WANTED TO KILL MORE.

AN INSANE MAN MURDERS DR. LLOYD AT FLATBUSH ASYLUM.

He Used to Persecute Mary Anderson, and Now Accuses Her of Wronging Him by Marrying—Wholesale Slaughter of Medical Men Meditated by Him—Arrest in New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Dr. George W. Lloyd, the assistant superintendent of the Flatbush insane asylum, was murdered at 5.30 o'clock this evening by James D. Dougherty, Mary Anderson's crazy lover, who had been generally regarded as a harmless crank.

Dougherty escaped from the asylum about two months ogo, by means of a false key. Since then he has been frequently seen on Broadway in this city and occasionally at Flatbush. He appeared there with a big revolver on Sept. 26, and by threatening the life of Supt. Fleming, got his clothing which he had left behind when he escaped.

Late this afternoon he appeared suddenly in the office on the right of the corridor, where Dr. Lloyd, Dr. Thomas J. McGreal, the druggist of the institution, young Dr. Edwin W. Ashford of Washington, and Drug Clerk Schielder were. The spectacled crank stood, bareheaded, in the doorway, with a big brand-new glistening revolver in each hand.

His eyes were gleaming with light peculiar to a dangerous lunatic, and the young physicians instantly recognized that they were in extreme peril. Their first thought was to pacify the madman by soothing words and then overpower and disarm him. He stood for a moment glaring at the frightened men and then said, in a savage tone: "Where is Dr. Fleming."

Dr. Lloyd nervously answered: "Dr. Fleming has just put on his hat and gone out."

Dougherty remarked gruffly: "I don't believe it." Then he walked to the door of the pharmacy, which adjoins the office on the north, and back again, covering the four men with his revolvers and said he is not in there anyhow."

Dr. McGreal, white as plaster, stood directly in a range of the weapons with his back to the lunatic. It was only a few seconds that Dougherty was behind him, but he says it seemed like half an hour.

Dougherty moved toward Dr. Lloyd, who was still sitting at his desk in the middle of the room. The doctor said, in a conciliatory tone, looking calmly into the muzzles of the two self-cockers; "Dougherty, you ought to be ashamed of yourself to want to hurt Dr. Fleming. He has always been a good friend of yours."

The lunatic said nothing. He coolly walked up to the doctor's chair, placed the muzzle of the large revolver (which is nearly a foot long) almost against the docter's left side, and fired. The bullet pierced the young physician's heart, and went clear through his body. He threw up his hands, arose convulsively from his chair and exclaimed: "Oh Dougherty!" While he was toppling with his life already gone, the assassin sent another bullet through the docter's neck.

The druggist was then the only other man in the office. Dr. McGreal ran through the corridor into the street, and shouted, "Police." As Dougherty passed Dr. Ashford in the hall, the young Washingtonian noticed that he was remarkably cool. He still held the revolvers in his hands, and as he went out the door he warned Dr. Ashford to keep back.

But Dr. Ashford determined to follow Dougherty and have him arrested. For nearly three-quarters of a mile he kept less than a block behind the murderer on a deserted road. The police had the news of his deed and his flight flashed all over Brooklyn.

But it remained for Dr. Ashford to cause his arrest. The doctor knew that Dougherty would come to this city, and surmised that he would cross the bridge. He got over just one train ahead of Dougherty, and, after notifying a couple of policemen, walked over to the murderer, and touched him on the shoulder just as he was going down the steps, Dougherty turned, and the muscular officers grabbed both his arms. They took him around to the Oak street station.

To Acting Captain Graham he unfolded his plan of wholesale murder. He intended to kill ten or a dozen people, beginning with Dr. Fleming; Dr. Hoyt, the secretary of the state charities board, was also to be a victim. Young Dr. Lloyd he killed because Dr. Fleming wasn't round.

In his possession were his revolvers and a letter written last week to Mary Anderson, accusing her of wronging him by her marriage.

RECIPROCITY.

