THE OBSERVER.

MON, TUESDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1835.

We are yet without later intelligence from Europe. The Halifax mail brought no newspapers from Boston.

The greater portion of our paper to-day is occupied with extracts from the President's Message to the United States Congress, the principal part of which extracts relate to the difficulties between that Country and France. The language of the President on this topic is cast in a pacific though very decided nature, and his sentiments appear to meet the approbation of the partizans of his countrymen. In the Senate, 20,000 copies of the document were ordered to be printed for the use of the members; and the House of Representatives ordered 10,000 copies to be printed for distribution by its members.—The New-York Courier and Enquirer "sums up the points of the case" as follows:

"After thus detailing the history of this entire negociation with France, and the acts and proceedings resulting from it, the President proceeds to state

That "the French Government having received all the explanation which honor and principle permitted, and which could in reason be asked, it was hoped it would no longer hesitate to pay the instalments now due. The agent authorized to receive the money was instructed to inform the French Minister of his readiness to do so. In reply to this notice, he was told that the money could not be paid, because the formalities required by the act of the Chambers had not been arranged."

And he adds that in consequence of this refusal, he "caused our Chargé d'Affaires at Paris to be instructed to ask for the final determination of the French Government; and in the event of their refusal to pay the instalments now due, without further EXPLANATIONS, to return to the United States."

All idea of any further apology or explanation being made to France is not only disavowed, but in the following very specific terms. "The honour of my country shall never be stained by an apology from me, for the statement of truth and the performance of duty; nor can I give any explanation of my official acts, except such as is due to integrity and justice, and consistent with the principles on which our institutions have been framed."

He concludes his remarks on the subject of our relations with France, by assuring Congress that he is in daily expectation of hearing the result of Mr. Barton's application, and that when received, it will be made the subject of a Special Message.

There certainly is nothing apologetic in the tone of this document; but on the contrary, all that he has alleged against France is respectfully but firmly insisted upon; and there is evidently pervading the Message the anticipation of a rupture with the French Government.

He announces that the estimates amount to twenty-four millions of dollars, and that the surplus in the Treasury at the end of the next year, should these appropriations be made, is estimated at six millions, which he proposes should be expended in our Navy Yards and new National works not enumerated in the estimate.

In urging large appropriations for the construction of new works along the seaboard and the armament of those completed, he says: "A just regard to the permanent interests of the country evidently requires this measure, but there are also other reasons which at the present juncture, give it peculiar force, and make it my duty to call the subject to your special consideration."

He urges upon Congress "a prompt and efficient organization of the Militia," and says experience demonstrate that our aim for Peace and a "fixed determination to give no just cause of offence to other nations, furnish unfortunately, no certain grounds of expectation that this relation will remain uninterrupted."

Taking all these things in connexion, there cannot be a doubt in the mind of any reasonable man that the character of our future relations with France depends exclusively upon the fact whether she has or has not paid Mr. Barton the indemnity; if paid, all is well,—if not, and Mr. Barton returns home as he is ordered to do, the "special message" promised to Congress will doubtless recommend very strong measures against her—such as in all human probability, will eventulate in a declaration of war by France against this country."

Mr. Polk, of Tennessee, a Van Buren man, was chosen Speaker of the House of Representatives on the first ballot, receiving 132 votes out of 224. And Blair & Rives, editors of the Globe, Van Burenites, Printers to the House by a vote of 133.

The Message was conveyed to New-York from Washington, 227 miles, in 12 hours and 30 minutes; and to Boston, 456 miles, in 25 hours and 15 minutes!

A public meeting was held at Dalhousie, Gloucester County, on the latter for the purpose of petitioning the King and Parliament against the adoption of the Report of the Select Committee of the House of Commons, recommending the adoption of the duty on Foreign Timber, &c. Peter Stewart, Esq. was in the Chair, and A. Barbarie, Esq. Secretary.—Arthur Ritchie, Esq. was appointed a Deputation to take the petition to England, and to use his exertions in promoting the object of the petitioners.

