A consolation to benedicts, Punch says it is better to be blown up by your wife than by a steam engine.

A mad dog killed three of a Maine farmer's sheep and wounded eight others in one night, and though he got up three nights and drove him off, he didn't feel fit to shoot the dog because he was considered a very valuable one by his master!

A juror of the place of Washington county, Penn., during of a period of 33 years, married nine hundred and twenty nine couples, only one of them being from Virginia or Pennsylvania.

John Tiblits died at Troy on Sunday last, aged one hundred years and twenty days.—He took his meals regularly up to the last moment, had a good appetite, was neither lame, deaf, or blind, and indulged daily in morning walks.

James Halpine, of Concord, while driving toward Manchester, N. H., on Monday, near middleby, drove off the road near Hooksett, and fell into the river and was drowned, as was also his team of two horses.

A victim of sea sickness described his sensation thus: "The first hour I was afraid I should die; the second hour I was more afraid I should not."

A Really Good Invention.—A new and cheap umbrella has just been patented at Washington by Cyrus Curtis. It is made of brown paper, stretched upon willow twigs, and is sold for 10 cts. It is to be used exclusively to lend to a friend, and will be called the 'Lending Umbrella.'

Personal.—Yesterday morning at 11:15 Mr. Gilbert Griffin, Post office Inspector for the Western Division, left London en route for Washington, his object being to make known the regulations of the Canadian Postal Tariff to the United States authorities.—Times.

"Polly, dear," said a loving husband to his spouse, who was several years his junior, "what do you think of setting at the Cape?" "Oh, I'm delighted with the idea! You recollect when Margaly went out she's so happy as ever, and married a three years worth £2000?"

Voltaire and the king of Prussia were very intimate, and as his majesty was writing some odes he sent them to Voltaire to correct and transcribe. Happening to have a quarrel, Voltaire expressed himself in the following bitter words: "He was his washer woman, and was sent for only to clean his dirty sheets."

A short time since as a well-known maste in a grammar school was censuring a pupil for the dullness of his comprehension, and constituting to instruct him in a sum in practice, he said, 'Is the not the price of a penny ben always a penny?' when the boy innocently replied, 'No, sir, they sell them two for three half pence, when they are stale.'

'Class in geography stand up,' said a school master. 'What is a pyramid? he asked. 'A pile of men in a circus, one on top of the other.' 'Where is Egypt?. 'Where it always was.' 'Where's Wales?' 'All over the sea.' 'Very well,' said the school master, 'stay there till I show you a species of birch that grows all over the country'.

A sheep in Barnstable recently gave birth to two fine lambs, one of which was of the African race. Mindful of her noble origin and Spanish blood, the mother disdained to acknowledge her sable offspring and refused it all nourishment and care. Indeed, she bestowed upon it so many more hard knocks than love pats, that the poor thing actually died of starvation and ill-treatment.

The following is a true copy of the verdict of a coroner's jury recently convened in Saratoga county:—"Nathaniel Denton came to his death by a collision with an engine near Stephen's crossing, of which we exonerate the engineer from all blame. But further, we think the deceased and the engineer might have seen each other, and perhaps, yes, very likely, have saved his life, if the jibe wood cutter had not been there."

Advantage of Punctuation.—Punctuation, that is, the putting the stops in the right places, cannot be too seriously studied. Lately read, in a country paper, the following startling account of Lord Palmerston's appearance in the House of Commons:—"Lord Palmerston then entered on his head, a white hat upon his feet, large but well polished boots upon his brow, a dark cloud in his hand, his faithful walking stick in his eye, a menacing glance among putting. 'He sat down.'"—Punch.

The Bitter Bittex.—One of our merchants received a telegram from his Boston correspondent, stating that sugar had gone up two cents, whereupon without saying a word to his clerks or any one else, he hurried up to the South end, to a store which had a large lot on hand, and purchased the whole stock at twenty-one cents. He then returned to his own place in great glee, treated is clerks all round, and informed them of his shrewd speculation. What was his consternation, to learn that during his absence one of his neighbors, as sharp as himself, had called in and taken his own stock at twenty cents. A careful estimate showed him that somebody had cleared a about fifty dollars by the operation.—Newburyport Herald.

