Ontario Crop Prospects.—A short time ago the Ontario bureau of industries sent circulars to farmers throughout the province as to the condition of the crops and from a partial examination of the replies received so far the damage from rust to the wheat crop has been much greater than anticipated, chiefly in western Ontario. The crops on the whole are not up to the average of former years. The fruit crop is very poor in most sections.

—Karl Kron, the New York bicyclist who visited this city recently, arrived at Toronto on Saturday, having ridden a bicycle (56 inch) from Detroit. He started out to do 600 miles in twelve days, and covered 560. He would have accomplished the task he set himself but for the wet weather. He has ridden to pleasure jaunts 9,000 miles in four years, occasionally doing 100 miles in a day, and visiting thirteen States, the Provinces of Ontario, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island.—*Hx. Hanlan Challenges the World.—Boston, Oct. 28.—Edward Hanlan has decided to visit Boston before he starts for Australia, and has written to a friend in this city that the stakes, $2,000, which he won in the race with Ross at Ogdensburg are still at the office of the Turf, Field and Farm, New York, and authorizes the statement that he will leave the money there to bind a match for $5,000 with any oarsmen in the world, the race to take place on his return to America; or he will wager $5,000, with $2,000 as a preliminary deposit, that he will beat Hosmer's best record of 20 min. 5 sec., made on the Allegheny River, near Pittsburg, last month.

Another Old Clergyman Gone.—Our obituary notices to-day include that of the Rev. Matthey Richey, D. D., father of our Lieut.-Governor, who died at Government House yesterday in the 81st year of his age. The deceased gentleman was in past years one of the most prominent of his denomination in the Maritime Provinces. He was at one time President of Victoria College, Coburg, Ont. for several years President of the Wesleyan Methodist Conference in Canada, and subsequently President of the Wesleyan Methodist Conference of Eastern British America. On the 1st July, 1867, he delivered the Dominion Day oration in this city. He was a powerful and eloquent preacher, and everywhere esteemed and respected. Governor Richey is his eldest son.—Chronicle, 24th inst.

—In Austria a profitable industry is carried on in the rearing of toads for exportation to Great Britain, where they bring as much as $15 or $20 a hundred, and are eagerly bought up by gardeners and agriculturists, as they are invaluable in destroying gnats and other insects. Nature has compensated the toad for his ugliness and his evil reputation by bestowing upon him the gift of a patent reversible tongue, firmly fixed in front and with the gummy free end pointing down his throat. This organ he flips out suddenly and catches his gnat with scientific dexterity. At the same time he is not specially energetic in his search for food, and will squat for lengthened periods quite unattracted by the most appetizing swarm of insects that can offer themselves to him.

A London cable despatch says:—The cabinet meeting on Thursday decided to introduce the County Franchise Bill in Parliament, and to put Ireland on a franchise equality with England. A section of the cabinet desired to postpone the franchise question until 1885, and thus to involve the prolongation of the existing Parliament until that time. A formal proposition to that effect was made, but it is understood that Mr. Gladstone and his friends defeated it, he urging as one reason that he wished to conclude the franchise question next season, and then accomplish his long-talked-of retirement from public life. Another important matter decided on at the meeting was, that instructions be sent to the British Minister at Washington to ask the Government of the United States to revise the extradition treaty so as to cover cases of embezzlement.

Grafting Potatoes.—Mr. Michael McDonald, of Cherry Valley, a small produce shipping place about ten miles from Charlottetown, P. E. I., has grown on his farm this summer grafted potatoes. Mr. McDonald, who has just arrived back from Newfoundland, where he has disposed of a cargo of potatoes, informs an exchange that he had about three hundred bushels of the grafted potatoes mixed through the cargo, and had he kept the grafted separate, he could have named his own figure for them. The grafting is done in the following manner: For instance we will take a blue and an early rose. Supposing we want a potato from the two we cut all the eyes out of the blue, then we cut an eye out of the early rose and insert it in one of the eye holes of the blue. We then go over it with grafting wax (same as in tree grafting) when the blue is planted whole, and as above described, the potatoes produced from it will be half blue and half early rose. The grafted potato, when planted, of course reproducts itself.

Politics in Boston.

(From an Occasional Correspondent.)

At no time since the Presidential election has the public mind been so agitated over political matters as at present. In crowded halls, or on street corners, in steam or street cars, in public and private places, and at every opportunity is discussed the question "Who shall be the next Governor?" At a convention held in Boston, in the latter part of September, the Republicans nominated as their candidate for the office the Hon George Robinson, of Chicopee and Oliver Ames, for Lieutenant Governor. Robinson has been for some years past at Congress, and Ames served as Lieutenant Governor last year.

