JOGGINS CONSOLIDATION.—The stockholders of the Joggins Mine decided on Tuesday by a large majority to combine with the Railway owners and the owners of the Campbell areas and the Cruikshank and Patrick mines and form a corporation. An offer has been received for a portion of the bonds of the new corporation from a N. Y. firm and the prospect of the entire sale of them is good. Notice has been given of the organization of the new company, which meets for the first time at St. John on Friday morning.

PERS.—Mr. C. P. Curtis, of the Boston firm of C. P. Curtis & Co. Produce and fish dealers, with Mrs. and Miss Curtis have been visiting friends at Baie Verte. Mr. Curtis went to P. E. Island on business on Monday. He reports better prices probable for lobsters in his market in the near future. A large number of live lobsters which enter free have been sent there which has kept down the price of the canned fish. In speaking of summer travel this way he said the action of the government in collecting duty on necessary articles carried by tourists, such as fishing rods. Keeps a large number of people away from our resorts.

MAGISTRATES COURT.—On Thursday morning last Chas. McEachern was arrested at the instance of Thos. Estabrooks on the charge of stealing and vagrancy. The latter charge only was pressed and McEachern was sentenced to three months imprisonment in jail with hard labor; the sentence to stand upon the condition that the prisoner go to work and support his family, keep sober and preserve the peace. He agreed. For a long time McEachern has been living on his wife's earnings and the revelation to him that the law could compel him to work and take care of his family was a surprise. So far he has been doing well.

—The sale of goods seized under warrent of distress against Priestly Estabrooks in re C. T. Act will be sold at or near Music Hall Block to-morrow afternoon.

—Information has been laid by Wm. Yeates against John Gayton for indecent exposure near the residence of the former on several occasions of late. The case came up yesterday morning and was adjourned until to-morrow afternoon.

GUN TOURNAMENT — Sportsmen throughout the country should be getting their shooting gear polished up in readiness for the Grand Two Days Shooting Tournament, which is to be held at Amherst on Aug. 17th and 18th. This is the first thing of the kind ever held in this part of the country and is a good step towards bringing this kind of shooting more into notice. It is already very popular throughout western Canada and the U. S. The flying targets thrown swiftly from strong traps afford a sportsman lots of opportunity of testing his skill with the shot-gun and is advisable practice for wild fowl shooters. A look at the prize list shows that there will be lots of money to shoot for and therefore lots of fun. Every sportsman should go and try his luck. The arrangement for division of prizes is such that everyone has a chance of capturing some and even the poorest shot has lots of chances in his favor. The Club is making extensive preparations and are doing their best to make everything satisfactory and pleasant for visitors.

Local Matters.

The I. C. R. men at Moncton had their annual trip to Pt. du Chene on Saturday. All had a good time.

The bridge across the Memramcook at Rockland has been rebuilt and completed except painting and has been open for traffic since Saturday.

H. E. Calkin of Albert Co, a graduate of the N. B. Normal School has been appointed master of the Hackett Grammer School, near Amesbury, Mass.

The Salt Springs coal mine is being reopened, and the first shipment of coal from the mine was made last week. The slope is now down over forty feet and the width of the seam has increased to nearly six feet,

George Taylor, general freight agent, and A. Busby, general passenger agent of the Intercolonial, have been superanuated. T. C. Cooke has been appointed collector of customs at Canso, vice Capt. Young, deceased.

William McPhee of Salisbury, a brakeman, while passing along the top of box cars composing a train, near Upper Woodstock, fell between the cars and was instantly crushed under the wheels. No blame was attached by the coroner's jury to other employees of this line.

Early Sunday morning three men were frightened away from the residence of Dr. Hewson, Amherst, which they evidently intended to enter. The doctor heard the noise and threatened to shoot whereupon one of the men remarked that he had better not since two could play at that game. They decamped.

