Harrington, of Ottawa; Rev. T. W. Fyles, of Quebec, and other delegates from several points in the Province besides the local members will attend.

—A resident of the city christened his latest "Rhea." When the distinguished actress bearing that name was in the city Monday he wrote and told her that he had named his daughter in her honor. Rhea sent him the following acknowledgement: "May little Rhea be the pride and happiness of her parents. I wish her every joy and send her a kiss. Believe me, my dear sir, yours very truly, RHEA."

—The burlesque entitled "The Ancient Order of Hercules," which was so appreciated when given in this city a couple of years ago, will be repeated in the Grand Opera House on the evening of Wednesday, Dec. 9. It is no doubt that hundreds who were deprived of seeing this laughable burlesque on its former presentation, by being unable to gain admittance, will secure their seats early on this occasion.

—Col. Tracy, city engineer, is now engaged preparing plans for a proposed new school in the west end and a new high school. He has made quite a study of school architecture and these plans will be his best efforts.—[Vancouver, B. C., News.

—It was stated that Wm. Robson, produce dealer, Market Lane, was one of the victims of the sharper Curtis who presented the worthless checks on Monday. Mr. Robson says that he himself did not see the adventurer, but that one of his clerks cashed the check.

—"Owing to illness, Mr. B——, is out of town for two or three days," was the announcement in writing that a leading musician posted on the door of his room. Some wag added, in a similar hand: "Getting married. Shake! Hurrah!" and the document has amused many who pass that way.

—Thomas Lee and David Moore were brought up before the police magistrate yesterday morning for their preliminary examination on the charge of assaulting James Catanach, Van street. The old man could not identify either of them as having committed the assault. No evidence could be produced against them and the case was dismissed.

—Squire Smyth Wednesday afternoon committed Elizabeth Watson, 78½ Dundas street, for trial on a charge of stealing a gold ring from Mrs. Ward, London West. The girl was at the latter's house on Thanksgiving day, and after she left the ring was missed. Constable Ward found the girl in her rooms and she was wearing the ring at the time. Mr. Perrin gave bail for her appearance.

—The inmates of the asylum were entertained with a pleasant little concert under Dr. Sippi's management Wednesday night. Miss Tillie Barnard and Miss Mutch were the lady vocalists, and Messrs. E. B. Cameron, W. Skinner, T. Alexander and H. Sippi rendered selections. These affairs are bright spots in the lives of the patients, and the asylum authorities are to be commended for encouraging them.

"Mr. Clark's second appearance before a Chatham audience, in Park Street Church, Friday night, drew an appreciative audience. The gentleman proved himself even a more successful entertainer than on the former occasion. He recited Ben Hur's "Chariot Race" with masterly effect, and his interpretation of "The Low-back Car" showed him to be quite at home in the role of the love-struck Irishman. Mr. Clark's versatility in his art is remarkable."—[Chatham Planet. Mr. Clark appears tonight at Victoria Hall.

—"Is it true that you are a candidate for mayor this year?" asked an ADVERTISER reporter, when he met Ald. Spencer, civic finance minister, Wednesday. "Now, then, you are wanting information," replied the alderman. "I frankly tell you, as I have told other inquirers, that I have been asked by many of my fellow-citizens of all ranks and conditions to enter the field as a mayoralty candidate, and I have been assured of strong support in unexpected quarters. I am considering the matter. It is difficult to resist the importunities of my friends. In all probability, I shall be a candidate."

—Rev. Annie H. Shaw, at the late meeting of the Woman Suffrage Association in Washington, was unanimously elected as the national lecturer for the association. The announcement was received with long-continued applause, the crowed assembly rising en masse and giving Miss Shaw the Chautauqua salute. Miss Shaw has resigned her official position as national superintendent of franchise in the W. C. T. U., and will devote herself to this work. It was a step to which Miss Susan B. Anthony, Mrs. Lucy Stone, and other friends of woman suffrage had long been urging Miss Shaw.—[Woman's Journal. Miss Shaw lectures this evening in the Congregational Church.

