Gossip From Chicago.

R. Cochran's correspondents: Reports of reselling by foreigners and lower markets abroad have been the principal points of interest. European speculators appear to have unloaded their long lines and are perhaps shorts for a turn. If so, not much of a bullish tendency can be looked for from that side until these short sales have been covered. The market is narrowing and wide fluctuations will doubtless be the exceptions for a while.

J. J. Dixon & Co.'s correspondents: Wheat was nervous all day and inclined to rapid recoveries on any indications of renewed buying for eastern or foreign account, but the advances were met by scattered selling of country longs and by moderate short sales for local account, both influenced by fine weather, increased receipts, decreased shipments and materially lower cable quotations. At same time the decline in cash wheat permitted the working of some resting orders for shipment, to which intimate the trade is still very sensitive, while stocks are so depleted by recent heavy out-go. Provisions after a weak opening in sympathy with lower prices for hogs were stronger on quiet but persistent heavy buying for October delivery by the special warehouses who have been prominently identified with the long side of wheat. At present prices we regard hog products as the cheapest speculative articles on the list.

Gossip from Gotham.

J. J. Dixon & Co.'s correspondents: The market showed some evidences of strength to-day, but it is evident that it is moving forward too rapidly to exhibit healthfulness. It is also evident that lots of people are buying stocks, but with this buying the short interest has been pretty fairly eliminated. Purchases are better on reactions than they are on bulges.
