We shall thankfully receive the accounts of the Revenue and expenditure for the past year; and while we are happy to learn that they exhibit an improvement in our financial condition, we are gratified with the assurance that a proper economy has been exercised in the public expenditure.

While we claim it as the exclusive right of the Representatives of the people to impose Duties and Taxes, and which your Excellency properly admits, we acknowledge the force of your Excellency's suggestions as to the expediency of ensuring greater certainty in our Revenue Laws for the promotion of our Commerce: We readily admit that an annual fluctuation of our Tariff may prove injurious to our Commercial interests; and we trust that, in the exercise of this, our undoubted right, we shall at all times pursue which will prove most advantageous to the general interests of the Province, by stimulating its productive industry, and at the same time regulating its Commercial enterprise.

We accept the expression of Your Excellency's convictions in relation to the responsibility at present attaching to the initiation of Money votes, in the same spirit in which those convictions are manifestly conveyed.

Your Excellency has truly said that the undisputed right to originate Money votes is vested in the House of Assembly.

The abandonment of the existing usage, and throwing the responsibility of making the estimates for the Public Service upon the Executive Government, and connecting therewith a system of local control over local charges, involve questions of very grave import, and which demand our most thorough and attentive consideration; and if we can agree with Your Excellency in the belief that, by the adoption of such a course, the public expenditure would better correspond with the probable income—that the credit of the Province would be properly upheld—that no abuse of public money would be likely to take place with impunity—that economy would be promoted—habits of self government fostered—the elements of true political freedom developed—and that such changes might be combined with an actual and immediate saving to the Provincial Revenue,—then, with such convictions on our minds, it would be our inclination, as well as our duty, at once to adopt Your Excellency's suggestions, and to give our best consideration as to the mode in which they might be carried out with the greatest advantage to the Public.

We agree with Your Excellency that an Adult based on powers more stringent and more searching than those which now exist, would insure greater regularity in the Public Accounts, and would give confidence to the Public at large.

We have seen with grateful and exulting hearts our Fatherland secure amidst the floating wrecks of mighty States, exhibiting the strength and soundness of her Institutions, by the help of which, under Providence, we hope she may continue to encounter every storm; and Your Excellency may rest assured that our deliberations will be guided by a spirit of loyalty to our Queen and devotion to our Country.

J. W. WELDON, Speaker.

Tuesday, February 19th.

Mr. John Earle presented several petitions, numerously signed, praying that an act may pass to incorporate the Grand and subordinate Loyal Orange Lodges, in this Province, in connection with the Grand Lodge of Canada.

On the presentation of the petitions the Hon. Atty. General rose and said, he must tell the Hon. Member having charge of those petitions, and who occupied a high place in the society, that their object was unconstitutional; and that he (the Atty. General) would be fully prepared to oppose any Bill founded upon such premises. When that Bill came under discussion, he would call upon the Hon. Member to inform him, the Atty. General, of the origin and objects of these Lodges; the moral improvement which they had effected in individuals; the harmony which they had produced in families; and the peace in communities. He further warned the Hon. Member that he (the Atty. General) would be prepared to show the strife and discord which they had promoted, and the manner in which they have trampled upon that holy principle of our divine Religion which inculcates peace and good will throughout the world. He would dissect the whole organization and hold it forth to the world in all its repulsive bearings; and were they to be his last vote and his last speech in that House, he would bear no pressure and dread no consequences in the discharge of this his duty, of cautioning all who might hear him to beware of its unholy influences. He would never lend his influence to sanction any thing so unchristian in its objects, and so melancholy in its consequences. His further gave notice, that in the discharge of the sacred obligations of his oath, and in all love to our common Protestantism, he would question the Hon. member extensively upon the political and religious tendency of these secret Societies. What, he would ask, could be thought of a band of Ribbonmen should come to the Legislature praying a like act of incorporation? or could it be supposed that if the one were granted, the other could be refused? Nay, he thought the in the event of such an application being made, the "Loyal Orangemen" would be the very first to enter a protest against it. He thanked God that there was no danger of the Constitution legalizing any thing so dangerous.—There was yet another power beyond that of the two Branches of the Legislature now in Session; and fearlessly and honestly would he (Hon. Attorney General) vote,—for he feared no consequences in the discharge of his duty—that he would, in the discharge of that duty, be the first to advise his Excellency to refuse his assent to the incorporation of any Body whose very existence the laws of Great Britain declared to be illegal. He would not be influenced by fear or force; he was too old and accustomed to action to fear, where his duty led him; duty to day, and consequences to-morrow, should be his motto; and after having done the one, and felt the whole force of the other, he would at night lay his head on his pillow with a fearless heart and a good conscience. That morning he had been told, that a trap had been set to catch him; but he so far from evading it, was willing to set his foot in it; and not only so, but he would willingly go to his grave rather than betray the sacred dictates of his own conscience. He concluded by observing, that it was in him immaterial, whether the petitions were received or not; he believed their object was unconstitutional; but whether received or otherwise, he now gave notice, that whether in the shape of a Bill or Petitions, he would still meet their object with the most determined opposition.

