

Good Hope, in 1806; in 1808 he exchanged to the FIFTEENTH, the King's Hussars. He commanded the FIFTEENTH in Spain in 1808, and highly distinguished himself at Sahagun, where he was wounded, and he was rewarded with a gold medal. In 1811 he was appointed Aide-de-Camp to the Prince Regent, and promoted to the rank of Colonel. He embarked with his regiment for the Peninsula in 1813; and commanded the Hussar brigade at the action at Morales, where he was wounded; he also commanded the Hussar brigade at the battle of Vittoria, and was rewarded with an additional honorary distinction. He subsequently commanded a brigade composed of the Thirteenth and Fourteenth Light Dragoons. On the 4th of June, 1814, he was promoted to the rank of Major-General; he was also honoured with the dignity of a Knight Commander of the Order of the Bath, and in May, 1815, he was appointed Groom of the Bedchamber to His Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland. At the battle of Waterloo he commanded a brigade of Hussars (Seventh and FIFTEENTH British, and Second Hussars King's German Legion), and had several horses killed under him. His services were further recompensed with the Grand Cross of the Royal Hanoverian Guelphic Order; and he obtained permission to accept the Orders of Wladimir of Russia, and Wilhelm of the Netherlands. In 1825 he was appointed Colonel of the Twelfth Royal Lancers, and was removed, in 1827, to the KING'S Hussars; in July, 1830, he was promoted to the rank of Lieut.-General. He died in December, 1835.

SIR ROBERT THOMAS WILSON,
