GOOD WORD FOR CANADIANS

American Manufacturer Says They Are a Great People to Patronize Home Industry.

WILL NOT BUY AMERICAN GOODS

When They Can Get a Home-Made Proposition for the Same Money.

Martin Kline, assistant general manager of the Michigan Machie Works of Detroit, is a Rossin House guest. He is in the city looking after his company's exhibit at the Toronto Exhibition. "I expect the machinery hall project of the Exposition to attract a great deal of attention," Mr. Martin remarked. "This is a feature that should have been encouraged long ago by the directors of the Exhibition. I observe machinery from many parts of the States at the hall, and all parts of Canada are represented. This cry about United States industrial invasion of Canada is all bosh. I can't see where the mechanical ingenuity of the people in the States has any advantage over the Canadians. They have the material and the skill and the home market. What have they to fear, then? There is tariff enough to protect them, and they have nothing to fear. They have cheaper labor than the States and the difference in their favor of the tariff. Canada will always supply the bulk of her home markets. We Americans will always sell some lines to Canadians, but it will be small in comparison to the volume of business the Canadians do with their own people. Canadians are great people to patronize home industry. They will never buy an American article when they can get a home-made proposition for the same money. That is the best guarantee that the market over here is always Canadian first."

This Young Man Went West.

Harry Mace Stanford, clerk of the Astoria Hotel of Vancouver, is a Queen's guest. Mr. Stanford is an Ontario product, and went to the Pacific coast ten years ago. "I have just come down thru the Canadian Northwest, stopping at a large number of places. I have spent a month on the road. It is my vacation, and I had heard so much about the development of British Columbia, Alberta, Manitoba and the section to the north that I was anxious to see the country. I never saw so many buildings under course of construction. Towns are springing up so fast along the Canadian Pacific that they have no postoffice facilities. Hotels are going up out on the prairie, where there is not another house in sight, tho many tents. The lumber problem is a serious one after you get three hundred miles west of Winnipeg. The rough lumber is high, and the supply limited. The demand has exceeded the resources this year, I am told, and the railroad has frequently been unable to transport the stuff offered. Now that the grain harvest is on the road it will have all it can do to handle that source of traffic. Many people are leaving the coast and going into those sections. Stock raising, mining, farming and general mercantile business seems to be flourishing, tho I heard much complaint about high interest on money. Capital is not easily acquired, and the banks seem to charge all the traffic will bear."

Studying Commercial Conditions.

Marcy K. Mitchell of Bradford, Eng., is registered at the Iroquois. Mr. Mitchell is the head of the Darcy-Mitchell Cloth Manufacturing Company. He is touring Canada with a view of learning minutely the commercial conditions prevailing and likely to prevail during the next year. From Toronto, Mr. Mitchell will go to Winnipeg, and on to the coast. "I knew Canadian industrial and commercial conditions were good, but I am amazed to discover just how good they are," he said. "The general prosperity of the country is something extraordinary, and everything seems to be going at high pressure. It is a healthy condition and I do not observe that speculative condition, which prevails to such an alarming extent on the American side. Our business is much larger in this country at present than we can conveniently handle with our present resources, and I am anxious to learn the exact condition here, to know if an enlargement is warranted in our home plant. I will spend several weeks on this side, in order to determine this question."

Excursionists From Dayton.

The following excursion party from Dayton, Ohio, is registered at the Palmer: Mabel A. Welsh, Mary and Ella McGrath, Katharine Maher, Blanca Metz, Louisa Metz, James Farrell, Mr. and Mrs. Wentworth and Gertrude, Bertha, Anna, Clara and Margaret Foose.

Take Care of.... the Teeth

That doesn't mean simply brushing them every morning and every night.

There are things that a brush won't do. A brush won't fill a small cavity and stop decay. A tooth may go on decaying for two or three years before it ever aches.

The only safe and sensible thing to do is to have your teeth examined about twice a year. It will be economy in the long run, because it costs less to take care of a small cavity than it does to take care of a large one, and either is better than the insertion of an artificial tooth.