A very sad sight was witnessed yesterday afternoon on Foundry street, when a lad apparently about 12 years of age was to be seen completely intoxicated. No punishment is too severe for the dimunitive specimen of mankind who would sell a child of that age intoxicating drinks.—Moncton Transcript.

Says the Hopewell Hill cor. Transcript:—Our cheese factory opened Wednesday, Aug. 3rd, under the supervision of Mr. McCready of the Havelock cheese factory. Teams are on the road each morning between Wm. Calhoun's, Beaver Brook, and Capt. Fred Wilbur's, Mountville, to get the milk, and yesterday brought about 1300 lbs, with an increase of 100 lbs to day. It is thought that in a week or two the supply will be equal to one ton. The factory is said, by men who have been appointed by the government to look into such things, to be the best in the province and that the country effords splendid facilities for cheese making.

Says the Amherst correspondent of the Herald, 4th inst: Inspector Casey and Constable Brenon, armed with a liquor search warrant yesterday visited the premises kept by John Conn and John Chisholm at Joggins. Seeing the officers approaching, the vendors made their escape; Chisholm by the back door; Conn, out of the upper window. Going inside, Casey was attacked by two roughs—Westcott and McCarty; and while struggling with them was seized and bitten several times in the leg by a dog kept chained up behind the counter in the bar with a chain long enough to allow it to get over the counter, should its service be required there. No sooner had he freed himself from these antagonists, that he was met face to face with Chisholm, who, while pointing a revolver at him, said: Get out of this or I'll shoot you,' to which Casey replied, "Shoot away; that's what we are here for." Chisholm, however, thought twice before firing and disappeared, leaving Casey in full command. A warrant for threatening to shoot is now out against Chisholm.

The Amherst correspondent of the Parrsboro Leader stands god father to the following: "Not long since a prominent divine, living not much more than 1000 miles from Amherst, in the discharge of his duty called upon a flashing, a dashing, a golden-haired damsel to talk seriously over her style of living and her means of livelihood. On going to the Lady's (!) residence the minister was met not in the usual way—with open arms—but with every courtesy and politeness. He explained the object of his mission, talked matters over seriously, and kindly, when the fair one melted into tears, acknowledged her offences and promised a "newness of life." But the funny part is yet to come. About the time the good man was going to leave, the 'penitent" expressed a desire in some way to repay him for his kindness and said she would like to give him $5.00 but only had one $10.00 bill left. As a matter of course the minister was ready and willing to oblige the convert and change the bill, which he took, handing her back five dollars. With a hearty shake of the hand and a benign smile upon his countenance the worthy pastor left the house, promising to call again. But imagine, if you can, his surprise when a day or two later, wishing to make change, he discovered that his ten dollar bill was a counterfeit. It is almost unnecessary to say our clerical friend did not fulfil his promise and call again, in fact he did not even go back to get the mistake rectified.

—A majority of 40 in a House of Commons, seems ample to Canadians who reason from the majorities in this country. Yet, relatively to the total membership, Mr. Gladstone's majority in the British House is equivalent to only 12 in the Canadian House, and it is composed of many diverse elements.

Valuation and Assessment.

To the Editor of the Chignecto Post,

SIR,—I presume that you are aware that the present assessment law of New Brunswick was the outcome of three prize essays one of them the work of your humble servant. I thought when I wrote my essay that from my long connection with the local affairs of Westmorland that I had some idea of what was required, and in addition to that I had carefully read the assessment laws of Great Britain and of some of the United States. My essay differed so far from the others that although I was awarded one of the prizes I was informed by the executive that many of my ideas were too radical. The essay that contained the valuator idea was written by Mr. Lugrin and that idea was embodied in the present assessment law. To that idea I was then hostile and have never seen any good reason to change my hostility to it. I thought I saw in it a great increase of cost of without any corresponding benefit. I believe that now the rate-payers throughout the Province have arrived at a similar conclusion. The table you have published and your excellent editorial only shew a part of the injustice done, and my purpose is to disclose a remedy for the wrongs that may be repeated if our assessment law is not amended. I shall not however go beyond the matters mentioned in your editorial, although there are other defects in the law that ought to be removed.

