Speaking of the "Living Canada" entertainment, which comes to the Grand for three nights and Saturday matinee, commencing tomorrow, the Montreal Star says: "This most popular entertainment, which has been playing to crowded houses at Montreal and Toronto, is the best of its kind ever given. The scenes are really grand, and there was not one picture but met with the greatest approval. The Hiawatha Indian series, as played by the Indians every summer at Desbarats, Ontario, was as good as seeing the play itself."

HUMANE ACT OF DARING

Youth Risks His Life to Release a Suffering Bird in Toronto.

Toronto, June 1. — These who stood on the corner of Wellington and Yonge streets yesterday morning at 10:20 witnessed an act of humanity and daring which goes to show that often beneath the working boy's jacket beats a heart worthy of the greatest of the world's heroes.

The incident referred to was that of a young bird becoming entangled in the network of wires in Wellington street, suffering in its attempts to liberate itself. In a few moments a crowd had gathered, gazing up at the little fluttering thing 60 feet in the air.

Presently a youth of 17 stepped out from the spectators, placed his dinner-pail on the curb, and made his way to the foot of a telephone pole. Bracing himself to his work, he commenced the ascent. Up, up he went, until he reached the top, then holding by one hand with his foot on a brace he reached far out, and released the little creature, which joyfully flew away. The crowd broke into a cheer, and the boy descended to the ground. Things were said about medals and humane societies, etc.

HEARST'S FUNDS HAVE GIVEN OUT

Collapse of Plan to Purchase the U. S. Presidency.

SPENT CLOSE TO $2,000,000

Intimates That He Had a Run for His Money and Enjoyed the Fun Immensely.

Chicago, June 1. — A dispatch from Washington to the Chicago Record-Herald says:

"The financial and political collapse of the Hearst presidential boom is the talk of the hour. Little surprise was expressed here when news came from St. Louis that Mr. Hearst had cancelled his contract for 150 hotel rooms during the convention week in that city, and that he had informed his lieutenants that no more funds would be furnished for political operations. It had been understood here for some time that Hearst was nearly at the end of his string, so far as spending money for delegates was concerned, and that the hour was near at hand when he would find it necessary to cut off his campaign expenses and husband his resources in taking care of his newspaper enterprises. According to the version given by the Washington Post, a paper which from the first has been friendly to Hearst, in a letter to A. M. Lucas at St. Louis, Mr. Lawrence, western manager of Mr. Hearst's interests, quoted Hearst as follows:

"If the people want me they can have me; if they don't want me I don't want the place." In other words, Mr. Hearst has discovered at last that the presidency of the United States cannot be bought. He has tried and failed. But he makes the discovery, according to the best information, only after spending a princely fortune in the vain pursuit of this will-o'-the-wisp of his inordinate ambition. The estimate which I gave some weeks ago, coming from one of Hearst's New York employes, that the Hearst boom had up to that time cost a million and a half dollars, is now believed to be too low a figure. Others in position to keep fairly close tab on his expenditures declare that the grand total will rise to two millions of dollars.

The first sign of financial trouble in the Hearst presidency-hunting expedition came to light a few months ago, when Mr. Hearst formed a company under the laws of New Jersey to hold the stock of all his New York newspaper properties. It was understood at the time that this was a device for manufacturing collateral which could be used in the banks for loans, and for weeks there has been gossip in financial circles in New York City that Hearst was a heavy borrower. His newspaper properties in five cities probably are not paying their expenses. Newspaper men who have a close idea of the affairs of the Hearst journals say he is breaking even in New York, losing a little in Chicago, making money in San Francisco, losing rapidly in Los Angeles, and burning it in Boston.

Mr. Hearst's private fortune, added to that of his mother, doubtless is strong enough to carry all his business enterprises through, and no fear is expressed of bankruptcy or failure of any sort. But the political organization which Hearst had built up almost entirely by the use of money was making such enormous demands that something had to be done to avert a general smash, and Mr. Hearst wisely concluded to drop politics and attend to his legitimate business interests.

About three weeks ago Ex-Congressman Lentz, of Ohio, and other friends of Hearst came back from New York and reported that the self-made candidate had succeeded in inducing his mother to advance him another million, or at least a large sum of money, and that the chase of the presidency would continue as before. This was good news for all of Hearst's myriads of workers in the political field. But in a few days came whisperings that Mrs. Hearst had said, when she gave up that contribution to her son's campaign fund, it would be her last, and trouble was scented at once by the knowing. From all appearances the Hearst managers have cleaned out Mrs. Hearst's last allotment, and the barrel has now run dry.