A convention of the Democrats a few days later nominated the present Governor, Benjamin L. Butler, for a second term of office, and ex-Mayor Prince for Lieutenant Governor. Prince, who was in Europe with a sick wife, wrote declining the honor, and on Saturday of last week, the name of S. A. Abbott was substituted for his. Abbott also declines to run, and the Democrats are now looking around for a popular man who will serve. The Greenbackers at a convention agreed to give their support to Gov. Butler. There are a few of them, however, who are opposed to Butler and have nominated John F. Arnold as their candidate. The Prohibitionists also had a convention, at which Aluny was nominated as a candidate for the highest Executive Office.

It is almost a pity there is not more than one Governorship of this state, for with so many candidates for the office, and each backed by so many followers, the 6th of November will prove a day of disappointment to about two-thirds of the people of the Commonwealth.

So considering for a moment the platforms of the different parties, we find neither the Democrats or Republicans presenting any live issues. The Republicans cry "Down with Butler and Butlerism!" and say the administration of the office of Governor last year, brought disgrace to the State. On the other hand the Democrats claim that the investigation at Tewksbury, the changes in the management of the states' prison and of the insurance offices, and the vetoing of several bills by the Governor were very beneficial to the state. Their arguments all end with "The Republicans must go!"

The Prohibitionists present a more decided issue to the people than any of the other parties. Their object is, and always has been, the prohibiting the use of liquor. This is a praiseworthy effort, but the nominating of a candidate for the Governorship is not calculated to help their cause. By no possible means can he be elected, and a defeat would be injurious to them. Gov. Butler is receiving the support of the rumsellers, and consequently is condemned very loudly by the Prohibitionists; but instead of casting their vote where it will do the most good, they raise up another candidate, thus indirectly giving Butler an advantage.

It will be either a Republican or a Democratic Governor next year, and neither party can look forward with a great amount of confidence to the result. Some very sanguine ones among the Republicans, claim a majority for Robinson of twenty-five thousand, while those of a like temperament in the Democratic ranks claim a plurality for Butler. The 6th of Nov., however, will be the best authority on majorities. W. H.

A Typical Examination and how to Conduct it.

Have it as early in the week as possible, in order that its good qualities may not be lost in the sea of forgetfulness ere the next "weekly" is published.

Make no special preparation, other than to give your pupils, on the previous day, the "chief points" on those subjects upon which they are to be examined.

In conducting a history lesson, make yourself a slave to the text-book, both in questioning and receiving the answers, in order that your pupils may have ample opportunity to examine their books, and be ready as their questions come in turn, to answer accurately. If the pupil cannot think of the first paragraph, commence it for him, and if he then finds a difficulty in struggling through, throw in a few good suggestions and say "next!"

In geometry, arrange your class before the black-board, well supplied with books. Assign propositions individually, and allow them to copy figures on the board, after which they may sit down and review the exercises, in order that their correct demonstrations may reflect credit upon the teacher. Should some expert call for references during the operation, the teacher had better respond, as figures are dry for young.

In book-keeping, should any business forms be required the better way is to copy them from the book, as this method secures accuracy, exhibits a practical knowledge of the subject, and strengthens the the memory.

If in composition, original essays have been prepared, should anyone refuse to read his production, do not press the matter upon the author, as it is an indispensable principle in good discipline, that the wishes of the teacher shall be subordinate to those of the pupil.

Give due regard to the position of pupils whether standing or sitting, as this is an essential point in the physical education of a child. Allow the pupils to lean against the wall or desk, legs crossed, hands in pockets, shoulders leaning forward, eyes askance, etc., etc., as these are comfortable and graceful positions, and the idea that, "As the twig is bent the tree inclines" and similar principles are "exploded notions."

If the teacher who conducts an examination as indicated above, is desirous of a "Puff" through the press, and wishes to give the relative educational value of the work performed, the same is readily obtained by the following solution:—

{Total work performed—(use of books plus a few timely suggestions) = O, answer, i. e. the relative educational value of such an examination.

