SHOWER OF GEMS FOR MISS ASTOR

Her Father's Wedding Gift a Famous Collection.

MOTHER'S JEWELS BEING RESET

Bradley Martin Having a Collar of Diamonds Made for Miss Phipps as Present.

London, Oct. 12. — When Miss Pauline Astor becomes the wife of Capt. Spender Clay this month she will become the owner of a collection of jewels worthy of royalty itself.

Though little has been done in the way of preparations for the marriage, because of the absence of William Waldorf Astor, it has become known that he intends to present to his daughter on her wedding day all of the jewels which belonged to her mother, the late Mrs. Astor.

Despite statements to the contrary, Mr. Astor is highly pleased with the match and quite approves of his future son-in-law. Mr. Astor's gift of the splendid jewels owned by the late Mrs. Astor is of itself regarded as certain evidence of his satisfaction with the matrimonial choice of Miss Pauline. She out of deference to her father has made no arrangements for the wedding, preferring to await his return, that his advice and consent may be obtained on all of the details.

All of the late Mrs. Astor's jewels are being reset by order of Mr. Astor, so that the mountings will be in the present mode.

The most notable piece in the collection is a splendid parure of emeralds, reckoned to be the finest in Europe. It is being mounted according to the latest ideas in gem setting.

A Parisian jeweler has also made on Mr. Astor's order, a superb ornament for the neck in the design so much favored this year by the ultra-smart Parisienne. This ornament extends half-way round the neck, the jewels being mounted on a velvet band.

There is some curiosity as to whether Mr. Astor's gift of jewels to his daughter will include a collection of black pearls which is considered the finest of its kind in the world. These pearls were originally the property the mother of Mr. Astor, and are regarded as a family heirloom, to be handed down to the eldest son of each generation, just as the bulk of the New York real estate is disposed of. The late Mrs. Astor seldom wore the famous black pearls.

Capt. Spender Clay is unwilling that all of the wedding jewels of his financee should come from her family and has bought for her a number of exquisite gems.

Among these are a superb tiara, a collar, a necklace, riviere, pendants and earrings of diamonds and huge pearls.

FORTUNE FOR MISS PHIPPS.

Equally magnificent is the wealth of jewels which young Bradley Martin will shower upon Miss Phipps on their wedding day.

The engagement taken which he gave her is a ring designed especially to his order. In the center is an enormous sapphire set in a circle of fine diamonds.

He has also had made a superb collar of diamonds three and a half inches in height at the front, the design being garlands of leaves forming circles, each of which incloses a monster pearl.

The workmanship of the collar is of a delicately exquisite character, giving the gems the appearance of being strung together, rather than actually mounted. Like all Paris-set jewels, platinum, instead of gold, is used for the setting.

The collar cost $18,000, and a tiara is being made to match it.

Miss Phipps' wedding dress is to be of plain white satin, the texture of the cloth being very thick and stiff. It is rather plainly made, as are all brides' gowns turned out by Worth, and is partially veiled in rare old lace, the joint gift of Mrs. Bradley Martin and Mrs. Phipps.

New Vigor for the Nerves

New Power and Strength for Every Organ of the Body in the Use of

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

Good digestion, ruddy complexion, rendid circulation, clear brain, steady nerves, sound, restful sleep, better health and greater strength of mind and body is what you may expect from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Not in any mysterious way, but from the hard fact that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is composed of the elements of nature which go to form new, red corpuscles in the blood, or, in other words, make the blood rich in the nutritive principle which creates nerve force—the power which runs the machinery of the body.

WITH THE VITALITY OF THE BODY THUS BROUGHT TO HIGH WATER MARK WEAKNESS AND DISEASE GIVE PLACE TO HEALTH AND HAPPINESS.

Impaired digestion, irregular action of the feminine organism, weakness of heart, lungs or other bodily organs, pains and aches and all the annoying consequences of weak nerves and blood disappear because the cause of their existence is removed.

By noting your increase in weight you can prove that new, firm flesh and tissue are being added by this great restorative.

MRS. H. A. LOYNES, Nurse, Philipsburg, Quebec, writes: "I was all run down and could not do my own work. Everything I ate made me sick. In nursing others I had seen the good results of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and resolved to try it. As a result of this treatment I have gained ten pounds, do my own work alone and feel like an entirely different person. I have received so much benefit from this medicine that I am glad to recommend it to others. I have a copy of Dr. Chase's Receipt Book and would not part with it for $50 if I could not get another."