A black cook on board a vessel having committed some offence, was ordered to be flogged. Everything being prepared, and the ship's company assembled to see the punishment inflicted, the captain made a long address upon the enormity of his offence.—Poor Mungo, tired of the harangue, and having his back exposed to the cold, exclaimed, 'Massa, if you flogger, flogger; or if you preachee, preachee; but no preachee and flogge too!'

Artillery Practice in England.—The greatest feat on record in the department of gunnery was achieved on the 10th. Sir W. Armstrong's 600 pounder muzzle-loading shunt gun was tried against a plate eleven inches thick. A 3411b. steel round shot was fired against the plate, which it drove back a foot, shivering the 2 inch oakes wooden supporters against Mr. Fairbairn's target, and then breaking the plate itself into four or five pieces. The steel shot itself was unbroken. The initial velocity of the steel shot was proved to be 1,775 feet per second, and on impact 1,585 feet. No injury was done to the gun.

"Well, what are you here for?" asked a visitor of a young man in the penitentiary. 'For taking something,' he replied. 'What do you mean?' 'Why,' said he, 'one morning I did not feel very well, and went to see the doctor. He was busy writing at the time, and when I went in he looked at me, and, guessing my objection, said, 'You look very bad; you must take something.' He then went on with his writing and left me standing behind him. I looked round and saw nothing I could take, except his watch, and I took that. That's what I'm here for.'

Machinery Accident.—The Woodstock Sentinel says:—It is our painful duty to record a serious accident that happened to Mr. H. Frizelle, of this town, on Saturday evening last. About 7 o'clock p. m., it appears that Mr. Frizelle, while in the act of cleaning some of the machinery in his grist mill, his left hand was caught in the machinery, and completely crushed up to, and a little above the wrist. Dr. S. A. Scott was in immediate attendance, and, finding it impossible to save the hand, amputated his arm nearly midway between his wrist and elbow. The patient was operated upon under the influence of chloroform, without the least pain. He was very low on Monday but the doctor is hopeful of his speedy recovery. He is doing finely.

A person, speaking of the tenacity of life in turtles, asserted that he had seen one which had its head cut off, open its jaws six weeks afterwards. The company seeming rather sceptical, he said, 'I saw it, and I trust none of you will doubt my word.' Then turning to the gentleman, he asked him what he thought. The gentleman, observing that it was very remarkable, said to the relator, 'If you yourself, sir, had not seen the circumstance, could you have believed it?' 'Indeed,' said he, 'I could not.' 'Then,' replied the gentleman, 'I hope you will excuse me if I do not.'

Monster Steam Hammer.—Messrs. R and W. Morrison, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, have just forged for the Russian government the largest and most powerful steam hammer in the world. The piston rod to which the hammer is attached is a ponderous piece of metal, weighing no less than 42 tons in its rough forged state, and now, when dressed down to the required dimensions, it has only been reduced to 35 tons. The length of the piston rod is 38ft., the diameter 2ft. 4in., having a stroke of 14ft. 6in., the piston being 6ft. 8in. The forging of this mass of metal occupied 6 days. The cylinder for the hammer was cast at the Elswick engine works.—Its diameter inside is 6ft. 8in., its weight 40 tons. The two standards weigh nearly 30 tons each. The united weights of the hammer bar, the cylenders, and standards amount to over 150 tons.—English paper.

A Leap for Freedom.—We learn from a Chicago exchange that on Friday night Charles Buckley and John Mills, two of the most lawless men of the city, were arrested for disorderly conduct, and in the morning were taken before Mr. Justice Miller for trial. They proceeded with the other prisoners in the "pen," constructed for the reception of criminals in one corner of the court room. The window looking from this place is about 50 feet from the ground, and from this fact it had been considered as perfectly safe, so far as escape in that direction is concerned. The two men above named, however, after they had been locked into the enclosure, opened the window and jumped, first upon a magazine some ten feet below, and from that to a shed the latter being over 30 feet. The frail nature of the shed could not withstand the shock produced by the concussion, and both adventurers disappeared with a crash which resounded throughout the whole neighborhood. The court room was thrown into an uproar. Officers rushed to the rescue, but the birds had flown, the fearful leap not having injured them in the least.

