Dean Wade's Revelations.

Nearly every writer in Canada during the past month has reproduced the floating item of gossip that Dean Wade of Woodstock while recently visiting at Hamilton admitted that Birchall before death confessed everything to him, but as the confession implicates others he (the worthy Dean) is in honor bound to preserve it as sacred.

Nowhere have we seen any contradiction from Dean Wade, and his silence would justify one in believing that he did signify that Birchall had confessed to him, but that some conception of honor, personal or priestly, forbids him to reveal that confession in detail. Although he has not contradicted the widely-circulated report of his remark, we still have a lively hope that it does him an injustice and that he has not already revealed three quarters of a secret he once professed to hold inviolate.

Dean Wade, in justice to his reputation as a gentleman and a divine, should set himself right on this matter. If this paragraph were true the inference would be fair that the Dean's notion of the sanctity of the confessional was that he could publish broadcast the general fact that a certain parishioner had confessed to an act of thievery, but his priestly honor would forbid him to specify whether the article stolen was a horse or a wheelbarrow. This is a serious contradiction of the old idea that the secrets of the confessional should be immutably sacred even unto death. It is less admirable than the old idea for which scores of priests have devotedly faced death rather than bring reproach upon their office. If Dean Wade sets up in business as a ghostly adviser, a recipient of dead men's secrets, a black-cap comforter, he should reconstruct his notions of honor from the ground up. They are inadequate and perishable. The English Church may take whatever position it pleases regarding the confessional, but a minister of the Gospel in any church is constrained by every subtle tie of honor to treasure up the confidences of a trusting sinner. If the Dean, as a priest or a parson, believing that confession is good for the soul, accepted Birchall's confidence, the knowledge thus acquired should have remained intact the property of the priest and the priest's God. If as a citizen, a subject of the state, he secured an admission of Birchall's guilt and other men's complicity in crime, he should do his duty by the state—he should tell what he knows and reassure the administrators of the law who hanged a fellow-creature and secure just punishment to other guilty ones.

Assuming that Dean Wade has admitted that Birchall confessed to him, we would advise the others implicated, if they put more value on their own lives than they did upon Benwell's, to get safely out of the country. They should take it as an ominous sign when the holder of their guilty secret goes up and down the country inviting people to look upon him as one who knows something awful. When a man becomes lionized as the possessor of an important confidence—and that priests and parsons are men like the rest of us is notoriously proven every day—he is liable to reveal his confidence at such a time as may seem to make him more a lion.

When a man or a priest goes about saying that he knows something awful—a big secret, that he acquired in such and such a way, that weighs so much and measures so much aro' ad the chest, he indirectly invites all men to squeeze him and examine the exudation. When he says that his honor prevents him from revealing anything, he indirectly invites all men to criticise his notions of honor, to assault his position and drive him from his entrenchments. In short he puts his secret in extreme peril by holding it up to see who can decipher it.

The public will be slow to believe that a divine of Dean Wade's calibre is unable to contain the secrets of his sacred office and that he would use them to make himself something of a lion.

Did You Hear the Eagle Scream?

The United States on Saturday was converted into one vast amphitheatre, where vain-glorious speeches were delivered and cheered until the going down of the sun. In ten thousand public parks ten thousand hired orators fought over again the battles of the revolution for the delectation of the rising generation, and if the British enemy being fortunately dead for about a century, the battles followed each other like a succession of stupendous victories. How those swallow-tailed and bouquet-ornamented warriors by word of mouth did sweep the British forces from this North American Continent on Saturday!

History affords nothing to parallel it. It is safe to say that about half the orators prophesied that ere the next century opens the American eagle will bestraddle the continent from the limpid fluid of the Atlantic to the sister waters of the far Pacific, and—giving the wonderful bird four legs to improve the figures—from the Gulf of Mexico to the glittering ice-peaks of the Arctic Seas. The Jay Ewings and all the other jays had a great day Saturday, and this morning there is not the faintest possible shadow or manner of doubt whatever in the breast of any American, young or old, but that they are the greatest nation on this round globe and could wallop all other created peoples if war should be declared to-morrow.

Mr. John Blackwell of the Bank of Commerce, Toronto, writes: "Having suffered for over four years from dyspepsia and weak stomach, and having tried numerous remedies with but little effect, I was at last advised to give Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery a trial. I did so with a happy result, receiving great benefit from one bottle. I then tried a second and a third bottle, and now I find my appetite so much restored and stomach strengthened that I can partake of a hearty meal without any of the unpleasantness I formerly experienced."

Cleveland's Minstrels To-Night.

