VALIDITY OF BYLAW GOVERNING MARKET PURCHASES DOUBTED

Appeal From Recent Conviction Is Probable.

GAMBLING BRINGS FINE

Operator of Device at Fair Is Mulcted $50 and Costs.

The validity of the market bylaw, which prohibits hucksters from purchasing for re-sale goods on the market before 11 o'clock, may be tested as a result of a fine which was imposed on Thomas Flynn by Magistrate Graydon in police court this morning. W. R. Meredith, counsel for Flynn, questioned the validity of the bylaw, and asked that time for consideration of an appeal be allowed before the collection of the fine. Ten days were granted in which to enter an appeal from the conviction.

Question of Onus of Proof.

According to the evidence of C. W. Maker, market clerk, Thomas Flynn purchased two bushels of cucumbers from a gardener about 9 o'clock one morning last week, and had them delivered to his wagon on the square, where he held them for sale. The gardener testified that he had known Flynn for ten or fifteen years, and that he was a huckster. Whether he also was a grocer the witness did not know.

Counsel for Flynn contended that the prosecution should prove that the defendant was not an established grocer. The court held that proof should be submitted showing that he is a grocer under the meaning of the act, if such be the case, and accordingly registered a conviction. The penalty was fixed at $5 and costs.

$50 Fine for Gambling Device.

Pleading guilty to operating a gambling device at the Western Fair grounds, Joseph Gelines was assessed $50 and costs by Magistrate Graydon. That he is still ahead of the game is the opinion of the authorities, judging by the number of complaints that have been received from visitors to the Fair who, lured by the thought of getting some easy money, tried the game, have lost considerable money to the owners of similar devices.

One complainant who appeared at the police station said he had parted with $50 of hard-earned cash in a game of chance. An officer accompanied him to the grounds, but the bird had flown, and his present whereabouts are unknown. Experience sometimes is rather expensive, say the police authorities.

Another lad from a city east of London played his stake, and lost, but he succeeded in obtaining a refund from the operator.

All Methods Alike.

The mode of operation is similar among all the proprietors. A likely-looking victim is spotted and asked to throw the dice a couple of times at the expense of the owner of the stand. This has the desired effect in many cases and the would-be winner takes a throw. Naturally he wins and he is also allowed to win on the next chance. Becoming rather chesty over his success he readily accepts the bets that are next thrown out by the proprietor. From this time he generally loses. Remembering his first winnings he keeps on with the game, and the bets are raised every time. Thinking that his luck will change he plays the game until he is "broke" or suddenly wakes up. Feeling rather ashamed of himself for his defeat he does not often lay any complaint, but suffers in silence.

The victim is as much to blame as the operator, says Chief of Police W. T. Williams, adding the statement, "If the thing occurred in a gambling house the victim could be fined as well as the owner of the game." The only thing to do is to keep clear of all gambling devices, he says.

EDITORS TO DISCUSS NEW VICTORY LOAN

Will Meet at Western Fair Offices Friday.

A meeting of the newspaper editors of Western Ontario will be held at the Western Fair offices tomorrow to discuss plans for the forthcoming Victory Loan. Publicity in this district for the loan will rest largely with the editors, and the modus operandi will be determined. M. O. Hammond of Toronto is chairman of the committee in charge of this division, and will be in the city. Between twenty and thirty editors are expected.

RAIN SPOILED TAG DAY OF I. O. D. E. SOMEWHAT

But Sum of $800 Was Collected in Half Day.

Though it was necessary to call off the Overseas Chapter, I. O. D. E., tag day early in the afternoon of Wednesday, owing to the downpour of rain, the early taggers had made good use of their opportunities, and when the boxes were counted it was found that almost $800 had been realized. The Overseas Fair week tag day a year ago brought in $1,600, and the officers of the chapter are confident this amount would have been exceeded this year had the weather been more favorable. The majority of the taggers had volunteered for duty in the afternoon, and were unable to go out.

KAISER WILHELM

ficulties and losses, sorrows and cares which have spared no home, neither princely house nor modest workman's dwelling.

Industrial Mobilization.

"Industrial mobilization, without distinction of age or sex, has constituted a demand such as never before was made on the German people, and yet it was responded to willingly and joyfully. In that connection I should like, above all, to express my warm thanks as the country's father, to the women, as well as the girls and the men, for their self-sacrificing performance of their duty, despite their harassing cares. No one amongst our people should imagine I am not conversant with this. In my journeyings through the land I have spoken with many a widow, many a peasant, many a member of the landwehr, and the landsturm, whose hearts were heavy with cares, but who glowed with the thought of duty first. I have been touched by your cares to the depths of my heart. What paternal suggestion could do to diminish the burden as far as possible has been done. Much could have been done otherwise, and it is no wonder there is dissatisfaction here and there.