Test the extraordinary upbuilding power of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. The portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author are on every box.

VICTIMS OF RAT POISON

One Child Dead and One Seriously Ill—Ate Poisoned Biscuit.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 12.—Little Elizabeth Johnson, 5½ years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Johnson, Sage street, died from the effects of rat poison she had eaten in the afternoon. Her younger sister, Lucille, ate some of the poison also, but not enough to cause her death.

Johnson is janitor at the Friends Bible Training School, on Cedar avenue. The Johnson home is only a little way from the school. The two little girls were at play in the yard, and in rummaging about in some refuse that had been thrown out, came across a rat biscuit. Childlike the elder of the two tasted it, and also gave a taste to her smaller sister.

Not long afterward an older sister found the little ones in the yard and, seeing the box and suspecting what had happened, administered an antidote. A physician was called and took further precautions to prevent serious result. The smaller girl rapidly grew better and was soon out of danger, but Elizabeth continued to grow worse until the end came. The parents of the children attach no blame to any one.

'AUTO ROMANCE COMES TO END

Chauffeur, Fiancee of a Rich Young Lady, Bought Off for $50,000.

London, Oct. 12.—Bishop, the handsome chauffeur of Edward Holmes Baldock, J.P., has accepted $50,000 from his fiancee's relatives to give up Miss Baldock, to whom he was to have been married today in St. George's Church, Hanover Square.

The story was told several months ago of the romantic infatuation of Miss Lillian Baldock, heiress to $2,000,000, for her chauffeur, and of his indignant rejection of her father's offer of $50,000 if he would give her up.

Every influence that could be brought to bear had failed to separate the lovers, and the invitations for the wedding had been sent out to the few who were expected by the bride to stand this test of their friendship.

The Baldocks are among the oldest and most exclusive of English families connected over and over again with the peerage. Bishop, the chauffeur, is the son of a London peddler and nothing is alleged against him except this.

Two years ago he entered the service of Mr. Baldock, who owns a superb mansion at 8 Grosvenor Place, next door to that of the Duke of Northumberland.

The girl was little more than a child, and, being heiress in her own right to $2,000,000, had every luxury the world could afford. On her 21st birthday, when she came into her fortune, her parents gave her a new motor car. Accompanying the gift was an expert chauffeur, chosen for his mechanical ability and general trustworthiness.

Miss Baldock became devoted to her car, and spent many entire days in making long runs from London, as well as from Craven Lodge, her father's hunting box at Melton Mowbray, whither the chauffeur always accompanied the family. Even when Miss Baldock had to be sought in the workshop to speak with guests in the drawing-room, no suspicion of an attachment between her and Bishop arose.

In February of this year a new butler made the facts known to his master. Mr. Baldock, in a passion, rushed into the workshop, where he found his daughter sitting at the table with the chauffeur, whose arm was around her waist.

"How dare you, you scoundrel!" he cried.

"Excuse me, sir," replied Bishop, "but your daughter has asked me to marry her, and I mean to do it within half an hour."

The man was driven out of the house, though the daughter defied her parents to say a word against him, swearing she would marry him at once.

Miss Baldock has paid a handsome sum to secure Bishop a partnership with a firm of motor car builders, and, it has been said, made liberal settlements upon him.

But the wedding will not take place, for Bishop has been induced to renounce the girl and to accept $50,000 in lieu of her hand. What the girl thinks of it has not yet become known.

TWO "BABES" WED

Mabel Barrison and W. D. Gaston Surprise Their Friends.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—Miss Mabel Barrison of the "Babes in Toyland" Company, and William D. Gaston, a member of the same organization, were married in the Fourth Presbyterian Church, Superior and Rush streets, by Rev. Dr. Notman, the pastor.

The marriage was a surprise to the friends of both Miss Barrison and Mr. Gaton, but a large number of the "Toyland" Company was present, having been invited during the afternoon by telephone. Miss May De Sousa and Miss Sophia Jordan were bridemaids, and George A. Stone was groomsman. After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the Sherman House.

