COLCHESTER.

As we have already announced, the Conservatives of Colchester, N.S., have nominated Sir Adams G. Archibald, an ex-Lieutenant-Governor of the Province, as their candidate to contest the constituency at the approaching election, made necessary by the resignation of the Hon. A. W. McLelan, who has succeeded Mr. Richey as Lieutenant-Governor. Sir Adams Archibald is no stranger to public life. He was born at Truro in May, 1814, and has therefore reached an age when most men would be disposed to seek repose from the care and worry of politics. Such, we believe, was his desire; but at the urgent solicitations of his friends in the constituency he allowed himself to be nominated, and no doubt he will represent Colchester for the remainder of the present parliamentary term. At an early age Sir Adams Archibald entered upon the study of law, and having successfully passed through the prescribed provincial curriculum he was called to the Bar of Prince Edward Island, and afterwards to that of his native province. A number of years later he was created a Queen's counsel. In the Provincial Government of Nova Scotia he was Solicitor-General from August 1856 until the resignation of the Government in February of the following year; and Attorney-General from February, 1860 until June, 1863. When Confederation took place he entered the Dominion Government as Secretary of State, which position he held until 1868, when he resigned. He was Lieutenant Governor of Manitoba and the Northwest Territories from May, 1870, until May, 1873; Judge in Equity in Nova Scotia from June, 1873 until the following month, when he was appointed Lieutenant Governor of Nova Scotia as successor to the late Hon. Joseph Howe, which position he held for two terms—until July, 1883, when he was succeeded by Mr. Richey, M. P. He was one of the delegates to England on the Union Question, and to the Charlottetown and Quebec Conferences. In 1873 Mr. Archibald was created a Companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, and a few years ago he was elevated in the same Order to a Knight Companionship. The choice of the Conservatives of Colchester is no stranger to the constituency. He represented it in the Provincial House of Assembly from 1851 to 1859, when, upon division of the county, he was returned for South Colchester, which he represented until Confederation. The following is the electoral record of Colchester since 1867:

General election 1867—
A. W. McLelan	1,649
A. G. Archibald	1,289
Majority for McLelan	360
General election 1872—
F. M. Pearson, Lib	1,634
J. F. Blanchford	1,209
Majority for Pearson	425
General election 1874—
T. McKay, Con	1,429
F. M. Pearson, Lib	1,313
Majority for McKay	116
General election 1878—
T. McKay	1,829
A. C. Page	1,453
Majority for McKay	376

Mr. McKay having resigned in June, 1881, to open a seat for Mr. McLelan (then in the Senate), who entered the Government as Minister of Marine and Fisheries, instead of the late Hon. James C. Pope, who was obliged to resign on account of the state of his health, a new election took place with the following result:

A. W. McLelan	1,802
C. N. Cummings	1,374
Majority for McLelan	428
General election 1882—
A. W. McLelan	1,887
F. A. Lawrence	1,452
Majority for McLelan	435
General election 1887—
A. W. McLelan	2,416
S. D. McLennan	1,819
Majority for McLelan	647

The Liberals have a candidate, Mr. A. G. Morrison, a well-known Halifax barrister, in the field. The issues are well understood, and a fine opportunity is offered the electors of Colchester to intimate to the country at large whether any change has taken place in their views since at the last general election they repeated their declaration of confidence in the government. Since that time the Commercial Union and Unrestricted Reciprocity questions have come up, and each policy has been placed before the country by its advocates. It remains to be seen how Colchester will vote.

TRADE WITH SOUTH AMERICA.

In the opinion of Mr. Simeon Jones, of St. John, N. B., Canadian Trade Commissioner to the Argentine Republic and South American countries, there is every reason to believe that a satisfactory trade can be opened up, particularly if a direct Canadian steamship line be established, which it is believed the countries in question would assist. Mr. Jones thinks, however, that the fish trade would not amount to much, there being a considerable local supply. Canned lobsters and salmon are used in large quantities, but the latter are obtained from the Columbia river. A good demand it was believed could be developed for Canadian agricultural implements, while Nova Scotia coal could be profitably sold in the Republic, the price on board South American ships at Swansea, from whence the supply comes, being as high as in Nova Scotia ports, while vessels will carry coal at less freight from the latter port than the former, port charges being much less. The commerce with respect to which Mr. Jones is most hopeful is that in lumber. Already considerable shipments are made from British Columbia to Buenos Ayres, although freight thence is somewhat higher than from the North Atlantic. Last year the Argentine Republic imported 205,000,000 feet of lumber of which Canada provided only one-tenth. It was however, necessary, in order to command this market, to understand what description of lumber was required and how it should be prepared. It is to be hoped that the best endeavors of the trade missionaries whom Canada has been sending out of late years will be productive of good results.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

CANADA at present has no murderers under sentence of death. The fact is almost without precedent.