The New York "Tribune" Says the American People Do Not Want Either Reciprocity With Canada or Annexation.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 8.—It is evident that there is not the slightest probability of reciprocity between the United States and Canada. The following editorial, from the New York Tribune today, throws some light upon public sentiment here:—"The ability of Sir John Macdonald to gauge public sentiment in Canada need not be questioned. But it is charity to suppose him profoundly mistaken regarding public sentiment in this country; for the only other alternative would be to consider him audaciously untruthful. Not one in fifty of the people in this country. Dr. cares a single pinch of snuff about Canadian annexation. The very few who do care, having personal interests which lead them to realize what could be made of resources and opportunities on the other side of the border by American capital and enterprise in connection with the largest and most profitable market in the whole world, are lost like a drop in the bucket when they attempt to impress or move about that vast body of American indifference. Mr. Butterworth eloquently crates to audiences which go away asking, 'What axe has he to grind?' and then forget all about it. Mr. Wiman labors by voice and pen to change American opinion, but no one knows better than he that while scores here listen because they care for what he says, the millions listen because he is a good talker. Senator Sherman with his reputation and well earned influence; Representative Hitt with his honorable position, cannot separately or together get a respectable vote in either House of Congress for any proposition committing this country to the abandonment or weakening of its protective policy for the sake of Canadian relations. All this is not hostility. It is simply indifference, ignorant if anybody pleases, but very real.

McKINLEY TARIFF AND TRADE.

The Lime and Potato Trade Feel It Most—An Important Section Relating to Horses for Breeding.

Already the effects of the McKinley tariff are quite apparent in the falling off in the shipments of the kinds of goods we export most of to the United States markets. Since Monday when the bill practically went into effect, the shipments of potatoes have stopped nearly altogether and the serious check on the lime export trade has almost stopped that business too, for the time. The change in respect to lime will make it very difficult, to say the least, for out lime business to compete with the Maine business. Sometime ago the duty on lime going into the United States was only about 3 cents per barrel, the packages or barrels containing the article going in free. Later a duty of 14 cents was imposed on the barrels so that the duty our manufacturers paid before the McKinley bill came into operation amounted to about 4 1-10 cents per barrel on lime, including the barrel and contents. Under the McKinley tariff the duty is 6 cents per hundred pounds on lime, weight of package included. As our lime weighs about 230 pounds to the barrel, including weight of barrel, the present duty on lime amounts to about 14 cents per barrel, or almost 10 cents a barrel higher than was the case under the old tariff.

A section of the provisions relating to horses for breeding purposes will interest many. Horses said to be for breeding purposes went into the United States free, under the old tariff, and of course the horses exported from the provinces were largely entered under that head. The convenience of this clause has been greatly lessened in extent, however, under the new tariff by the following provision:—

Any animal imported specially for breeding purposes shall be admitted free provided that no such animal shall be admitted free unless pure bred of a recognized breed, and duly registered in the book of records established for that breed: and provided further that certificate of such record and of the pedigree of such animals shall be produced and submitted to the customs officer, duly authenticated by the proper custodian of the book of record, together with the affidavit of the owner, agent or importer of such animal described in said certificate of record and pedigree.

RESIGNED.—Mr. E. T. Waycott has resigned his position in the auditing department of the C. P. R. at Montreal. Mr. Waycott was formerly employed in the auditing department of the New Brunswick railway in this city, but after this road was transferred to the C. P. R. that gentleman was removed to Montreal. Matters there, however, were not satisfactory, and he resigned.

EXCURSION TO BOSTON BY RAIL.—The Canadian Pacific railway have arranged an excursion to Boston on Monday and Thursday next, tickets good to return before midnight of October 26. This will be the only cheap excursion by railroad this year, and it affords an opportunity to visit the Mechanics' fair. The trip is a pleasant one, and the fare has been placed at the very moderate sum of eight dollars to Boston and return.

ONE WORTH HEARING.—St. Patrick's Society had their hall filled last evening by an audience who listened with much pleasure to the excellent entertainment given. There were songs, a speech from the president, dances and two magnificent selections from the Artillery band. Fifty pretty little girls sung two choruses and were deservedly encored on each occasion. Several other portions of the programme were also encored but its length would not permit of the participants responding.

ST. JOHN CHAUTAQUA UNION.—At the quarterly meeting of this union last evening the following officers were chosen: Wm. White, President: Thos. C. Crockett, first vice-president; Mrs. Geo. A. Henderson, second vice-president; J. Hunter White, secretary; Miss M. A. Whittaker, financial, sec-treasurer. After the election Mr. Wm. White read an excellent paper on his trip to Chautauqua. A vote of thanks was tendered him. Mr. White's visit to Chautauqua was for the purpose of receiving his diploma, he having graduated after his four years' course of reading.

SECOND EDITION.

CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS.

THE MEN OF C. BATTERY AT ESQUIMALT TO BE RELIEVED.

The Smelt Fisheries in Gaspe County—The Time of Seining Extended—Count Turenne and the Atlantic Fast Service—The Phosphate Lands.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

OTTAWA, Oct. 11.—The government has definitely decided to call for volunteers from "A" and "B" batteries to take the place of the men of "C" battery stationed at Esquimalt whose three years period of service expires this month. About seventy men are required to bring "C" battery up to its full strength and as the wages are somewhat higher on the Pacific coast than in Eastern Canada the government will grant those who offer for service a bonus on their present rates of pay.

The Smelt Fisheries.

Last year permission was granted to the smelt fishers of the county of Gaspe and that portion of the county of Bonaventure which has no railway communication to use seines for catching fish from 16th Oct. to the close of navigation. An order in council has now been passed allowing seining for smelts in the counties named, from the first of October to the close of navigation every year under special permits from the Minister of Marine and Fisheries provided that upon the extension of the Baie des Chaleurs railway, now in course of construction, such localities as may, from time to time, become connected with the railway system of Canada, shall be amenable to the regulations now in force, governing the smelt fishery in the Dominion. The bag net fishing for smelts hitherto permitted is now prohibition.

Count Turenne.

Count Turenne, Consul General of France and Mr. A. Forget, agent of La Campagine Generale Transatlantique, had an interview with the Minister of Finance yesterday with reference to the contract for the Atlantic fast mail service.

The Phosphate Lands.

Mr. Knud Sands, president of the general phosphate corporation has arrived in this city from the Buckingham district. It is understood that as a result of his visit to the Du Lievre district he is highly impressed with the quality of the phosphate there. The company with which he is connected has taken options in some of the best phosphate territory in Canada. Mr. Sands proposes to visit the Pacific Coast next week and upon his return after consulting with Sir Geo. Baden-Powell and other directors of the corporation in Canada the question will be decided as to which of the properties will be bought outright.

Mr. Sands will have a conference with Sir Geo. Baden-Powell in Winnipeg on Wednesday.

CUMBERLAND VALLEY HORROR.

The Report at the Autopsy of the Medical Men Who Examined the Bodies of the Murdered Children.

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.

OTTAWA, Oct. 11.—A special despatch from Cumberland Village, says, at the autopsy the reports of three doctors, Mark, Jamieson and Ferguson, were omitted. In their opinion death resulted from strangulation. There was such a violent outrage of the McGonigle girls as to cause rupture. Dr. Mark saw marks from the finger marks on the throats and the posture of the bodies that the fiend choked them to death one with each hand. If two men did it one of them must have been left handed.

A new point was brought out. There were laceration on the little hands of the youngest girl, and the doctors believed they could have been inflicted by strong finger nails. They examined the prisoner's nails, and found them remarkably strong. A blunt jack knife could have inflicted the wounds on Mary's head. This evidence produced great excitement. The inquest adjourned at one this morning till to-day.

THE FINANCIAL SETTLEMENT.

The London Press Speaks Out on the Subject.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—The Times says the financial settlement has been a most anxious one this year.

The News says: "Half the city appears to be still inclined to form knots and talk about their standing of the other half. This disposition to cast dirt or suspicion on an important house is becoming tiresome. This mischievous talk is not limited to London. The Berlin papers are making free with the names of London firms."

The Standard says: "The settlement was difficult, but the credit mark stood the strain admirably. The worst is now over."

AN AGRICULTURAL REPORT.

The United States Laws are Inadequate to Protect the Forests.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The annual report of Commissioner Graff of the general land office says an agricultural domain of nearly 10,000,000 acres has been transferred during the year to enterprising and industrious settlers, by patents issued to them. The areas patented to states and to corporations have been great although somewhat reduced as compared with previous years. The report says the laws for the protection of the public forests are utterly inadequate and the most valuable timber on public lands is being rapidly exhausted.

DILLON AND O'BRIEN.

WHAT THE LONDON PAPERS SAY ABOUT THEIR ESCAPE.

The Times and Standard Do Not Say the Government Allowed Their Escape—They Fled to Avoid Imprisonment.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—The Post, in an editorial on the flight of Dillon and O'Brien says:—"The battle had just been set in array when the generals on the Home Rule side fled ignominiously from the field.

