NEW POTATOES SOLD AT $1.20 TO $1.25

Raspberries Were Cheaper on the Local Market—The Quotations.

The prices of vegetables and fruits as a rule were cheaper today on the London market. These two offerings composed the larger portion of the offerings. A few loads of new hay were sold for $12.50 to $15.00 a ton, a higher price than has been paid yet this season. No old hay has been offered for a couple of days, and but few loads of straw have been sold.

New potatoes were plentiful, the price today being $1.20 to $1.25 per bushel. Green onions were cheaper, being quoted at 20 cents per dozen bunches. Cabbages, butter beans and tomatoes were cheaper than on Tuesday, while cauliflowers were quoted at prices ranging from $1.50 to $2.00 per dozen.

Raspberries were also cheaper, the wholesale price being 13 cents per box and the retail price 15 cents. Red currants were sold for 8 and 9 cents per box.

COBALT STOCKS.

TORONTO, July 17.—The mining market was very little changed today. Hollinger, after selling down to 12.15, closed firmer around 12.35. The stock is very scarce, and the market in it is extremely narrow, and as a result it moves very quickly either way. From the actions of the stock it looks as if someone was trying to depress it. The low-priced stocks were about unchanged, and but a nominal amount of trading took place in them.

WAS ANDREE FIRST

Norwegian Explorer Plans Expedition To Solve the Mystery.

Stockholm, July 18. — Was Andree before Peary in sighting the North Pole? The fact that the Norwegian plating an expedition to Northern Canada for the purpose of lifting, if possible, the veil of mystery which surrounds the fate of Andree and his brave followers, has called forth a very interesting and lengthy investigation of the Andree expedition in a leading Swedish paper. As a result, the conclusion is hazarded that Andree's ill-fated balloon may have passed over the North Pole, as was planned by the bold and clever Swede.

The rumors of traces of Andree's balloon having ben found in remote Northern Canada are not being treated lightly ,especially as Andree himself mentioned Canada as a place where he would be likely to land. His projected route was marked by a line drawn from Spitzbergen right across the pole to the northwest of the American continent, or Northeastern Siberia.

When Andree started he believed he had every prospect of accomplishing the great task he had set himself. He could, all told, lighten the balloon by 1,434 kilograms, and he had with him an ample supply of provisions, ammunition, tent, sledges and so forth. The loss of gas was calculated at 84 kilograms every 24 hours. This was considered well on the safe side, but the balloon under those conditions could be kept in the air for 17 days. The theory that the balloon came to grief off the Kola Peninsula is untenable, according to expert reasoning.

As to the direction of the balloon, the hypothesis of Prof. Nathorst that Andree from Barent's Sea went north and east of Francis Joseph's Land and continued his northward journey, ics accepted as by far the most probable, and the strong southerly wind which prevailed for several days after the start wuld in all likelihood enable Andree not only to reach the pole, but arrive in Northern Canada.

THE ORIENTS WON

Are Now Entitled to Meet Hobbs for the Championship.

The Orients proved their right to meet Hobbs for the championship of the Commercial League by defeating McNees last evening at Tecumseh Park by the score of 9 to 2. Although the game was a trifle one-sided, it was a good exhibtion of baseball. Callahan pitched a great game for the winners, McNees being unable to solve his delivery. Daniels also pitched good ball, but he was hit hard in the pinches. Males, who caught the first three innings for McNees, was struck by a foul tip on the ear in the third inning and was laid out for some time. He had to retire from the game, and "Corker" Legg finished the game behind the bat.

COW WENT MAD

Animal Near Talbotville Was Bitten by a Dog Recently.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

St. Thomas, July 18. — A cow belonging to Samuel Birtwhistle, a farmer residing on the London road, near Talbotville, in Southwold, died today from what is believed to be hydrophobia. A few weeks ago Mr. Birtwhistle's dog went mad and was killed. It is supposed the cow was bitten by the animal. Yesterday it started to froth at the mouth and became very ill. CORRESPONDENCE

The East End Market.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

In your paper of the 11th inst. a statement is made that I demanded $2,500 for certain lands required by the East End market, and that the committee offered me $500 for the same. Both statements are untrue. The details are too lengthy for me to ask you to give them space, but the committee of the council, when it deals with the matter, will get the facts at first hand, if they give me the opportunity I have asked for, and I will then ask that you set me right by reporting the matter correctly. Yours truly,

EDITH EDWARDS.

Note.—The statement was not made by The Advertiser, but by an East End citizen who waited on No. 3 committee and whose remarks were reported.

MRS. MORROW'S TRIAL

Prominent Chicago Lady is Charged With Shooting Her Husband.

[Canadian Press.]

Chicago, July 18.—It was expected today that a verdict might be reached this evening in the case of Mrs. Rene B. Morrow, whose prominence in woman's clubs here has attracted wide attention to her trial on a charge of having shot her husband to death on the porch of the Morrow home last December.

While the closing arguments were in progress today, Mrs. Morrow, who is a neatly-dressed, matronly-appearing woman, seemed hopeful of acquittal, on the ground that Morrow was either murdered by a burglar or committed suicide. It was contended that the motive for prosecution lay in the disclosure to Morrow's relatives after his death that the property of the couple was held in the name of Mrs. Morrow.

Most of the spectators at the trial today were women.

ROSE SAYS LEFT AUTO BEFORE THE SHOOTING

Admits to Police That He Rode With Gang That Murdered Gambler Rosenthal.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, July 18.—"Jack" Rose, wanted by the police in connection with the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler and informer against the police, went to police headquarters this morning and was questioned for two hours by Deputy Commissioner Dougherty. Rose admitted, Dougherty said, that he was a passenger in the automobile in which Rosenthal's murderers rode to the Hotel Metropole, but he said that he left it before the shooting took place.

The deputy commissioner would not say whether Rose told who else was in the car when he left it. After the examination Rose, who is the man who figured in the charges of gambling graft made by Rosenthal against Police Lieut. Becker, was placed under arrest, and taken to District Attorney Whitman's office, where it was expected that he would be given another examination in connection with the grand jury's investigation into the gambling situation.

Police Commissioner Waldo today announced the suspension of Patrolman Wm. J. File, who was in the Hotel Metropole off duty at the time of the murder, and unsuccessfully pursued in a taxicab the automobile in which the murderers escaped.

BRIGAND'S STORE OF ARMS DISCOVERED

Paris Police Locate Rooms of Garnier, Leader of the Auto Bandits.

Paris, July 18.—Yet another presumed member of the redoubtable automobile brigand gang is now in custody, and the police are actively in search of more. A few days ago four young men were arrested as they were indulging in revolver practice on a bank of the canal at Livry, without the slightest regard for the safety of passersby, and during the interrogatory which followed the magistrate ascertained that a friend of theirs, who had also been firing, but had succeeded in escaping, was living in a lodging-house in the Rue Montorgueil, in Paris.

M. Guichard, the chief of the criminal detective department, had the place watched, and last evening, when a cab drew up and its occup
