WEEKLY REVIEW.

Business for the week just closing has been broken and irregular, owing partly to the rainy weather and partly to the holiday. Receipts generally were light, and prices with few exceptions firm, with a strong tendency.

In grain wheat was about the only line lower than last week.

Peas were firm.

Corn and oats very active and higher.

There was a good inquiry for buckwheat. We give no quotation in this issue because no sales have been made lately. Samples fit for sowing would likely sell at good prices.

The trade in beans was almost nothing.

Barley quiet, no sales; prices based on latest transactions. Reports on the country's appearance from the south and east are encouraging. The general opinion now is that prospects for a good crop are satisfactory.

In provisions, butter was the only weak feature, all other lines ranging about the same as last week.

Meats firm and unchanged.

Seasonable vegetables plentiful and prices steady.

Hay was active at the beginning of the week and strong; toward the close the supply became more plentiful and prices settled to about old figures, closing steady.

BRITISH LIVE STOCK TRADE.

EDINBURGH, May 17.—John Swan & Sons' weekly report says: "The supplies of home-fed fat cattle in the principal Scotch markets have not been quite so large this week. Trade has been generally quieter at a slight reduction in favor of buyers. There was a numerous attendance of English customers, but their operations were limited, the unprecedented arrivals of States cattle affecting the demand for home stock throughout the entire country. American home-killed cattle being freely offered at 4½d to 5d per lb in carcass. Secondary and inferior descriptions of cattle have been quite as dear, and at the close a clearance has been made. Fat sheep have been shown in smaller numbers. In Edinburgh previous prices were obtained and in Glasgow an advance of 1s to 2s was realized. Lambs were shown in heavier numbers, and met a steady trade at quite previous rates. Calves more numerous and made a shade less money, while prices for pigs have been fairly well maintained. There have been large supplies of store sheep on offer. The favorable weather has caused a good inquiry to be made, and as nearly as possible previous rates have been realized with a good clearance. Store cattle have just been the turn worse to sell, and a few have been left unsold. Milch cows have been a large and good show. Trade decidedly worse, and prices from 30s to 40s lower.

Foreign supplies for the week have consisted of about 1,200 States cattle, which have made from 6s to 6s 6d per stone; 200 Danish cattle of a moderate class principally sold for stores. The opening shipments of Canadian cattle, consisting of about 1,200, will arrive in time for next week's market. Top price of best beef 8s, in some cases slightly exceeded; secondary, 7s 6d to 7s 9d; bulls and cows, 6s to 6s 6d per stone; best mutton, 9½d to 9¾d; clipped, 8d to 8½d per lb; best lambs, 38s to 46s; secondary, 32s to 34s each.

"The Festival of Days."

The attendance at "The Festival of Days" in the City Hall last evening was very large, and to-day great crowds again patronized the ladies who are devoting their services to the Protestant Orphans' Home. The various booths and the ladies in charge continue as attractive as ever. This evening and to-morrow the festival will be continued. CHICAGO, May 28.—The body of a person who had apparently been choked to death was discovered in a catch-basin at Sixtieth and Wallace streets. Police Lieut. Healy endeavored to extricate the corpse, but it went head first into the sewer and disappeared from sight. Wagon tracks leading up to the catch-basing have been found, and there is every reason to believe that a foul murder has been committed.

THE GRAND TRUNK.

Interviews with Prominent Officials on Political Questions.

The recent statements in the London Free Press and Toronto Empire that the Grand Trunk Railway Company had officially notified all its employes to vote for the Mowat Administration under penalty of dismissal from the road have caused considerable comment, and were at once placed as fabrications by the thinking public. However, the statements of leading officials of the road on the subject will be read with interest. Mr. Charles Stiff, Hamilton, superintendent of the Southern and Welland divisions, was at the Tecumseh House this afternoon in company with Assistant Superintendent Larmour and was there interviewed by an ADVERTISER representative. Mr. Stiff was indignant at the imputation of the Free Press that the company desired in any way to coerce the employes. "We never thought of such a thing," said he. "I'll explain our action in a few words. We know well enough that the Mowat Administration has treated us fairly in contra-distinction to the other Government and on that ground, as a company, we support it. Heretofore we have held aloof from elections and have sent circulars to that effect to our agents. On this occasion I sent our two inspectors to state verbally to the agents that it would be to the interests of the road to have the Mowat Government sustained. Many, I believe the majority of our men, have the interest of the road at heart, but as to their being individually spoken to regarding their votes or threatened with dismissal, the idea is too absurd to find room for thought regarding it. The men will vote as they please." Mr. Larmour decidedly expressed the same opinion of the action of the railway.

