HIGH BIDS FOR FURS

Winter's Catch From the North Sold at Edmonton—Progress of the Transcontinental Line Near Edmonton—Schrieber's Movements.

Edmonton, Aug. 9.—Fur buyers who have been congregating in the city for past days, gathered in the McDougal block on Saturday afternoon and submitted tenders for the furs brought down from the north by Colin Fraser and Ben Hurrsell. Colin Fraser's catch was divided into two lots. Lot No. 1 consisted of 9,130 rat skins, which were knocked down to the Northwest Hide Fur Co., for $3,150.25. Lot No. 2 consisting of 52 red fox, 26 cross fox, 102 otter, 171 mink, 194 martin, 20 wolves, 18 wolverines, 97 weasels, 30 bear and 35 skunk, were secured by Jos. Ullman & Co., of Minneapolis, for $4,959. Mr. Hursell's lot of furs went to McMillan & Co., of St. Paul, for $1,851.75. The remaining packs of Colin Fraser's catch, which arrived late, will be sold to the highest bidder.

RAPID DEVELOPMENT.

"It is wonderful to see the rapid development of the country all along the line," said Collingwood Schrieber in Edmonton today. "I could name a half dozen towns that will surely be places of considerable size some day in the near future. Freight sheds are being rushed to completion, and elevators are raising against the sky in a surprising manner. The crops are looking splendid, although I expected to see them a little father advanced. In Ontario a great deal of grain is in stook, while along the G. T.P. it will be two weeks before the harvest is under way. Eight hundred and eighteen miles west of Winnipeg, there are indications of the progress which has been made in the construction of the new Transcontinental line."

The tracklaying machine on Saturday evening was twenty-three miles west of the central point in Edmonton, heading for the Pembina river. Gravel cars had reached a point within a mile and a half of Clover Bar bridge, and the lifting gang, which completes the balasting on the line was within eleven miles of the bridge.

Mr. Schrieber will await in Edmonton for the arrival of B. B. Kelliher, chief engineer of the G.T.P., and the two accompanied by J. R. Loftus, private secretary to Mr. Schrieber, will set out on horseback for Wolf Creek and the McLeod river. The contract for the section of the line, Wolf Creek to the Yellow Head Pass, has recently been let to Foley, Welch and Stewart, and a final survey of the course will be made before grading begins.

It is the intention of the contractors to try to complete this portion before the winter sets in, so that they may continue the heavy rock work still further west during the winter.

On returning from Wolf Creek, Mr. Schrieber will proceed to Prince Rupert, via Vancouver, and make a tour of inspection over the line from the coast inward as far as contract has been let. This undertaking will occupy the attention of the inspector for the remainder of the year.

Mr. Ottowell, of Clover Bar, started today to cut his crop of winter wheat. The grain is of the Alberta Red variety and promises an excellent crop, probably from 40 to 50 bushels to the acre. It has suffered no damage from frost, rust or hail. The harvest this year is beginning about the same time as last year.

EARL GREY SAILS.

Vancouver, B.C., Aug. 5.—Earl Grey sailed at 2 o'clock this afternoon for Skagway on the federal government steamer "Quandra" en route to Dawson, after a four days' stay in Vancouver. He expects to return to Vancouver about August 30 and remain on the coast a week or ten days, after which he will go to camp in the valley of the upper Columbia river, East Kootenay, as the guest of the government of British Columbia. At the Windermere camp he will be joined by Lady Grey who will leave Ottawa for the coast within the next two or three weeks.

Rouleau, Sask., Aug. 7.—John McWhirter, well borer twelve miles south of here was suffocated this morning, the deceased was 35 years old, and came from Shelbourne, Ont., some time ago, the body will be sent east where his parents live.

E. C. CORBEAU CAUSES ALARM

Regina Man Who Went for a Drive on Sunday Afternoon and Failing to Return in the Evening Causes Anxiety to His Friends.

A good deal of anxiety was felt for the welfare of Mr. E. C. Corbeau and his two children from Sunday evening till Monday evening. It appears that Mr. Corbeau with his two children went out for a drive on Sunday afternoon about three o'clock expressing his intention of returning later in the evening. After driving for some time he changed his mind and drove on out to his summer cottage at Long Lake. At Craven he endeavored to send a message to his wife announcing his intention, but the line was busy for a time and he was assured that if he left his message it would be sent. This he did and paid for it and went on to his cottage. It transpires that the message was never sent.