"But to whom, after all, do we owe this? Who spoke at the very beginning of the war of starving out the German women and children? Who was it who introduced terrible hatred into this war? It was the enemy.

"Everyone of you in the remotest corner of the fatherland knows that I left no stone unturned to shorten the war as far as possible for you and your people, and for the entire civilized European world. In December, 1916, I presented the enemy public with a clear and unambiguous offer of peace in the name of the German empire and my allies. Jeers, mockery and contempt were the answer.

Ready for Peace.

"He up above knows my sense of responsibility. Repeatedly during the past months, the responsible leaders of the imperial government have unambiguously given to understand to everyone who wishes to understand, that we are at all times ready to offer the hand to peace."

The emperor declared the answer of Germany's enemy was the outspoken will to the destruction, the disintegration, the crushing of Germany.'

"To make peace," he added, "two are needed. If either is unwilling, the other cannot, presuming that he does not overthrow the other. Thus, we are confronted with the enemy's absolute will to destruction. And against this absolute will to destruction we must place our absolute will to preserve our existence.

"Our brave army out there has shown you this will and deed. Whether in assault, or withdrawal, or trench fighting, the only thing that matters is that the enemy should lose as much as possible. That has occurred and continues to occur.

"Our death-defying navy also has proved that. It beat the enemy at the Skagerrack despite his great superiority. Our U-boats, like a consuming worm, gnaw at the enemy's vitals more than our enemies will admit.

"Even though, in the opinion of many among you, it is lasting too long, every German man and every German woman must, in witnessing these incomparably heroic deeds of our army and our navy be aware, that we are fighting and struggling for existence, and that we must make the utmost effort to defend ourselves victoriously, not only through the work but as regards the thoughts of our people.

"Many among you have often asked themselves during this long war:

"'How did such a thing happen? Why did we have to undergo such a thing after forty years of peace.' I think it is a question well worthy of an answer and which must be answered for the future—for our children and our grandchildren."

NO CHANGE NOTICED IN CONDITION OF A. D. HOLMAN, VETERAN ACTOR

Many inquiries are being made about Alfred D. Holman, 572 Talbot street, who is ill. Mr. Holman is suffering from heart failure and has been ill for the past two months, and during this time very little change has taken place in his condition.

Mr. Holman is well known to and popular with the larger portion of London's population, having been manager of the Princess skating rink, which is now the Princess Winter Garden. Mr. Holman resigned his position from the Western Fair three years ago.

He is also known in theatrical circles, having been one of the most popular stars on the stage for many years. He traveled with the famous Holman Opera Company, and resided in this city during the summer months.

He is son of the late George Holman, who was a famous opera star, and received his professional training on the stage when he was but a youth.

He is a very close friend of William H. Crane, who visited him in this city a few years ago, this friendship having existed since boyhood. Mr. Crane is living in California, and is showing intense interest in Mr. Holman's health.

Mr. Holman retired from the stage about 30 years ago and made London his home.

His son, Alfred A. Holman, who is manager of the Wilson Avenue Opera Company of Chicago, visited his father for a few days, and left last evening for Chicago.

The many friends of Mr. Holman hope for his recovery within a short time.

Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of agriculture, is taking the matter up.

WANT HORSES USED BY CANADA OVERSEAS FORCES PURCHASED IN DOMINION

Representatives of Canadian Horse Breeders in Ottawa Waiting on Government.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Sept. 12.—The Canadian Horse Breeders want horses used in the Canadian Expeditionary Force purchased exclusively in Canada, and a deputation of prominent horse breeders, headed by G. F. Hoadley, leader of the Alberta Opposition, and William Smith, M. P. for South Ontario, is here today to urge their demand on the Government. In the past horses for the Canadian Allied war pruchasing commission, the Allied war purchasing ommission, and conditions of finance have favored purchase in the United States. Shortage of feed in the West especially has further emphasized the desirability of heavier purchasing in Canada for the future, and the wastage in horse flesh during the recent successful offensive operations has increased the demand for remounts. The deputation is taking the matter up with Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of agriculture. Sir Thomas White, minister of finance, whose task it is to finance such purchases will also be consulted.

WORK ON MILITARY BUILDINGS WILL BE BEGUN IMMEDIATELY

Contractors Here and Workmen Follow Soon.

AUTHORITIES RELIEVED

Have Been at Sea With Regard to Commencement of Erection.

The military buildings for No. 1 Military District will be commenced at once. Col. Bob Low's chief of commissary arrived this morning, and a large number of workmen will be here within a day or two, as well as considerable quantities of material.