Several hon. members followed the Attorney General, mostly all expressing similar views. A very animated discussion ensued which lasted for about two hours. Some hon. gentlemen were decidedly opposed to receiving the petitions under any considerations. On a division of the House, the petitions were received by a large majority though many hon. members who voted in the majority gave notice that when the Bill, having the object of the petitions in view, came before the House, they would give it their decided opposition. It is supposed there will be a very large majority in the House against the passing of the bill of incorporation. As the question is to come up in constitutional form for discussion before the House I have refrained, until then, giving you the views of Hon. members on the subject. Many members who voted for the reception of the Petitions did so, though opposed to their principles, because they considered it an inherent right of the petitioners as British subjects to be heard, several more Petitions of a like tendency were then presented; when, on motion of Hon. D. Hannington, the House adjourned.

Wednesday, February, 20th.

This being the last day of the term for receiving Bills and Petitions, very little business of any other description was done. Several Bills priority introduced were read a second time and a large number of Petitions of a local nature were received.

Mr. J. Earl, by leave, brought in a Bill to incorporate the Grand and subordinate Orange Lodges in New Brunswick in connection with the Grand Lodge of Canada; also a Petition from J. Wallace and 62 other inhabitants of King's County, praying for a similar object.

Hon. Mr. Partelow presented a Petition from the Carleton Mining Company praying for aid to carry out their undertakings; also, a Bill to wind up the affairs of the St. John Whaling Company; also, a Bill to incorporate the Albion Lodge of Masons, No. 570, on the Grand Lodge of England.

Two petitions were presented, one from St. John, and the other from Carleton, praying the House to incorporate the Grand and subordinate Orange Lodges in this Province in connexion with the Grand Lodge of Canada.

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL AND THE ORANGE PETITIONS.—It is amusing to observe how the functionary takes fire at any thing which is alleged to be peculiarly loyal. A few days since some petitions were presented to the Legislature praying an incorporation of the Loyal Orange Societies, when the learned member became so furious that he quite forgot his propriety. He excoursed most eloquently about these Societies being uncons titional! and then, to preserve its consistency, voted against the undoubted constitutional right of the people to petition! He said he had been told that a trap had been set for him, and he had determined to "put his foot in it"—We rather think he has! The opposition of the learned member is not at all surprising. He stated some years ago in the House that he had been called a rebel, and there were some persons who gave him credit for telling the truth! As to these Societies being unconstitutional, the Attorney General is entitled to all the merit of discovery! The most that has ever been pretended in England is, that Processions were illegal; but that the existence of Societies formed to uphold "the Altar and the Throne" is unconstitutional, was certainly left to be discovered by the profound sagacity of this eminent jurist! Truly, when we read over the list of princes, noblemen, and gentlemen who have been members of these Societies at home—when we find the Dukes of York and Cumberland successively presiding over the Institution, and that great lawyer, Lord Chancellor Eldon, a member of the order; we can turn and read the bombast in nonsense and blaster of the learned Attorney General with a considerable degree of good natured contempt.

MR. BENNISON'S SINGING SCHOOL.—Mr. B. has given two concerts during the present week, which his Scholars exhibited that progress in the art of singing, that was deemed highly satisfactory to his respective audiences. The clear and distinct pronunciation which is so frequently wanting on the part of pupils, was well manifested on these occasions. Mr. B. has fully proved that he is well deserving of a much larger amount of encouragement than he has hitherto received.