One of Mr. Hearst's friends with whom I talked said he had been expecting this denouement for several weeks. He denied that the Hearst finances were in bad shape, and said the explanation of the change of tactics was that Mr. Hearst had become satisfied he could not reach the nomination, nor even make a satisfactory showing in the convention, and that it was useless to send good money after bad. According to this gentleman, Hearst is not a bad loser. He takes the whole thing philosophically, says he has had a run for his money, that he has learned a lot, and that he expects to be heard from in the future.

One of Mr. Hearst's confidants tells me the late candidate's chief regret is that he permitted himself to be "worked" so flagrantly by gangs of political grafters who have been hungry for his money. He realizes now that he has been imposed upon by men who pose as his friends and admirers, but who were simply vulgar grafters "working" him for all he would stand.

Thus comes the inglorious end of the most extraordinary and picturesque movement known to the history of American politics. Hearst's candidacy for the presidency was born in the brain of Hearst himself. He fed it with his money. That was about all there was to it—his newspapers and his bank-book. If the full history of this wonderful effort could be written it would make a startling tale—a story of how one nervy man set out to put himself into the White House, and by sheer force of cheek and intrepidity managed to make himself the most-talked-of man in America, and to plunge the Democratic party in more than a score of states and in a thousand counties into a Kilkenny sort of fight, in which his followers wielded their sticks as lustily as their opponents. As Mr. Hearst is reported to have said, he has had a run for his money; and it was great fun while it lasted.

Ottawa, June 1.—It has been decided that there shall be no executive interference with the sentence of death passed upon Theopole Belanger, of Ste. Scholastique, for the murder of his brother-in-law, Antoine Sequin. Belanger will therefore be hanged at Ste. Scholastique on Friday, June 10.

PAINS DISAPPEAR WITH IT.—No one need suffer pain when they have available Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. If not in the house when required, it can be procured at the nearest store, as all merchants keep it for sale. Rheumatism and all bodily pains disappear when it is applied, and should they at any time return, experience teaches the user of the Oil how to deal with them.

LOOKS LIKE BUMPER CROP

Report of Canadian Northern Railroad Shows Rosy Prospects.

Winnipeg, June 1.—The crop report of the Canadian Northern Railway, published yesterday afternoon shows that the conditions all over the Province are the most favorable, and that the growth of the wheat plant is as far advanced as at the same time last year. The south and southwestern part of the country is particularly good, and everything points to a splendid harvest. Rains of the past two days have been followed by hot weather, and the growth is very rapid. In the northern part, while the crop is not as far advanced, the conditions are of the best, and there is every reason to anticipate a continuance of the present excellent weather, which will mean a splendid harvest.

TRIED TO KILL GIRL

Young Man Shoots His Sweetheart and Commits Suicide.

Holyoke, Mass., June 1. — Orindo Weatherbee, aged 23, in a fit of jealousy, attempted to kill Miss Grace Norris, aged 21, at her home shortly after midnight, and then committed suicide by shooting.

Weatherbee was a carpenter and formerly lived in Northern New York. The two have been keeping company for several years, and, last night Weatherbee had an interview with Miss Norris in the parlor of her home, in which he urged her to marry him, but she persistently refused. Jealous rage Weatherbee shot Miss Norris. One of the bullets missed her, but the other struck her in the back of the head just behind the ear. Miss Norris ran into the room and Weatherbee turned the revolver on himself. He died almost instantly. Miss Norris may recover.

WANT HIM

Germans Think Mr. Roosevelt Too Much Time

Berlin, June 1. — The annual Pan-German congress at Luebeck today took the character of sharp criticism of Emperor William and the system of personal government.

Prof. Hasse, a former member of the Reichstag, said the best elements of the people earnestly wish the Emperor would choose advisers who have the courage to ask him to spend at least half the year at the capital, so they may confer personally with him daily without the intervention of courtiers, and who would have the courage to resign when their advice is disregarded. The professor's words evoked great applause.

A resolution adopted declares it is "imperatively necessary for the political and business interests of the empire to acquire a foothold on the Atlantic coast region of Morocco, and the congress feels it to be a humiliating disregard of Germany that France and Great Britain fixed the future of Morocco without consulting Germany, thus treating her like a power of third rank."

The resolution further declares the congress would regard it as "irreparable sinning against the permanent interests of the German people if the Imperial Government should miss the opportunity presented at this moment for asserting Germany's claims upon Morocco and establishing a permanent foothold there."