Come any time and have your teeth examined—no charge for it.

COMPANY OPPOSES UNION

Serious Hitch in Efforts to Arbitrate Dispute With Electrical Workers at Hamilton.

MACHINERY IS STILL KEPT MOVING

Whole Force of Labor Organization to Be Invoked to Win the Strike.

Hamilton, Aug. 15.—The third arbitrator in the electrical workers' dispute has not yet been named. William Bell, arbitrator for the Cataract Power Co., prepared an agreement of submission to be signed by the officers of the union and company, in which both parties agree to be governed by the decision of the arbitrators. In the agreement the questions to be arbitrated on were outlined. The three principal clauses deal with the matter of hours, wages and the recognition of the union. This agreement was handed by Mr. Bell to Mr. Reid this morning, and he was to secure the signatures of the officers of the union, but up till noon it had not been returned. Until the agreement is signed, nothing can be done with reference to appointing a third arbitrator. In the meantime the situation remains unchanged.

Machinery is Moving.

The company has so far managed to keep its machinery in motion. The men are simply resting on their oars and have left the whole matter in the hands of their arbitrator. They have furnished him with plenty of material, documentary and otherwise, in support of their claims, and expect that he will be able to bring the strike to a satisfactory close.

A hitch in the arbitration proceedings occurred this afternoon. The men refused to sign the agreement of submission and submitted another agreement in its place, but the company is not disposed to consider it.

A new and serious difficulty has arisen, which will probably prevent the arbitration being proceeded with. The men claim that Manager Hawkins, during the last trouble, agreed to recognize the union. Now they say the company is bringing in an old agreement denying recognition of the union. The men are determined that first of all their union shall be recognized. If the company will not do this the men say the full force of organized labor in the city will be brought to bear on the company, and very serious consequences will ensue if the electrical workers' union is not recognized.

LABOR COUNCIL PROSPERS

Strong Trades Union of Hamilton Reported to Be in an Unusually Flourishing Condition.

ENGINEER'S BODY BROUGHT HOME.

Man Poisoned by Eating Canned Salmon in Critical Condition.

Hamilton, Aug. 15.—At the meeting of the Trades and Labor Council, tonight, the various reports for the year were received.

They showed the Council to be in a flourishing condition. There are now about thirty organizations affiliated with the Council, ten or twelve of them joining during the past year.

Progress was reported on the great demonstration on Labor Day. It was reported to the Council that a union of theatrical workers was in course of formation.

Boat Engineer Drowned.

The remains of the late Thomas Colling, the boat engineer, who was drowned the other day near Little Current, arrived in the city Friday afternoon. The deceased was 28 years of age, and lived, when at home, with his mother, in Burlington. A peculiar coincidence was that, within a few minutes after reading a letter from her son, saying that he was in the best of health, she was handed a telegram announcing his death by drowning. The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon from the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. James Davidson, Wilson-street.

Minor Matters.

Miss Mildred Keith was married at New York City to Fred Shipman, late of the firm of Shipman Brothers and now the Canadian representative of the Northern Security Oil and Transportation Company. Mr. and Mrs. Shipman are on a wedding trip to the Pacific Coast. Mr. Shipman is an old Hamilton boy.

PIGEON WALKS 175 MILES.

Broken Wing Prevents Bird From Flying, But it Gets Home.

Columbus, O., Aug. 15.—Teddy McDermott, a bird fancier of East Liverpool, O., claims the championship long-distance walking pigeon. With other birds it was brought to this city fifteen weeks ago for a homing flight.

It had been injured by a hunter shortly before, but it was believed to be but slight. When released it was seen that one wing was broken and it could not fly.

Nothing more was thought of it until yesterday, when the bird walked into the yard of its owner at East Liverpool. Mr. McDermott is confident the bird walked the whole distance, 175 miles.

