TUESDAY, MAY 18.

BREAKFAST—Sliced pineapple. Wheat flakes. Sugar and cream. Liver a la Bordelaise. Potato souffle. Raised corn-bread. Coffee.

LUNCHEON—Croquettes of macaroni. Bread and butter, sandwiches. Chocolate wafers. Almond cream. Iced milk.

DINNER—Velvet soup. Egyptian chicken. Steamed potatoes. Asparagus. Bread and butter. Pickled onions. Lemon cream Pie. Tea.

Cut out these recipes and paste them in a scrapbook.

Liver a la Bordelaise—Cut six medium slices of liver, parboil, trim and pare nicely; season with one-half teaspoon of salt and one-quarter teaspoon pepper; baste with two tablespoons melted butter, and roll in fresh bread crumbs. Broil over a moderate fire till thoroughly well done; dish in circle, alternating with fillet-shaped slices of brown bread fried in butter; pour a Bordelaise sauce in the center.

Croquettes of Mararoni—Boil one-quarter pound of macaroni in salted water till very tender, drain and toss in a sauce-pan with one tablespoon butter, one-half ounce Parmesan cheese, one-quarter ounce cooked tongue cut in fine dice. Spread on a well-buttered platter, cover with buttered paper, press it well down, and set away to cool. Divide with a knife into five parts, roll each one in grated cheese, then in beaten egg and in cracker crumbs. Fry in smoking hot fat till well-browned. Drain, and serve on a folded napkin.

Chocolate Wafers—One-half cup brown sugar, one-half cup granulated sugar, one-half cup butter, one egg, one-half cup grated chocolate, one teaspoon of extract of vanilla. Mix all together; add one and one-half cups flour, roll very thin, cut with little square cutter. Bake about five minutes in hot oven. Sufficient for several meals, but are excellent to keep.

Almond Cream—One pint new milk, one cup sugar, one-quarter pound of blanched almonds, chopped; stir over the fire, add the well-beaten yolks of four eggs. Flavor with one-half teaspoon extract of rose. Pour into cup and pile on a meringue made of the white of four eggs and one-half cup sugar.

Velvet Soup—One quart of any kind of good stock, one cup cream, one teaspoonful salt, one saltspoon pepper; pour it boiling hot on the beaten yolks of four eggs, diluted with one-half cup cream. Reheat and serve at once in bouillon cups.

Egyptian Chicken—Select a well-fattened hen a year old, or even more. Clean and truss as usual, tying the legs and wings very close to the body. Rub inside and out with two tablespoons melted butter, one teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon pepper. Pick over and wash one and one-quarter cups rice, season it with one teaspoon salt, one-half saltspoon pepper, one teaspoon curry powder. Put three tablespoons rice inside the fowl and the remainder around it in a dish just large enough to hold it nicely. Set in a steamer and cook four hours. The giblets may be scalded and cooked separately for one hour, and then laid inside the fowl with the rice. If the broth in which they are cooked is not too strong pour it over the rice in the dish.

—Pupils trying the honor matriculation this year at the Collegiate Institute will be charged $5 instead of $10, charged last year. The figures were incorrectely stated as $2 and $5 respectively on Saturday.

—A contemporary stated Saturday that Miss Laura Cooper, daughter of Ald. Cooper, was suffering from diphtheria. Tiis is untrue. Miss Cooper has recovered from a slight attack of grip, and was down town on Saturday in her usual health.

—The coming Baptist Church convention promises to be largely attended. Mr. A. D. Benson, 359 Dufferin avenue, secretary of the billeting committee, has received the names of about 200 delegates and between 300 and 400 are expected. The billeting is principally among members of the Baptist churches in the city. The reception committee decided to hold an excursion to Springbank, and have a programme of games.

—Detective Ross, of the C. P. R., ran against a bad customer at Ayr last night. The fellow was a supposed burglar and the officer was endeavoring to place him under arrest, when he drew a gun and made his escape. The city police were notified to be on the lookout for the desperado, who was supposed to have come towards London. The fellow is of fair complexion, about 5 feet 9 inches in height, and wears a light blue suit. A man answering his description was seen near Ingersoll about 6 o'clock in the morning, with another hard-looking customer.

