CHIGNECTO POST AND BORDERER

SACKVILLE N. B., APRIL 19. 1894

MR. DICKEY IN PARLIAMENT.

The member for Cumberland has resigned his position as the spokesman of the temperance alliance in parliament. He is not unwilling to support the organization and its platform in the matter of prohibition. On this question he is indeed in advance of the alliance itself, for while that body has concluded to pass a resolution asking for a prohibitory law to be enacted as soon as practicable, Mr. Dickey advised the introduction of a stronger resolution declaring that prohibition should become law at once. Members of the alliance thought that in view of the position of the government in respect to the prohibition commission this would be equivalent to a motion of want of confidence. This Mr. Dickey did not dispute, though he might have done so, but he observed that he was willing to move or to support such a resolution. The question on which he is at issue with the alliance and with a large number of prohibitionists, is in respect to the French treaty. He approves of the treaty and does not see any thing in it opposed to prohibition. The objection to the treaty on the ground that it agrees to admit French wines at less duty than some other wines does not stand in the way of legislation forbidding the importation of all wines as a beverage, even if it did the adoption of the treaty would not be a serious impedement to prohibition, for the treaty can always be abrogated on a year's notice.

Mr. Dickey has also come to the front as a woman suffragist in a moderate sense. Amherst is a town which does not hold to the traditions of the elders, and a number of the ladies of that place have not been able to understand why since votiog in federal elections goes by property and income qualification, female property owners and wage earners should not have a chance to put a ballot in the box.

It has been explained to them that they have husbands to represent them but a considerable number, who are widows or unmarried women, report themselves unconvinced by this argument. Their case has been presented to Mr. Dickey with such clearness that he has undertaken to introduce legislation for the enfranchisement of these classes. He is early on hand with his measure of which he gave notice some time ago. The original franchise bill as introduced by Sir John Macdonald in 1885 provided for the enfranchisement of widows and spinsters on the same conditions as men. But this clause was struck out in committee though it was strongly supported by the late premier. Sir John Macdonald was pleased to call himself a tory of the tories, but in his later years he was almost a radical in his opposition to privilege. In this connection it may be remarked that the chief part in bringing to an issue the policy of woman suffrage in New Zealand was taken by Sir George Grey, a former soldier, who half a century ago was made Crown Governor of several Australian colonies one after another. After serving a quarter of a century in this aristocratic function he became a radical and leaving the imperial service became a New Zealand politician rising in time to the premiership. At eighty two he has finished his successful fight for woman suffrage in his adopted home In Nova Scotia and New Brunswick female property owners have the right to vote in municipal elections which enables them to some extent to protect themselves as rate payers. But the other day in the Massachusetts legislature a bill to give them this obvious right was voted down. Mr. Dickey's measure will probably meet the same fate that usually befalls new bills introduced by private members in parliament. But he will doubtless get it before committee, and may pave the way for its success next year.

THE TIMES ON THE MARITIME PROVINCES.

The London Times of 24th ult, is very largely devoted to the Maritime Provinces. It contains a four and a half column article from its correspondent, (who is understood to be Mr. Geo. R. Parkin, whose lecture on Imperial Federation at Sackville a year ago, will not be forgotten) and also a leader on the same subject. We will reproduce a portion of Mr. Parkin's article in a future issue. The Times' leader states that its correspondent confutes two popular fallacies. One, that "The older parts of Canada no longer offer tempting prospects to the emigrant is erroneous." * * Even the long settled parts of the Dominion are still in a state of industrial infancy and afford as good scope as any part of the world for the capitalist and the workman." * * Eastern Canada has only superficially developed its resources." The Times emphasizes Mr. Parkin's advice, that the people of the Maritime Provinces give less of their time to politics and more to improving their farming methods, to meet the changing conditions created by competition in products and the general reduction in land values every where.

"The second popular fallacy combatted that the British manufacturer must cease to look to the Canadian market that Mr. Goldwin Smith is in error in arguing that the trade between Canada and England must be trivial in comparison with that between Canada and United States."

