Morris then asked who it was that was to do the compensating, the hotelmen whose licenses were not cut off, or the people. Controller Allen said that they wanted to pass the bylaw, so as to be able to approach the legislature, and get permission to compensate. It would would be for the 1911 council to decide who was to put up the compensation.

Sam Williams was appointed as electrician to the fire department for ninety days, at a salary of $75 a month. If he makes good, his services will be retained at a salary of $75 a month. Ald. Clark moved a resolution, asking that T. J. Stewart be invited to make good his allegations about the fitch beach property deal under the Municipal Act, before a county judge. The alderman said Mr. Stewart's remarks reflected upon the integrity of last year's fire and water committee, and should not go unchallenged. The resolution was accepted.

Ald. Forth drew attention to the remarks made by an evangelist about Hamilton recently. He thought the city should take action. The mayor said that, if they took notice of every remark an itererant peddler of religion or anything else made about the city, they would have enough to do. As it was pointed out that the city would have to prove damage, the matter was

OBITUARY.

Martin Gill.

Martin Gill of entertainment and novelty of invention, is stamped as one of the most wonderful performances presented on any stage. Thurston has a pleasant stage presence. His "patter," as it is known to stage people, is in keeping with his work, keeps his audience in-terested, and is educational in a sense. Trick follows trick in rapid succession Iliusion after illusion mystifles more and more. Everything runs smoothly and the result is an entertainment that dog act answay, but when the man picked up a cowering cat and beat it unmercifully with a whip, it was too much for the ladies, and even the men hissed. The motion pictures are good. pleases both adults and children.

One of Mr. Thurston's new illusions is called "The Automobile Mystery." and it certainly gives the audience an excellent opportunity for study and thought. The same may be said of "The Indian Rope Trunk," The "Witches' Cauldron," "The Piercing Arrow" and "The Lady and the Lion." The opening part of the program is composed mostly of small magic, and in the course of forty minutes, forty tricks are presented. One is no sooner completed than another is on the way. In fact, if you take your eyes off Thurston you miss some feat of magic. There are a number of laughable stunts for the children, and the "egg" trick with the hat always provides a ten-minute laugh scream.

Taylor and Taylor, "college chaps," and Frank Leonard, indulge in lines Theo Bamberg, one of Europe's fore-most shadowists, gives a special perof talk which commonly create laugh-ter. Any Woman Can Have Beautiful Hair in two acts, is a production which allows ample scope for the efforts of the mirth manufacturers, Frank O'Brien, Leo Stevens, W. S. Swor and the quartet of Bantas being prominent. There . "No woman should use water upon her hair oftener than once in two months," says M. Fournief, the noted French scientist. "Dry powder only should be used. Moisture causes the hair to lose its color and in time become thin.

"Any woman desiring abundant, lustrous hair should use a dry shampoo every two or three days. Mix four ounces of powdered orris root with four ounces of therox. Sprinkle about a tablespoonful of this mixture upon a tablespoonful of this mixture upon the head: then brush the powder thoroughly through the hair. This will keep it light and fluffy, and beautifully lustrous. You will soon seen new hair starting to grow. This treatment is the only thing that I am sure will produce a growth of hair. "While plain orris root is used as a dry shampoo by niany women, still, no such results can be obtained as by using the formula I have given."

The Banta Brothers are musicians and they have several novel turns which please, the sname drum imitation of an express train being particularly clever. Nellie Florede is attractive of presence and her songs are well rendered. Helen Moore, with her collection of tableaux vivants, caught the popular fancy, and Frank O'Brien as a representative of the genus hobo, made good with sengs and stories.