On Wednesday, a Coroner's Inquest was held on the body of Francis Paul, a native of Yorkshire, England, late cook on board the brig Edwin, of this port, who was suffocated in that vessel's cabin in attempting to extinguish the flames on Tuesday last. Verdict accordingly.

We cordially concur in the sentiments expressed in the subjoined paragraph, which we copy from the Courier of Saturday last; and let it be borne in mind, that if encouragement is to be rendered this season, it must be done quickly.

LEGISLATIVE REPORTS.—As the time for the meeting of the Representatives of the people in General Assembly approaches, the desire of having an early and faithful report of the proceedings in the House increases; and as the plan proposed by Mr. Pierce, of publishing the Reports daily, as far as practicable, at Fredericton, during the session, would, we are convinced, be more satisfactory to the country generally than the method hitherto pursued, we are therefore anxious to encourage it. Subscribers' names will be received in this City at the News Room, the Circulating Library, and at the several Printing Offices. The price is only 12s. 6d.—Persons intending to subscribe, should do so immediately, in order that Mr. P. may be encouraged in sufficient time to complete his arrangements for commencing so arduous an undertaking this session.

WEATHER.—On Thursday, the thermometer was from 12 to 16 degrees below the cypher, and on the preceding day it was nearly as cold, with a high wind, accompanied by a dense snow storm. The crews of vessels in the Bay and on the coast must suffer much during this severe weather; we regret to state several wrecks have taken place in consequence. The steamer Maid of the Mist, which generally makes the passage to or from Digby in six hours, was thirty-two in accomplishing it this week. She started from Digby at 7 o'clock on Wednesday morning with a light fair wind, having about twenty cabin passengers, and a number of cattle and sheep on deck, and when about seven or eight miles from the land, was met by the very cold gale and snow storm of that day, which, with the vapour, rendered the air so thick, that Captain Reed determined, rather than risk the safety of the vessel and the lives of the passengers and crew in returning, to continue his course across the Bay. To the well known skill and judgment of Capt. R. and the good qualities of the Maid of the Mist as a sea-boat, are mainly to be attributed, under Providence, the preservation of the lives of all on board. Finding it necessary in order to avoid the danger of the Quaco Ledges and to keep her head to the wind as much as possible, to steer to the westward, they made the land at Musquash on Thursday, and got into port in the afternoon, presenting an awful spectacle of what must have been endured on board. The man at the wheel, we understand, had to be relieved every fifteen minutes: and it was impossible for the crew to keep a look out of more than a minute or two at a time. Two of the oxen perished from the cold, and the heads of several of the others were completely covered with a thick coat of ice: none of the sheep died, although equally exposed, and their coating of ice much thicker than that on the oxen. The passengers speak in unmeasured terms of the exertions of Capt. Reed and all his crew during the whole of the time they were exposed to the raging elements.—Courier.

The weather since Sunday has become mild and pleasant. On Sunday about noon it began to snow, which in the evening turned to rain, and during the night carried off a great part of the snow, leaving little more than a covering of ice on the streets. To-day we are favoured with a warm sun and almost the pleasantness of an April day.

FRAUDS DRIVING.—We have been requested to state that the 15th section of a Law recently passed by the Common Council, for the regulation of Cartmen, &c., which prohibits furious driving in our streets and squares, under the penalty of twenty shillings for each offence, will be rigidly enforced,—some persons who have witnessed narrow escapes of children and others, of late, being determined to bring to justice any person who may thus wantonly jeopardize the lives of his fellow-creatures.—Ibid.

This is an excellent law, if rigidly enforced, for we have ourselves witnessed many 'hair breadth 'scapes' from our office windows, by furious driving;—but if suffered to become a dead letter, like many other laws, it will be of little service.

We are requested to state, that there will be an Examination of the Infant School, at the School House, in Charlotte-street, on Thursday next, at 11 o'clock.

MONTREAL, DEC 4.