—Mr. Fred Pyper, of Montreal, the expert machinist who supervised the erection of the Linotype machines in The Advertiser office, has severed his connection with the Toronto News, to take a responsible position with his former employers, the Mergenthaler Company. The South African field is to be worked more thoroughly by the Linotype Company, and Mr. Pyper has been engaged to take charge of a consignment of machines. The many friends Fred made in Canada will be pleased to learn of his advancement, though sorry to lose him. He will leave Canada in a week or two.

CUSTOMS REGULATION.

The Government has issued a circular to the collectors of customs at the several ports in connection with the taking of declarations as to the origin of British goods. It was found necessary for the importer personally to visit the custom house or go before a justice of the peace and take the declaration, but owing to the inconvenience the importers asked the Government to allow an agent to pass the goods. For the present the Government will allow the local manager or chief clerk of the firm or corporation to make the declaration.

Died of the Rabies.

A Skye Terrier Bitten by a London Mad Dog Died Saturday.

The Little Daughter of Mr. W. E. Rice, Who Was Bitten on the Cheek by the Same Dog, to Be Sent to the Pasteur Institute, New York.

The question of sending another child to the Pasteur Institute, New York, will in all likelihood be brought up at the City Council tonight.

It will be remembered that a few days ago a dog of the Great Dane breed, belonging to Alonzo D. Harvey, created a sensation on the Hamilton road by biting the little daughter of Mr. W. E. Rice, killing a goat and biting two Skye terriers belonging to Mr. Kilpatrick, and several other dogs around the neighborhood. The Great Dane died at the city pound the following day, and Dr. McDonald and Medical Health Officer Hutchinson extracted a quantity of spinal serum with the object of reporting upon the question of rabies. As yet no report has been made.

Death of one of Mr. Kilpatrick's terriers has brought the matter forcibly to the front again. After the two terriers were bitten by Harvey's dog Mr. Kilpatrick took one dog to the pound, but kept the other at home locked up in a loft in his barn. All last week the dog was as well and playful as usual, but on Friday Mr. Kilpatrick noticed a peculiar fierceness in the brute's eye, and it declined to eat. When he returned home at noon Friday his wife complained of the horrible noise the dog had made all morning. Mr. Kilpatrick went out to the barn, and when he went to ascend into the loft the dog gazed down at him, covered with foam and frothing at the mouth. The dog was left alone and was found dead on Saturday morning. As soon as this news reached the home of Mr. Rice, considerable anxiety was manifested, and the family physician, Dr. Macarthur, was seen regarding the matter. He strongly recommended that the child be sent to the Pasteur Institute immediately, and Mr. Rice signified his intention of sending the little girl away on the 4:30 train this afternoon. Mr. Rice purposes that the city shall pay the expense.

SAD AND SUDDEN.

Mrs. John W. Hyatt, of Egerton Street, Expires From Heart Disease—Found Dead in Her Kitchen.

Another old and highly respected citizen has passed away in a sad and sudden manner. Mrs. Hyatt, wife of John W. Hyatt, dropped dead at her residence, 290 Egerton street, on Sunday morning about 1:30. Heart disease was assigned as the cause of death. The deceased lady was 53 years of age. She had for some time been subject to fainting spells, which caused the family much anxiety. About six weeks ago she was overtaken by one of these fits, but recovered, and since that time her health has been remarkably good. On Saturday she ate a hearty supper, and late in the evening busied herself preparing for a bath. The family retired, and about 1:30 Mr. Hyatt became uneasy about his wife, as she was not in bed, and no more of her movements could be heard. On going to the kitchen Mr. Hyatt was horrified to find the dead body of his beloved wife cold in death, near the bath-tub. The family were aroused and medical aid summoned, but nothing could be done. Mrs. Hyatt was connected with the congregation of the Plymouth Brethren, of Somerset Hall, and beloved by all who knew her. She was born in Frome, Somersetshire, England, and came to this city 27 years ago. A large family survive her. The sons are: George, John, Henry, Albert and William, and the daughters Miss Bertha, Miss Edith, and Mrs. Henry Hodges, of 1,016 Francis street. The funeral will take place on Tuesday afternoon, when the remains will be interred at Woodland Cemetery.