Attempted Murder at Petiodiac.—A most mysterious case of attempted murder occurred at Petiodiac, N. B., on the 24th inst. The victim was Mrs. George E. McCann. Her story is substantially as follows:—She was in the house alone, except for the company of a young child, engaged in her ordinary domestic duties, when the door opened, and a man of medium height, comparatively well dressed, but of evil countenance, stepped in, produced a knife, and said, "I've planned this for some time." Mrs. McCann was much frightened, but retained her presence of mind, and in order to gain time, told her dangerous visitor not to kill her with that knife, but to go into the next room, and get her husband's razor. This the man proceeded to do, when Mrs. McCann made a rush for the door, to try and escape. To her horror, the door was locked, and almost before she could make another movement, the man sprang at her, grasped her by the throat, and commenced sawing it with the knife he brought with him. When he had made two long cuts on each side of the throat of his victim, the latter fainted, and her assailant supposing that his dreadful purpose was accomplished, made his escape. On Mrs. McCann recovering her senses, she grasped a pan to catch the blood dripping from her throat, then taking her child by the hand, ran out of the house, and to the residence of Lewis Cann's, situated but a short distance away, where her pitiful condition and story soon excited to action. A gang of men was at once organized to go in pursuit of the would-be murderer, but up to the present time he has not been captured. The cuts received by Mrs. McCann are not deep, but where the cuts met, the wind-pipe has been severed, and the injuries to her nervous system are considerable. It is thought, however, that she may recover.

☞ Rheumatism, and similar diseases, caused by a low state of the system, are cured by using Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Presentation to Mr. A. D. Brown.

At the close of the public examination in the Preparatory Department of the Annapolis Academy, the following address was read by Miss Fannie Harrington, and a silver butter cooler presented by Master Willie McLaughlin:

Dear Mr. Brown:—

To us, the scholars of the preparatory Department, it is a matter of deep regret that the close of this term ends your relationship with us as teacher. We esteem it a great privilege to have been under your tuition, and cannot allow this separation to occur without expressing our appreciation of your unwearied efforts for our intellectual development; your gentlemanly conduct and your firm, but graceful discipline in the school-room, on the playground, or by the wayside. Your interest in us has never faltered; and amid the discouragements, which at times every teacher must feel, you have never despaired of the most unpromising pupil among us. Even our best efforts must have sometimes tired your patience, but your gentleness and generous trust in us have never broken down.

Before you leave us for that other field of labor which has been wise enough to secure your services, we wish to present some tangible token of our esteem. Be good enough to accept this trifle—not for its value, but for what it expresses—our appreciation of your work and the love of our hearts; and be sure of this, that if the pupils of this Department had anything to say in the matter of changing teachers, as we think they ought to have, every voice would vote in favor of your remaining with us. We are sorry to say "good-by," but since it must be said, we heartily follow it with the words "God Speed," and our good wishes include Mrs. Brown with yourself. While we trust your successor will have the good fortune to possess your abilities as a teacher, we cannot help wishing ourselves in the place of the pupils with whom you are to be associated.

Signed in behalf of the pupils of the Preparatory Department.

Fannie Harrington.

Annapolis, Oct. 24th, 1883.

REPLY.

In view of the fact that the address and presentation which are before me are unexpected, my reply of necessity, must be brief. I thank you heartily for the tokens of esteem which you have presented, and the deep sympathy you have expressed in your address, a sympathy, not of words, but feeling, which has led to action on your part,

Without the co-operation of parent and pupil with the teacher his efforts to a great extent are fruitless. I must here congratulate you for the interest manifested by your parents on your behalf. I sincerely hope the instruction you have received during the two years which have past, may grow with your growth, and form such character as is developed in the noblest manhood.

A. D. Brown.

Begging Deafmutes. Caution to the Public.

(To the Editor of the Monitor.)

Dear Sir:—

Having been informed that certain deafmutes have been travelling through the Provinces professedly collecting subscriptions for the Halifax Deaf and Dumb Institution, I ask permission through your columns, to state, for the information of friends and the public, that these parties have no connection with the Halifax Institution, and are in no way authorized to act in its behalf. The Halifax Institutions employs no deafmute "agents," and any deafmutes representing themselves as such are simply impostors, who should be handed over to the nearest constable.

I would earnestly beg the benevolent public to give no encouragement whatever to wandering deafmutes going around the country collecting, begging, peddling, or under any similar pretext. They are simply trading on their misfortune, abusing the sympathy of the benevolent, and diverting liberality from a legitimate public charity to mere individual gain. This practice, growing up of late years, has become a serious evil, demoralizing the mutes themselves, leading them to prefer a wandering life to steady industry at their trades, and exposing them to temptations to dishonesty and dissipation which they are little able to resist. Money given to such is really a premium upon idleness vagrancy, or imposture. In the interest of the deafmutes themselves, as well as of the cause of deafmute education, which is thus degraded, all true friends of the deaf and dumb, should unite in sternly discountenancing the whole system.

I am, yours respectfully,

J. Scott Hutton.

Principal, Halifax Deaf and Dumb Instu'n.

