am having a whole lot of excitement. We bought a new cow and as she had never been milked before it fell to my lot to milk her and teach her to "hist" and otherwise to make herself agreeable. But her calf had been allowed to run with her a couple of weeks and she has been making things lively for me. She is just about the most competent kicker I have ever met with. She kicks just as readily with one foot as with the other and she puts her heart in her work. I have to tie her hind legs together, but she has broken a couple of ropes and snapped the buckles off straps so I have to be on my guard every second. My foot work in getting away from her attacks would do credit to a prize fighter. You may remember that Kippling's mongoose when fighting with a cobra kept himself so nicely balanced that he could start off in any direction at a moment's notice. That is the way I perch on the milking stool. Whenever the cow makes the slightest move I can start back or sideways instantly. And this delicate skill is necessary. Even with her legs tied she can raise a disturbance. When she is at her worst I put in practice a little lesson that I have learned from the driver. She hates to have her harness put on, but as she knows she must not bite me she bites the manger or the side of the stall. Now, I know it would never do to kick the cow or be cross with her, so like Huck Finn's father I "cuss the gov'ment" and kick the milking stool. The cow is gradually quieting down and before the winter is over she will probably bawl for me to come and milk her. But though she is a nuisance just now, I sympathize with the man who has her calf. He has to teach it to drink from a pail and after a calf has run with its mother for a while that is just about the meanest job a man can tackle. Even quiet, settled farmers have been heard yelling at a distance of two miles when trying to teach a calf of this kind to take skim-milk without burying over the pail.

A Steer and a Moral.

A breachy steer that has been enjoying life in this neighborhood almost leads me to moralize and teach a profitable lesson. He has discovered uses to which his great strength can be put and ever since he has been living delicately. Some days I see him feeding in a wheat field and at others in a meadow from which the rest of the flock are excluded. As a matter of fact he goes where he likes and if a fence is too high to jump he pushes through it. Yesterday he visited my orchard to get a feed of apples. It is quite true that the road gate was open, but it would have made no difference if it was not. When I went to drive out the visitor he started straight for the wire fence, pushed his head through it and went out as if going through a few strings that had been stretched across his path. The little upright scantlings placed between the posts to strengthen the fence snapped like so many straws. There was no resisting his brute strength. For some reason the incident started me thinking of what the farmers might do if they once realized their strength. They have the votes to make themselves the governing class of the country, and yet they stay fenced in by party lines and content themselves with the straw after their masters have taken the wheat. But perhaps they will get breachy some day and then the politicians will have to do a lot of running and yelling to get them back into line. And now having evolved this beautiful little moral, I shall go and split wood.

Strategy—What do you do when you forget your lines?"

"I just repeat the multiplication table in a muffled voice," said the emotional actress. "I had the house in tears the other night over nine times nine are eighty-one."—Washington Herald.

The new reporter turned in his story about the church bazaar, his first assignment. It was the usual story, with the usual names of committee women.

He lingered around the city editor's desk as the hour for the paper to go to press drew near.

"Funny thing happened at that bazaar to-night," he said casually, as conversation lagged.

"What was that?" asked the city editor.

"Oh, nothing much—one of the booths caught fire and they put it out with lemonade."

He never knew why he was fired.

Mr. Purdy has purchased from Edward Bates his property at Rothesay. There are seven acres in the centre of the village, formerly owned by the Hon. John Robertson estate, and almost directly opposite the home of the late L. J. Almon.

After considerable negotiations the Royal Bank of Canada has succeeded in securing a good site on Main street. They have purchased the property of William Lilley & Sons, wholesale and retail meat dealers. The lot is 30 feet wide and 70 feet deep, upon which is a two-story wooden house. It is said that the price paid for the property was about $3,000. It is understood that an up-to-date bank will be erected next spring.

Thursday, Dec. 12.

William Murphy and R. Bedard, of Montreal, who have been in the city for several days looking over the real estate situation, left last night for Halifax. They are greatly impressed with conditions here and may make some heavy investments, although as yet they have not closed anything.

The agreement of sale from Thomas Bell to Joseph Hobson of the John Lee property of ninety acres at Little River for $87,500, which took place some time ago, has just been recorded. There is also on record an assignment by Joseph Hobson to J. A. Meldrum for $2,500 of a property in Simonds.

It is understood that the owners are taking a day or two to consider. The amount offered for the three is in the vicinity of $20,000.

Herbert Guernsey who has been operating in St. John real estate for the last year left last evening for his home in Victoria, B. C., for the winter. He will return to St. John early in the spring.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION IN HIGH COURT

Supreme Court of Canada Gives Judgment in Insurance Cases.