RECEPTION AT GLENMORE

To the Members of the London Hunt—Mrs. T. H. Smallman Receives Her Guests.

Members of the London Hunt and Country Club were the guests Saturday afternoon of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Smallman, at the Kennels. The attendance was large, despite the threatening weather, and a most enjoyable two hours was spent amid the pretty surroundings of Glenmore, and in the cosy parlors of the club. Mrs. Smallman personally received her guests, and Miss Smallman and Miss Waterman presided over the refreshments. Afterwards a 'cross country run after the hounds was held, starting on the north side of the river, and going east to the Asylum side road, then west to the south side of the river, and to Adelaide street bridge. Among those present were:

Mr. and Mrs. Gibbons, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Puddicombe, Mr. and Mrs. S. Sterling, Mr. and Mrs. I. Waterman, Mrs. McKelcan (Hamilton), Mrs. H. E. Gates, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Hunt, Mrs. J. Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. Inglis, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Leonard, Mrs. Hemming, Mrs. F. E. Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. H. Beddome, the Misses Beddome, Miss Park, Miss Amy MacDonagh, Miss Macbeth, Miss Niven, Miss E. Hyman, Miss Farley (St. Thomas), Mr. and Miss Houseman, Miss H. Moore (Toronto), Miss Brown, Miss Zimmerman, Miss Smallman, Miss Waterman, Mr. and Miss Sommerville, Miss E. Richardson, Mr. T. Beattie, M.P., Major A. M. Smith, Mr. J. B. Kilgour, Mr. Patterson, Capt. Pierce, Mr. Piggot, Mr. H. Richardson, Mr. W. T. Strong, Mr. A. Brener, Mr. W. Smith, Dr. Niven, Hugh Niven, John Smallman, C. Hunt, jun., G. Gibbons, jun., Mr. Allen Gibbons, Mr. Kenzie McCormick, and others.

City Church Circles.

Rev. G. T. Carr at the Southern Congregational — A Farewell at St. James' — Pulpit Exchanges, Etc.

Rev. G. Trotter Carr, of Stratford (formerly of this city), preached two able discourses to large congregations in the Southern Congregational Church yesterday, to further celebrate the opening of the new edifice. Rev. Mr. Claris preached in his stead in Stratford. Mr. Carr referred feelingly to former ties, when they worshiped in a large room in Spencer block, but now, through earnest work on the part of the pastor and congregation, they had a fine new edifice of their own. He also was happy to meet his old London friends on an occasion of this kind. Mrs. Carr accompanied Mr. Carr, and will remain for a short visit here.

Archdeacon Davis yesterday preached the last sermon in St. James' Church (South London), previous to the alterations to be made in the building. The work begins on Tuesday. The church has been erected 20 years. The archdeacon told his congregation not to disperse to other churches in the meantime, as there would be room in the Sunday school.

Christ Church (Episcopal) was crowded at both services yesterday, and in the evening standing room was obtained with difficulty. Rev. Mr. Gunne, of Wyoming, occupied the pulpit on both occasions, and preached two eloquent and impressive sermons. The renditions by the choir were far above the average, and the baritone solo and chorus, "O, Tolling Bells," was the feature of the evening's musical programme. Mr. J. T. Dalton was the soloist.

Rev. E. W. Waits, D.Sc., of Knox Church, Owen Sound, exchanged pulpits yesterday with Rev. W. J. Clark, of the First Presbyterian Church, city. Mr. Waits spoke in the morning on the certainties of religion, giving a logical and strongly argued course. In the evening he delivered a forcible sermon from the words of Christ to the dying thief: "This day shalt thou be with me in Paradise."

The Bishop of Huron will hold a confirmation service in Trinity Church, Mitchell, on May 25. It will be the last service held in the old building.

The jail service was conducted by the Salvation Army yesterday.