The Calgary Herald says that "British Columbia is coming to the front as a great fruit country. The Pacific express this morning brought in a large shipment for Mr. F. J. Claxton of magnificent fruit grown in British Columbia." What "illimitable possibilities" in the way of fruit growing are within easy reach of our people!

The Philadelphia Ledger announces the reported discovery of "perfect lithographic stone in large sheets, within a hundred miles of Austin, Texas." The only source of supply of those stones heretofore has been Bavaria, where the mines have long been worked, and where it is believed the supply is gradually becoming exhausted. If the reports from Texas shall be confirmed by the production of large and perfect sheets of stone, another important industry will add to the prosperity and development of the New South.

AN estimate made by the Trow Directory Company puts the population of New York city at 1,676,140, or 469,841 greater than in 1880, the census year. The directory issued by this company contains 335,228 names. This would give an average of five population to each name. The same authority also estimates that there is in the city each day a floating population of 400,000, making fully 2,000,000 people within the city limits. Adding to this total the population of Brooklyn, estimated at 800,000, and the inhabitants of Jersey city, Hoboken, Staten Island and other suburbs, it is safe to say there are 3,000,000 people living together within a radius of fifteen miles of City Hall.

ARPAD HARASZTHY, late president of the California Board of Viticultural Commissioners, has filed a report with the Governor containing a mine of information as to the present viticultural resources of the state and forecasts for the future. The production at the end of the third year from now are given as follows: One million five hundred thousand boxes of raisins at $2 a box, $3,000,000; 40,000 tons of table grapes at $30 per ton, $1,200,000; 50,000,000 gallons of wine at 20 cents per gallon, $10,000,000; 1,500,000 tax-paid brandy at $1.40 per gallon, $2,000,000; total, $16,200,000. From 1875 to 1887, inclusive, the shipments by sea to foreign countries amounted to $895,797 worth of wine and $84,169 worth of brandy. But in the same time the total wine shipments out of the state were valued at $21,025,045, and brandy shipments at $5,201,412.

THE JAMES BAY RETAINING WALL.

TO THE EDITOR:—Your favorable comment upon the Loan By-Laws proves you to be one of the progressive men of our ever growing and prosperous city, but why you should think the by-law for the retaining wall across James Bay will not pass, I fail to see.

There are many reasons why it should pass, and the retaining wall be built, while no good reason can be advanced why the work should be deferred until the present bridge is rotten and useless.

The fact that the bridge has been closed to the public four or more times during the past five years—causing great inconvenience and expense to the general public—is one strong reason why a permanent structure should be placed across the bay as soon as possible.

Then, again, the ever increasing heavy traffic between the outer wharf and the city demands a more substantial road than the old wooden bridge has afforded.

Private citizens are showing us a good example in the erection of substantial brick blocks; let us, as a city do something permanent.

Yes; pass the by-law. Build your sea wall, continue your principal street across the mud flats, and let the world see we have some life in us.

RATEPAYER.

Victoria, B.C., July 23, 1888.

EXTRAORDINARY RICH QUARTZ.

From Bonanza Lode, Cayoosh Creek—$36,000 to the Ton.

Some fine samples of free milling gold were received from the Bonanza ledge, Lillooet, some of which are exceedingly rich. These samples are from different parts of the ledge. One piece is literally studded with gold; this was from croppings about two thousand feet up the mountain, on location No. 3. The samples from location No. 1, about six hundred feet from the creek near the base of the mountain, where the ledge has a width of twelve feet, shows gold plainly; and the rock from the bottom of the shaft, which is some sixty feet deep on the line between location Nos. 2 and 3, at an elevation of fifteen hundred feet above the creek, also shows a fine prospect. The company have been quietly developing their property, which bids fair to eclipse anything yet found in British Columbia. The ledge has been traced for over a mile, and the development in the shaft proves at that depth a true fissure vein. The company have had some thirty assays, and are fully convinced that the lode, when thoroughly opened, will prove one of the wonders of the heretofore hidden treasures of our golden hills. The owners of this property are J. McB. Smith and Thomas Elwyn, of Victoria; Ewen Bell, F. Soues, H. Harvey, of Clinton, P. H. Ward and Hiram Gould. The quartz can be seen at the office of Mr. John Kurtz, Government street.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of Cutting Teeth? If so send at once and get a bottle of "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers; there is no mistake about it. It cures Dysentery and Diarrhœa, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, cures Wind Colic, softens the Gums, reduces Inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for children teething is pleasant to the taste and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP," and take no other kind. my31-eod-dw

THE DRING AND MILLER CASE.