Alma College Relief Fund.

Principal Austin and Messrs. C. Macdougall and McCausland interviewed Dr. Potts, secretary of education, and Dr. Carman, general superintendent, in this city on Tuesday regarding the canvass for the Alma College relief fund. As a result the federation canvass will be completed sooner and the field opened for the college agents. Principal Austin and Dr. Carman were present at the meeting of the special committee of the London conference in the afternoon and explained the case. The following resolution was then carried: "Resolved that we heartily sympathize with the Board of Alma College in their efforts to relieve the college of the burden now upon it, and inasmuch as it is hoped the canvass for federation will have been completed by the time of the next annual conference, hereby recommend the affairs of the College to the favorable consideration of the next annual conference."

Knocked Over by a Train.

An aged lady named Martha Hunley, residing in the city, was walking along the London and Port Stanley track near South street yesterday when a train came along and knocked her off. Her hearing is deficient and this was the cause of the accident. After being taken to the hospital, a broken arm and a severe scalp wound were the injuries found. She will doubtless recover.

A Gratifying Report.

"This institute is in a better condition than I have heretofore seen it. The organization is excellent, with the exception that the attendance is so large that the principal is unable to allow himself a sufficient number of spaces during the day for general supervision. I congratulate the board and others concerned on having succeeded in making this one of the best equipped institutes in the Province." The above is an extract from Inspector Hodgson's report on the London Collegiate Institute, which he recently visited. He pronounces the discipline excellent and the organization good. Everything is A 1 in the accommodation, excepting the light, which it is claimed should be thrown to the rear and the left of the pupils. As regards the subjects taught and the results, his opinion is in general highly complimentary. Reading, writing, drawing and book-keeping, he says, are pursued with special zeal and gratifying effect. He finds the value of the library to be $663 95, the apparatus, $1,345, and the total equipments $2,224 45, as against $632 50 at last year's inspection.

Cowan—Bemiss.

The marriage of Thomas Fraser Cowan, of London, Canada, to Maud Talbot Bemiss, daughter of the late John Bemiss, of New Orleans, was solemnized last night at the residence of the bride's sister, No. 43 West Sixty-first street. The Rev. Henry Lubeck, of Zion and St. Timoty's Church, officiated. The bride wore a white brocade Recamier dress. The apartments were beautifully decorated with flowers and tropical plants. Only the relatives and close friends of the couple were present.—[New York Advertiser.

Dominion Voters' List Decisions.

At the recent court of revision for the Dominion voters' lists the Conservatives objected to 707 names, of which 97 were also objected to by the Liberals. Add to this 7 names whose owners were dead and 38 repeaters—that is where the same names appear twice—and it makes 142 accounted for. Of the remaining 565 cases, 26 were reserved for judgment, being principally on questions of naturalization. This leaves 539 names in actual dispute. Of these 244 were struck off, including 32 aliens, and 295 of the objections were dismissed or dropped. Appeals will be made against a number of decisions.

The Liberals applied to add 240 names and succeeded in getting 117 on the list, while a dozen or more cases were reserved for judgment.

The Conservatives desired 88 added and were successful with 35, with three reserves.

Osgoode Hall Echoes.

Thompson vs. Thompson.—Judgment in action tried at Sarnia on Nov. 2. Action by John James Thompson, a merchant tailor residing at Sarnia, against Robert Henry Thompson, a tailor also residing at Sarnia, and Mary Thompson, the wife of Robert Henry Thompson, for an injunction restraining the defendant Robert Henry Thompson from continuing to engage in the business of a tailor in Sarnia, contrary to a bond given by the defendants not to engage in that business during the period of five years, and to recover $500, the amount of the penalty in the bond. The learned judge finds as a fact that the male defendant is really carrying on business as a tailor in the name of his sister, the manner of carrying it on being altogether a subterfuge planned for the sole purpose of avoiding the effect of a breach of his agreement recited in the bond; but he holds, even if that were not so, that the defendant has been guilty of a breach of the agreement by acting as cutter in the business carried on in his sister's name. Judgment for the plaintiff, restraining the defendant, Robert Henry Thompson, from carrying on business, etc., as asked, with costs. Action dismissed as against the defendant, Mary Thompson, with costs, if any incurred by her beyond her co-defendant's costs of defense, to be paid by the plaintiff to her. W. J. Hanna (Sarnia) for the plaintiff; Lister, Q.C., for the defendants.