Rev. D. R. Drummond, successor to Rev. J. A. Macdonald, as pastor of Knox Church, St. Thomas, preached able sermons at St. Andrew's Church yesterday. It was his first appearance in a London pulpit.

Rev. D. Drummond, of Knox Church, St. Thomas, and Rev. Robt. Johnston, of St. Andrew's city, exchanged pulpits yesterday. Large congregations greeted Mr. Drummond morning and evening, and, from the degree of appreciation manifested, showed they were not disappointed in the least in the latest addition to the London Presbytery from the east. Mr. Drummond's personal appearance betokens a well-balanced and thoughtful mind and a large reserve fund of spiritual energy and intellectual force, rather than physical vivaciousness. He is one who would rise in the estimation of a congregation the longer he remained in their midst. His style as a preacher, while not oratorical, is calculated to arrest and impress. He has few gestures, and these are not studied ones. They are the external way of showing the force of a soul that is greatly exercised by the burden of truth. His sermons are carefully prepared, and come with a freshness to the people that indicates a mind which is active in its every fibre. The sermon yesterday morning was on Galatians, i., 4, and in addition to the above-mentioned good points showed a liberality of theological thought that is always the outcome of a generous nature. Knox Church, St. Thomas, has a workman of whom it need not be ashamed.

A DINNER PILL.—Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment, it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convert the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with Indigestion or Dyspepsia.

STATESMEN ON A LARK.

Lord Randolph Churchill's Sprint Across Westminster Bridge.

One night while Lord Randolph Churchill was conversing with several friends in the cafe attached to the House, a question arose as to the time it would take a pedestrian to cross Westminster bridge. Different opinions were expressed, but no two of the disputants were able to agree. At length Lord Randolph, who had been a silent auditor of the discussion, offered to wager that he could cross from the Middlesex to the Surrey side of the bridge while "Big Ben," the great bell in the clock tower of the Parliament buildings was striking the four quarters and the hour of 12. The wager was accepted by one of the members of the company, and it was arranged that at the hour named witnesses should be stationed at each end of the bridge to watch the performance, says a correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer.

A few minutes before midnight a select party of well-known statesmen was seen to emerge from a little door near the Speaker's quarters in the Parliament buildings and stalk sedately across the bridge. At the farther end the party paused, and was soon surrounded by a curious throng. Several other distinguished legislators soon afterwards appeared and politely requested passers-by to keep to the left.

Just as "Big Ben" began to strike the first quarter the lithe figure of a man, wearing a top hat, a frock suit and white spats, was seen to leap out of a little group of men on the Middlesex side. Some waggish friend raised the cry of "Stop thief!" and in a jiffy half a score of wondering men and boys were fast on the heels of the doughty sprinter. A policeman, hearing the cry, and observing the fleeing man, started in pursuit.

As "Big Ben" continued the clang, the pace grew hotter and hotter. One by one the pursuers began to fall away, but the big policeman hung grimly to his task. When the center of the bridge was reached, the quarters had been rung and the great bell had already begun to strike the hour. A cheer arose from the watchers on the Surrey side, and Lord Randolph, who had until then been running up an incline, now had the descent in his favor. A few moments later the panting policeman came upon his man, surrounded by admiring friends.

"What's up?" stuttered the breathless and bewildered "bobby."

"Two strokes to spare," puffed the victorious Lord Randolph.

The officer stared, blushed, apologized, wiped his brow and went his way.

INSECTS FAST DISAPPEARING.

New York Commercial Advertiser.

English entomologists are becoming much alarmed at the rapid disappearance of the insects of the woods and fields. The Leicester Literary and Philosophical Society has drawn up a series of regulations to protect the insects from the greed of collectors, and requires that no specimen of the wood white butterfly shall be taken, while of certain other species a collector may take but a single specimen during the season. Violations of the rules bring unpleasant penalties. A transgressor who is a member of the society may be expelled, he will be reported to any other society of which he is a member and the influence of the society will be used to prevent him from exchanging or dealing in any way with other entomologists. While these regulations may be difficult to enforce, it is hoped that their influence in preserving rare insects from extermination may be considerable.
