THE FARM LANDS OF GLOUCESTER

It appears to be the general desire of all sensible Canadians to keep our young men in Canada, and particularly is it their desire that the cream of our population should not become so discouraged as to wish to change their allegiance by becoming citizens of the United States. It is of course true that thousands of American young men are coming into our great West, but it also cannot be denied that hundreds of farmer's sons go away from New Brunswick every year to swell the already crowded States. During the past few years while the lumber business was paying so splendidly, not a few of these young men returned to Northern New Brunswick and engaged in this industry, but we are sorry to say with the declining prices of logs and consequent lowering of wages, nearly all of these men are again going to the States. A few days ago the writer had a conversation with two of these men, and in reply to a question as to why they did not remain in Gloucester County, take up lands and become farmers, we were astonished to be met with the answer that it was almost impossible for a young man to obtain even a green farm in the parish of Bathurst now, that all the available land had been taken up and the wood lands were held so tightly by the lumber merchants that a young farmer could not buy land. We have no doubt this is an exaggerated statement, but there may be something in the argument that the young man used. And while—as a matter of business—we cannot blame the lumber merchants for protecting themselves, there should certainly be a proper understanding on the part of the Government that they must not interfere with settlement of the farm lands. Some months ago, or perhaps a year ago, we suggested that the Government should take into consideration the laying off of several blocks of lands suitable for farms in Gloucester. As is well known, through the influence of the Catholic Clergy in Gloucester, some thirty years ago, the settlements of Robertville, Pacquetville, St. Isadore and several other blocks were surveyed and settled by sons of the Acadian farmers along the Bay Shore. It is claimed—and is without doubt the truth—that this movement was the means of keeping hundreds of young men in the country. This is therefore what we argued as a means of retaining the younger generation of farmers' sons in Gloucester, and we have particular reference to the parish of Bathurst. We are informed on good authority that there is a fine tract of land suitable for farming about the head waters of the Pabineau River. It might be possible to lay off from three to four thousand acres of land there in a block similar to Robertville and a good road could be made to enable settlers to go to and come from market at slight expense. Indeed we think the new Middle River road goes very near the lands in question. What the government should do, therefore, is to have this block surveyed at once, and lay it out in 100 acre lots for settlement, and we venture to predict that in a very short time the settlement would be a credit to the County. May we venture to call the attention of the Hon. C. H. LaBillois to our suggestion? We know Mr. LaBillois is only too anxious to do anything to promote genuine good in the Province and we think this would come under that heading.

Hunting parties still continue to arrive in Bathurst, and many of those who have been in the woods have departed with their spoils in the shape of magnificent moose heads. Two of the most successful parties to come out so far were Mr. Savage and Messrs. Hookers of New Haven, Conn. and Doctor Ledoux and his friends of New York. Both these parties had their full complement of heads and the latter informed us that they saw many moose before they picked out heads to suit them. In fact nearly all the sporting men agree that moose with large antlers are much scarcer than they were a year or two ago. Is this the beginning of the end? Many thoughtful people are opposed to allowing moose to be killed for the sake of the trophies, others are opposed to allowing them to be enticed by calling at this season of the year, saying that the animals are unfit for food now, and should not be hunted at all. Certainly when we consider the fact that there must have been nearly 500 rifles at one time out after moose, caribou and deer on the North Shore this season, it makes anyone interested in the salvation of this magnificent species thoughtful regarding the future.

Has any of our readers had an opportunity of reading the letters in Forest and Stream on artificial fish breeding? These letters have been running through several month's issues, and it is astonishing how many learned men, and men who have spent years on the fish business and in the service of the different governments as protectors of our American inland fisheries who believe that the money spent in artificial fish culture is simply money thrown away. They claim that this applies particularly to salmon hatching, going so far as to say that the young fish just deposited in salmon rivers only serve as food for trout.

A PORTLAND WEDDING.

The following is from a recent issue of the Portland Evening Express:—

A fairer September day never dawned than that which graced the bridal of Miss Mary Elliott Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Elliott Smith of Stevens Avenue and Mr. Albert Edward McCallum of Douglastown, N. B., who were married at 4 o'clock this afternoon at Trinity Church. The pretty little church was beautifully decorated with green and gold and was filled by the friends of the bride, each one having been invited to the ceremony by the bride herself. Miss Marguerite Ogden was at the organ, giving a choice programme before the ceremony and connecting the wedding marches with a soft interlude. An innovation as charming as unusual was the substitution of girl ushers for the black coated and carnation decorated usher, such a familiar feature of wedding procession. Miss Edith May Jackson of Springfield, Mass., and Miss Ruby Claire Jackson of this city, cousins to the bride, served as ushers. They were gowned in white and wore white picture hats. The bride was unattended, entering on the arm of her father and joining the groom at the alter. The bride wore a white organdy with insertion and edgings of valenciennes and a white hat trimmed with white roses. In place of the conventional shower bouquet the bride carried a white prayer book—her mother's gift—from which the wedding service was read by the pastor, Rev. Thos. Pearson, assisted by Rev. Ernest A. Pearson. A reception followed at the bride's home on Stevens avenue, where the bride was her only attendant. A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride. The going away dress was chosen with beaded trimmings. A white hat with bands of black velvet and burnt orange was worn with this becoming costume. The many wedding presents were choice, including cut glass, silver and china, with a big sheaf of checks. Mr. and Mrs. McCallum will be at home after Nov. 15 at 326 Stevens Avenue.

Miss Fanny Stevens, Mr. Grenville Stevens and Mrs. Seavey gave a dinner at their home, 322 Stevens avenue today, for Miss Mary Elliott Smith and Mr. Albert Edward McCallum. The decorations were autumn leaves and the American and Canadian flags. Small flags of both nations were placed at each place and the larger flags were draped above the mantel.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.
