Convention of the Chase Heirs at Boston.

A convention of the Chase heirs was held in John A. Andrew Hall, Boston, on Wednesday morning, for the purpose of devising ways and means to establish their heirship to a large property that is said to belong to the said heirs in England. It was attended by about 200 persons. The meeting was called to order at ten o'clock, and the call for the meeting read, after which the members of the Chase family present formed a permanent organization and elected Mr. Elias Chase of Portland as Chairman, and Mr. Edwin C. Foster of this city, as Secretary. The report of the committee on records was then called for, and Dr. John B. Chase of Taunton, the chairman of that committee, produced several volumes, in which he had compiled the records and all the information which had been hunted up. The amount of money in question is over $2,000,0.0.

Fire in Amherst.

A fire in Amherst last evening destroyed the stores of Messrs Douglas & Harper, Mr. Wm. Greenfield, and Messrs. B. Douglas & Co. A great portion of the goods were burned or otherwise destroyed. The loss is placed at $100,000 by the special dispatch to the Telegraph, but is probably much less. There was some insurance. The Amherst hotel and other buildings caught, goods were removed from stores, and much commotion attended the conflagration. There is no fire engine in the town, and the people must have worked well to prevent a general burning.

Burglars in Policemen's Clothing.

A New York dispatch says that the records of Chief of Police McWilliams and Detective Doyle, of Jersey City, do not grow brighter thus far under the scrutiny of official investigation. People in the vicinity were startled at their arrest and incredulous as regards their guilt, for which confidence the justification may yet appear, but the opening developments are not auspicious. The grand jury laid before Judge Bedle the list of indictments, and in less than hour writs were lodged in the Sheriff's hands for the arrest of the accused; Detective Doyle was soon on hand, and as the District-Attorney called upon him to answer each of the indictments, the plea in each of the four cases—for that number appeared against him—was not guilty. The first charges him with conspiring with Proctor, Denning and divers other persons to rob the First National Bank; the second charges him with breaking and entering; the third with unlawfully having burglars' tools in his possession, and the fourth with misconduct in office, in neglecting to arrest certain parties whom he found with burglars' tools in their possession. The Judge fixed the bail at $7,000 for each indictment, though the detective didn't think he could raise so much. It was rumored that McWilliams had left the city to escape trial, but he was finally found. The excitement meanwhile remains intense, and the popular verdict, in case he is convicted of the four charges against him, is already—death.