Word has been received from the Supreme Court of Canada that a decision in favor of the St. John insurance fraternity has been given in the case arising out of a dispute over an insurance loss on lumber at Campbellton. In August, 1910, a quantity of lumber owned by Messrs. Guimond Couillard Freres et Cie and piled within the town limits of Campbellton, was destroyed by fire. The lumber was insured for $51,000 in the Fidelity Phoenix, London Assurance, Western Assurance, Norwich Union, Liverpool London & Globe, Manitoba and Commercial Union companies, and there was a further risk of $15,000 that had been placed by one of the foremen on his own behalf. The companies were not satisefid with the conditions surrounding the loss and decided to resist payment of the amount claimed, $49,407.00 on the $51,000 insurance. The owners and La Banque National, which had an interest with the owners, took proceeds to recover and a suit was started again the Fidelity Phenix Company for $3,875.00, the full amount of their share in the loss.

The case was tried in July, 1911, at Campbellton, before Judge Barry and a jury. On the answers made to questions by the jury Judge Barry ordered a verdict for the plaintiffs for the full amount. The defendants appealed from this decision to the Supreme Court of New Brunswick, and there won a signal victory, the court allowing the appeal and ordering a verdict rendered for the defendant company. Against this decision the lumber owners and the bank carried the case to Ottawa, where it was argued last month by Hon. J. D. Hazen and Mr. F. R. Taylor for the plaintiffs and Mr. M. G. Teed and Mr. J. H. A. L. Fairweather for the defendants. The decision of the court is to sustain the decision of the Supreme Court in favor of the defendants.

It is possible that the case will be carried to the Privy Council, although the fact that two appeal courts agree may end the case. The action against the Fidelity Phenix was a test case and the decision in it will determine the policy to be pursued with reference to the other companies. As the matter now stands the insurance companies are freed of their liabilty.

OVERWHELMING FLOOD OF TESTIMONY

FROM THE MARITIME PROVINCES

And United Chorus in Praise of the Achievements of the English VEEDEE, the Wonderful Health Machine

The present visit of the Veedee Demonstrators to St. John is now rapidly drawing to a close, and their departure from St. John in a few days will conclude their successful work in the Maritime Provinces. Since they landed from England at Halifax last September, they have been working at high pressure giving over fifty of their famous Free Lectures—Demonstrations in Halifax, Truro, New Glasgow, Sydney, Charlottetown and St. John. Also interviewing and giving Trial Treatments daily to hundreds of sufferers. The reputation of that marvellous wonder-working English invention, the Veedee Health Machine and Blood Circulator, had doubtless preceded them in Canada, as the British press during the last seven years has published many reports of the numerous cures performed by the Veedee in the Old Country, but "seeing is believing" and the remarkable results obtained upon so many sufferers on the platform, in front of large audiences, day after day, in every town visited by the Demonstrators, have conclusively proved the value of the Veedee for the instant relief of pain and the cure of many complaints. Furthermore, everyone of the small instruments sold for home use in the Maritime Provinces has done so much good that it has become a working testimonial to the inventor and nearly every sale effected during the last week, at the Domenstrator's offices, 78 Charlotte street, St. John, was to people who had been advised by their friends—who are Veedee users—to "get a Veedee and to enjoy the relief from pain and the invigorating of the whole system resulting from its use.

In fact the stock of instruments brought from England is becoming rapidly exhausted on account of the large demand from all parts of the Maritime Provinces.

THE LAST FREE PUBLIC LECTURES DEMONSTRATIONS In St. John will be given at the institute hall 119 PRINCESS STREET (Cor. of Charlotte St.) NEXT MONDAY AND WEDNESDAY at Three and Eight p.m. All Seats and Treatments Free.

MRS. ESTHER THOMAS, OF 11 ALMON STREET, HALIFAX, N. S., WRITES AS FOLLOWS:

"To The Veedee Demonstrators.

Gentlemen:—

I had been Paralyzed for four years, and had lost, to a large extent, the use of my limbs. I could only walk with canes, and that with great difficulty. I had also been unable to read for three years.

I could not do my own housework, and had to hire help for years. I suffered much, and tried almost everything to get relief, but everything failed.

I heard of the VEEDEE, and bought one and have been using it for about four weeks. Today I can do my own work, I can walk without canes, and can read.

I am still using the VEEDEE, and shall strongly recommend it to others similarly afflicted.

You may make what use of this letter you may see fit, if it can be of any use to suffering humanity.

Yours truly,

(Signed) ESTHER THOMAS,
11 Almon Street,
Halifax, N. S."

THE LAST FREE PUBLIC LECTURES DEMONSTRATIONS In St. John will be given at the institute hall 119 PRINCESS STREET (Cor. of Charlotte St.) NEXT MONDAY AND WEDNESDAY at Three and Eight p.m. All Seats and Treatments Free.

The following are only a few of the numerous cases successfully treated during the Public Demonstrations in the Maritime Provinces as reported in the Local Press. A full report of all cases treated with similar results would occupy four full pages of this Newspaper.