Horrible Tragedy.

New-Comerston, Ohio, Oct. 24.—Intelligence has just been received of a most horrible tragedy. Albert Finzer, living in Fryer's Creek Valley, near here, murdered his wife and three children and then suicided. Finzer has been very despondent of late, the doctor having advised him to quit work on account of ill health. He seemed to be much worried about his family. Last night a neighbor visited Finzer's house and found the doors locked and the curtains down. After summoning a neighbor the door was forced open, when a horrible sight was presented. On a bed in the corner of the room lay the dead body of Mrs. Finzer with her throat cut from ear to ear. By her side was the youngest child cold in death with its head crushed. In a cot lay two other children with their heads crushed, and near the window lay Finzer with one side of his face torn off by the discharge of a gun. It is supposed that brooding over his ill health and inability to work deranged his mind, and while his wife and children were sleeping he murdered them and then killed himself, as there was no evidence in the room that a scuffle had taken place. By his side was an empty gun barrel without a hammer or stock. Holding one end of the barrel in the flame of a lamp which stood near he blew his head off.

Apples.—The Boston Journal of the 24th nst., has the following in reference to the apple market:—

We were informed yesterday that about 1500 barrels of apples are on the way from England to Boston by steamer. The invoice lists have been received and the fruit is expected in a few days. This shipment, we are told, is simply an experiment, but if it is successful others will follow. Apple dealers are watching this movement with a good deal of interest, for if apples can be laid down here from England at a profit, even for a few weeks, it is likely to have an important bearing upon the market. A few hundred barrels of apples were shipped from Boston to England last week to test the market there, but the prospect there is that our export trade in that direction will not amount to anything for some time to come. English circulars report a very large crop and lower prices than are ruling here. Up to October 5th, only 389 barrels had been received at Liverpool from the United States and Canada, against 7614 barrels same time last year. The best apples in Boston market are not worth over $3 50 per barrel by the car-load, and some dealers are not willing to pay over $3. The trade has improved a little, but it is by no means brisk, and dealers are cautious about stocking up.

The Heathen Chinee.

San Francisco, Oct. 32.—The steamer Rol Janerio, sailing to-morrow for Hong Kong, will carry away about a thousand Chinamen and about three-quarters of a million dollars which they take away with them out of the country. Over 800 of them have already provided with return certificates. It has been remarked that a large proportion of the returning Chinese are now bringing women whom they claim as their wives. There being no way to disprove their marriage, they are permitted to land, and in a majority of cases the women are immediately turned loose for immoral purposes.

—Cholera is again breaking out in Egypt.

—It is said that some of the engineers on the Canada Pacific Railway are unable to agree as to the best location of the line to cross the Rocky Mountains, and work has been stopped for some time until a settlement can be arrived at. On the 29th inst., according to a despatch in the Halifax Chronicle between 4000 and 5000 persons were discharged.

—Twelve hundred pounds of dynamite exploded on the 29th inst., on the Baltimore and Ohio railway, killing five men—blowing them into unrecognizable fragments. Trees were uprooted, and rocks blown into the river in the vicinity of the explosion. The place where the powerful stuff was stored looked as if an earthquake had taken place. The solid rock was scooped out one hundred feet square and three hundred feet deep. The report of the shock was heard fifty miles distant, and windows broken in a town seven miles away.

—A man named Brown, formerly a resident of Buffalo, N. Y., now of Boulder, Col., claims to have gone over Niagara Falls in an open boat. His friends supposed he committed suicide by going over the falls, but he says that it was an accident by which he got drawn into the current, and that he passed over in perfect safety. At the time he was suffering from great depression of spirits, and concluded after finding that he had suffered no injury in his perilous voyage to go West, without telling his friends.

—Mr. Van Horne, general manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, being interviewed by a reporter of the St. Paul Pioneer Press, is thus reported:

"The road will be completed to the summit of the Rocky Mountains, 962 miles west of Winnipeg, the first week in November, and on the eastern section we have got to a point forty miles east of Red Rock, or 105 miles east of Port Arthur."

"Will you work all winter on the eastern division?"

"Yes; we will keep 9,000 men at work there. It is only a question of men and nitro-glycerine, and we are shoving them in as fast as we can use them."

"When will the road be completed?"

"Two years from this month, or in October, 1885."