Consumption Catching.

Professor Tyndall relates the following: "It is an easy excursion from my cottage in the Alps to the remarkable promontory called 'The Nessel,' on which stands a cluster of huts occupied by peasants during the summer months. On visiting the Nessel three years ago, I was requested to look into a hut occupied by a man suffering from a racking cough, accompanied by copious expectoration. I did so. It was easy to see that the poor fellow was the victim of advanced lung disease. In the same hut lived his daughter who, when I first saw her, presented the appearance of blooming health and vigor. Acquainted as I was with Koch's discoveries, I remarked to a friend who accompanied me, that the girl lived in the midst of peril. We had here the precise conditions notified by Cornet—spitting on the floor, drying of the sputum, and the subsequent treading of the infectious matter into dust. Whenever the hut was swept this dust mingled freely with the air, and was, of course, inhaled. I warned the girl against the danger to which she was exposed. But it is sometimes difficult to make even cultivated people comprehend the magnitude of this danger, or take the necessary precautions. A year afterwards I visited the same hut. The father was standing in the midst of the room—a well built man, nearly six feet high, and as straight as an arrow. He was wheezing heavily, being at intervals bowed down by the violence of his cough. On a stool in the same room sat his daughter, who a year previously had presented such a picture of Alpine strength and beauty. Her appearance shocked me. The light had gone out of her eyes, while the pallor of her face and her panting breath showed only too plainly that she also had been grasped by the destroyer. There are thousands at this moment in England in the position which I then occupied, standing helpless in the presence of a calamity that might have been avoided. All that could be done was to send the sufferers wine and such little delicacies as I could command. Last summer I learned that both father and daughter were dead, the daughter having been the first to succumb.

Do you feel blue and despondent? Do pains rack and tear away at nerve and muscle, and have you been disappointed in finding a remedy that will afford certain and speedy relief. If so, go at once to any drug store and buy a sample bottle of Polson's Nerviline. Polson's Nerviline never fails to relieve neuralgia, cramps, headache, rheumatism and all internal or external pains. J. B. Carman, druggist, Morrisburg, writes: "All the parties I supply speak very favorably of Nerviline, and always purchase a second lot." Polson's Nerviline is sold in sample bottles at 10 cents; large size, 25 cents; by all druggists and country dealers everywhere. Try a 10 cent bottle.

THE WORLD'S W. C. T. U.

Closing Session of the Convention.

Work of the Social Department—Opposed to War—The Liquor and Slave Trade in Africa—The Use of Women's Photographs on Cigar Boxes and Cigarette Cards Condemned.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—Yesterday was the last day of the dual convention of the World's and the National W. C. T. U. First came that of the social department, under the charge of Mrs. Anna M. Hammer, of Pennsylvania, the topic being, "What are the departments of parlor meetings, flower missions, State and county fairs and unfermented wine doing for the prevention of intemperance?" The first report was given by Mrs. Hammer, who said: "This is the time of the fulfillment of prophecy when the spirit is poured out upon the daughters, and the women have gone into the vineyard to grapple with the subject neglected by man. This is our work, and for it we claim the aid of the cultivated women of the land in settling the question of temperance. This is not an æsthetical department, but one of earnest effort."

