He warned the workers that the larger than the capitalization of a concern the harder men had to work to pay dividends on it. Again in the disastrous peace which would follow this disast frous war they would be compelled to sell the bonds at a great sacrifice. He referred to Sir Thomas White as a "financial monstrosity," and complained that the bonds would only serve to make fortunes for those capitalists who were already riding them.

ined up benind an imendment calling for the repudiation of all interest on leans, their contention being that real patriots should not accept reward for supporting the soldiers.

Interruptions were numerous, while the meeting frequently had to be called to order by Chairman Watters.

The motion was introduced by Thomas A. Stevenson of Toronto.

Joseph Taylor of Victoria said the appeal for an investment in war bonds was like the American maxim, "If you don't continue to invest you won't get your money back." As the support of the Victory bonds would have to be made at the expense of the necessities of life he hoped unions would not invest.

Alex Lyon, Toronto, moved an amendment which advised the government to pay no more interest on any war bonds and to return only the principal loaned. This would be, he said, a test of the patriotism of the people to see if they were willing to make sacrifices, as were the men on the content of the people to see if they were willing to make sacrifices, as were the men on the content of the people to see if they were willing to make sacrifices, as were the men on the content of the people to see if they were willing to make sacrifices, as were the men on the content of the people to see if they were willing to make sacrifices, as were the men on the content of the people to see if they were willing to make sacrifices.