Miss Barrison has been with "Babes in Toyland" since that extravaganza was first produced, and plays the role of Jane. Her husband is a member of the dancing "team" of Gaston and Stone, and plays the part of Gonzorgo.

At night the stage of the Grand was covered with rice, and every time Miss Barrison appeared she was applauded by the company as well as by the audience.

DETECTIVE BLOODHOUNDS

Hunt for the Bandit Who Locked Woman Cashier in Vault.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 12. — Bloodhounds led the way to the home of Karl Karrer, a saloonkeeper, who is now under arrest on a charge of robbing the bank of Treynor, Ia., of $1,400, after he had locked the young woman in charge of the bank in the vault. The robbery was committed while half of the inhabitants of the village were in Omaha attending the fall carnival.

Miss Florence Flood, daughter of the president of Treynor Savings Bank, was alone in the place when a masked man entered, and, pointing a revolver at her head, ordered her to give him the money in the cash drawer. She obeyed, and he then ordered her to go to the vault and hand him whatever cash was there. As he passed the money out he pushed her back into the vault and locked her in. He made his escape in a buggy.

As soon as the robbery was discovered a posse was formed, and the robber was traced to a point where he had abandoned his team and plunged into a corn field. Twenty-four hours later the dogs arrived at this point and at once took up the trail, following it into the corn field to a spot where the fugitive had apparently remained for some time, supposedly waiting for darkness. From this point the dogs doubled back to Treynor and made direct for Karrer's house, where he was found.

PADEREWSKI SAYS "MUST" TO CZAR

Raises $50,000 for a Monument to Chopin.

WILL SEE THAT IT IS ERECTED

Remarkable Revelry at Polish Feast—Wine Flowed in Streams—No End of Delicacies.

Berlin, Oct. 12.—The difficulty of raising a monument in Russia to the memory of a distinguished man, especially if he is a Pole, is well illustrated by the history of a movement to erect a monument in Warsaw to the famous Polish composer Chopin.

The great Polish prima donna Adelaide Volska, wife of Count Szezawinski-Brochocki, began to collect among her friends with this object. It came to the ears of the Russian police, who thought the movement would result in a Polish agitation against Russian rule, so they prohibited the countess from collecting further contributions.

Then Count Brochocki thought he would enlist the services of Paderewski and gain his influence. Paderewski formed two committees, one in Warsaw, the other in Paris, and they began collecting, in spite of the police, until they had 100,000 roubles ($50,000). Paderewski then said he would write to the Czar and the Minister of the Interior that this monument must be erected, and that it would be a disgrace if it were neglected. He did so, and has a letter saying that the matter would be laid before the Czar, and that the minister had no doubt that a favorable reply would be forthcoming from his majesty.

Two Polish counts of ancient lineage, Count Johann Vninski and Count Boleslaus Vninski, distantly related, have given an exhibition to the German courts of justice of how Polish nobles of a certain class live. Both own large properties and both are exceedingly "good dogs." The cause of their appearance before the courts was that Count Johann was charged by his aristocratic kinsman with cheating at cards, and Johann threw back the charge on Boleslaus.

The cheating was after a huge hunt dinner at Boleslaus' castle. A certain De Poninski testified that he saw Johann manipulate cards with his hands under the table. The result of the trial was that the court found Johann guilty of cheating, sentenced him to three months imprisonment and to pay a fine of $750, and as he had challenged Poninski to mortal combat he got a year's confinement in a fortress in addition. Boleslaus was acquitted.

When Poninski received his challenge he took the opinion of officers as to what he should do. They unanimously declared that Johann was not a man who could demand satisfaction, as his honor was tarnished.

At the great hunt dinner, an annual affair at Boleslaus' castle, perfect orgies of drinking and feasting took place. Champagne flowed like water and the markets of Paris and St. Petersburg were ransacked for delicacies. It is computed that one of these feasts, to which a company of 20 men sat down, cost $63 per man. All the guests appeared in the national costume of Polish magnates. Only Polish and French were spoken at table, a forfeit of $25 being laid on any one who uttered a word in either German or Russian. The feasting lasted three days. Incredible sums are said to have changed hands during the play which followed these orgies.

By order of the Prussian Government it will be forbidden, beginning with next Easter, to teach the Latin alphabet in the primary schools of the Province of Posen. It has been observed that when the Polish children know the Latin characters they learn all by themselves how to read Polish books.