The Times has not elaborated or even stated the latter point with half the force it is fairly capable of bearing. The trade of Canada with the interior of the continent within the lines of the United States must be burdened by the charges of rail carriage. These charges are such that the trade between our country and United States is limited to the coasts and to the border states. The expensiveness of rail carriage reduces our business relations to a few millions only of the sixty millions of people, whom Goldwin Smith counts as our "natural market." We are as far removed from say fifty millions for purposes of commerce, as if they inhabited Central Asia. On the other hand, water carriage being the cheapest method of transportation, the interior of our country is placed by our magnificent system of water ways in the cheapest possible connection with the ports of the United Kingdom. The subject is capable of vast amplification, because Canada and England are naturally customers of each other, while Canada and United States, manufacturing and producing largely in the same classes, are as naturally rivals. This is evidenced in the debates on the Wilson bill in Congress, by the fights waged over the free admission of any single thing from Canada by those representing corresponding interests in United States.

THE POLLARD-Breckenridge breach of promise suit terminated on Saturday at Washington with a verdict for the plaintiff for $15,000. The proceedings at the trial attracted as much interest as the daily work in Congress and the dailies throughout the Union generally gave it the precedence in news. Many of the details were of a low and coarse character. Indeed the reports of it, from beginning to end do not show one single act of the defendant that displayed manliness, generosity or disinteredness. The plaintiff if no worse, is no better. If she did not plan to entrap him in the beginning, she wound her meshes around him in the course of the years, which he vainly strove to break, until she was finally able to kill him politically, socially and morally. While she exhibited the instincts of a tigress in glutting her revenge, we look in vain for any appearance in her conduct of modesty that becomes a woman. The whole business is one of selfishness, meanness and duplicity without one redeeming feature showing the better side of human nature.

The Provincial Legislature.

Pitts made his motion that the house resolve itself into a committee of the whole to consider the report and evidence in the Bathurst school case. Pitts supported the motion in a speech of nearly three hours, reviewing the evidence taken at Bathurst.

The motion being carried and the house going into committee of the whole, Pitts moved a resolution that the petitoners were justified in asking for an investigation, and that in the administration of the school law all classes and creeds should stand equal before the law.

White replied to Pitts and moved the following amendment:

"That considering the many years during which the present school law has been in operation in this province, the population of which is composed of different creeds and nationalities, it would not be surprising if in remote districts occasional infractions of the school law should occur, and this committee is pleased to learn from the report of the commissioner that the Board of Education has not been neglicent in any respect in the discharge of its duty as has been alleged against and has not countenanced or knowingly permitted any violation of the law."

The house was called. Stockton rose to speak. Blair objected that there had been a call of the house. Chairman ruled against Stockton. The latter appealed to the speaker who decided that there could be no further decision after call of the house. Amendment was then carried, vote being—25 to 10.

Blair recommitted the registry bill.

The opposition moved several amendments cutting down the salaries of registrars, which were defeated. On motion of Killam, salary of Westmorland registrar was fixed at $2000, instead of $2,500 as proposed in the bill.

Phinney moved reconsideration of section six so as to vest appointment of registrars in the municipal councils This was lost. The bill was agreed to with amendments.

Tweedie introduced a bill authorizing the Northumberland municipality to issue debentures for fire purposes in the town of Chatham.

Tweedie submitted returns regarding the Dominion grant asked for by Phinney.

Tweedie introduced a bill relating to the Caraquet railway.

On motion of Blair, the time for the introduction of private bills was extended till Monday.

Emmerson committed a bill to incorporate the Baltimore Coal Mining & Railway Company, Dibblee, chairman. Agreed to Emmerson recommitted bill further amending highways act of 1886. Flewelling chairman. Agreed to with amendments.

Powell introduced a bill respecting St. Joseph's college. Shaw chairman. Agreed to with amendments.

Killam introduced a bill enabling Agricultural Society No. 19 to issue debentures.

Blair moved his resolution providing for consolidation and revision of statutes.

Powell, Stockton, Phinney and Alward opposed the motion, and Alward moved in amendment that such work was undesirable at present.

Amendment was lost and motion carried.

Killam introduced a bill relating to sittings of circuit and county courts in Westmorland.

Killam committed a bill amending the law relating to division lines of parishes, so far as relates to Westmorland. Agreed to with amendments.

After supper, Killam committed a bill amending the act empowering the city of Moncton to provide a system of lighting for said city. Agreed to with amendments.

Killam committed a bill amending the law providing for supplying the city of Moncton with water. Agreed to with amendments.

Emmerson committed a bill for the protection of wage earners. He explained that the bill was to secure to wage earners their wages in cases where employers became insolvent. Progress was reported with leave to sit again.

Mitchell committed a bill relating to provincial revenue and accounts. He explained that the bill was for the purpose of changing the fiscal year so that it would end Oct 31st. By the change the proposed reports could be got ready so that the House could meet the middle of January or first of February.

