ALL TO BE PAID; MILLIONS LEFT

One Chadwick Claim of $200,000 Disposed Of.

$800,000 STILL TO BE SETTLED

Principal in Sensational Loan Case to Travel South in a Private Car.

New York, Dec. 2.—While it has been officially announced that the claim of one of her largest creditors—the one whose suit brought about all the publicity given her affairs—would be satisfactorily settled, there was no diminution of interest today in the case of Mrs. Cassie Chadwick, the Cleveland woman whose financial affairs have been a series of sensations almost unparalleled. The claim of Herbert B. Newton, of Brookline, Mass., for nearly $200,000, which apparently has been removed from further consideration, according to a statement of Mrs. Chadwick's attorneys, was only an incident. Other claims still pending are known to aggregate four times that amount they say, and, for all they know, may total 100 times the sum named by Newton. Many of the claims against her, the attorneys say, have no basis in fact, and the claims will be shown to be fraudulent at the proper time. That all the just debts will be met they still maintain, and at the same time make the announcement that Mrs. Chadwick will still have millions left when all her creditors have been satisfied.

Mrs. Chadwick is still in her suite of rooms at the Holland House, but she has notified the management that she will give up her rooms today or tomorrow. It is believed that she will quit the city tomorrow, when she will go either to her home in Cleveland to be present at the hearing of an application for a receiver for her property, or else she will travel south. It is said that she has engaged a private car for her journey. Much of the popular interest in the case today was based upon anticipation. Mrs. Chadwick's attorneys had promised that she would make public either today or tomorrow a lengthy general statement, covering every phase of the case from her viewpoint. This statement was expected to throw light on many points now enveloped in mystery and was anxiously awaited.

Was It Hypnotism?

Cleveland, Dec. 1.—Revelations of the life of Mrs. Chadwick in Toledo are a mass of amazing allegations. She got into her toils a man named Lamb, caused him to lose his position, honor and liberty by conspiring with her to loot his employers—and then cast him overboard like a worn-out broom. Lamb called her "one of the vilest, most dangerous women that modern history has ever known." Officers who knew Lydia de Vere in Toledo, unhesitatingly identified her as Mrs. Chadwick, of Cleveland. They charge her with hypnotizing her victims in Toledo by the lightning glances of her dreaded black eyes.

That Mrs. Chadwick was once known in Cleveland as Mrs. Hoover—prior to her marriage to Leroy S. Chadwick—is asserted by reputable citizens and business men in Cleveland, some of whom knew her by other aliases. Some of these men tell astonishing tales of her prodigality. Money seemed to trickle through her fingers like water through a sieve. She bought silverware by the chestful; diamonds and other jewelry by the handful. Once she bought in Europe a pearl necklace. She had two dozen hand-painted miniatures on ivory, framed in gold, and gave them away.

Cleveland business men say she has been a prodigal shopper in many cities, and that they have often been asked by business men of other cities as to her reliability and credit in matters involving thousands of dollars.

The court records in Cleveland establish the identity of "Lydia de Vere," clairvoyant, and Betsy Bigley, of Woodstock, Ont. Records in Woodstock prove her to have started early on her criminal career.

Against all this array, and much more at its back, the defense of his stepmother offered by Emil H. Chadwick seems about as effective as a large peanut shell against a ten-foot stone wall. Emil says from apartments in the Holland House, New York, where he is stopping with his stepmother:

"Some dreadful mistake has been made. My mother is not Elizabeth Bigley, of Woodstock, nor Lydia de Vere, of Toledo. The charges made against her in Cleveland are untrue and preposterous, cruel and unfair."

How did Mrs. Chadwick get $360,000 without security? Was it colossal nerve? Was it hypnotism—the subtle influence darting from her dark and dangerous eyes?

Detective Manley, who arrested Mme. De Vere in 1890, said last night that he had met her in Cleveland several times after she was paroled, and that she was living in style, having her carriage with her when he saw her. She told him the name she was using there, but he has forgotten it. He did not know her as Mrs. Chadwick, but that interview was in 1895, before the Chadwick marriage.

At the time of her arrest in Toledo, Manley says she had among her clients as a clairvoyant several "or our wise, respected and representative citizens, to whom we commit the charge of our money." There was nothing against her character for chastity at any time, says Manley.

EVANS—LEYS

Marriage of Two Well-Known Residents of This City.

A quiet wedding was solemnized last evening when Miss Mary Leys, daughter of Col. F. B. Leys, was united in marriage to Mr. Fred L. Evans, the well-known musician. The ceremony was performed at the family residence, Elmwood avenue, in the presence of only immediate relatives, by Rev. J. G. Stuart, of Knox Church. The services of bridesmaid and groomsman were dispensed with. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Evans left for Detroit and Michigan points. The best wishes of a host of friends will accompany them.

WOMAN BEGGED TO PAY FOR PROPERTY

Remarkable Case Brought to the Attention of the Charity Organization Society.

The executive board of the Charity Organization and Humane Society transacted a large amount of routine business at the regular monthly meeting held yesterday afternoon in the city hall, the vice-president, Mr. H. E. Gates, occupying the chair.

A number of accounts for lodging and meals given in emergency cases were passed and ordered to be paid, as also was one for $8 for two months' rent of the room occupied by a poor and aged woman, whose rent the society has been paying for some time past.

Among the communications read was one from the Royal Canadian Humane Association, Hamilton, requesting that the affiliation fee be forwarded to its treasurer. It was decided to remit the $5, as that association will then reward any case of life-saving brought to its notice by the local society.

A rather remarkable case of begging was reported by the secretary. A gentleman had stated to him that a woman had called at his residence, asking for money to help pay for a little property which she had purchased. It appears that some lady had given her a list of names of prominent citizens from whom she was likely to obtain assistance, and to whom she was going in regular order. It was found on investigation that the woman's story was true, but under no circumstances should begging be encouraged or countenanced by charitably disposed people, its tendency invariably being to degrade and pauperize the applicant, and it is especially lamentable if, as in this instance, he or she is a deserving person.

It was shown that the cold weather is already making itself felt among the poorer classes, the society having been obliged to give clothing, groceries and fuel to a number of needy families.

Through the intervention of this society a number of poor, suffering horses have recently been destroyed. It is the inspector's intention to be on the alert for cruelty to animal cases and to prosecute anyone found ill-treating dumb brutes. A great many people are evincing a renewed interest in work along this line, and the inspector yesterday received a contribution of $5 to be used for this purpose.