In a Bad Way With Lame Back

The Kidney Deranged and Much Suffering Caused—Cure Effected by

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

People speak of weak, lame back, backache, etc., not knowing that the trouble comes from the kidneys. When the back is strained it is usually the kidneys that suffer most, and until the kidneys recover from the strain the trouble continues.

There is no quicker way of restoring the kidneys than by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Hundreds and thousands of workingmen in Canada know this. They have proven it in their own case.

Mr. A. J. Bouyea, who is employed at the Davey Shingle Mills, Lindsay, Ont., states: "Some time ago I strained my back and kidneys when lifting logs, and was laid up for some time, altho I tried several remedies. As my father had been cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills he advised me to give them a trial.

"Under this treatment I soon noticed a great improvement in my condition, and to-day I am in good health again. I was certainly in a bad way for a time, and believe Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to be the best kidney medicine on the market."

Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

TOO MUCH POTASH IN PRUSSIA.

Crisis in Industry Due to Overproduction of Mines.

Berlin, Aug. 15.—The potash industry is undergoing a crisis, due to overproduction. The Prussian Treasury mines have discharged hundreds of workmen and have reduced the wages of others from ten to thirty per cent. All private mines and factories took similar steps.

It is explained that the industry was not affected by the depression in German business till the end of April, when all factory warehouses were stocked to the roofs. Much bitterness prevails among the discharged workmen against the syndicate for forcing the production in 1901 far beyond the market demands, thus rendering it impossible to keep the workmen employed this year.

WAS THIS GIRL AMY WILSON?

Strange Woman Hires Livery Vehicle at Tillsonburg.

Woodstock, Aug. 15.—Last Saturday much interest was created in this section over the strange disappearance of Amy Wilson of Copetown, and the possibility that she was proceeding toward Woodstock caused many persons to be on the lookout for her.

Liveryman Gustin was one of those who followed the movements of the girl thru the newspapers, and he therefore had gained an accurate description of her. On Saturday a girl walked into his place of business who in every particular corresponded to the appearance of Amy Wilson. Mr. Gustin refused to give her a vehicle and she left. He had almost forgotten the mater until he was shown a postal card by Chief Zeats from Chief Pow of Tillsonburg, telling of the theft of a horse and buggy there. The outfit was subsequently found in Tillsonburg, and no trace has been obtained of the woman who hired the horse and buggy.

Whether she is Amy Wilson or not is a matter of conjecture.

Fahrenheit Thermometer.

Sir Samuel Wilks, writing to "Knowledge," gives the history of the origin of Fahrenheit's thermometer, which is generally used in this country. It was really invented by Sir Isaac Newton, and the starting point of his scale was the heat of the human body. Newton's paper is to be found in the "Philosophical Transactions" for the year 1701. He describes his instrument as a glass tube filled with linseed oil, and to it he attached a scale to measure the degree of heat of the liquid into which he plunged it. His lowest point was that of freezing, as his highest was that of boiling water. He chose for the starting point on his scale the heat of the human body, and this he called by the round number 12, the duodecimal system being then in use—that is, he divided the space between the freezing point and the temperature of the body into 12 parts. He further stated that the boiling point would be about 30, as it was nearly three times that of the human body.

A few years afterwards, when Fahrenheit was working at the subject of heat, he took Newton's instruments for his experiments, but, finding the scale not minute enough, he divided each degree into two parts, and so made it 24 degrees instead of 12. He also did more, for, finding he could obtain lower temperatures than freezing, and notably that of ice and salt mixed together, he took this for his starting point. It was from this point he began to count 24 degrees up to body heat. This made, by his measurements, 8 the point of freezing. Boiling point he made 53. It then became zero, freezing 8, body heat 24 and boiling water 53. This was really the same as Newton's, only the scale started lower and the numbers were doubled. Later on, finding that he could measure increments of heat more minutely, Fahrenheit divided each degree into four parts. It will now be seen that if the numbers just mentioned are multiplied by four we have the thermometer which is now in use.