The general manager of the company, Mr. Joseph Hickson, is authority for the following statement: "No man has been or will be, with my sanction, threatened with the loss of his position or punishment because of the manner in which he may vote. The officers and employes are, of course, beginning to understand that the company has been unjustly and harshly treated; that money, which is money out of it in the shape of taxes (take for instance the upwards of $300,000 a year paid on coal,) is given to foster encourage other railroads for which there is no public necessity."

Milk for Creameries.

Prof. Robertson's bulletin on "Butter-Making" gives the following concise hints to patrons of creameries:

1. See that the cows have an abundant supply of good wholesome feed. Supplement the grass with bran or grain. Corn and pease make firm butter. If grass be dry or scarce furnish green fodder. The quality of the feed determines to some extent the quality of the fat globules in the milk. Fine butter is mostly composed of these. Green fodder is fed with better effect on the quality of the butter, after being wilted for a day or two.

2. See that cows have a liberal supply of pure cold water. As well might a cook expect to make good palatable porridge out of musty oatmeal and stagnant water as to get pure, sweet-flavored, wholesome milk out of musty feed and foul drink consumed by a cow.

3. See that the cows have access to salt every day. They know best when to help themselves.

4. Let the cows be saved from annoyance and worry. Any harsh treatment that excites a cow lessens the quantity and injures the quality of her yield.

5. Where practicable let the cows be milked regularly as to time and by the same person.

6. The udders should be well brushed and then rubbed with a coarse towel before milking.

7. All milk should be carefully strained immediately after the milking is completed.

8. Thorough airing of the milk for a few minutes by dipping, pouring or stirring will improve the flavor of the butter.

9. When set for the rising of the cream, milk should be at a temperature above 90° Fahr.

10. When deep-setting pails are used, the water in the tank should be kept below or as near 45° Fahr. as possible.

11. The tank should be shaded from the sun.

12. When a flowing spring is not available, the cooling power of the fresh water may be used more economically, if it be carried to the bottom of the tank and the warmed water be caused to run off from the top. If water be scarce, the overflow may be carried into a watering-trough for the stock of the farm.

13. Milk cans should be washed in cold or tepid water first, and then rinsed in boiling water before they are exposed to be aired. The addition of a little soda and borax to the hot water will increase its cleansing properties.

[NOTE.—With regard to paragraph 8, the ADVERTISER would like to inquire if the Dairy Commissioner has modified his views, as the writer remembers hearing him once state in a dairy gathering that the "pouring process" was not advisable in preparing milk for butter-making, as it injured the butter fat globules? How is this, Professor? By the way, these bulletins are issued in admirable form for newspaper reproduction, being printed on one side only. Thanks.]

A test in sugar beet growing is to be made at the Iowa Agricultural College at Ames at the expense of the Department of Agriculture, as Secretary Rusk wishes to prove, if possible, that the growth of this agricultural product can profitably be conducted in Iowa. Those who plan the experiment are sanguine.

Farm Notes.

It would seem, from the more recent discoveries, that the milk is the first thing about a diseased cow that is affected. Dr. Babcock says he can detect in the milk the approach of milk fever and garget a week or ten days before there are any outward signs, by the formation of an extra amount of fibrin in the milk.

The farmer's wife who can walk into the garden and cut a nice basket of asparagus for the dinner has a much higher appreciation of her husband than would be if she were deprived of this admirable aid of the bill-of-fare. It is so easily grown that it seems almost criminal neglect to omit it from the garden.—[Orange County Farmer.

It is becoming every year more the practice to plant fruit trees in the corners of the fence, not alone separating fields, but along the roadsides, and as they become of sufficient size, train barbed wire to them, making a fence by which the old and unsightly worm fence is dispensed with, the landscape beautified, and the value of the farm enhanced. Particularly are nut-bearing trees esteemed for this purpose.

"Fresh Country Eggs."

"These eggs are not fresh," we remarked one day to a lady who was opening eggs preparatory to baking. "They are stale!" "Oh, they cannot be," she replied, "we get them regularly from our farmer. They are fresh country eggs." But after opening several a rotten egg was reached. It nearly paralyzed the good lady, and she began to abuse the innocent farmer. The fault was not intentional with the farmer, we dare say. He is kept too busy to gather his eggs every day, or perhaps he discovers a stolen nest—half a dozen eggs in it—of course they are fresh, and in the basket they go. No farmer can guarantee strictly fresh eggs unless he carefully gathers the eggs every evening and puts a mark on them so he can know the age. If eggs are not gathered every day the hens when laying next day will corrupt them.—[Germantown Telegraph.