WESLEYAN MISSIONS.—The Anniversary Sermons of the Saint John, Portland, and Carleton Branches of the Wesleyan Methodist Missionary Society, for the New Brunswick District, were commenced on Sunday last, when appropriate and impressive Sermons were preached by the Rev. Messrs. Crosscombe, Temple, Henniger, Knight and Daniel. The Anniversary meetings of the Society were held in Carleton, on Monday evening, in Germain Street Chapel on Tuesday evening, and in the Centenary Chapel last evening, and will terminate in Portland Chapel this evening. The meeting of last evening was large—the speeches of the respective Clergymen occupying the platform were excellent and the collection, we should judge, proved satisfactory.—Telegraph of yesterday.

FIRES.—On Monday evening last, a Barn in the rear of Mr. Bandil's Cottage, Carleton, was burned to the ground.

A dwelling house belonging to Mr. Dunn, on the Lockhart road, was destroyed by fire on Sunday evening last.

We are informed, says the Toronto Colonist, on the best authority, that during the last two years, at least, the leading articles of the London Times, on colonial topics, have been written by a gentleman named Bailey, a Barrister in London, who has been in constant personal communication with the under Secretaries of the Colonial Department—Hawes and Elliot. The ability with which the articles have been written, our contemporary says, is unquestionable; and the fact of Mr. Bailey's authorship of these writings is avowed by Mr. Bailey himself, and is known to a large circle of his friends and acquaintance. The Colonist adds:—

"At length the labourer hath his reward. The briefless barrister, but veryable newspaper writer, Mr. Bailey, has just been Gazetted to the important and valuable office of Provincial Secretary for the Mauritius. The salary is £1500 sterling per annum. This appointment is attended by a remarkable coincidence. It was offered by Lord Grey to the Hon. Dominick Daly, late Provincial Secretary of Canada, and refused by him (to Lord Grey's immense surprise), on the ground that he was precluded by his position and political opinions, as a friend to responsible government for Colonies, from accepting one of the most valuable appointments of a Colony to which he was a fast stranger. To such a wrong and insult to the colonists of Mauritius, Mr. Daly having refused to be a party, the valuable place remained vacant for a time, and is now given to an instrument of Lord Grey's malice towards Canada, as the wages of his labour exhibited in the columns of the Times, and in an acknowledgement of his valuable services. Mr. Bailey is not only a total stranger to the Mauritius, but is even ignorant of the language of that Colony. Happy Colonies of England!

"Mr. Adderly said last year, in the House of Commons, that in his opinion Lord Grey was an instrument of Providence for destroying the foul system of government by a Colonial Officer; and his words seem already to be fast coming true.

QUICK PASSAGE.—The quickest passage on record to this port from Glasgow, Scotland, was recently made by the new ship Eudoria, Captain Bannerman, which arrived here in thirty days.—Capt. B. first brought out the Zetland, previously to her being purchased by her present owner and commander, Capt. Brown. These vessels, with the St. Clair and the Themis, were built in New Brunswick, and are models of beauty within and without, being fitted up with great elegance. They are ling in the third Municipality.—New Orleans Delta, Jan. 18.

THE COGNAN CASE.—The Morning Herald of the 24th of January, states:—"We believe we may announce with certainity, that the decision of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council has been made, and is against the Bishop of Exeter," &c. &c. The Record remarks upon this:—"We have made all the inquiry in our power, but are unable either to contradict or confirm the statement. We are inclined to believe that it is at all events premature, and that Her Majesty's pleasure has not yet been officially declared. We have strong grounds for believing that the report of the Lords of the Council will be unanimously in favour of Mr. Gorham, and will not sanction his ejectment from the pale of the Church of England. But until the decision of Her Majesty is made known, we have deemed it more respectful to be silent," &c. The London correspondent of the Oxford Herald, says:—"It is whispered that they have decided in favour of the Bishop of Exeter,—nay, that there was no doubt entertained all along by a majority of four out of the six members of Committee, viz., Lord Langdale, Baron Parke, Sir Knight Bruce, and Mr. Pemberton Leigh, that Baptismal Regeneration is the doctrine of the Church of England—the two who were not satisfied being Lord Campbell and Dr. Lushington," &c. Commenting upon the above, and the probability, as stated by the writer, that the decision would be unanimous in favour of the Bishop of Exeter, the London Guardian of the 22d, says:—"It is very generally reported that a majority are in favour of the Bishop of Exeter, but we doubt the probability of a unanimous opinion being declared."

It is said that later dates state that the decision has been given in favour of the induction of Mr. Gorham. Nothing more decided than the above, or more worthy of dependence, has come under our notice. We trust that in whatever way the decision may be given it will tend to establish the Truth, and promote the peace and unity of the Church.