Statement of the Klootchman who Accompanied Quamlet and Johnny Kla-quot-sie to the Scene of the Tragedy—Full Details of the Murder—The Prisoner Johnny Assents to its Truth.

Yesterday Mr. Edwin Johnson, S. M., examined witnesses in the case of the murder of Dring and Miller at Cowichan, Johnny Kla-quot-sie being charged with complicity in the same. The evidence is of an interesting character, that of Sally Ah-hoo-muet furnishing full details of why the murder was committed, and the manner in which it was done.

Sally Ah-Hoo-Mult—My father's name was Kaiwoos; I do not know how old I am; Kaiwoos was a Salmon River Indian; he was the younger brother of Quamlet; they hanged Kaiwoos at Nanaimo; I was at Nanaimo and so was Quamlet; Quamlet was living in the house of Jim Magus, the Indian constable, at the Euclataw Village at Nanaimo; I was living in my mother's house in the same village; Johnny, the accused, was living in the same house with Quamlet; Johnny is my mother's brother; after Kaiwoos was hanged I went into Mincey's house and sat down; Quamlet was there; Johnny was not there; I was crying when Quamlet came in and he said, "Don't cry, we are going out to look for this hangman that hanged your father"; this was on Thursday night; on Friday morning Quamlet came and called me; I opened the door and Quamlet and Johnny came in; Quamlet gave me some whisky (two glasses) and each of them also took two glasses; they then went and pushed the canoe down to the water, and I went down with them; I was in the bow of the canoe; Johnny in the middle and Quamlet was steering, and we paddled off. They had in the canoe one Winchester rifle, Quamlet's, and one muzzle-loader Hudson Bay gun, also a knife about a foot long, also two bottles of whisky, colored liquor. We came down towards Victoria. After we got through the rapids or narrows we went into a little bay from which we could see Chemainus. This was in the night and we had a fire, and we laid down on the beach and Quamlet told me "we are looking for the hangman, my dear." That was all he said, and I did not answer. Early in the morning we started from the bay and paddled to a place called Penalehut. We came on the south side of the island and Quamlet said: "We will go ashore there," pointing towards Chemainus. He then said to Johnny: "We will go and see that white man." Johnny said he was willing. They went ashore there. Quamlet said to me, "My dear, keep a good watch in case a canoe might come round. We are going up to see that white man." Quamlet walked first and Johnny behind. Quamlet carried the Winchester. He turned round and said to Johnny, "Bring that other gun with you." Quamlet also had the knife. Johnny came down to the core, took up the gun and loaded it with a ball. They then walked up, Johnny behind all the time. I watched them going up the hill. They got behind the hill, where I could not see them, but I heard the dog barking at them. Not long after I heard two shots fired, just one after the other. Then again I heard two more shots fired, and after that I saw Johnny coming down the hill with the gun in one hand and a sack of flour in the other. Then Quamlet came down with the Winchester in one hand, a sack of flour in the other. Quamlet said to Johnny, "bring the canoe round this way." Johnny brought it round. I was walking on the beach. Quamlet went up again to the house. I went up with him to the house, but did not look in. He went into the house and came out again with a bundle of clothes and a sack of flour. We then returned to the canoe and Quamlet told me and Johnny to load the canoe, and to be quick lest some one might come round and see us. While Johnny and I were loading the canoe Quamlet went up again and came down with a clock in a sack and a satchel. We then left the beach and sailed with a south-east breeze for the Penalehut Gap and towards the lighthouse. Late in the night we arrived in a little bay, where we went to hide the stuff. Quamlet took all the stuff out of the canoe and went and hid it. He returned to Johnny and me on the beach, and we all had a drink. After the bottle was empty Quamlet threw it away over his shoulder. After that we went out a little way in the canoe, anchored it and slept on it. In the morning the sun was up we started for Nanaimo. On the way Quamlet fired five shots at seals with the Winchester. He missed every shot. We arrived at Nanaimo and we went ashore near the gaol. There Quamlet said to me, "My dear, don't tell anyone you have been out with us; say you slept in town." They left me there and went off in the canoe. I then went to my mother's house. When Quamlet said, "We are waiting for the hangman," I was lying on the beach between Johnny and Quamlet; we were close together; Johnny was awake, but said nothing. I guessed Johnny was awake; we had not laid very long on the beach when Quamlet spoke; I had no conversation with Johnny that night nor the next morning. The only thing Johnny said to me was "It's too bad that Quamlet led me into this." This was the next morning before we got in the canoe. Quamlet, when he was leaving the house, wore a common calico shirt, with thick trousers, white color, with a black hat on. When he returned I noticed his clothes were all stained with blood in front. I don't know what Quamlet did with that shirt. When Johnny first came down the trail I asked what those guns were firing off for, and he replied that Quamlet had killed two white men. That is all that Johnny said, and then Quamlet came down and said that he had shot two white men. That is all that Quamlet said. The next time he spoke about the killing was when he begged me to say nothing about the killing; Johnny never told me anything about this killing; I never had any conversation with Johnny after that; he left Nanaimo about three weeks after Quamlet and Quamlet left two weeks after the murder was done; from the time of Johnny's leaving Nanaimo until to-day I have had no conversation with him; I have never since seen any of the things taken from the house except the satchel; I never saw the clock in the sack since Quamlet hid them.