As his horse was somewhat lively it was feared by his wife and his friends in the city that something must have happened him when he did not return home before midnight on Sunday and accordingly parties left to search for him. On Monday the city was quite excited and several search parties were sent out. The news of the excitement he was creating reached Mr. Corbeau at the lake on Monday and he at once started for home, arriving here on the north train in the evening.

Upon word coming in of his safety the sirene at the city power house was put in operation to call in the parties who were out searching for him.

Seizure of Liquor.

Port Arthur, Ont., Aug. 5.—What is believed to have been the biggest seizure of liquor ever made in Canada was that of yesterday at Superior Junction by W. A. Quibell, Dominion commissioner of Police, for the transcontinental railway, assisted by two constables. The seizure consisted of a whole car of bottled beer of value running up into thousands of dollars, and consigned from Toronto to about a dozen individual dealers resident about that section.

Quibell was at Superior Junction engaged in routine business when he learned of the car of liquor just coming and on investigating the situation found no difficulty in making the seizure.

Seizures on smaller amounts and convictions both on charges of keeping and selling illicitly are frequently being made along the new railway line for though the commissioner and his constables are active the profits of the unlawful trade are so enticing that some are ever ready to take the risk it entails. "But we are determined to root this business out," said Quibell today.

"All constables have the most explicit instructions to act on every suspicion and be always on the alert. I am now issuing warrants for half a dozen other parties against whom I have evidence."

Constable Husband has been sent on special mission to a trapper's cabio at the north end of Sturgeon Lake, which has become a point of egress and entry to the Sturgeon Lake gold fields to investigate and act on a report of lawlessness there. The commissioner states that some of the liquor supplied along the railway is much more decided in its effects than the customary brands found in town. To evade the law peddlars take in cider and when drinks are called out in a stick which is known as painkiller. This knocks the victim out quicker than any other known drink outside of pure poison. This combination is known locally along the line as "Junction Cocktails."

NORWEGIAN CAPTURED.

Moose Jaw, Sask., Aug. 5.—A very smart capture was made yesterday evening here by Sergt. Munday, R. N.W.M.P. In April of this year the chief consular office of the Norwegian government sent the information that a man named Ole P. Holton, was wanted at Christiania, Norway, for obtaining over $5,000 from a number of saving banks in that city. Holton bought a farm 8 miles south of Caron and about 30 miles from Moose Jaw, and settled there with his son. Some time ago he came into Moose Jaw, and made himself very prominent at a house of illrepute, by indulging in a real Harrigan drink feast. Following up this clue, Sergt. Munday located his man and brought him to Moose Jaw last night.

FROG LAKE VICTIMS

Now Interred in One Plot at Battleford — The Story of Their Death at the Hands of the Indians Revived.

Last winter the question of removing the scattered bodies of the victims of the Frog Lake massacre and interring them together was taken up by the government and we are pleased to announce that we are in receipt of a letter from Mr. W. C. Gilchrist, of Woodville, Ont., stating that the bodies of his son and the others have been re-interred in one plot at Frog Lake. The work was done under the direction of Sergt. Hall, of the Mounted Police, the principal part of the work being done by L. G. Lovell, who sent Mr. Gilchrist a buckle and a button found in his son's grave. Eight bodies now lie at Frog Lake in one plot which has been cleared of brush and surrounded by a neat fence. The bodies of the two prisets were removed to the Mission at Onion Lake some time ago. Early one morning in April, 1885, the whites numbering eleven, residing at Frog Lake were taken prisoners by the Indians before they knew that the uprising had actually taken place. Tom Quinn, Indian agent, and Chas. Gouin, a carpenter, were shot in front of the interpreter's house, into which their bodies were thrown and burned, very little of either man being recovered. On hearing the shots at the village, fire was at once opened on the rest of the prisoners who were being taken to the Indian camp. J. A. Gowanlock, who was building the mill, and J. Delaney, faming instructor, were walking with their wives when they were killed and the two priests were also shot while ministering to the other victims. Williscraft and Gilchrist, employed at the mill, Geo. Dill, a trader, and Henry Quinn, agency blacksmith, ran for the bush, but the latter was the only one to succeed. The other prisoner, W. B. Cameron, H.B.C. clerk, had gone to the store with an Indian and also escaped being killed. The bodies of Delaney, Gowanlock and the priests were placed in the Roman Catholic church which was afterwards burned down. On the arrival of the troops, about June the four bodies were dug out of the ruins by the volunteers and buried but the others had to be buried where they lay. Sergt. Hall has always taken great care of the graves and kept them looking neat so that they were readily identified and now all lay side by side, together with the body of Const. Cowan who was killed near Fort Pitt, and was interred where found by the soldiers.—Battleford Herald.