A Bust of the Prince for the Canadians.—Mr. Morton Edwards, a London sculptor, has completed a model for a bust of the Prince of Wales. It is in plaster of Paris, and is somewhat larger than life size, a condition entailed upon the artist by the fact that it is to be exhibited in a public place where its proportions will necessarily be diminished to the eye by distance. Its ultimate destination is the City of Toronto, and the Prince of Wales, having granted several sittings to the sculptor, has expressed his entire satisfaction with the work. His Royal Highness is represented in the uniform of the Tenth Hussars. The bust is intended to be executed in marble, and there is reason to hope that in that attractive material it will in due course present the essential characteristics of a spirited and highly finished work of art.

Ventilate the Rooms.—Among the manyfold duties incumbent on the mistress of a house, none is more important than that of keeping rooms well ventilated. This is essential to the health and well being of the family. Air and light are fundamental elements in the proportion of a wholesome circulation of the blood, and a healthy action of the lungs and respiratory organs. Deprived of these elements, says Florence Nightingale, the growth of children is retarded and they become subject to scrofula, rickets and other diseases. A little reflection ought to convince any one of this. The want of light produces a feeling of confinement, solitude, and an oppressive and needless solemnity, and the want of air necessitates the continual breathing of the carbonic acid gas which is all the time being thrown off from the lungs, and is very poisonous, and all the time becoming more so. This confinement and foreboding solemnity, every one knows, produces a habitual despondency, which is apt to result in hypochondria and other ailments, and the deleterious nature of a continual breathing of carbonic acid gas, is too manifest to require comment. We say to all mothers, keep your rooms well ventilated. Throw open your doors and windows and let glad nature smile, and breathe into your parlors and sitting rooms. Never fear any injurious effects in doing so, but fear much if you fail. The God of nature designed that her laws should be enforced, and the closing out of her cheering smiles, and inspiring and invigorating breath, is a palpable violation of her regal authority certain to meet a just recompense or reward.

A Quaker at Bristol was remarkable for never giving a direct answer. A gentleman one day lately laid a wager that he would draw a direct one from him. He accordingly went out, and meeting the Quaker in the street, said, 'Pray, sir, is the post come?'—Dost thou expect letters?' asked the Quaker.

Famine at the Cape de Verdes—Fearful State of the Inhabitants.

(From the Liverpool Post)

A few days ago we published accounts of the sad condition of the inhabitants of the Caps de Verdes, and the latest accounts received in Liverpool yesterday verify but too sadly the representations which were then predicted. The islands were fast becoming depopulated in consequence of the recent death, by famine, the emigration of Brava and St. Thiaga was truly fearful and desperate.—The population of the two islands amounts to about 70,000, and for this population there were, when the advices left St. Thiaga, only sixty bags of rice. But in the island of Brava the case was even worse—there was no rice to be had. The effects of the fearful drouth had overwhelmed both man and beast, and those who were living were subsisting on the bark of the banana tree, and the flesh of animals which, in this country, are considered as vermin. Although rain had fallen, the seeds sown in the earth were too much parched to sprout; and although the pastures were becoming green, there were no cattle to feed on them—all had died for want of food and water.

IS THERE any VIRTUE in Mrs. S. A. ALLEN'S WORLD'S HAIR RESTORER AND ZYLOBALSAMUM?

Convincing Testimony.

Rev. C. A. Buckbee, Assistant Treasurer American Bible Union, N. Y. City, writes: "I very cheerfully add my testimony to that of numerous friends to the great value of Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer and Zylobalsamum."

Rev. Wm. Cutter, N. Y. City: "My hair is changed to its natural color, and growing on bald spot."

Rev. J. H. Corbell, N. Y. City: "I procured it for a relative. The falling of the hair stopped, and restored it from being gray to its natural and beautiful color."

Rev. J. West, Brooklyn, L. I.: "I will testify to their value in the most liberal sense. They have restored my hair where it was bald, and, where grey, to its original color."

Rev. A. Webster, Boston, Mass: "I have used them with great effect. I am now neither bald nor grey. My hair was dry and brittle; it is now soft as in youth."

Rev. H. V. Degen, Boston, Mass: "That they promote the growth of the hair where baldness is, I have the evidence of my own eyes."