The contract for the buildings, which will include housing, administration and hospital buildings, was let one month ago, and a stipulation was contained in the document to the effect that a certain number of buildings must be completed within 60 days. Col. Low stated to The Advertiser two days after he secured the contract that work would commence immediately. It was known, however, that he had several other large contracts on hand, and he has been in the Eastern Provinces for some time.

For some days the authorities have been at sea in regard to the construction of the buildings, and the information that came this morning in the shape of Col. Low's advance guard cleared up the situation.

The contract involves the expenditure of approximately $400,000, and several hundred men will be required to erect the structures.

Local contractors are anticipating the securing of some sub-contracts.

SIBERIAN FORCE IS COMPLETE, BUT NO VOLUNTEERS REFUSED

At the present time Military District No. 1 has enlisted 136 men for the special company, which is being formed in every district.

CAMPED AT ROADSIDE ON MOTOR CAR SEATS, FAILING TO GET ROOMS

Goderich Visitors to Fair Roused Hopes of Constable.

As no accommodation could be found in London two visitors to "the greatest Fair ever held" were compelled to spend Wednesday night in their automobile on the 5th concession of London Township.

The two men had motored to London from Goderich, and after taking in the sights decided to remain in London on account of the state of the weather. They searched the city from one end to the other for a bed on which to rest their weary bodies, but all efforts in this direction proved fruitless. They could not even find a soft plank under shelter, on which they could sleep. What to do they did not know. The night was dark and they were far from home, but they evidenced no desire to sing.

As the only way out they finally decided to hit the road for Goderich. The road was in bad condition for motoring and there were so many cars on the way that motoring was very dangerous, and after proceeding a few miles they camped for the night.

Curling up on the cushions they passed the night as comfortable as the circumstances would allow. They were rudely awakened early this morning, however, when County Constable A. Corsaut went to investigate. He spied the lights of the auto when he went out in the early hours to do some chores around his place. Scenting another stolen auto he grabbed his trusty gun and searchlight and hied forth to the investigation. He was satisfied, however, that everything was all right when he questioned the two occupants of the car.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

H. G. WELLS AND HIS CRITICS.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

The cse of Mr. H. G. Wells and the nature of the criticism that has been given his book, "God or the Invisible King," reminds me very strongly of a similar case that may be of interest to others if the matter is recalled to their minds.

Before the days of Galileo and Copernicus practically all intelligent men, also the clergy of the times, believed that the earth was the centre of the universe, and all the visible planets and stars were simply adjuncts thereto, and a very elaborate system was built up by Ptolemy and others to account for the apparent motions of these "rulers of the day and night," with "direct and retrograde motions," "cycles and epicycles" and all that human minds could suggest that would help to account for the points that seemed to need explanation. The abandonment of the basal error of geocentricity and adoption of what seems to be the correct premise that the sun is the centre of our special group of worlds, which is only part of a greater system of groups within groups, has cancelled all that elaborate conception of things and substituted therefore a simple and orderly plan that apparently explains the problems and leaves no unsettled residue to be accounted for, so we may reasonably assume that it is correct.

At this time the great majority of men and the clergy are as firmly convinced that the earth and all that is therein is the work of a perfect Creator whose work must, of course, have been perfect, but which has sadly gone wrong, either according to His will or against it; and accordingly another very elaborate system has been built to account for the whys and wherefores of the case. The variant which is due to disobedience of one person abetted by another and that for this cause even the plants were included in the curse, not to mention the animals which might have been imagined to possibly have joined in the transgression in some way or another. Other variants to an almost infinite number are found in other parts among other peoples, but all are to the same tenor, that a perfect Creator either blundered or was outwitted in some way, and so all this confusion and sorrow. As before, the clergy say and probably believe, that there is divine revelation, stating their beliefs to be correct; Galileo was forced to "recant his errors," and I have no doubt that the clergy of today would force Wells to recant if they had the power and he the weakness shown by the great Galileo when in fear for his life. That course did not make the slightest difference in the facts that Galileo denied them, nor would it alter the facts if Wells should deny his enlightenment concerning these others, the facts would remain and probably be appreciated in due time, when the Revelations are better understood than they are at the present time.

Meantime permit me to suggest that if we assume a Creator of the universe that is very wise but not infinitely wise, very powerful but not infinitely powerful, that is learning by experience and thus becoming more wise and powerful, and abandon the age-old position of the anthrocentric position of humanity as we have now abandoned the geocentric position of the earth, and we will find that the elaborate system now believed in will be found to be as useless as the great system of astronomy known as the Ptolemaic has been found out to be, though it was hoary with age and venerable from authority of those that have passed on to greater wisdom in all probability. Wells may yet rank with Galileo and Copernicus when his critics have been forgotten.