At the Academy of Music to-night for one night only Cleveland's Consolidated Minstrels appear. The plan is now open at Messrs. A. & S. Nordheimer's. A grand street parade takes place at noon entitled, the Outing of the Swells.

A Canadian Favorite.

"$5, a Dance or a Charivari."

SHELBURNE, Ont., July 5.—Thomas Jordan, Sim Markele, George Vance and George Smith were fined $10.65 each for charivaring W. B. McMillan and wife, a newly married couple. On the return of the couple from the wedding ceremonies a crowd assembled and demanded "$5, a dance or a charivari!" McMillan agreed that he would give them a dance if they would wait a week, but they fired and the charivari started, cow bells, cross saws, iron shafting, firearms, etc., being brought into requisition.

Goldwin Smith.

Goldwin Smith is opposed to Sir Charles Tupper in many ways, but doubtless both would agree that no better remedy for dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, headache, kidney troubles, skin diseases, etc., exists than Burdock Blood Bitters, the best family medicine known.

Joseph Rusan, Percy, writes: "I was induced to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for a lameness which troubled me for three or four years, and I found it the best article I ever tried. It has been a great blessing to me."

JUDGE DREW DEAD.

The County Judge for Wellington a Victim to Heart Failure.

Judge Drew of Guelph, died yesterday at his home in that city. Saturday he was in Toronto on legal business and as usual put up at the Queen's Hotel. Mr. Richmond, the clerk, last night informed a reporter that he never in recent times saw the Judge in better spirits and they had a long chat over old times and prominent jurists and politicians who had passed away. Judge Drew returned to Guelph Saturday night, and up to 11 o'clock was reading aloud to his family from a daily papee. Before retiring at 11.30 he called up a friend in Gait on the telephone and had a pleasant conversation, but at 12.15 he took ill and died instantly. A doctor was at once called in and pronounced it a case of heart failure. His friends in Guelph and throughout the country were shocked yesterday to hear of the sudden death for Judge Drew was a remarkably vigorous man. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon to the Guelph cemetery. The deceased, Judge George Alexander Drew, was County Judge for Wellington, having succeeded the late Judge McDonald.

WHAT WILL THE HARVEST BE?

The Reports from the Northwest Still Continue Favorable.

The all-important question, now that the "dog-days" have begun, and the crops are whitening for the sickle, is, "What will the harvest be?" On the answer to this question depends to a very large extent the prosperity and well-doing of this broad Dominion. Farming is such an important factor in Canada's life that it acts and reacts on the volume of trade as clearly as the needle turns to the pole. A good harvest means money in the farmers' pockets, payment of debts, discharge of mortgages, purchase of implements and liberal patronage of trades of all kinds.

The World a few days ago gave an epitome of the crop prospects in Manitoba and the great Northwest. The outlook was regarded as eminently favorable. In this view confirmation is given by this week's Winnipeg Commercial, which says: "In Manitoba the weather was very favorable, and may be briefly described as warm and showery. The temperature was equitable and warm without excessive heat. Local showers, varying from light to brisk rains, were frequent, and occurred in some parts of the country about every day of the week, nearly all sections receiving one or more showers during the week, the rains becoming heavier and more general at the close of the week. Light hail fell in a few localities, touching limited areas, but no damage to speak of has been reported. The outlook is very hopeful, but remembering our experience of last year, when the outlook was splendid up to harvest, but seriously injured by raining during harvest, it will not do to be too sanguine now. There is this advantage over last year, that the crop is very early."

This is very encouraging from that vast wheat-growing territory. Here in Ontario the promises are also favorable, the recent showers having been very beneficial. An average yield of wheat is confidently expected. Good news also comes from the United States, where there is a general shortage reported in the European crops. Hence there will be increased importation to the Old World this year and a prospect of higher prices. The best authorities estimate the wheat yield in the United States this season at 545,000,000 bushels, which would be the largest crop ever harvested. The foreign demand will, it is estimated, consume from 30 to 35 per cent. of this immense yield. France's wheat crop is a bad failure this year, and she alone will be obliged to take from the United States not less than $100,000,000 worth of wheat. At least one-half of this sum, or $50,000,000, will in all likelihood be paid in gold. In 1879, the year of the great boom, Europe took from the United States $277,000,000 worth of grain. If this was true ten years ago, the amount of her imports of breadstuffs this year should be about $300,000,000.

On the whole crop prospects are good on this continent. Owing to change in the charge of the Bureau of Agriculture, the July crop bulletin will not be issued. Expectation will be high respecting that which is promised will be issued in August.

