BUCKLE DECLINES

eral different versions of the haps which led up to the death of Virginia Rappe, film actress, in ction with "Fatty" Arbuckle, the n picture comedian, who is held charge of murder, are contained in l dispatches from San Francisco shed in local papers.

statement attributed to Mrs. Jean Jameson, a nurse who attended Miss Rappe in the sanatorium where she was taken, reports the actress as stating before she died that Arbuckle was waiting to get her for five years; that Arbuckle was a friend of her fiance, Henry Lehrman of New York, and that she did not want publicity, as she was afraid she would lose Lehrman. This witness also reports Miss Rappe as blaming Arbuckle for her injuries and wanting him punished for it. The nurse states that she noticed bruises on the patient's body.

Ira C. Fourtlis, a New York traveling salesman, who was present at the party, states that considerable liquor was consumed and that Miss Rappe and Arbuckle appeared on friendly terms. He says he knew nothing of the reported occurrences which resulted in the death of the actress, but had left the party hurriedly because he was informed that reporters were coming up to interview Arbuckle.

Dr. William Orpulus, pathologist, who performed the post mortem examination on Miss Rappe, in his statement, attributes death to a ruptured bladder, "the rupture being due to natural causes." He states that he found no marks of violence on the body, and that "there were absolutely no evidences of criminal assault."

Miss Blake's Statement.

Miss Alice Blake, a cafe entertainer, who was a member of the party, which was held in rooms 1219, 1220 and 1221 of the Hotel St. Francis, is quoted as saying in part: "When I entered, Arbuckle and Miss Rappe were occupying a settee together. All were laughing and talking. All had been drinking. Miss Rappe was drinking gin and orange juice. We all ordered something to eat and afterwards just sat around and talked.

"At this time we were in room No. 1220, which was used as a reception room. After we had finished eating, Miss Rappe got up and went into the bathroom, which was connected with Arbuckle's room, No. 1219. About the same time I went into 1221 with Miss Pyiron, another member of the party.

"When I returned a few minutes later neither Arbuckle nor Miss Rappe was present. I asked Sherman where Arbuckle and Miss Rappe were. He replied: 'In there,' pointing to the door of room 1219.

"About a half hour later, Mrs. Delmont tried to get into the room, but the door was locked. She banged and banged on the door, and Arbuckle came out. As he opened the door we heard Miss Rappe moaning and crying: 'I am dying! I am dying!'"

Arbuckle came out, according to Miss Blake's alleged statement, and asked them to go in and look after Miss Rappe.

"She makes too much noise," he said, according to Miss Blake. Miss Blake, as reported in this interview, said they found Miss Rappe lying on the bed moaning and crying. Her clothing had been torn to shreds. A clerk was summoned and Miss Rappe was carried to another room in the hotel and the house physician called to attend her.

A statement from Dr. Rumwell, who attended Miss Rappe on her deathbed, corroborates the statement made by Dr. Orpulus, but contains the information that several "negligible" bruises appeared on the patient's body.

Spiker consented to marry his brother's English war bride, after Perley returned to his wife and child in this country, has struck the rocks. Emily Knowles Spiker and Guy S. Spiker, who were married in Fall River, Mass., February 8, 1920, have been separated for nearly five weeks.

The English girl, it is said, fled from her home several weeks ago, leaving a note saying that she no longer cared to live with him.

Guy Spiker was seen at his brother's home today. "Please don't ask me to make a statement concerning what has happened," he said. "All that I can say at this time is that my conscience is absolutely clear."

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

HAY PRICES CLIMB; BUTTER ALSO HIGHER

Supply of Tomatoes Good, But Demand Is Very Slow.

Hay is rapidly getting into a class by itself by its constant advance in price. Since last Monday it has advanced from $16@19 a ton until it reached the highest figure for this season's crop, $19@24 a ton, according to today's quotations.

Creamery butter advanced from 45c and 46c to 47c per lb. Dairy lots and crock butter also advanced from 42c to 45c per lb. There were no changes in the wholesale quotations.

Saturday's market was very brisk, with the exception of tomatoes and poultry. Although there was plenty of these articles on the square at reasonable figures, there was not much demand.

Oats and wheat are very scarce, but are expected to be offered in fair quantities in a week or two.

Corn—Dec., 55⅝c; May, 59¾c.

Oats—Dec., 40½c; May, 44¾c.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Wheat declined in price today, owing largely to commission house selling and to absence of aggressive support. New lower quotations for the German mark had a bearish effect and gave special emphasis to slowness sof export inquiry. There was some buying, however, credited to eastern account. Opening figures, which varied from ½c decline to ¼c higher, were followed by material setbacks all around.

Corn weakened with wheat. After opening unchanged to ½c higher, the market underwent a general sag.

Oats were easier, influenced by other cereals, starting ¼c off to ½c up, and later scoring losses on all months.

EXCHANGE RATES

London, Sept. 12.—The German mark underwent a sharp decline in the exchange market here today. Its value in the early afternoon fell to 397½ marks to the pound sterling, a new low record for the mark here, while later there was a still further decline in value, the mark reaching 400 to the pound.

The drop was ascribed in financial quarters to Germany's recent reparations payment and the unsettled state of German politics.

Canadian dollars, 10½ per cent discount.
