested that in the event of a great fire city corporation fire insurance would not be as safe as insurance by insurance companies. St. John, N. B., would have been in a bad way if in its great fire it had relied upon city insurance.—EDITOR ADVERTISER.]

QUERIES ANSWERED.

C. D. E.—A has a farm given to her by her parents. Now, if A dies leaving a husband and one child, how would the property be divided providing A left no will? Would the husband get a third or the whole for life? ANS.—If married before July 1, 1884, he could elect between the whole for his life or one-third absolutely. If since that date, he takes the one-third.

MELBOURNE.—1. What is the supreme law of the land? 2. What were the writs of assistance? 3. What was the Milan decree? These are questions relating to United States law. ANS.—1. The constitution of the United States and all laws passed under it. 2. Writs directed to the sheriff out of chancery to assist or put a person entitled to land in possession of it. 3. The edict of Constantine in 313 granting tolerance to Christians.

WORTHINGTON.—A builds a house on the land of B, with his consent, and agrees to pay $1 per month ground rent. A pays his rent, and at the end of three years B notifies A to vacate his property and move his house off same. When A built the house B agreed to pay A the value of the house when A was asked to leave. Can B compel A to leave without paying A for the house? ANS.—If the agreement can be proved, the court would not permit an eviction without compensation for the house. You had better consult a lawyer.

ALABAMA.—A duly notified meeting was held to elect a certain officer. The voting was by ballot. A three-fourths vote was required for election. Three persons were nominated. When the vote was taken it was found that no one had received the requisite number of votes. Some called for the state of the ballot. Can the scrutineers or chairman legally announce the state of the ballot at this stage? ANS.—No, unless by unanimous consent; the balloting should be continued until some one is elected.