Husband Missing, Wife Dying.

MONTREAL, July 5.—Mr. A. Carmichael of 221 St. Martin-street has been missing since last Sunday, and the police can find no trace. To-day the missing man's wife was found in an almost dying condition from illness, starvation and grief. Her husband was head foreman in Lang's Manufacturing Company and earned splendid wages, the pair being very comfortable. Mrs. Carmichael, who was an inmate of Hotel Dieu Hospital, upon hearing her husband was missing escaped from the hospital and reached her home, but immediately fainted. She managed to reach her bed, but since she was unable to summon help consequently for five days she had been without food or attendance. She will probably die.

Maid, Wife and a Corpse in 5 Months.

MIDDLEMISS, Ont., July 5.—Mrs. Samuel Anderson, aged 18, married five months, was recovering from an attack of measles and lay on the lounge for a short time. Her husband was in the garden hoeing, no one being in the house but a young girl, and Mrs. Anderson, complaining of the oppressive heat, asked the latter to fan her. While this was being done Mrs. Anderson raised her hands and said, "I am gone." Two minutes later she was dead.

The Best Pills.—Mr. William Vandevoort Sydney Crossing, Ont., writes: "We have been using Parmelee's Pills, and find them by far the best pills we ever used." For delicate and debilitated constitutions these pills act like a charm. Taken in small doses, the effect is both a tonic and a stimulant, mildly exciting the secretions of the body, giving tone and vigor.

WYOMING, Ont., July 5.—Mrs. Wiley, whose husband is foreman of the tile yard here, left home ostensibly for the purpose of visiting friends at the Petrolea Junction, but as was afterwards ascertained she took the 4 o'clock train to Sarnia and has not been heard from since. A note left in a pocket of her husband's coat bade him farewell? She leaves some children, but took the youngest, a child about 5 years of age. She is supposed to have been joined at some point west by a runaway husband from Strathroy.

A Statue for the Late Premier.

OTTAWA, July 5.—A delegation from the Sir John Macdonald Memorial Committee waited on Speaker White yesterday and asked if Parliament intended erecting a statue for the late Premier, or if it would aid them in doing so. Mr. White, as a matter of course, said that Parliament could not take any action as a Parliament. If anything was done in that direction it would have to be done by the Government, and then presented to Parliament for ratification.

IN THE FIELD OF SPORT.

BEL-AIR JOCKEY CLUB'S FINAL DAY.

The Winners Were Zea, Tactician, Mackenzie, Redfellow and Bushbolt—Tenny Defeats Kingston—Trotting Men Fined—Eight Cricket Contests—Championship Amateur Baseball—Lacrosse and General.

MONTREAL, July 4.—To-day, the final one of the summer meeting of the Bel-Air Jockey Club, could not be said to have been as successful as either of the preceding days.

True, the program was carried out in its entirety. The management was of the best, the handicapping fair, the clocking good and the judging strict though thoroughly impartial.

Yet the close of the meeting was brought off under not a few discouraging circumstances. First it rained almost unceasingly since yesterday morning up to the hour fixed for the first race. As a consequence the course was decidedly wet in parts, verging on swampy, and as a whole not at all in good condition. Then the bad weather kept many away, in fact not a few who would otherwise have been present supposed that the races had been postponed. As a consequence of the wet course and falling rain many owners scratched their horses early in the day, and though the sun did shine for an hour or two they would not reconsider their decision. This trio of incidents were surely enough to throw a damper on any races.

While the five events were all keenly contested the racing was not quite up to the mark of that of the other days, but with the almost heavy track that could hardly have been anticipated.

FIRST RACE.—Purse $275, 6 furlongs:

J. P. Dawes' bm Zea, 5, by Terror-Begonia, 119 1

Kingston Beaten By Tenny.

MORRIS PARK, July 4.—The Monmouth Park Association commenced its meeting here to-day before one of the largest crowds that has attended the races this season. The star event of the day was the meeting of Kingston and Tenny at even weights in the Ocean Stakes, and everybody looked to see the Dwyer horse defeat Tenny, as the latter was meeting him at his favorite distance, 1⅛ miles. This opinion was not borne out by the race, however. Tenny jumped away in the front at the start and was soon leading by two lengths. This advantage he held until the stretch was reached, when Hamilton on Kingston began to ride his mount and by dint of hard work got as far as Tenny's saddle. At the head of the grand stand Hamilton went to the whip, but it was of no avail, as Mutaugilt let out the pull he had on Tenny, who won in a gallop by four lengths amid the wildest enthusiasm.