The Daily Telegraph says the English public will regard the suspended trial with the same indifference with which it has regarded the other scenes of the stale performance.

Neither the Times nor the Standard makes the slightest suggestion that the government allowed Dillon and O'Brien to escape. Both the papers accuse the fugitives of cowardice.

The Times think their great object is the dramatic effect on America. "But genuine Americans" it adds, "may decline to regard them as more than a couple of mendicants."

The Standard says: "They fled to avoid imprisonment, that is the long and short of it. The American mission was a secondary consideration."

THE REV. JOHN DE SOYRES will preach in St. John's Episcopal church to-morrow evening on the Fifth Commandment. Mr. deSoyres is preaching a series of sermons on the Commandments, which are attracting much attention.

FIVE CANDIDATES.—Capt. Smith, R. N. R. will arrive here on Monday morning to conduct the marine examinations, which will begin on that day. There are five candidates: 1 for master, 3 for mates and 1 for second mate.

BARK LOTTIE STEWART arrived this morning from Glace Bay with a cargo of coal. She came around in a week but during two days of the passage, Monday and Tuesday, she encountered very heavy N. W. winds. Last night she also had very dirty weather in the Bay.

STOVES AND MANTLES.—Attention is directed to the advertisement of C. T. Burns, 94 Germain street, which appears in another column. Mr. Burns has now in stock one of the finest lot of stoves and ranges to be ffound in the city, and as for mantles, there are not any of a better class in Canada, all of which are manufactured by this gentleman. Jobbing of all kinds is done at the shortest notice.

ACROSS THE FERRY DOCK.—The trips of the ferry boat were interrupted in the early part of the afternoon by the schooner Bessie Carson getting across the East side dock. The Carson was loaded with salt and was hauling from Walker's wharf to the stream, and drifted back and fouled the ferry dock, breaking off about three feet of her main boom. Her anchor was let go and she remained across the dock for a considerable time, the ferry boat meanwhile running to Reed's Point wharf.

AT THE SUNDAY SCHOOL MEETINGS to be held tomorrow, beside Mr. Reynolds, of Illinois, already announced, Mr. S. S. Eddy of New York will take a prominent part. All Sunday school officers, teachers, and scholars, are invited to the afternoon meeting at four o'clock in the Leinster street church. Singing by the scholars of different schools led by Mr. Morton Smith. Special hymns have been printed for the occasion. The evening meeting in Centenary church at half past eight is for all interested in Sunday schools, and will be addressed by the above named gentlemen and others. Singing by a select choir. All interested in our Sunday schools,—and who are not?—will no doubt learn much that will interest and benefit them by being present at these meetings.

LECTURE.—The Rev. H. W. Little, rector of Sussex, whose lecture on "Stanley," given some time since, proved so very interesting will again lecture in the Mechanics' Institute, on next Thursday evening, the 16th instant, at eight o'clock. The subject will be "The History of African Exploration and Discovery from the earliest times to the peesent day." This covers a vast field of matter of absorbing interest at the present time, which the reverend gentleman is specially qualified to handle, having not only made this subject a special study, but also passed several years in Africa, on the outskirts of the territory so recently laid open to the world. The lecture is given under the auspices of the Mission Church Club for men, the object being to raise funds for several schemes in connection with the church which require money. It is to be hoped that a large audience will assemble to hear what will doubtless prove a very able exposition of a subject just now interesting the civilized world.

Plenty of Work.

So far this summer ship carpenters and caulkers have had all the work they could attend to, and the prospects are bright for more employment. At times during the season so many vessels have been here to repair, that some have had to leave without receiving the necessary repairs. All the blocks in the city are now full of vessels and the industrious sounds of hammer, axe and caulking irons may be heard at all hours.

On Wilson & McLaughlan's blocks, Carleton, there are 3 vessels at present: The barks Sylvan, Kentigern and St. Andrew. The Sylvan has been reclassed and will come off the blocks Monday. The Kentigern and St. Andrew are also being reclassed. The former will finish about the last of next week and the latter in about three weeks.

The brigt. Clara, which was ashore near Point Lepreaux has been thoroughly repaired and has received new spars on O'Brien's blocks, Carleton. Last night she was hauled on to Ring's blocks where she is to recieve a few finishing touches and on Monday she will come off.

Brigt. Artos is being coppered on Elliot's blocks, North end, and several other vessels are being repaired on the different other blocks of the city.