It was a great night at the Princess last night. W. H. Crane appeared in George Ade's "Father and the Boys." and that was something, but Mr. Crane also told his audience in one of the neatest little speeches ever passed across the footlights, just why it wis such a great night for him.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he said, "I can only assure you how thoroly we appreciate the cordiality of the reception you have given us. Probably many of you are not aware that it is an interesting anniversary for me. It is 40 years ago to-night since I left Toronto, where I had the pleasure of appearing for three years, from 1867 till 1870. I dare say many of the children of my old friends of that time are here to-night. I belonged to the Holman troupe during those three years, and it is significant that to-night only one of the troupe remains. Alfred Holman was one of my oldest friends, and his only son is playing with me in this company, filling with ime practically the same position I filled in the days of 46 years ago." Mr. Crane spoke of the tremendous changes that have occurred, but he had met so many old friends on his return the feeling of friendship was stronger than all the changes.

"It gives me very sincere pleasure to appear 40 years after I left, and to feel as well and vigorous as I do today." He concluded with a funny story to tag his speech, and remind the audience that he had no farther to go.

The reception of the comedy was most cordial, and the fun never fiagged. One of the most unostentatious, but not the least valuable of the pub benefactions of some of the leading

In addition to this specimen, Sir Edmund Walker presented on his own part, a collection of 2000 Devonian fossilis (named because the type was first studied in Devonshire) from Paffrath, Germany. Along with the same collection were a number of specimens of Farries from Amherstburg, Ont., which were presented to the university by Rev. Thos. Nattress. These are particularly valuable because they are "type" specimens, and were named by Prof. Grabau of Columbia University, to whom they were sent for identification and classification. They belong to the Devonian group. The interesting of cumstance in connection with these foesils is that they were found in the debris taken out of the Livingstone cut, which is a work undertaken by the United States war department in The reception of the comedy was most cordial, and the fun never flagged. If you wish any advice regarding a trip, the best place in Toronto to obtain it is from C. E. Horning, city passenger and ticket agent of the Grand Trunk, at northwest corner King and Yonge-sts. It is needless to say that the Grand Trunk is the only route reaching all of the above districts and the "only double track line" to Montreal, Detrok, Chicago, Buffalo, etc. This note was left on the counter in W. Wreford's store at 85 West Kingstreet, by a drunken and disheveled individual, who had called upon Mr. Wreford in the morning to discuss a purely personal and much muddled matter. Mr. Wreford did not know him, but fearing that there might be something in his threat, he turned the letter over to the police.

The girl had been used to luxury, but, with the death of her mother, Carleton, sne says, sold his business, and went away with another woman. Either was left with an aunt, but, with her father gone, she was denied fine clothes, and she ran away, reaching Detroit five weeks ago. Her sight was failing, and she confided to Mrs. Ritter that a Toronto physician had told her there was no hope for her, and that she would eventually become totally blind.

Decided to Live.

"She really wanted to die," Mrs. Ritter said. "While she was growing weaker from the gas, she thought of her mother, whom she always spoke of as a good. Christian woman. She wondered if her mother would look down from heaven and see her trying to die, and she asked herself if she would join her mother. Then she realized that it was wicked to take her own life, and that she could never, never go to her mother that way, so she decided to live.

Years ago he had heard Toronto described as a banal city—an overgrown village. He remembered the time when Toronto did not have an art gallery, a zoological or botanical garden. SOCIETY NOTES

The marriage of Miss Susan Jardine, eldest daughter of Mr. William Jardine, to Mr. Frank Teasdale, son of Mr. Thomas Teasdale, took place at the nome of the bride, Milton, Ont., on the afternoon of Nov. 12. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William McKay of Knox Church, Milton, while the wedding march was played by the youngest sister of the bride, Miss Amy Jardine. The bride, who was g'ven away by her father, was attired in ivory silk colienne over taffeta. She wore a handsome pearl necklet, the gift of the groom, and carried a shower bouquet of races and the bouquet of roses and lily of the valley.
Miss Nellie Jardine was bridesmail and wore white silk organdie and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Mr. Charles E. Oster of Toronto acted as best man. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a ring, and to the groomsman gold cuff links. After a sumptuous luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Teasdale left on a two weeks' trip to New York, the bride traveling in a navy blue suit, with hat to match. On their return they will reside at Concord; Ont.