First race, ¾ mile—Chsaapeake 1, Judge Post 2, Surplus 3. Time 1.12.

The Wellington Stables.

The Wellington Stables' string is at present at the Gloucester race track, all in fine fettle. Appomattox started on Saturday and ran second. He will be out again this week. Others there are: Ted Gegg, Merthol, a useful 3-year bay gelding, that won a race at 20 to 1 last week, landing the stable a big pot; Templemore, a 3-year-old b g; Peunita, an aged sprinter; Buenavista, b g, 2, a good colt; Fiddler, a 2-year-old colt; Gladiator and Biedsoe.

Abe Orpen of the Wellington Stables returned from Gloucester last week and will go back to-day. He says that Shields' Mirabeau is in great shape and is the best horse at Gloucester.

SATURDAY AT DUFFERIN PARK.

Three Races Won in Straight Heats—Collins and St. John Fined.

A fair crowd witnessed the last day's sport at Dufferin Park Saturday.

The weather was cold and threatened rain, but the occasional sprinkle neither dampened the enthusiasm of the crowd nor spoiled the track, which was in very good condition. The betting ring did a fair business.

In the first race Forest Boy, a prime favorite, won easily with Sunday second, John Doddridge third and Joe Mowat fourth.

The second race was won by Paddy with Maud J. a close second. Dick Smith, the third horse, gave Paddy a hard push in the third heat. Baby Girl was given fourth place.

The free-for-all was fought out between Cyclone and Grey Tobe. The friends of the former were red hot for their favorite and pools sold 3-10 to win. Twenty-five-five was offered on Grey Tobe. The race was Cyclone's from the start. Grey Tobe's people depended on the other horse breaking, but Cyclone didn't. It was a pretty race. In the second heat Grey Tobe's owner, who was dissatisfied with the driving, asked to be allowed up himself. The judges, however, put up Gillespie, who succeeded in getting Grey Tobe on the other's wheel, but never passed him.

In reference to the trouble on the track on Thursday, the judges announced that Collins, the driver of Blacistone, had been fined $25 and his owner, Mr. St. John, $50. Collins immediately paid his fine and was allowed to drive. Summary:

THEY BROKE THE RECORD.

Fast Time Made by the Queen City Homing Club's Birds.

On Saturday the Queen City Homing Club had a race from St. Mary's, a distance of about 100 miles.

The race was a capital one, and the Canadian record for the distance smashed. The birds were sent up Friday and were liberated by the express agent at noon Saturday as per instructions. The judge, J. Turner, was stationed at the College-street Firehall. The first bird was reported from A. Cotton's loft at 1.35½, the second from F. Barke's loft at 1.38¾, and the third from F. Bauckham's loft at 1.37½. All the others followed in rapid order. The victorious pigeon thus flew at the lightning rate of a mile per minute.

CHAMPIONSHIP CRICKET.

LANGEVIN-McGREEVY SCANDAL.

Mr. Murphy Tells How He Helped to Elect Robert McGreevy.

OTTAWA, July 4.—No one but members of the committee and representatives of the press were admitted to the meeting of the Committee on Privileges and Elections this morning. This was found necessary owing to the crush of visitors which were in attendance during the past few days and which to some extent interfered with the proceedings of the committee. Mr. O. E. Murphy was again put on the stand and his cross-examination by Mr. Osler was continued. Witness said that in 1889 he spent considerable money to secure the election of Robert McGreevy for the Local Legislature in Quebec. The money was not his own. He would have spent about $3000 in all. He said that Thomas McGreevy informed him that he (Murphy) would never get a contract again from the Public Works Department, as he (McGreevy) would see that his tender would not be accepted. To this Murphy replied that when the department next got his check he would get the contract. Referring again to the documents which were handed over to Mr. Tarte, witness said that they were not given for publication, nor did he give any orders that they should be published at any time afterwards. Mr. Tarte was given the documents, he being a good Conservative, with a view to showing them to Sir John Macdonald so that Robert McGreevy might be justified of the charges made against him by Thomas McGreevy. He (Murphy) had no personal ends to gain. Mr. Tarte afterwards asked himself and Robert McGreevy if he could show the papers to someone else besides Sir John Macdonald, and we therefore gave him liberty to show them to Sir Adolphe Caron.

The Privileges and Elections Committee sat till 2 o'clock.

"THE ENEMY THAT OPPRESSETH YOU."

Pastor Maxwell Says It is the Liquor Traffic—A Prohibition Sermon.

