A LIFT IN COAL PRICES

Baer to Advance Prices on Steam Sizes of Anthracite.

Philadelphia, Aug. 14.—Consumers of steam sizes of anthracite coal will be compelled to pay to the railroad coal combination approximately $6,000,000 more per annum as a result of the advance of 25 cents per ton, which it is proposed to make on Sept. 1.

The increased income from the sale of anthracite coal will be equal to 5 per cent on $120,000,000. George F. Baer, recognized head of the anthracite combination, is the one who takes the lead in the proposed lift of prices.

This will raise the mine price of pea coal from $1 75 to $2 per ton, of buckwheat from $1 25 to $1 50 and of rice, from 60 to 85 cents per ton.

With the advance these sizes of coal will be put back to the basis which ruled in 1904. The year before that the prices were still another 25 cents per ton higher. Competition with bituminous coal forced the reductions in prices for steam sizes of anthracite.

Such advance will come right in the face of the action brought by the United States and now pending in the federal courts, based on the alleged existence of an anthracite coal combination in violation of the law and directed to breaking up the trust.

Now that game is so scarce and fresh game impossible under the law, the invention of the poultry dealers has not failed them. Young broiling turkeys are not now in the market and the poussin or squab chicken has ceased to be a novelty. The young broiling guinea fowl has, therefore, come in as the delicacy of the winter. The fowls are not as large as a grouse and when split and broiled the white meat of the breasts is as delicate as any game that was ever put on the market. It is just now the most popular alternative to the inevitable duck or squab of this season.

A man who recovered £25 damages from a cab proprietor at Clerkenwell county court on Tuesday for personal injuries said he was the owner of a large gramaphone, by which he earned his livelihood in the streets. He was earning on the average £5 a week, and took £12 in one day for the Brighton Hospital.