Forest Lovers Meet.

Upon invitation of the city council and board of trade of this city it has been decided to hold a special meeting of the Canadian Forestry Association here on Sept. 3 and 4.

A good program of papers and addresses is being arranged dealing particularly with western conditions. Tree planting for shelter and fuel will be discussed by experts, and many practical men will be on hand to relate and discuss their actual experiences in this line. The management of the forest reserves will be treated, and the relation of the management of the forest reserves to the preservation of the game in them will be discussed by some leading sportsmen.

The railways have promised a single fare rate to delegates and on the second day of the convention an excursion will be run to Indian Head to inspect the Dominion government forest nursery and plantations there.

The secretary of the Canadian Forestry Association is Mr. Lawlor, 11 Queen's Park, Toronto, Ont., who will be pleased to furnish program and further information.

BURIED IN SAND PIT.

Moose Jaw, Sask., Aug. 5.—Word reached the city this afternoon of an accident which occurred last night a mile or two east of the city, resulting in the death of Victor Dawson, a four year old boy. A body of the child was found buried in a sand pit by his father, who was employed as a teamster in the pit. It is surmised that the boy was playing in the pit when the ground caved in.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 7.—Mathew G. Curran, D. McCleave, D. W. Nickercher, W. Wilson and Hugh R. Patriache, all of Winnipeg, have been incorporated as "British American Mills and Timber Co., Ltd.," with a capitalization of $25,000.

STORM DOES SOME DAMAGE

Some Parts of Province Visited by Severe Storm Which Does Damage to Crops—Will Not Affect Provincial Output.

A severe storm passed over the province last Wednesday night and in many places hail fell destroying the crops. The storm did most damage around Hanley, Langham, Swift Current, Moose Jaw and the district north of Pense. The amount of damage done can not yet be estimated, but taken on the whole it will not seriously affect the output of the province, though it comes hard on the district visited.

There was some hail fell in the Regina district, but the percentage of damage to the crops is small.

Francis, Aug. 8.—No damage of any kind has yet been occasioned in this district to crops and all grains promise a bumper yield. Barley cutting started Saturday on the farm of J. A. McLeod, with weather conditions ideal.

Melita, Man., Aug. 8.—There were slight showers of rain yesterday but no hail. Crops are looking good. Barley cutting begins on Tuesday and oats and barley harvest will be general next week and wheat a week later.

Aberdeen, Sask., Aug. 8.—Crops are fine and ripening fast. There has been no damage from hail or frost and prospects are good for the best crop in the history of the district.

Saltcoats, Sask., Aug 8.—Barley cutting begins tomorrow on the Snow Shamel farm, a full week earlier than last year. The crop is a fine sample and is estimated at 40 bushels to the acre. Oats and wheat are ripening with every promise of heavy yields. There is very little damage from hail or rust to date.

Nokomis, Aug. 8.—The storms of Wednesday and Thursday night did not damage the crops here. In the Lockwood district two or three farmers are reported to have suffered from hail. The weather is settled with a warm south wind. Reports received today in all directions from forty miles all give best accounts of the crops and the biggest yield in the annals of Saskatchewan is expected.

CARLYLE FARMERS DISAGREE.

Carlyle, Sask., Aug 6.—The Carlyle Farmers' Elevator company at an extraordinary general meeting called on the petition of the shareholders to consider whether the elevator should be built on the C.P.R. or the C.N.R. the directors having already decided to build on the C.P.R. About half the stockholders were present and after a prolonged discussion, a poll was taken resulting in 32 for the C.P.R. and 58 for the C.N.R., the meeting thus overriding the directors. The president and other directors promptly resigned. The vacancies will be filled in due course and the building pushed along with all speed.