TELEGRAPH NOTES FOR THE WEEK

Washington, Oct. 20,—Ellore Beach, aged 10, died on Thursday night from enlargement of the abdomen. An autopsy showed the small intestines were obstructed; twenty large seeds of damsons, copper cent, a nickle, with two buttons and other indigestible articles were taken from them. The liver was swelled to such a size that it took the place of the lungs and nearly everything else; the kidney was greatly displaced. The doctors say the case is remarkable. The mother states that some time ago the boy vomited a large worm that had protuberances like horns; He also vomited orange seeds that were in the stomach so long that they had sprouted.

Fort Edwards, N. Y., Oct 22.—A train on the Glens Falls branch of the Deleware and Hudson Railroad went through a bridge over the Glens Fall feeder, Champlain Canal, near Fort Edwards. The train crossed the bridge, but the baggage and passenger cars went down in the water and were totally wrecked. There were about twenty passengers on board the train. The killed are Dallas Crippen, Mr. Wincop and Mrs. Michael Monison. Sixteen persons were seriously injured, some of whom will probably die. Every person but one on the train was injured except one.

Kent, O., Oct 56.—A horrible suicide occured here yesterday, Bichl, aged 24, employe in the glass works, plunged headfirst into the furnace of white hot coals.

Washington, D. O., Oct. 26.—The Naval Advisory Board recommends building seven new war vessels at a total cost of $4,283,000.

Portland, Oregon, Oct. 26.—Ben Halliday, the famous railroad man, has sued his brother Joseph for $2,000,000. Some years ago Halliday borrowed $160,000 from his brother, deeded his property, valued at $400,000, to be kept till the loan was repaid. The property is now worth two millions and a half, and his brother refuses to surrender the deed till paid an enormous sum for keeping the deed in trust.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 23.—An explosion took place this afternoon at J. H. Smith's squib factory, Kingston. Nine girls were at work at the time, of whom eight were injured. Only two can possibly recover. The other six were burned to a crisp and horribly mangled. The ages of the victims range from 11 to 16 years, mostly girls. The explosion was caused by a spark from a stove falling in a keg of powder.

Port Antonio, Jamacia, Oct. 27.—This town was almost totally destroyed by fire. Nearly all the business houses and residences were consumed. Estimated loss on million.

Havana, Oct 27.—Twenty deaths from yellow fever occurred the past week.

Constantinople, Oct. 28.—A despatch from Smyrna dated Sunday, October 21, says another severe earthquake was experienced to-day, damaging the wall surrounding the town as well as the aqueduct and mosque at Vouria. 169 persons were seriously and 61 slightly injured, and 79 are in hospital.

Paris, Oct. 23.—The situation in Tonquin is most serious. If the French attack Bac-Ninh war with China will be inevitable.

New York, Oct. 25.—The storm yesterday did serious damage on Long Island, where a number of washouts are reported along the Long Island Railroad. Shipping along the coast suffered. At Rockaway Beach and Coney Island the tide rose higher than was known for several years. Both sides of Manhatten beach were washed almost entirely away. Yesterday morning the beach along the entire island for over half a mile was submerged by the ocean.

Colorless and Cold.—A young girl depely regretted that she was so colorless and cold. Her face was too white, and her feet felt as though the blood did not circulate. After one bottle of Hop Bitters had been taken she was the rosiest and healthiest girl in the town, with a vivacity and cheerfulness of mind gratifying to her friends.

—Mr. Francis Ellershausen, of Nova Scotia, formerly owner of the famous Betts Cove copper mine, is engaged in developing a silver and lead mine near Little Placentia, Nfld. Mr. Ellershausen purchased the claim some time since from the discoverers for £3.500 stg. Some of the richest specimens have yielded, on analysis, 300 ounces of silver to the ton. It is considered a most promising mine, and a large number of men are employed in working it. This is, we believe, the first silver and lead mine opened on the Island. —Trades Journal.

Home the Place for Invalids.

The New York Sun compiles from the Continent the opinions of a physician about the curative powers of nature. The physician concludes that it is better for a consumptive to stay at home, where he can be comfortable, than subject himself to the discomfort of hotel life, or to the greater inconvenience of a camp. He says that the camp cure may be fairly tried by sleeping on one's own housetop. Another medical man replies that the summer conditions of spruce forests are eminently favorable, and consumptives have recovered in the most surprising way living under canvas in them, where the air is impregnated with the healing emanations peculiar to the non-deciduous tree growths. There are consumptives whose lungs crave the salt air of the ocean; others to whom the dry atmosphere of Colorado is infinitely soothing; and others again who are benefited by the climate of Florida or Southern California. "To prescribe Florida for one person might mean death, while if he went among the northern paradize of spruce, recovery might follow."

Advice To Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, their is no mistake about it. It cures dysentry and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces the inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.