Mitchell committed the bill further amending the law relating to registration of births, deaths and marriages. He explained that the bill proposed that it shall be the duty of attending physicians to report births five days thereafter.

Powell moved in amendment that all laws on the subject be repealed, except so far as relates to registration of marriages. Bill agreed to.

Killam introduced a bill further amending an act incorporating the Moncton electric tramway company, and Pitts a bill amending the law relating to the solemnization of marriages.

Powell introduced a bill amending th act respecting certain marsh-lands in th Parish of Sackville.

The House in committee of the whole Mr. Flewelling in the chair, sat until 3 o'clock Tuesday morning discussing the Quinn matter.

The debate was opened by Mr. Mott, who waved the following resolution and supported it in a speech. Mr. Dunn was the seconder:

Resolved. That this committee of the whole House approves and adopts the report of the select committee appointed on the third day of April, instant to investigate and determine whether there was or is anything in the acts or conduct of the Hon. Attorney General reflecting unfavorably upon him or upon his integrity in office, as charged against him by Mr. Pitts, a member of this House (or alleged or insinuated against him in the statutory declaration of one William H. Quinn, read by Mr. Pitts in his place), on Monday the second day of April, instant, and this committee desires to record its judgment that not only is there no evidence tending in the slightest degree to implicate the Hon. Attorney General in any wrongdoing in connection with any of the said matters, but on the contrary, that the evidence wholly disproves the same and fully and absolutely exonerates him therefrom.

Dr. Alward followed, moving the following resolution, which was seconded by Mr. Pinder:

Strike out all after the word resolved, and insert in lieu thereof the following: That as under the resolution the inquiry before the special committee was limited as the conduct of the Attorney General the committee is of the opinion that the facts and circumstances disclosed by the evidence do reflect unfavorably upon his conduct and it was his duty to have recalled immediately and emphatically any proposition or suggestion looking to the trafficking in public offices, and further resolved, that this committee is of the opinion that the allegations of the statutory declaration by W. H Quinn have been substantiated by the weight of evidence given before the special committee.

Messrs Emmerson, Pitts, Sivewright and Howe spoke, and Dr. Alward's amendment was voted down—10 to 21.

After further debate Mr. Motts resolution was carried—24 to 9.

Hon. Mr. White made a lengthy motion, containg six preambles and a resolution. The preambles recited various facts relating to the Quinn case, and the resolution was as follows:

Resolved. That while this committee of the whole House fully recognizes that when a member of the Assembly believes any other member guilty of conduct unbecoming and improper to him as a representative of the people, and has fully satisfied himself by careful inquiry and does honestly believe that he can sustain a charge for such misconduct by credible testimony, it is not only his right but his duty to prefer such a charge to the House but to do so only for the purpose of securing an investigation thereof, and as a necessary preliminary step to such an investigation. In order that the honor and character of the Legislature and its members may be maintained and vindicated, this House desires in the emphatic manner to mark its disapproval and censure of the course pursued by Mr. Pitts in making charges and imputations of an injurious character against the Hon. Mr. Blair, and when he had directly and emphatically denied the truth thereof, refusing to withdraw such charges and imputations or to call for a committee of investigation thereupon before a committee of this House in the usual manner.

And this committee further desires to record its disapproval of the conduct of Messrs. Pitts, Stockton and Phinney in procuring the said statutory declaration and reading or causing the same to be read in the House, and thereby promoting the charges and imputations which had been previously made, as such action on their part was manifestly designed and intended to injure and asperse the character and reputation of Mr. Blair in disregard of the honor of the House and not for the purpose of having the said charges investigated so that the honor and character of the House should be maintained.

Mr. Killam seconded this motion.

After debate a vote was taken as follows, none of the members interested voting:

Yeas—Mitchell, Emmerson, White, Tweedie, LaBillois, Lewis, Harrison, Theriault, Russell, Sivewright, Mott, Killam, Scovil, Baird, O'Brien (Northumberland), Dibblee, Robinson, Dunn, McLeod, Wells, Farris, O'Brien (Charlotte),—22.

Nays—Powell, Smith (St. John), Alward, Allen, Howe, Pinder—6.

Mr. Wells moved a resolution as follows.

Resolved. That there has been an attempt by certain members of this Assembly to injure the reputation of a gentleman (Mr. Wilson) not now a member of this House, and such an attack in whose case an expression of opinion as to the merits of the matter is not within the competency of the House is highly improper, is unjust to the person involved and is incompatible with the dignity of the Legislature.