Property and income form the foundation for local taxation, and when countries are divided into parishes as they are in New Brunswick justice demands that each and every parish be placed on an equality in the apportionment of local taxation so that one parish be not eased and another or others overburdened. To avoid this the board of valuators should be so constituted that a member, even if he desired to ease his own or any other parish should be so placed that his desire would be be neutralised. What I proposed in my essay was a board of valuators and assessors made up of a member from each parish, this in Westmorland would give the county a board of seven. The moment that one attempted to exempt his parish from its proper porportion of taxation the other six would be in a position to prevent him. To place partialty out of the question instead of making up the valuation and assessment by parishes as it is now done, in the first instance the list of ratepayers should be made up from the whole county without taking into consideration where or in what parish they lived, and then from the best information within the reach of the board the real and personal estate and incomes of the persons on the list should be ascertained and the rate of each ratepayer made out in the ordinary way. The apportionment for each parish should be made in the only correct way in which it can be made and that is by placing the ratepayers of each on a parish list made out from the general or county list and placing each rate as it is now done opposite the name of the ratepayer.

It may be asked what about the cost of your proposed system? I believe that while in all respects the result would be satisfactory that the cost of valuation would be decreased more than fifty per cent. Take if you will the County of Westmorland, where under the law as it now is we have three valuators and twenty-one assessors, twenty-four in all. The system recommended would reduce that number to seven thus saving what is now paid to the seventeen that would be dispensed with. The seven could each be paid much better than the twenty-four severally are now paid and still a very large saving effected.

I have only referred, and that perhaps too briefly, to one of the amendments I discussed in my essay, but I have said enough to show how the injustice done to some of the parishes by the last and previous valuations could be avoided. I will say in conclusion that there are other radical defects in our assessment law, and it is to be hoped that the commissioners now at work on a new law will, when their work is done and becomes law, remove them.

Yours
CHAS. E. KNAPP.

Challenge.

As there has been considerable talk among horsemen of Port Elgin and elsewhere as to the relative trotting ability of T. L. Wood's horse "Happy Jack" and my horse "Zulu Chief" I hereby issue the following challenge to Mr. Wood. First: I will trot my horse, "Zulu Chief" against his horse, "Happy Jack" for a purse of $100 or $500, which ever he may wish. The race to be mile heats; winner to take three out of five.

Second: For a wager of $100 or $500 I will undertake with "Zulu Chief" to distance his horse "Happy Jack" by 100 yards, three heats out of six. The race to be on Moncton or Amherst tracks.

Should Mr. Wood desire to accept either of the above propositions he may do so by covering my deposit of $100, a check for which is at the office of the POST, within one week.

THE LAMB TRADE.—Mr P. G. Mahoney of Melrose has been shipping one car of lambs to Portland Me. each week during the past month and will continue to ship at this rate until the season closes. Prices are not high in the American market as the ranches in the west are sending their stocks east and badly crippling prices.

KILLED IN GLASGOW.—Word has been received here that James McMahon, harness maker, who left here in September last was run over by a railroad train at Glasgow, Scotland, at noon on July 23 and died shortly afterward. The only particulars available are that he was struck while crossing the track, and one leg was taken off. He was taken to the hospital and died at 3 o'clock the next morning. McMahon was 25 years of age, and will be remembered as a quiet, steady, industrious young man.

SAYS OF

M. P. P.

The preparation of Peptonized porter with extract of malt and dandelion which has been presented to the profession for judgment seems to me to be an excellent article for dyspeptics, invalids, or others needing an efficient and pleasant tonic and stimulant. The combination would appear to be the best in the market, and will no doubt become very generally used as its merits become known to the public.

For sale by all Druggists. Beware of imitations.