Prisoner being asked if he wished to put any questions to the witness, replied that he did not, and that all she had said was true.

George Hunt—My name is George Hunt and I live at Fort Rupert; I understand the prisoner's language and have had several interviews with him; the first of these taking place at the Provincial gaol, Victoria, and the date being in the month of April this year; the prisoner at that time in reply to my reference to the murder of Miller and Dring made a statement which was heard by Gaoler Muldoon; when I went to the gaol to see prisoner it was at the request of Superintendent Roycraft, who told me to promise the man if he told everything that he did it would result in his having an easy time, that he was to let off; Mr. Muldoon was present at my interview with the prisoner, and he took down in writing the prisoner's statement; the prisoner was at that time detained in the gaol as a witness against Quamlet who was charged with the murder of Miller and Dring; I afterwards had a second interview with the prisoner Johnny at which Muldoon was also present; this also was at the Provincial gaol, two days after the first interview, and the substance of the prisoner's statement, which differed from his first statement, was taken down by Muldoon. The third interview I had with the prisoner was also in the gaol, at which Muldoon was present. The fourth interview was at Mr. Wilson's office at which Mr. Roycroft and myself and Mr. Wilson were present, Mr. Wilson taking down the prisoner's statement in writing. The date of the latter interview was, I think, two weeks ago last Saturday.

To the Court—I am a trader up at Fort Rupert.

To Mr. Irving—For two months in the summer I fish and have been twenty-five years trading.

To the Court—Mr. Roycraft brought me down as interpreter, and any time the police come up to Fort Rupert I go with them and am generally deputed to catch any Indian that may be wanted. I consider that I was in the employment of the police. I know of my own knowledge that Johnny was to have been a witness at the trial of Quamlet, the trial which did not take place, in consequence of Quamlet's death.

Sally Ah-has-mult, being recalled, further deposeth, in reply to the magistrate, as follows: Since I went on that trip with Johnny and Quamlet is about two years in the summer time; it was just beginning to get warm weather. I remember Quamlet being tried at the City Hall before Mr. Johnson some time last year. I was present then. I gave evidence in the case the second time; by second time I mean in this office. It was before a different magistrate to Mr. Edwin Johnson, whom I saw presiding at the City Hall at which time I gave evidence. I gave evidence in the Quamlet case once at this office and once at the City Hall. The evidence I gave then was different from that which I gave last Saturday. I told a different story then. The first statement that I made was not true because instead of mentioning this Jonnny's name I mentioned another Johnny—Johnny Ko-quatla—and I also said that I didn't go in the canoe with Quamlet and didn't say that Johnny (the prisoner) did.

I CURE FITS!
When I say CURE I do not mean merely to stop them for a time, and then have them return again. I MEAN A RADICAL CURE. I have made the disease of FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS,
A life long study. I WARRANT my remedy to CURE the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a FREE BOTTLE of my INFALLIBLE REMEDY. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and it will cure you. Address

ESTABLISHED 1883
THE WEST SHORE
PORTLAND, OREGON
The West Shore is the only illustrated magazine published on the Pacific coast, and aside from its excellent literary features, its object is to convey information, by both pen and pencil, of the great resources of this region, and the progress of their development.
Special illustrated articles appear in each issue; also, several pages of notes of the progress being made in every section, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Alaska, Utah, California, British Columbia, and the Pacific Northwest in general, are being illustrated. The subscription price is only $2.50. It is not only the cheapest illustrated magazine in the United States, but contains articles and engravings of great interest to every resident of this region, which can not be found in any other publication.
Subscribers for 1888 receive a large supplement every month. The first one is a beautiful cleograph of the "Entrance to the Columbia River," printed in nine colors, and each of the others represents some feature of our sublime scenery. The supplements are alone worth more than the price of the magazine. Try it for 1888, and after reading, send it to your friends elsewhere. You will find it both entertaining and instructive.
L. SAMUEL, Publisher,
171-173 Second St., Portland, Oregon.