Debate, of course, followed, and the motion was carried.

RULED OUT OF ORDER.

POWELL PROPOSED TO HANG PITTS, DRAW PHINNEY QUARTER STOCKTON, AND CANONIZE BLAIR AND WILSON.

A Fredericton despatch of the 17 inst says:—The legislative proceedings last night degenerated into a broad farce toward morning. After the house, by a party vote, had exonerated Blair and adopted a resolution condemning Pitts, Stockton and Alward for bringing the matter up in the house, the government put up Mr. Wells of Westmorland, to propose a vote of censure on members for producing in the house the affidavit touching the sale of office by Wilson who at the time of the transaction was Blair's colleague. Thereupon, Powell, of the opposition, proposed that certain words be struck out and the following be inserted.

"That in the opinion of this house it is desirable that Mr. Pitts be hanged Mr. Phinney drawn, and Mr. Stockton quartered, and that the attorney general and Mr. Wilson be canonized."

The chairman ruled the amendment out of order. Mr. Powell appealed to the speaker, who sustained the ruling of the chair. Mr. Blair said it was an insult to Mr. Speaker to have such a document presented to him for his opinion. There the house adjourned at daylight.

St. Joseph's College.

—The snow storm of last week was undoubtedly the worst of the season.

—Dr Farrel of Halifax paid us a flying visit during the week.

—The usual quietus that prevails in our sphere has been somewhat stirred by a most pleasant visit from very Rev. Father Beaudet, Provincial of the Holy Cross Congregation, accompanied by Rev. Father Roy, President of St. Laureut College, Montreal. The Rev. Provincial's visit is always a source of pleasure to the students of St. Joseph's but; without doubt, the pleasure of the visit was doubly enhanced by the presence of his companion, Fr. Roy. This Rev. gentlemen was for many years, Vice president of this institution and is well known in Sackville where he was parish priest. Addresses were presented in both English and French. The former by Mr. McManimon, Pres of St. Patricks Academy, the latter by Mr. H. Cormier. Fr. Bradet witly and pleasantly replied in French. But when Fr. Roy arose to reply in English he was received with prolonged appalause which, as he proceeded, was renewed and again renewed. The speeches being finished, Fr. Beaudet granted the boys a grand conge. The address of Mr McManimon was as follows:—Very Reverend and esteemed Father. As the fleeting days of the scholastic year glide through the sand glass of time they bring in their course events of dismal sorrow or unbounded joy. Our almamater, ever ready to accept both, as the will of God, calls upon her children to participate in the grief for the one, or partake of her joy for the other. Today she bids us lay aside our studies and pay a tribute of respect to one she honors. The students of St. Joseph, always ready to pause in their pursuit of knowledge and hail with welcome the friends of their almamater, today greet you, Very Reverend Father, with gladsome hearts and childish glee.

—Your advent to New Brunswick is always a source of pleasure to the patrons of St. Joseph, for in you they recognize the friend and protector of their alma mater. Your presence in her halls brings the glow of enthusiasm to the cheeks of the commerical students especially, for in you they have found a generous benefactor and in your annual prizes a new incrutive to their zealous labors. But to us all students of the classical as well as the commerical course your visit brings more than wonted joy for with a glow of pride they point to you as an able defender of Catholic education and a worthy exponent of Catholic principles we leave to worthier your tongues than ours the enunciation of enlogy, but even we can appreciate the works that rise before us as mountains attesting your zeal for Catholic progress.

To intensify the joy with which we welcome an occasion to address you, very rev. father, you have associated with your visit one whose genial countenance, once the signal for our joy or sorrow, touches a sympathetic chord in many a heart, causing many a breast to well with rapture, and many a cheek to glow with love. Although our almamater bids us to sympathize with her in the loss sustained by his removal; still our own heartz, conscious of the wisdom of all your acts and flushed with the pleasure of present happiness, command us to hail his visit with rejoicings and seize this opportunity of tendering to him the sincere love and congratulation of the students of St. Joseph. Permit us once more, rev. father, to proffer to you the expression of our esteem and love.

We beg to assure you that our prayers shall uncessingly ascend to the throne of grace imploring length of years and all good gifts for you and your most worthy companion.

THE STUDENTS OF ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE.

—The boys passed the forenoon of their holiday, playing hand ball. In the afternoon our youthful athletics gave an exhibition in the gymnasium, of which it must be said the boys reflected much credit on their able professor Mr. Costin of Sackville University. The evening was spent witnessing an entertainment presented by the musicians who have been carefully rehearsing for the past 3 weeks.

