THE UNIVERSITY GAME

Spend $60 for textbook professor decides not to use after all. Lose your turn.

You have been stuffing ballots in Galoska's ear. Go back two spaces.

The university forms a committee to study parity and you think it's a good example of concrete action. Turn back.

Professor notices you in class. Gain extra throw but lose ten marks on exam.

Eat Saga Food every day and think it's great. Go back to one.

Student loan application is lost in bureaucracy. Lose turn.

You question the relevance or real-life value of study matter after your teacher misses an answer. Gain an extra roll.

You submit all four copies of your course change forms and forget to obtain the signature of the department head before time limit expires. Lose a turn.

You find a professor who is interesting and can present the subject well. Gain an extra roll.

You ask a professor who believes "students should be rarely seen and never heard" a question. Go back to one.

You sign up for courses thinking they will just what you wanted. Go back to one.

You change you mind and decide to live at home. Go back to one.

You join The Brunswickan staff. Gain free roll; this is a biased game.

Accommodations Office finds you quarters. Return to one.

You can't find a place to stay. You lose one turn.

Computer can't find your card, your student number is not on record and you don't exist. Return to one.

Registrar can't find your file. Go back to one.

Go to Davie Jones' Locker Friday night and spend the night with Wilhelmina. Receive a free visit to Dorchester Pen.

Freshs arrives on campus—mind almost totally destroyed by high school. The "freedom" of university life his only remaining hope. Good luck.

Start--spend $2,200.

START

Student council calls for a meeting but you think the board of governors shouldn't be required to answer to the public. Return to one.

Get pinned off with fraction and run for student council promising to promote meaningful change in university. Gain an extra roll.

You're elected and do nothing except loiter in the SRC offices and drink Moosehead. Return to one.

You buy a subscription to the Daily (Jeener. Lose a turn.

You lose your virginity. This is a free space.

You believe that your political views provoke disharmony and upset the value of democracy and upset the order of departments. Lose one turn.

Free space. (Something here should still be free.) around

You get asked into the professor's office for a meeting and accept. Return to 19.

You distinguish yourself as athlete and are told your scholarship chances at another university are extremely favorable. Advance to square 16.

Have can of green paint forced in your hand by furtive figure as you're walking on campus one night during foresty week. Get first-hand story for Brunswickan on UNB security personnel but lose two turns.

Request a recount on your marker re-examines the last and discovers they were right the first time. Lose $10 and a turn.

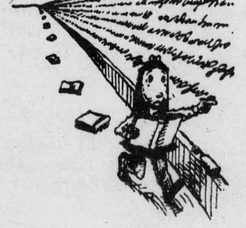
Christmas vacation and your parents ask you if you hate your life. Sundays up your nose and you don't go anywhere. Lose one turn.

Welcome back. Lose a turn for trying to enter on the computer card. Just wait until the introductory biology or economics multiple-choice exam.

Go to a Brunswickan orgy. Don't touch the dice—you're the one who gets rolled.

You approach the president with a new student grievances. Get an extra roll.

President responds with "give it time" or "we're dealing with that" answer. Nothing annual with this square and you don't go anywhere.



Adapted from the University of Regina Carillon

FINISH?

All this time you've been at the wrong university--you were accepted St. Thomas. Go back to start, they play the same game.

You find The Computer has you slated to write exams in four courses which aren't offered at any North American university. Lose two turns.

You can't find the room your exam is held in. Miss two turns.

You finally decide to open a textbook and nothing looks familiar. Lose two turns for cramming.

Police bust the film festival but effectiveness of arrests are complicated by paralysis among the officers. Local media reports your involvement but mispells your name and omits your address. Advance one square.

Decide to contribute to the cultural atmosphere of the campus and instigate an erotic film festival. Advance one square.

Conduct a sociological survey on the effect of university bureacracy on the individual at UNB. Disappear while doing research in the registrar's office and are never heard from again. Drop out of game.

You or your girl friend get pregnant. Drop out of the game.

You learn to play bridge. Lose a turn.

You lose your virginity. Rather late in the game for that. Lose one turn.