In Central Methodist Church, Bloor-street, last night Rev. W. J. Maxwell discoursed on "How to Deal with the Liquor Traffic." The preacher was very outspoken and advocated prohibition pure and simple. Three temperance hymns were heartily sung. The text were numbers X.:

9. And if ye go to war in your land against the enemy that oppresseth you, then ye shall blow an alarm with the trumpets; and ye shall be remembered before the Lord your God, and ye shall be saved from your enemies.

Canada, said he, rejoiced in immunity from war, but a country's foes might be those of her own household. It was so with Canada; intemperance is her mightiest enemy. In graphic language the preacher financially, physically, intellectually and morally intemperance is the foe of the Dominion.

This vigorous sentence thrilled the congregation: "Artists and poets, statesman of no mean order have been and are being degraded by drink; the ermine of the bench and the mitre have been stained; some of the highest men of the Methodist pulpit have degraded themselves and dishonored their cloth through the same cause."

Both political parties were severely scored. Said Mr. Maxwell: "In this 19th century, with churches at every street corner and temperance text-books in all the schools, we have not yet got our legislators to the point of admitting that that country is prepared for prohibition."

"No compromise" should be our motto. My soul abhors more the man who signs the license than the man who legally sells the drink. The government not allowing the people to vote on prohibition he called despotism, and added: "If a despot is to rule over me let it be the ruler of Madagascar rather than a Canadian despot."

The preacher made one sally of wit and made his hearers laugh when he ridiculed the apathy of people eleven months in the year and then their raising the cry "Go to the poll!" "Yes, go to the poll, indeed. Much good, after all the apathy, will that do. Go to the North Pole!" (Laughter.)

In conclusion he said: "God forgive me for my former denunciations of liquor-sellers and liquor-drinkers. I saw I was wrong. It is the license that should be denounced." Then he prayed for the good time when prohibition would prevail and its wonderful blessings be realized in this fair Dominion.

ST. PATRICK WAS A GENTLEMAN.

But Dr. Wild Scarcely Thinks He Was a Roman Catholic.

Dr. Wild's subject last night was "God's Foreknowledge." Varied and strong were his arguments against the doctrines taught by Calvin. He said: "When my children were small I used often to watch them in their play and could often tell what was going to happen. Yet that did not make me responsible for their actions.

"Calvin taught that some men were ordained to do good and some to do ill. Now, if a man is doing ill and is doing it just as God intended he is doing God's will, and therefore is as great a saint as any other of God's creatures.

"Of course God does not do all. He can, for he can do all things. Now, is it not as reasonable to say that he does not know all, although he can know all things! A person may know all he might know if he wished, and to say that God must know everything, whether He wills or not, is to deny that He can do all things." The reverend doctor does not believe that God knew that Adam would sin, and therefore He tried him and made provision that would suit the case whether he did or not.

The only letter of importance received by Dr. Wild during the past week was one asking, "Was St. Patrick a Roman Catholic?" This was answered at some length. St. Patrick is supposed to have lived about A.D. 400. Now, there is no record of there being any Roman Catholic Church in Britain or Ireland till A.D. 980. Therefore, if he were ever was such a man he belonged to the ancient Anglo-Saxon Church, of which the most nearly lineal descendant is the Episcopalian. In all probability it is a case similar to the German Catholics changing the name of John Huss, the noted reformer, and adoring him as a patron saint.

Dr. Wild's subject next Sunday evening will be, "The Reformation and King William III."

The N. Y. Tribune Scorched.

NEW YORK, July 5.—At an early hour this morning a fierce fire broke out at No. 9 Spruce-street. As it was next door to The Tribune office, and fed as they were by paper and other inflammable material, the flames caused considerable excitement for a while. Abraham Frank, a 13-year old newsboy, who was sleeping in the basement, was burned to death.

The Last of Old Paul.

GANANOQUE, July 5.—A Frenchman named Paul Deniau, a fine looking soldierly man who had evidently seen better days, but who has been employed here as a stableman, was accidentally drowned in the Punch Bowl Creek while swimming. Deniau was born in Paris and at an early age entered military life, serving as an officer in the French army in the Crimean and Franco-Prussian wars. He must have been a handsome man in his youth and the beau-ideal of a soldier, for at the age of 63 he was a fine figure. He was a good swordsman, and he was always polite and courteous. He was a well-educated man and could speak in four languages.

The Usual Way.

The usual way is to neglect bad blood until boils, blotches and sores make its presence forcibly known; every wise person ought to be careful to purify the blood by using the best blood purifier and tonic, Burdock Blood Bitters. Its purifying power is unrivalled.