In Hypo, Masters, Goggmy and Ross took the house, by their wit and striking attitude. In the farce, the herd? was most carefully personated by Jonny McGolderick, whilst the baby's nest was filled by Mr. Manning who played his extremely difficult part with a cleverness exceedingly credible to him. On the whole the acting the scenery, and the entire manner in which the play was presented was a success, and we hope that we have seen only the first of many similar treats yet in store.

Poetic Affection.

THE PORTERS OF WESTMORLAND FIGURE IN A MAINE DIVORCE COURT.

[Portland Press.]

In the Supreme Judicial Court, on Friday, Wm. A. Porter, of Portland, sought a divorce from Ellenor E. Porter for the cause of desertion. The parties were married at Westmorland, N. B., in October, 1886; and resided together at that place until June, 1889, when, as the libellant claimed, Ellenor became discontented and expressed a determination to leave him without giving him any reason for so doing. He informed her that he did not wish her to go, but that if she was determined to do so he couldn't help it, and he gave her the necessary funds for her passage to St. John. She therefore left his house, but, instead of buying her ticket with the money which he had furnished for that purpose, she sent an order back from the steamer for the price of her ticket, which order he duly honored. In 1890, Ellenor wrote him from Moncton, whither she had gone, a most lovely letter, expressing regret for her conduct in leaving him, a desire to be clasped in his loving arms once more and the wish to return home if the means were forthcoming. The letter closed thus:—

"The seas may rise and mountains fall,
But my love for thee shall live through all.'

The husband hustled around and sent his wife the money for her passage and urged her to return at once, promising to meet her, she failed to come, however, and evidently fearing that something might have delayed her, he hastened to Moncton to bring her home. He saw her at the window of the house where she was residing, and the recognition was mutual; but she refused to admit him to see him, and after vainly attempting to obtain an interview he returned home saddened by this additional experience in the mysterious ways of woman. He soon afterwards came to Portland, where he has since resided. The court granted a divorce for utter desertion.

Tormentine Notes.

—Very bad travelling now. Mud is deep in some places and snow is deeper in other places.

—Shooting is being indulged in quite extensively, but success is not proportionately great.

—This is the cry all around the shores —"Fowls are very scarce." If this is true, it is equally true that the fowls are very scared. And it is also true that most of those captured are very poor. Yet bang, bang, bang, is in the air most of the waking hours.

—Rev. Mr. Vincent has returned from Amherst and filled his usual appointments last Sabbath. He reports having enjoyed very much his brief absence and the work he was engaged in.

—The "Post" is deservedly popular. It is growing in favor with the people in this section of the County. Its recent "Supplements" are worth much. Mr. Powell's fearless and able speech made during the 'Budget Debate' in the Provincial Parliament and published in the "Supplement" two weeks ago merits reading, re-reading, and preserving. Last week's "Supplement"—"Sackville and its Representative Business Men"—must have cost the "enterprising exprinter" much time and labor. It will be carefully laid aside by many after a profitable persual for future reference. If any "Post" readers let these "supplements" fall from the paper as they opened it and thought them to be nothing but "flyers" relating to "Pink Pills" or "Groder's Syrup," and concluded them unworthy further notice they had better attempt forthwith to recover what they have lost.

—A remark was overheard the other day. It was made by an elderly lady of more than ordinary intelligence and a regular reader of the "Post." (There may be a connection between these two.) It was this:—"That 'Post' is the greatest paper. Sometimes I'll take it up, look all through it, and see scarcely anything worth reading. And pretty soon aunt———will take it up and read aloud piece after piece of the greatest interest."

—Musing on the above, after getting over my amusement at the remark, I thought and said here are at least two important things suggested:—(1) The most excellent people may overlook the very best things in the character and life of a person. (2) The excellencies of some people may have to be presented or pointed out to us by another before we see them. Perhaps it may further be added, referring to this remark, that perhaps too many carelessly read a paper and decide unfavorably upon its worth; and that it is one chief glory of the "Post" that it will bear the most careful perusal.

—An exchange says: St. John N. B. is fairly flooded with counterfeit Newfoundland fifty cent pieces, bearing date 1871, and of Canadian twenty cent pieces bearing date 1872.

—The contract for the erection of the building at Pugwash, N. S., to be used as a home for the harmless insane of Cumberland Co. has been let to Chappel Bros. of Tidnish, at $7,450. The building will be of wood, two and a half stories high and basement.