We have learned from an unexceptionable source, that the Post-Office does not consider itself responsible for the contents of any "money letters" transmitted by post, although the words "money letter" may be written on the address. We consider it our duty to lay the information before our readers as early as possible, in order that they may not continue under a mistake for which they may pay dearly. Such persons therefore as are in the habit of sending large sums of money by post, ought to adopt proper means to secure their remittance against all danger of loss, to which they now are exposed.—Vindicator.

The enterprising merchants of Greenock have dispatched a vessel to the coast of Africa. She has on board a small steamboat intended to explore the river Niger and its tributary streams. From the accounts of the brothers Lander, and subsequent travellers, it is confidently anticipated that a large and valuable trade may readily be established with the inhabitants in the interior.

It appears from a London paper, that the Viceroy of Egypt has employed engineers in boring for water in different parts of the desert between Cairo and Suez, and that they have already succeeded in discovering water in several places.

A Hint.—A capitalist being asked what he thought of the innumerable speculations now afloat, said—"They are like a cold bath; to derive any benefit from which it is necessary to be very quick in and very soon out."—[Boston Journal.

Oliver Newberry has taken the $100,000 loan proposed by the city of Detroit. This gentleman, who is one of the most wealthy and enterprising merchants of the far West, went into Michigan with his pack on his back and his axe on his shoulder.

Miss Martineau.—There appears to be a fatality connected with clever English women, after they have resided some time in the United States. We hail their arrival with pleasure, follow them every where with eulogies and civilities, and finally they do some foolish thing to deprive themselves of the estimation in which they are held in the new world. Miss Martineau has joined the abolitionists—sanctions their errors, weakness and folly, and lends her name to the wide spreading mischiefs which they contemplate. She has now only to join the Mormons to be neatly "done up."—N. Y. Evening Star.

To Correspondents.—The reply of Messrs. G. Matthew and G. T. Ray, Overseers of the Poor, to the remarks of "An Observer," in our last paper, received this forenoon too late for insertion to-day, shall be attended to in our next.

"Perseverance," on the subject of the "St. John Young Men's Debating Society," shall have a place next week.

Ship Amy, Green, of this port, 50 days from London, arrived at Halifax on the 10th inst.

Sch'r Little Mary, Robbins, of this port, from New-York, went ashore on the ledges off the west end of Partridge Island, at the entrance of this harbor, about 7 o'clock on Wednesday morning last, during the severe snow storm. Not knowing where the vessel had struck, and being unable during the day, in consequence of the density of the atmosphere, to make out the land, although quite close to it, the crew and passengers remained in their perilous situation, exposed to the raging elements, until evening, when they fortunately succeeded in landing.—Part of the cargo has been saved, in a damaged state—the vessel, it is feared, will become a wreck.

The brigantine Susan Crane, Capt. Stewart, of and for this port, from Gloucester, England, laden with salt, &c. struck on one of the Mutton Islands, near Cape Sable, in thick weather, on the 8th inst.—Crew and materials saved, vessel and cargo lost.

Sch'rs Margaret, Brewster, for Shepody, and Good Intent, Cunningham, bound for this port, were lying in Barrington-passage, Dec. 6.

I. produce, was totally lost on Madame Island, on Sunday 20th ult.—Crew and passengers saved, except the mate, Thos. Meek, who was drowned in attempting to get on shore on the boom. Capt. C. estimates the loss of his vessel and cargo, neither of which was insured, at £900.—Pictou Bee.

QUEBEC, Dec. 7.—Loss of the Endeavour, Merlin, and Barque Albion.—These vessels left Quebec on Wednesday last, the night preceding the first severe frost, and there never was any probable prospect of their getting to sea.

The barque Merlin, Atkinson, for London, went ashore on the upper end of Green Island, on Thursday last, with four feet water in her hold.—The greater part of the materials have been landed.

The barque Endeavour, Douglas, for Liverpool, is full of water a little below Riviere du Loup; her crew are on Hare Island.

The barque Albion is ashore at Riviere-du-Loup, and would land her cargo safe.