The department of flower missions, under the superintendence of Miss Jennie Casseday, was reported by Mrs. Hammer: "Flowers are distributed in the prisons and hospitals, and many a man has been led to think of home and many more to see the errors of their life by these innocent and silent workers." She paid a glowing tribute to Miss Casseday, of St. Louis, the originator of the idea.

Mrs. Nichols, of the State and county fair department, said: "If you want to reach people for the temperance cause go to the fairs; and if you want to make money go also to the fairs, for there the people congregate. In England they already do a great work in going to the fairs, both national and international." In speaking of the Paris Exposition she said that President Carnot expressed great delight in the corner devoted to the work and the nature of the W. C. T. U. After much trouble it is quite probable the World's W. C. T. U. will have a separate building at the Columbian Exhibition.

"Unfermented Wine" had its testimony at the hands of Mrs. A. R. Esmond. The use of unfermented wine is urged upon all congregations for communion. The Bible wine, she said, was unfermented and modern church wine should be like it. Meetings and lectures are used to spread information in this department. In Pennsylvania fully one-third of the churches use fermented wine, but this proportion is being gradually reduced by the local unions. The people are being awakened to their danger from these churches.

Mrs. Theresa A. Jenkins, for the legal department, made an earnest plea for the unrestricted enfranchisement of women. She said that every State had reported progress to her; free ballot for women is only a question of time.

A poem dedicated to Miss Frances Willard by Miss Ella Gives and entitled "God Save Our Queen," was read by Mrs. Purington.

Mrs. Hannah J. Bailey spoke for the peace and international arbitration department, and her remarks were full of hopeful outlook for the future. "Standing armies will exist as long as the world runs if people continue to use alcoholic drinks." It was voted that a telegram be sent to the President and Government of the United States against any belligerent action on the part of the United States against Chili.

The work of the afternoon was devoted to the Committee on the Plans of Work and the report of the Committee on Resolutions. The resolutions pledge members of the union to renewed efforts in the cause of total abstinence and prohibition; recommend the prosecution of department work emphasize total abstinence for the individual and legal prohibition for the State; rejoice "that capitalists are perceiving the financial benefits of prohibition by the many towns being established with a prohibitory clause in charter and deed; note the founding of a Father Mathew professorship in the Catholic University at Washington; approve most heartily of the suggestion that a John B. Gough professorship be founded in the American university at the capital, and recommends the endowment of similar chairs in other institutions of higher education; urge women to use every means practicable to secure equal government rights in state and church; declare unalterable opposition to all political parties that in any way protect the liquor system; indorse that party which embodies in its platform the enfranchisement of women, the prohibition of the liquor traffic and the preservation of the Sabbath; recommend the carrying of test liquor cases to the United States Supreme Court in order to secure a decision on the constitutionality of the liquor law; condemn the action of the State Department in issuing a circular letter to the United States consuls in South and Spanish America instructing them to gather all the information possible regarding the beer trade in those countries with a view of extending their business; condemn the use by tobacconists of advertisements in the shape of women's forms and faces, and the use of obscene cards in cigar boxes and cigarette packages; protest against immoral theatrical literature and medical advertisements in many of the leading newspapers; advocates dress reform; protests against the legalizing of the Louisiana lottery; protests against the publication in the newspapers of the details of crime and sensational stories.

The resolutions also contain a memorial to Congress asking that body to ratify the Brussels treaty relative to the liquor and slave trade in Africa, to pass the bill for a commission to investigate the social vice and to pass the bill for a commission of inquiry on the alcoholic liquor traffic.

'Feak and Weeble.'

A friend of mine had an odd way of mixing her words. Perfectly unconscious of it, she would often make folks laugh. She would speak of feeling "feak and weeble," for weak and feeble, and "castor ill pols," for castor oil pills. But she was weak and feeble, until she took that powerful, invigorating tonic, "Favorite Prescription," which so wonderfully imparts strength to the whole system, and to the womb and its appendages in particular. For overworked women, run-down women, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is unequaled. It is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous, symptoms, commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.