The Prussian Government seems to entirely overlook the fact that the majority of German works are now no longer printed in Gothic characters.

GREAT DRUG SWINDLE

New York Police Unearth It—Several Arrests Made.

New York, Oct. 12.—The New York police are convinced that they have broken up a gigantic drug swindle by the arrest of several men in this city. The arrests were made on information that well-known proprietary medicines were being counterfeited and sold as genuine and the authorities assert that the investigation is not yet complete. Drugs seized at the apartment of Howard E. Wooten today, it is said, are valued at $10,000. Wooten is one of the men under arrest. The others are Simeon B. Minden, Manville Thomas, Charles S. Horn, Charles F. Risley and Walter S. Rockey.

It is asserted by local detectives that slips were found in the places raided giving the names of 5,000 druggists throughout the country to whom dangerous mixtures, made in New York, were sold. It is said that the most important find in the raids was the circulars sent out to druggists, and containing the code by which they could order the preparations.

It is alleged by the police that preparations made by the best known chemical firms in Europe were counterfeited. In circulars discovered was the statement:

"All these goods are genuine, in original packages and unopened."

The price list showed that the drugs in the list were being sold at from 10 to 50 per cent below the usual selling price.

Finally Had to Take to His Bed

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Rested Up H. A. Coles' Stomach and Now He's All Right.

Those who have bad stomachs don't care to be told the cause. All they want to know is the cure. Mr. H. A. Coles, of St. Mary's River, Guysboro County, N. S., tells them that. He writes:

"I had stomach trouble for about five years more or less. I finally got so bad that I had to take to my bed. The doctor was called in, but all his efforts failed to help me. My wife said to me, 'Let's try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets,' and at length I decided to do so. I took seven boxes in all and I have not felt any of the trouble since. I can heartily recommend Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets to any sufferer from stomach trouble. Everyone in this neighborhood who has used them speaks just as highly of the results as I do."

CZARINA'S PIN MONEY

Spends $10,000 Per Year In Perfumes Soaps and Like Items.

London, Oct. 12.—An interesting brochure—particularly interesting to the women—has been published on the favorite perfumes of members of the different royal families of Europe.

The Empress of Russia, it appears, spends no less than $10,000 a year on scents, soaps, and toilet waters, which she obtains exclusively from Paris. Her favorite scent is violet, quantities of these flowers being specially grown for her at Grasse, in the south of France, but there are many other odors, such as lilac, jasmine, narcissus, and tuberose, of which she is also extremely fond. The violets are gathered between the hours of five and seven in the evening, as her Majesty has an idea that at that time their perfume is more delicate.

The Queen of Spain used to have a special fancy for an essence made from a kind of orchid that is found only in the Philippines, but since the trouble there she has given this up, and confines herself to a perfume that is specially made for her in Madrid. For the bath she uses a mysterious liquid composed of otto of roses and an extract of cocoanut.

THE GOOD PRIEST ON "SPARKING"

A Hoboken Clergyman Would Encourage Love-Making in His Church.

New York, Oct. 12.—"My friends, if you don't 'spark' here you will 'spark' somewhere else. If you don't 'spark' with one another you will seek strangers to 'spark' with. As for 'sparking' itself I am heartily in favor of it. I hope it will lead up to the altar and that I will be allowed to marry you."

So spoke the Rev. Andrew Kenny, rector of St. Anthony's Roman Catholice Church, West Hoboken, to members of his dramatic society whose parents objected to their rehearsing for a play on the ground that it gave the young folks too great a chance to "spark."

The society is composed of twenty handsome youths and pretty maids. Two weeks ago they began rehearsing for a play. The parents of the young people did not mind their being together on one night, but after a while the girls and boys would go out every night, and as an excuse would merely say, "Rehearsal."

A petition accordingly was circulated by the parents and presented to the priest. It requested him to discontinue the rehearsals. They had heard of kissing and hugging behind the scenes, they declared, and even in the play a youth and maid were allowed to embrace and osculate.

The priest will not listen to the petition of the parents. He addressed the members as above and would not hear to any of the talk advanced by the elders to disband the society. The rehearsal went on as usual last night, and was "fine," as one of the girls expressed it.
