LEAFS WIN FIRST AND BISONS THE SECOND

Bill O'Hara and Schirm Pull Off Some Sensational Catches in Outfield—Other Games.

The Bisons and Leafs split even on their double-header, which started the series. The home team captured the first game after a grand rally in the eighth innings, the final score being 7—4. The Bisons put the second game on ice in the initial innings, when they got to Mueller for four hits, which resulted in two runs. The game was called in the seventh innings on account of darkness, with the visitors leading, 2—1.

The first game was one of the best and most interesting contests played this season, full of sensational fielding features by Bill O'Hara and Schirm, the former making a great running catch well down by the track, with his back to the stand. Schirm's catch was a one-handed affair on the run, which he knocked down with his glove and then caught with his bare hand. Both made other catches of a sensational order, and O'Hara had no less than eight put-outs in the game.

Bradley featured with the bat for the Leafs, having a homer and a triple, the latter coming with the bases full in the eighth innings. Jordan had a couple of nice singles and came within an ace of having a homer, the ball going over the bleachers foul by about a foot.

Starr had three hits for as many times up for Buffalo, and featured with the stick for his team.

The second game was a listless affair compared to the first, with rain expected every minute. The Bisons got to Mueller in the first innings for a couple of runs, but after that he held them safe, striking out no less than eight. Kocher met with a painful accident—a badly-split finger on his throwing hand—which may keep him out of the game for some time.

The Leafs scored their run in the second, when Vaughn walked and Tony Smith tripled to right-centre. Corridon, for Buffalo, pitched excellent ball. Toronto looked to have a good chance in the seventh, when, with one out, Vaughn was safe on an error. Rowan batted for Smith and advanced Vaughn on an infield out. Fitzpatrick, batting for Mueller, hit a liner towards first that Miller made a great catch of. A foot either way and the game would have been tied up.

PEARSON ADMITS PACT WOULD WRECK INDUSTRY

Cement Manufacturers and Others Would Go Under, He Tells Supporters.

Calling on volunteers to go to work in each district, the Liberals Monday night formed the nucleus for an organization by which they hope to carry East Toronto for James Pearson, the Liberal candidate. Mr. Pearson spoke to the few present, giving his views on reciprocity and said among other things that it was true that reciprocity would wreck a number of manufacturing institutions in Canada, chief of which would be the cement industry, as it could not hope to compete with the States, where the greatest cement plants in the world were located, with cheap coal and natural gas at their very back door.

"But," he said, "this can not be helped."

Other speakers were Elgin Schoff and Dr. J. E. Farfar.

DEATH WAS ACCIDENTAL.

Accidental death was the verdict of the coroner's jury inquiring at the morgue last night into the death of Thomas Godfrey, who was killed at the Canada Cycle and Motor Company's works Sunday morning by touching a live electric wire.

The old princes and monarchs of Europe sometimes ruled not wisely but too much, but they all drank the best beer brewed—when they could get it.

"Salvador" BEER

was by all odds the best brewed in Europe for centuries and is the best to-day.

The Reinhardts' secured the secret formula for this famous brew and they alone have the sole right to make it on this side of the Atlantic.

"Salvador" Beer is brewed scientifically from choice Bavarian Hops, selected Barley Malt and pure sterilized spring water. Do you wonder that it has become Canada's most famous beverage?

BE FRIENDLY WITH U. S.

N. W. Rowell, K. C., Pleads for International Harmony.

A small audience greeted the Liberal candidates for Centre and West Toronto at a joint meeting held last evening in Euclid Hall.

Gordon Waldron, standard-bearer in West Toronto, first took the platform addressing his hearers on the trade agreement. The farmer was the man to benefit from the agreement, he stated, and the interests of the farmer should be advanced as he was the backbone of the nation.

N. W. Rowell, K.C., also dealt with the matter from the standpoint of the supposed benefits accruing to the farmer. Referring to Canada's large export trade with the United States last year, he declared that as business is going to be done any way it might as well be done in a feeling of friendliness, rather than hostility. This was the whole meaning of the pact. He absolutely decried every suggestion of annexation.

Ald. Maguire, candidate in Centre Toronto, took out his time in a tirade against the alleged Borden-Bourassa coalition, terming it the rankest treachery.

Owing perhaps to the adverse weather conditions the audience didn't fill the small hall, and very little enthusiasm was shown during the remarks of any of the speakers.

SAW BEAUTIES IN PACT

W. H Shaw and Supporters Addressed Sympathetic Meeting.

About 175 people were present at the Liberal meeting held in the interests of W. H. Shaw at Ketchum Hall last night. W. H. Worden presided, and on the platform were Stewart Lyon of The Globe, J. T. Thompson, Albert Chamberlain and others.

Mr. Lyon explained the terms of the proposed reciprocity treaty, and expressed a belief that the pact would benefit both the producer and the consumer.

Mr. Chamberlain's speech was featured by delightful ekotism. He deplored the fact that Arthur Hawkes and other Englishmen should come out here and tell Canadians how to vote.

"Who ever heard of Arthur Hawkes before this election?" he asked. "I never did."

"I was down in Centre Toronto," he continued, "and I find that the Hebrews are all going to vote for Maguire. I visited four of them."

Mr. Shaw spoke briefly. He regretted that the electors in North Toronto did not understand reciprocity. He believed the pact would be a boon to the country, but he thought that Canadian industries still needed protection.

UNIONS ENDORSED RICHARDS

It was James Richards, the labor candidate's night for endorsements last night at the Labor Temple. The boot and shoe workers' local No. 232 was the first to take up the cudgels officially for the labor candidate. The custom tailors' local No. 132 went them one better by pledging their entire support and financial assistance. The teamsters' local No. 457 followed suit, endorsing the labor candidate unequivocally.
